AT THREE MEETINGS.

William W. Towle, Republican Candidate for Congress in this District, at Quincy Rallies.

Last night was "Quincy Night" for Hon. William W. Towle, the Republican candidate of this district for Congress, and he addressed three Republican gatherings.

At the Republican headquarters, Chairman Burke of the City Committee, introduced ex-Councilman John P. Bigelow to preside. The speakers were Candidates Towle, Charles A. Howland, William E. Badger the candidate for County Commissioner; Henry E. Yeaton, of the Boston Traveler; Frederick L. Joues, Elisha Packard candidate for Mayor, Eugene F. De Normandie, the candidate for the Legislature.

Candidate Towle received the "glad hand" of those present before the meeting was called to order, and was greeted with an ovation when introduced to speak. He spoke at length and showed the great falsity of the Democrats relative to trusts. How Morgan, the king of trusts was a Democrat; also the leading man of the Metropolitan Coal Company of Boston, which controlled the price of coal in Boston and vicinity, and keep the price up although there is a big supply. Mr. McNary and other Democratic orators in this district occasionally favor reciprocity, but that party is committed against reciprocity as well as protection.

When nominated, said Mr. Towle, I came out in my speach of acceptance for free coal, free iron, free beef and free hides. I belief in tariff revision along Protection lines, and in Reciprocity, but not in free Trade. But it is not the tariff that makes beef higher, that makes oil higher, that makes coal higher, that makes iron higher. The trusts are doing that. They would control the commodities just the same if imported.

It was impossible to accommodate all who desired to attend the meeting of the Scandinavian club in Wilson hall. President Broberg presided and the speakers were Candidates Towle, Badger, Freeman and Sandberg, Senator Sprague, and Mr. Yeaton.

Candidate Towle spoke here, also, on the Trusts. Relative to the government improvements needed in Quincy he was familiar, as he served on the Commission of the Legislature which considered the improvement of the rivers and harbors of Boston and vicinity. He would work for appropriations for Fore river, Town river and Neponset river, and also a new government building, and believed a Republican would be more successful than a Democrate where the President was Republican, the Senate Republican, and the House probably Republican. Free iron would be a boom to the Fore River shipyard, and result in the establishment of a big rolling mill.

At South Quincy Candidate Towle reminded the Ward Three Republican club that free trade in granite would not be relished, and that it was the Republican who brought prosperity to the Quincy granite industry. He further discussed the tariff, trusts and local government improvements.

Vaudeville Week.

Quincy promises to have plenty of amusement this winter. Capt. Eddy has engaged Music hall, and proposes to have vaudeville entertainments at at least three evenings and three matinees a week, but on Monday he will open for one week of continuous fun. He has not advertised his attractions with a great hurrah, but promises first class shows. The Ledger learns however, that Capt. Eddy has billed the "Great Water Melon Trust," including five colored people in melodies, dances and comedy sketches, received with a furore everywhere; Willie Westland, the celebrated Hebrew comedian and vocalist; Martinette & Grosse, Annie Whitney, Frances Aldsworth, the Great Darmody, and others. The prices will be only 10, 20 and 30 cents, and the house should be crowded.

School Plans.

An adjourned meeting of the School Committee was held last evening at which a sketch of the proposed new school building for Quincy Point was approved. Dr. Peirce, Dr. Dion and James H. Churchill were appointed a committee to write the annual report of the board.

Jim Dumps one morning had the dumps.
The world seemed full of useless chumps.
His clothes and things were not in place;
His razor slipped and cut his face.
But breakfast made its change in him;

CONTROVERSY SHUT OFF

By Commission's Decision Regarding Miners' Wages

TAKES EFFECT FROM NOV 1

Regardless of Time That the Award Is Made—Inspection of Mines In Region About Scranton Continued by Arbitrators—Partial Report Soon

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 1.—The first important action by the anthracite coal strike commission, which is arbitrating the differences existing between the miners and their employers, was taken yesterday, when it was announced by Carroll D. Wright, the recorder of the commission, that if any award affecting the existing rate of wages shall be made, the award shall be effective from Nov. 1.

It was fully expected that this question would come up before the arbitrators, but the action of the commissioners shuts off any possible controversy that either side may have desired to raise. The miners wanted the new scale, if one is made, to date from the time they returned to work, but the operators left the matter to be decided by the commission. The mine workers are perfectly satisfied, however, with the decision of the commission. The strike has been off only one week and most of the men have not worked more than four or five days. The announcement of the commission was contained in the following brief resolution:

"VVoted, unanimously, that if the commission, at the conclusion of its hearing and deliberations, makes any award affecting existing rates of wages, such award shall take effect from Nov. 1, 1902."

Accompanying the resolution was a brief statement made by Recorder Wright, in which he says:

"The resolution was adopted by the commission because it felt that it was important to make its investigation deliberately and that it might be well, in order to relieve itself from pressure from any source which might cause undue haste to inform the operators and the miners that should the investigation and the deliberations following it warrant any change whatever, either in the way of increase or reduction of wages, such change should be from a certain date, thus enabling all parties to facilitate their calculations."

The comissioners spent the entire day in continuing their inspection of the mines and the mining region about Scranton. They visited the Manville colliery operated jointly by the Delaware and Hudson and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western companies in the forenoon and the afternoon was spent in riding through the region on a special trolley car. The commission will spend today in the vicinity of Wilkesbarre, returning here in the evening.

It is possible the commission may make a preliminary report on three of the principal strike questions. They are the increase in wages, a shorter work-day and the weighing of coal. After these have been decided the commission can take up all other questions without undue haste. It is known the commissioners have this feature under consideration and it is very likely a preliminary report will be made.

Salvation Leader Warmly Welcomed

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Civic officers, leading dignitaries of the church, the premier and members of the legislature of Ontario took part in the welcome extended yesterday to General Booth of the Salvation Army. There are now about 1200 soldiers of the Salvation Army in the city from all over eastern Canada. A civic welcome to General Booth was given by the mayor and aldermen. In the evening he addressed a great meeting in Massey hall. The mayor, aldermen and ecclesiastical dignitaries attended. General Booth made a characteristic address which was warmly received.

Says He Bribed Jailer

Nyack, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Frank Wyman, convicted of burglary, who escaped from Rockland county jail on April 13, after murderously assaulting the jailer, and who was recaptured in New York last week, was yesterday sentenced to 24 years and six months' imprisonment in Sing Sing prison. Wyman makes the claim that he paid the jailer $450 to permit his escape. The charge is being investigated by the authorities.

Circus Performer Badly Hurt

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 1.—During the performance of Forepaugh and Sells circus at Albany yesterday, Minting's act was the riding of a unicycle up a spiral tower 40 feet high, descending in the same manner. He made the ascent as usual, but when he jumped from his wheel at the top of the tower the platform gave way and he fell to the ground. He was badly bruised, had several ribs broken and received internal injuries.

Another Maybrick Petition

St. Louis, Nov. 1.—A petition with the signatures of over 1000 Anglo-Americans asking the release from imprisonment of Mrs. Maybrick, convicted on the charge of murder by the British government, is about to be sent to King Edward at London. The petition was originated in St. Louis under the auspices of the St. Louis Society of St. George, an English organization.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Quotations Sustained In Most Lines by Liberal Consumption

New York, Nov. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Speculation waits upon politics, but legitimate business is not disturbed by the approaching election. New labor controversies have been promptly settled by advancing wages, and the gradual improvement in supply of coal has reduced prices and restored activity in manufacturing. Complaints are increasing as to the tardy movement of freight, miles of cars being stalled by the lack of motive power, and many roads refuse to accept further shipments until the blockades are relieved. Lower temperature has stimulated retail sales of seasonable merchandise. Liberal consumption sustains quotations in most lines, domestic demands being supplemented by large exports.

New England shoe manufacturers are receiving additional orders at fully sustained quotations and many shops are assured of full occupation well into January. There is a noteworthy increase in orders from Pennsylvania, retailers in the anthracite region now buying freely. Leather is in better demand, with prices firmer.

Conditions at the cotton mills are healthy, a scarcity of goods being general, while there is no disposition to force transaction. No changes are reported in quotations of standard cottons. It is early for supplementary buying of spring woolen goods, and fall trade is finished, so that these divisions of the market are naturally quiet. Raw wool is very firm at the leading eastern markets.

Naval Hero In Hospital

Washington, Nov. 1.—Lieutenant Emory Winship, attached to the flagship Iowa, has been condemned by medical survey on account of rheumatism and transferred to the British hospital at Montevideo. He was one of the heroes of the naval campaign in the Philippines and was advanced several numbers in his grade for distinguished conduct in action before the enemy. He now carries five Mauser bullets in his body, received while operating a Colt's automatic gun in a small steam launch, endeavoring to protect the landing of a body of men from his ship, the gunboat Bennington.

Canada and Australia Connected

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 1.—The completion of the cable line between Vancouver and Brisbane was accomplished Thursday night, although the first message did not get through until yesterday. The cable will not be open for business until it undergoes an elaborate system of tests. The section between Bamfield Creek and Fanning island, which is the longest in the world, already has proved entirely equal to expectations.

Tom Johnson a Puncher

Cleveland, Nov. 1.—At a political meeting in the public square yesterday Mayor Tom L. Johnson struck William Mylecraine, a Republican tax board official, in the face with his fist. It seems, according to the statement of the bystanders, that the mayor overheard Mylecraine assert that he (Johnson) was a liar. A few hot words followed and then the mayor struck Mylecraine in the face.

Newfoundland Treaty Signed

St. Johns, Nov. 1.—Premier Bond has returned here from Washington. In an interview the premier said he had succeeded in negotiating a convention with the Washington authorities, and that the British foreign office had instructed Ambassador Herbert to sign this convention. Premier Bond added that the terms of the treaty would be published as soon as possible.

President on Gunning Trip

Washington, Nov. 1.—President Roosevelt, accompanied by Secretary Root, Secretary Cortelyou and Surgeon General Rixey, left here last night for a gunning expedition near Manassas, Va. The open season for wild turkey and quail begins in Virginia today. A stenographer, two secret service men and several servants are with the party.

Made Business of Robbing Graves

Indianapolis, Nov. 1.—John McEndree, the alleged leader of a gang of white grave robbers, was arrested in Martinsville and brought here yesterday. McEndree confessed that he had been in the grave-robbing business. He said he got bodies from different cemeteries about Indianapolis and disposed of them at three of the local colleges.

Probably Fell From Boat

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 1.—Ernest L. Mansfield of Springfield, Ky., second-year law student at Harvard, is thought to have been drowned in the Charles river yesterday. Mansfield left the Newell club in a single shell, and this later was found on the bank at a very narrow part of the river. His clothes were in the boat house.

Cotton Manufacturer Killed

Gainesville, Ga., Nov. 1.—John H. Montgomery, president of the Pacolet Manufacturing company, fell in a warehouse at the Pacolet mill yesterday and sustained injuries from which he died last night. Captain Montgomery was perhaps the largest cotton manufacturer in the south.

The Weather Forecast

Almanac, Sunday, Nov. 2.
Sun rises—6:18; sets—4:38.
Moon sets—6:20 p. m.
High water—12:15 a. m.; 12:30 p. m.

There is some evidence of a disturbance south of Cuba, but it is yet too early to locate its centre and probable movement. The temperature changes have been unimportant in all districts. Fair weather is indicated for New England.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS

"PIXED MICKLES."

An Entertaining Game, and One That Trains the Eye Too.

"Pixed Mickles" is a simple game but a very entertaining one, and it has the additional advantage of training the eye to observe the form of objects. The eye training, however, is purely incidental and unobtrusive. It is the entertainment that the players realize.

It may be played by any number of persons, who seat themselves in a circle and are supplied each with a piece of cardboard two and a half inches square. Every third or fourth player should have a pair of scissors, the use of which he will share with his immediate neighbors.

The players are then told that each card is to be cut into four pieces by two cuts across. The cuts must be straight and must intersect each other, but they may be made in any direction. After the first cut the pieces must be held together until the second cut has been made.

Each player then mixes up his four pieces and passes them to his right hand neighbor. A signal is then made, at which each player tries to put together the pieces he has so as to make the original square, and the player that first succeeds makes the fact known, when all stop work and pass the pieces to the right again.

The play goes on thus for fifteen minutes or so, and the player that has the most marks to his credit gets the prize.

The object is, in cutting the cards, to use as much ingenuity as possible, so as to make it hard for your neighbor to put your pieces together readily. A little practice will show you that the two cuts may be made so as to turn the four pieces into a pretty difficult puzzle.—Exchange.

What Dick Forgot.

"Mamma!" called Dick, running up the back steps; "mamma! I forgot somefin'!"

Mamma was busy putting the dining room to rights. What could Dick have forgotten? His lunch? No, for the little red lunch basket was gone off the hook. His mittens? No, they were on his hands. His handkerchief? No that was in his pocket.

Dick had forgotten to kiss mamma goodby!

"It's such a long time 'fore lunch time I fought I couldn't wait," said he plaintively, "so I tole the teacher I forgot somefin', and she said she'd scuse me if I wouldn't be so careless again—and I tole her I wouldn't."

It was a very happy little boy that tripped lightly back to school.

"Did you find what you forgot?" asked the teacher.

"Yes, free of 'em," said Dick.

Leaf Buds.

Do you know, dear children, that new branches are developed from buds growing in the joints of leaves, called auxiliary buds? As the branch pushes out it bears a bud upon the end of it called the terminal bud. Each branch is the result of a bud which starts out in the joint and pushes its way until it becomes a branch and in turn helps form a new bud.

Mary Dennis says in a "Study of Leaves:" "Some people pride themselves upon their skill in packing trunks, but Mother Nature excels all her children in this art. She uniquely folds away a gigantic oak in an acorn and the mightiest branches are tucked up in a tiny bud!"

A Laughable Trick.

Pick up a sheet of paper and, looking around the room, say that you know that the strongest girl present would be exhausted before she could carry the paper out of the room. Of course no one will believe you, and you must then ask who will try it. Some one is sure to volunteer, and you then give her the smallest piece of the paper that you can tear off, asking her to take that out first. On her return give her another tiny piece, and so on. By this time she will see that she could keep going back and forth all day and not be through then, and the best thing she can do is to give up and acknowledge that the joke is on her.

A Problem in Threes.

What if three little houses stood in a row,
With never a fence to divide,
And if each little house had three little maids
At play in the garden wide,
And if each little maid had three little cats
(Three times three times three),
And if each little cat had three little kits,
How many kits would there be?

And if each little maid had three little friends
With whom she loved to play,
And if each little friend had three little dolls
In dresses and ribbons gay,
And if friends and dolls and cats and kits
Were all invited to tea,
And if none of them should send regrets,
How many guests would there be?

MURDERED FOR MONEY

Probably Correct Theory Reached In the Case of Mary Wingert

Boston, Nov. 1.—The theory that robbery was the motive for the murder of the woman whose body was found in the Reading woods last Wednesday afternoon is greatly strengthened by later developments. The body was identified by Samuel Wingert, a Hebrew pack peddlar, as that of his divorced wife, whose maiden name was Mary Myers, but it has been learned that Mary Jane Wineberg is the name by which she was most frequently known in this city. As Mary Jennie Wineberg, she lived at 554 Shawmut avenue from last January until Oct. 15. On the latter date she moved to 24 Fabian street, the moving being superintended by a man whose description tallies almost exactly with that of the man who was seen with her in the vicinity of the murder.

On Oct. 22 a registered letter was received in this city, addressed to Mary J. Wineberg. This letter Mary J. Wineberg received and receipted for, and the receipt was returned to Philadelphia. In the letter was a check for $225.01, and it was for that money, it is believed, the murder was committed. Whether the check was cashed and the woman had the money on her person, or whether the murderer secured the check itself is not known at present to any one but the fugitive. The latter, in his flight, scattered pieces of a letter which, when put together, showed a notification from a Philadelphia bank to Mary J. Wineberg that she would find enclosed $225.01, the balance of her account, thus revealing a motive for the crime.

Mary J. Wineberg, whatever else she was, was at all events an outcast, and no one has yet appeared to call her a friend, or to know aught of her affairs.

Shooting In Council Chamber

St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 1.—Alderman Papino, one of the colored representatives of the Fourth ward, was shot at a meeting of the city council last night. The bullet was fired by City Marshal Bennett. The clerk had read a petition from the marshal asking that the council appropriate the sum of $60 for four uniforms for the police. Alderman Papino objected to the amount asked for. Marshal Bennett, becoming enraged, fired at Papino. The latter will recover.

Railroad Magnate Branching Out

Great Falls, Mont., Nov. 1.—James J. Hill has begun the development of a steel and iron industry in the west, which will rival anything of the sort in the world. He arrived at Great Falls yesterday to arrange the first definite project in his great enterprise, the transformation of the old silver smelter of the American Smelting and Refining company into an immense iron and steel mill.

Colombian Rebels' Hopes Dashed

Colon, Nov. 1.—A detachment of 1300 government troops arrived here yesterday from Sabinilla on board a French steamer. The news of Uribe-Uribe's surrender is well calculated to dampen the spirits of the revolutionists. The arrival of the 1300 government troops; the first instalment of the reinforcements destined for the isthmus, is also another great setback to rebel hopes.

Marconi In Nova Scotia

Halifax, Nov. 1.—Fresh from his triumph in wireless telegraphy Signor Marconi arrived off Glace bay yesterday on board the warship Carlo Alberto, which has been placed at his disposal by the King of Italy. He came ashore and landed some machinery for his wireless station at Table Head and returned immediately to the vessel.

A Cure for Asthma

The worst cases of Asthma in the world succumb readily to the one great cure that never fails. Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann's Asthma Cure almost performs miracles.

Mr. R. M. Spencer, 2380 Vermont avenue, Toledo, O., says: "Asthma has been growing on me for 3 years, until last summer the attacks became so severe that many nights I spent half the time gasping for breath. Doctors seemed to give no relief whatever, and I felt there was no hope for me, when a drug clerk recommended your Asthma Cure. Its effect is truly magical and gives complete relief in from 2 to 5 minutes."

Sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00. Send 2c stamp to Dr. R. Schiffmann, Box 893, St. Paul, Minn., for a free sample package.

DENIAL FROM MOLINEUX

Of Charges of the Prosecution Against Him

MUCH DISCUSSED LETTERS

Were Not Written by Him—Never Made Cyanide of Mercury and Knew Nothing of Silver Bottle Holder—Appears Unruffled While Testifying

New York, Nov. 1.—Roland B. Molineux took the witness stand yesterday to testify in his own defense against the charge of murdering Mrs. Katherine J. Adams.

In response to the questions of his counsel, ex-Governor Black, he declared his absolute innocence of any part or knowledge of the crime and categorically denied that he had written the Barnet and Cornish letters; that he had ever made cyanide of mercury, or that he had ever before seen the silver bottle-holder in which the poison was sent, until it was exhibited in court. He admitted having written and signed with his own hand one letter, asking for a certain patent remedy, on the famous blue inter-laced crescent paper, identically with that on which the Cornish letters were written, and said that he procured the paper at the Waldorf-Astoria.

His bitter differences with Cornish, which resulted in his leaving the Knickerbocker Athletic club, were related by Molineux without any apparent reserve The witness sustained unmoved a rigorous cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney Osborne, answering readily all questions as to his past life, his relations with Cornish and Barnet and the efforts he and other members of the club had made to discover anyone who had a common enmity to the two he named.

The feature of the cross-examination was Mr. Osborne's successful effort to place before the jury the substance of the testimony given at the first trial by Mamie Melando and Detective Farrell, but excluded by Justice Lambert. This was accomplished by the expedient of framing a series of questions relative to statements, purporting to have been made by the witnesses outside of their testimony, but practically covering every essential feature of it, to which frequent and vehement objections were made by Mr. Black. Throughout his examination and cross-examination Molineux preserved an unruffled and confident demeanor, answering all questions promptly and even smiling occasionally when replying to his own counsel.

The announcement that a defense would be made, none having been undertaken at the first trial, and that Molineux himself would face his accusers, drew an immense throng to the court room. In the afternoon so great was the crush that police reserves were called out to preserve order and Justice Lambert himself had the utmost difficulty forcing a passage through the crowd into the court room.

People Terrorized by Volcano

Tapachula, Mex., Nov. 1.—There is continued alarm here over the eruption of Santa Maria mountain in Guatemala. For 53 hours the city was almost totally dark. Surrounding coffee planters have experienced great loss. Across the line in Guatemala many valuable properties have been destroyed. There has been no loss of life. Thieves have taken advantage of the terror to steal cattle.

Miles Lands at Manila

Manila, Nov. 1.—General Miles, who reached here Thursday on the transport Thomas, disembarked yesterday. A salute in his honor was fired from Fort Santiago. General Miles has accepted Governor Taft's invitation to live at the palace while here. The garrison in Manila will be reviewed by General Miles today. His plan for a tour of the archipelago has not yet been completed.

Auto Driver Caused a Death

New Haven, Nov. 1.—Herbert B. Marble was yesterday found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to one year in jail and fined $1. While driving an automobile on the Wallingford turnpike Marble struck a vehicle occupied by John Molz and his son. The former was thrown out and received injuries from which he died later.

Smallpox In Full Sway

Kingston, Ja., Nov. 1.—Smallpox continues to spread in Barbadoes at an alarming rate. A week ago the total number of cases reached 1200. In consequence of the shipping restrictions the customs revenue heavily declined. The other islands are observing the most strict quarantine against Barbadoes.

Macedonian Revolution a Failure

Vienna, Nov. 1.—All the accounts agree that the trouble in Macedonia has well nigh subsided. The advanced season, the lack of funds and the luke-warm reception accorded the revolutionary agitators by the Christian populations have all contributed to the failure of the movement.

Four Men Killed In Tunnel

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 1.—By a sudden rush of gas four men were killed and three seriously affected in a heading of the big tunnel trunk sewer last night. The accident was a most peculiar one and a coherant account of it is almost impossible to obtain.

TERRIBLY BEATEN

Boston Man and His Wife Charged With Killing a Neighbor

Boston, Nov. 1.—Daniel Sullivan and his wife, Mary, were arrested in Charlestown yesterday, charged with the murder of Jeremiah Mahoney, 27 years of age, in a tenement house on Call street place, where the Sullivan and Mahoney families reside, the former occupying the first floor and the Mahoneys the second floor.

The two men were employed as longshoremen at the Hoosac Tunnel docks, and, up to three days ago, had been the best of friends. At that time they had trouble over the question as to who should clean out the cellar. Although no blows were exchanged, there was a heated discussion, during which Sullivan is said to have told Mahoney he could make mincemeat of him in one minute. Neither man was at work yesterday, nor had they been drinking to excess. Yesterday afternoon the two met in the lower hallway, and in a moment became engaged in a fight. Armed with a stove lifter and a flat-iron, Mrs. Sullivan joined her husband in his attack on Mahoney and between the two, the latter was given a terrible beating.

The police were finally summoned, and Mahoney was taken to a hospital, where it was found that he had a bad gash on the right side of the head and a deep cut on the left side of the abdomen. He died while an operation was in progress. The dead man had the reputation of being an industrious and sober workman.

Prince Visits Big Establishments

Boston, Nov. 1.—Yesterday was by far the busiest day the Crown Prince of Siam and party have had since leaving New York. The morning was spent at Waltham in a study into the methods of manufacturing the various parts of the works of a watch. Before their departure from the works, President Fitch presented each of the princes with very handsome watches, with the Siamese coat of arms on the cases, and also a small ladies' watch, the case set with diamonds, with the remark that perhaps some day he would desire to make a present to a lady. The princes replaced their old watches with the new ones. The party later visited Lynn, where they spent considerable time going through a shoe factory and passed through the General Electric company's works. Last evening the party again visited the theatre and later were entertained at the Algonquin club.

New Royal Arcanum Council

Everett, Mass., Nov. 1.—Royal Arcanumites from all sections of the city were present at the institution of Semper Idem council here last night. It was made up of 54 charter members, and was placed into commission by Grand Secretary Herbert A. Boynton, who was attended by Grand Regent Joseph B. Robson, Past Grand Regent Daniel R. Beckford, Jr., and Grand Treasurer William L. Kelt. The degree work was performed by the degree staff of Mt. Ida council, Newtonville, William E. Brown, regent. Speeches were made by the grand officers, after which a collation was served.

Family In a Bad Smashup

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 1.—John W. Glynn, Mrs. Glynn and their 15-year-old son, Edward, were seriously hurt in a trolley accident in front of their home last night. Glynn, with his wife and son, were leaving in a carriage to come down town and as they crossed the tracks were struck by a car. The horse was instantly killed, the carriage was smashed into kindling wood and its occupants thrown out. Young Glynn was the worst hurt, sustaining a concussion of the brain and a possible fractured skull.

Prisoners Badly Scared

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 1.—The lower room of the workshop in the rear of the old Fairfield county jail building caught fire last night. The smoke was so dense that it soon filled the corridors and the prisoners confined in the second story shrieked in fear. Finally they were taken from their cells and in order marched to the new building nearby. The blaze was confined to the lower floor. The loss is about $3000.

Mountain Laurel Women's Favorite

Boston, Nov. 1.—The mountain laurel was selected by the Floral Emblem society of Massachusetts at yesterday's meeting here as its choice for the state flower. The representatives present were from the Women's Relief Corps, the Daughters of the Revolution, the Daughters of American Revolution, the Rebekah lodges, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and nearly all of the women's clubs of the state.

Team Wrecked and Occupants Hurt

Lexington, Mass., Nov. 1.—An electrict car collided last evening with an express team owned by Mr. Dwyer of East Lexington, throwing Dwyer and his assistant, named Ingalls, to the ground, badly injuring both men, the latter, it is believed, fatally. One of the horses attached to the wagon was killed and the wagon wrecked.

Had Been Dead Two Days

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 1.—Lying across the bed in the room he had occupied, the body of Ira Chace was found yesterday with a bullet hole in the right temple. The medical examiner called it a suicide. Chace lived alone. He had been dead two days.

Fatal Collision of Vehicles

Boston, Nov. 1.—A two-horse carriage and a grain team collided at Brookline yesterday and the 6-year-old daughter of Jackson Todd was killed, and Mr. Todd was badly injured. The exact cause of the accident does not appear. Mr. Todd was driving the carriage. He will recover.

OIL-BURNING STEAMER

Seen In the Port of Boston For the First Time

THIRTY TONS OF OIL A DAY

All That Was Required Under Adverse Conditions—Would Have Required at Least Forty Tons of Coal a Day For Same Rate of Speed

Boston, Nov. 1.—There were two important features to the arrival of steamer Strombus from Cardiff yesterday—first, the fact that she had 6746 tons of coal for local consumption; secondly, and more important from the point of view of steamship agents and officials, the fact that she is the first steamer which has crossed the Atlantic to this port using oil as fuel.

The Strombus is a steamer of 5928 tons net register, one of the Shell Transport and Trading company's fleet, which includes 26 tank steamers. The steamer is only two years old, and up to the present time has been in the oil-carrying trade between Russia, China and Japan, and came here in command of Captain Stack. The captain was nothing loth to talk about the present trip and the burning of oil as fuel on steamers.

According to him, the Strombus took on some 1200 tons of oil before sailing from Cardiff on Oct. 13. Strong northwest winds and high seas were encountered practically all the way across the Atlantic, against which it was impossible to make good time without exceeding the amount of oil per day which the engineer had been told to burn—28 tons. Great combers burst over the deck and broke away some of the pipes, as well as damaging the bulwarks to some extent, but no serious injury was done the ship.

Under such adverse conditions, an average of 30 tons of oil a day was used, in order that the steamer might not be too long in reaching port, but even with this increase only 550 tons of the total amount stowed away in the tanks was used. So that the Strombus has 650 remaining.

Coming across the Atlantic under similar conditions, substituting coal for oil, the captain explained that it would have required 40 tons of coal, at least, each day, for the same rate of speed, and probably more would have been used. Forty-two tons of coal at 27 shillings a ton, which is about the price paid for it in England, would be 1134 shillings—the cost for each day's steaming; whereas 30 tons of oil at 35 shillings a ton, the prevailing price, means only 1050 shillings per day. This shows the cost of burning oil on a long voyage to be considerably less than that of coal. But there are other things which make the difference even more marked. On the present voyage of the Strombus, only 11 men were required in the engineers' department, whereas in a steamer of the same size as this one, burning coal, the engineers' force consists of 26 men. To attend to the oil fires only one man is needed each watch, in addition to the engineer and greaser, instead of the four men in a coal-burning steamer. Then there is the element of cleanliness, which makes oil so much more durable, and last of all the great amount of bunker space saved in carrying liquid instead of coal.

A tank steamer like the Strombus is so constructed that only about 38 hours are required to convert her from an oil-burning into a coal-burning steamer. She has three boilers, each containing four fires. An oil burner replaces each one of these coal fires, being fed by sprayers. The fire bars have all been taken out and the furnaces are bricked around. Under this system the steamer, by consuming 28 tons of oil a day, will in ordinary weather average 9½ knots. As stated above, the Strombus this voyage stowed away 1200 tons of oil, but in her regular service between Russia and the far east she would start out with only perhaps 400 tons of liquid fuel.

Another tank steamer consigned to C. H. Sprague & Son is expected here any day. This is the Pectan, which left Shields on Oct. 15 and Thames Haven Oct. 23, with perhaps the largest coal cargo to be brought here from abroad. She has more than 9000 tons on board.

While at Boston visitors who are anxious to see the oil apparatus will be allowed on the steamer, and they will be enabled to see its workings from the fact that the donkey engines will be at work lifting the coal out to be put in lighters.

Former Broker Is "Broke"

New York, Nov. 1.—Henry Koper, formerly of the firm of Charles Haight & Co., brokers, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday. The liabilities are placed at $202,685. A watch and chain and ordinary wearing apparel are given as the assets.

Fastest Two Miles Ever Trotted

Memphis, Nov. 1.—Cresceus, in his attempt to lower the two-mile trotting record here yesterday, made a wonderful performance, trotting two miles in 4:17 flat. The former record was 4:28 1-4. The driver and Cresceus received an ovation.

Delancy Now an Ex-Captain

New York, Nov. 1.—Police Captain Delaney was retired yesterday by Commissioner Partridge. A commission appointed to examine the captain reported that he had lost the sight of one eye and probably would become totally blind.

How About Your Heart

Feel your pulse a few minutes. Is it regular? Are you short of breath, after slight exertion as going up stairs, sweeping, walking, etc? Do you have pain in left breast, side or between shoulder blades, choking sensations, fainting or smothering spells, inability to lie on left side? If you have any of these symptoms you certainly have a weak heart, and should immediately take

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

Mr. F. H. Oaks of Jamestown, N. Y., whose genial face appears above, says: "Excessive use of tobacco seriously affected my heart. I suffered severe pains about the heart, and in the left shoulder and side; while the palpitation would awaken me from my sleep. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and soon found permanent relief."

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Sample ballots for the state election have been posted.

The Mission Study Club connected with the Congregational church will give a concert next Tuesday evening, Nov. 4.

A large number of delegates attended the Norfolk County Conference of Unitarian churches held at Dorchester on Oct. 30th.

Dr. Harvey Field of Mattapan has been ill at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Field, for a few weeks with a mild case of diphtheria.

Quincy High was defeated by Dedham High at foot ball yesterday, the score being 18 to 5. Dedham scored in the first half and Quincy in the last half.

The Executive Committee of the Wollaston Choral Union will meet this evening at the home of Mr. J. B. Cornish. Arrangements will be made for the fall rehearsals, the first one coming Wednesday, Nov. 5.

The man killed last week at the Fore River Works left a wife, six children and a father and mother dependent on him for their support. He was employed by the Boston bridge work and was at work on the new Point bridge.

Eight names for Ward Committee will appear on the ballots for the Ward Five Republican caucus but only seven can be elected An attempt was made to drop Eugene H. Sprague but his nomination was filed in time by his friends and he should be reelected.

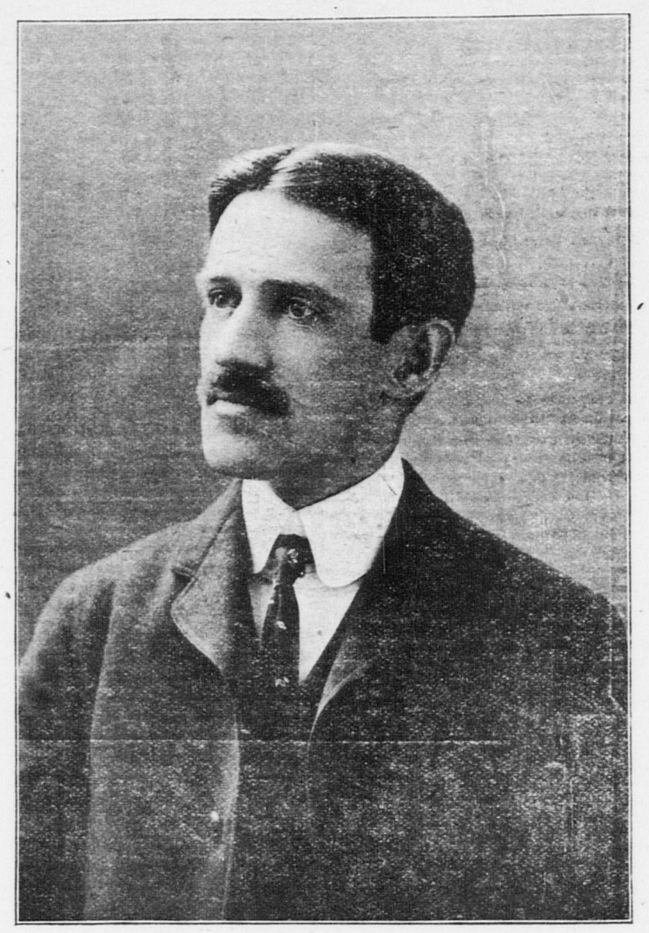

Owing to the conference at Hingham on Wednesday, Nov. 5th, the Fragment society of First church will meet on Tuesday afternoon the 4th, at the usual hour. The committee who had charge of the different tables at the sale are asked to be present at this meeting.

A pleasant social was enjoyed by the members of the Christian Endeavor Society in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church, Thursday evening. After the business meeting, the evening was spent in playing games. Mrs. Alice P. Saxe and Miss Sallie Litch sang; Miss Olive Shuman recited "The Bravest Boy in Town;" Chester Tenney and Miss Marian Lewis played selections on the pianoforte. Refreshments were served by the social committee of which Miss Mary A. Sayward is chairman.

Miss Mollie Adams of Wollaston was in the Boston golf team which defeated the Philadelphias Wednesday 44 to 11. The Transcript says she played the kind of golf which has made her considered one of the very best of the Massachusetts women, and defeated Miss Francis Griscom, the national champion of 1900, by no less than 4 up Her score, 103, was but six strokes worse than that which tied for low score in the national championship of 1901, over the same links, and was really better golf, as the wind was almost equal to a handicap of a stroke a hole.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE

(FOR SECOND TERM).

JOHN McKNIGHT.

His Record and the Custom of the District Demand His Return.

REASONS WHY.

Representative McKnight Entitled to a Second Terms.

First—Because he is a representative citizen, fit and capable in all respects to fill the office.

Second—Because he is a young man of sterling qualities and will represent the best interests of the city.

Third—Because he is a fluent speaker, quiet and unassuming in manner, straightforward in all business matters.

Fourth—Because of his legal training and experience he is competent to pass upon legislative matters with judicial care.

Fifth—Because the district has always given its representatives to the general court, at least, two consecutive terms.

Sixth—Because his record during the past session has been such as to reflect credit on himself and his district.

Editorial Notes.

Practical Politics has this to say about the candidacy of Mr. John McKnight for representative:

"Probably no first year man in the house of last year had a more enviable record for effectiveness than Rep. McKnight of Quincy. His knowledge of insurance matters was early recognized by his fellow members on the insurance committee, and he was placed in charge of many important matters for the committee, handling these on the floor of the house with a skill and self-possession rarely found in a new member.

Notwithstanding this record, or regardless of it, the republicans of his district refused to accord him a renomination, and he also is compelled to appeal to the people as an independent.

Luckily for the state the number of districts in which it is the custom to give a representative only one term is steadily growing less, and it is to be hoped that the example set by the two districts mentioned will not be allowed to spread.

Both McKnight and Creed seem to have very good chances of winning, and in the interests of fair play it is hoped they will."

THE CANDIDATES.

Why Representative McKnight Should be Re-elected.

To the Editor of the Daily Ledger:

As the time for the election of Representatives to the General Court approaches it behooves us to carefully consider the merits of the various candidates for the position. Among the list there is one to whom I desire to call particular attention and to urge the voters of this city to give him their earnest endorsement at the polls. Representative John McKnight, who has so ably and conscientiously represented the City of Quincy in the Legislature during its past session, and who has proven one of the brightest and keenest Representatives that we have had in the Legislature for several years, has come before us for re-election, in accordance with a time honored custom which has up to the present time been held inviolable by the citizens of this district. The Republican voters of this district cannot afford to evade this well established rule of a two-year term for its Representatives, and such radical change as a departure from this custom, as contemplated by the accident of nomination undoubtedly would prove most disastrous to the hopes of future candidates for legislative honors, and a real detriment to our city by inflicting upon us the change to one-year service of our legislators instead of the two-year term as established by precedent.

Another important point which should be carefully considered in this connection is the fact that unless we send Representative McKnight back to the Legislature we shall be left without any experienced Representative in the General Court. If we are foolish enough to send two green men to the Legislature; men of no legislative experience, we as a city will have to suffer for our shortsightedness. In fact, as Senator Sprague retires from the Senate this year and will be succeeded by a new man we shall not only lose his experience and influence, but will be practically without proper representation in the law making body of our Commonwealth. This is too serious a question to be lightly treated or ignored, and the most common sense view to take of it is to return Representative McKnight to the House, and thus be assured of one competent experienced member of that body from our city.

A vote for Representative John McKnight means a vote for the best interests of our city, and his election will assure us an able, level-headed champion of what is for the good of our city.

A Republican Voter.

Pept-iron

This entirely new and thoroughly scientific preparation is a specific for paleness, curing all forms of anemia, from which so many women and girls and not a few men and boys suffer, and which is so commonly a result of nervous weakness affecting the digestive and nutritive processes.

In Pill or Liquid Form

Agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach, readily assimilated, and non-astringent, Peptiron has many advantages over other iron preparations, and highly commends itself to invalids, convalescents and others whose digestive organs and systems generally are in a delicate and sensitive condition. It does not cause constipation, nor injure the teeth, nor leave any inky or metallic flavor in the mouth. Peptiron combines iron aud manganese — the great red-blood-corpuscle makers — with digestives, tonics and nutrients, including pepsin, celery, and the phosphates which enter so largely into the composition of all the bodily tissues. It strengthens and quiets the nerves and the brain, for which it is both medicine and food, tones the stomach and other digestive organs, prevents tissue waste, which is part of the pathology of anemia, and establishes the conditions of rosy, robust health.

A Lowell Lady, who had been an anemic sufferer for years before taking Peptiron, writes: "I have just finished the second bottle of Peptiron and it has done me much good. It has relieved that shortness of breath, which troubled me so much in walking and going upstairs. It has had no bad effect on the teeth, neither has it caused constipation."

Peptiron Is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50 cents or $1 per box. By Hallowe'en Party.

A Hallowe'en party at the old house where President Adams was born was a happy idea, and the Junior Society, Sons and Daughters of the Revolution made it a great success. Jack o' lanterns of pumpkins greeted the guests when they arrived and soon every seat about the festive board was taken. The committee under the direction of Miss Avah Gilson had loaded the tables bouutifully with hot beans, cold meat, rolls, pumpkin pies, squash pies, mince pies, and other pies, cake, doughnuts, fruit, cider, coffee, etc.

In the mammoth old fireplaces cheerful log fires burned, and after the supper the children gathered around these and played games until nine o'clock. Stories were told by Mrs. Titus, Dr. Gilson and others, and a real good time enjoyed.

Caucus Vote of 1901.

The Republican municipal caucuses were held last year on Wednesday, Nov. 6, the day following the state election. The total vote was 2,374, divided as follows:

	Bryant.	Anti-Bryant.
Ward One,	222	324
Ward Two,	140	201
Ward Three,	161	321
Ward Four,	210	141
Ward Five,	275	207
Ward Six,	45	—
Total,	1,053	1,194

This year there will be no convention but the nomination will be by direct vote as for Representatives. The candidate receiving the largest number of votes in the city will be the Republican nominee.

Meyers Award Before Jury.

The jury in the case of Peter Veal, who sues for damages to property at Houghs Neck by the Metropolitan sewer, visited Quincy yesterday and viewed the premises both at high and low water.

This is the case that was known as the Meyer's case, which was heard before a commission last summer. The commission made an award of $77,000. This award was not satisfactory and it was taken before the court at Dedham where it is now being heard.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

☞There is a change today in the running of cars from and to Houghs Neck. The cars from the Neck will run through the centre of the city to Neponset, by way of Norfolk Downs; and also return by the same route to the Neck. Cars will leave at 35 minutes past the hour from each place. There will be two early cars from Quincy for the Neck; one leaving at 5.25 and the other at 6.18; then on the even hour.

West Quincy Methodist Episcopal Church Begins a Three Days' Anniversary Celebration.

Present and former parishioners, and friends gathered in large numbers at the West Quincy Methodist Episcopal church last evening to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the society and the reopening of the church which has recently undergone extensive repairs.

It was a pleasant surprise that greeted those not familiar with what had been done in the way of repairs. In place of the bare floor, there was a handsome carpet, new cushions were in the pews, curtains at the windows, the walls refrescoed, and in place of the old oil lights the church was bright with light furnished by gas.

As a whole it is now one of the prettiest churches of its size in the city, and as one of the speakers said, stood as a beacon light for protestantism in West Quincy.

The exercises last evening commenced with a twenty-minute devotional service led by the pastor, Rev. David L. Martin, Ph. D., followed by an address by the pastor, who spoke of the repairs that had been made and of the growing interest in the church, and extended a hearty welcome to all those present, especially those who had formerly attended worship there. He also extended an invitation and urged all those who had no church home to make this church their home.

He then read letters of regret from Rev. Franklin Furber and Rev. J. A. Humphrey, formerly pastors of the church.

Rev. Edward W. Virgin of Dedham, a former pastor, said he came more to use his eyes then his words. He was glad to come and extend his congratulations to the church and pastor for their better equipment. He spoke of the helpfulness of Brother Goucher leader of the choir, and of the flowers with which the church was always decorated. He urged the people not to fail to praise their pastor for his work.

He was glad to see so many present, but rather than speak he would rather come down and take them all by the hand. In closing he urged his hearers not to forget their subscriptions. Pay up quick. If you have not subscribed do so at once, that all may have a hand in the work of the church.

Rev. John Peterson of Dedham, also a former pastor, said he need not say he was glad to be here on this auspicious occasion, as you are well aware I am. He hardly knew whether he was here or somewhere else, but he was pleased, and was glad to extend his congratulations to pastor and people. He was pleased that the circumstances for doing the work churches are designated to do, were so favorable here. The work of God will ever be carried on if the right kind of men and women are in it, no matter where they are. Yet it was desirable to have the circumstances as favorable as possible.

The general outlook for Protestantism in this country is not seemingly bright. It has done its work by great revivals. He knew no reason why it should not be as energetic and powerful as it has ever been. There was no reason for the heart to get discouraged. It was God's work. If we are linked hand in hand with God there will be no question about it. He was sure the people would find the genuine old-fashioned gospel preached here. In closing he congratulated all interested in the hopeful condition of the work these churches were built to perform.

Tho next speaker was Henry H. Faxon who was introduced as one who had done much for the good of the city.

Mr. Faxon's topic was "How can we best promote the temperance cause in Quincy?" He said on the eve of an election, if women had the power of the ballot the politicians would all be here. The reform in Quincy had been achieved by political action. I opposed every man opposed to Prohibition. The whole thing is in the hands of politicians. They do not care for anyone but their constituents. If he was only as young and smart as your minister he would make it hot for them. West Quincy was a hard soil to cultivate. It was the last place to reform. He hoped all would vote against the present city administration. He wanted to see some of the present officials retired. We have had gunning stand politicians enough to last for a number of years.

He also spoke of the good work of the woman's Temperance Union. He always helped the churches because without the church we should go to ruin. He wanted every woman who had a husband or lover to have them vote to clean out the present city administration.

He then went into the history of his unsuccessful attempt to be appointed a constable. We have no police. Only a few men in stiff hats that go around under that name. But few of them do their duty. Support the church and down the corrupt politicians, is my motto. In closing he read a letter received from Mayor Bryant declining to appoint him a constable, and commented upon it at length.

The next was a discussion on "The relation of the church and community to each other."

Rev. James Todd, D. D., was the first speaker. He rejoiced to be present and congratulated the people on the good work that has been consumated in the way of improving the church. He looked upon this church in West Quincy as a protestant beacon light. He hoped if their were any Presbyterians in West Quincy they would help this church. He was sure the pastor had a hearty and legal people. The first duty of a community to the church is loyalty. He hoped there were no objectors in this church. The church will have its weakness but its first duty is to purify and cleanse the community. There were some communities that cannot be cleaned out but by scalding water. We hear of preaching gospel of the Holy Spirit. That kind of gospel is the scalding water that will cleanse.

The church also wants to be amiable. We need a religion that will smile and be happy. He did not like to see a congregation take their religion gravely. We are to lift the standard high and show that we have a high standard. In closing the speaker hoped there would be a larger and greater prosperity in the work of the church.

The last speaker was Deacon Richard D. Chase of the Bethany Congregational church, who brought the greetings of the mother church in the place of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hardy who was unable to be present.

An adjournment was then made to the vestry, where the ladies served refreshments and a social hour was passed in renewing acquaintances.

The celebration will be continued tonight at 7 30, when the pastor, Rev. David L. Martin, Ph. D., will deliver a historical sermon.

The program for Sunday's services will consist of a love feast at 9.30 A. M. conducted by Rev. John Peterson. At 10.30 there will be a sermon by Rev. C. K. Richell of Boston. In the evening at 6.15 there will be an Epworth League rally led by Rev. Roscoe D. Tarbox. The celebration will close at 7.15 with a sermon by Rev. Willard T. Perrin, Ph. D., Presiding Elder of the Boston District.

☞Next Monday will be the grand opening of the season at Music Hall and Capt. Eddy promises a treat in the way of a refined entertainment. The whole tone of the affair is high class and will be conducted in a first class manner.

The three days' fair of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge came to a successful end last evening. There was a good number present. The articles remaining unsold were auctioned off and the articles sold by books awarded.

THE TWO MINUTE FUSE

By William Wallace Cook

Copyright, 1901, by W. W. Cook.

Andy and Blakesly had settled it between them that the Dutchman was a thief. Andy had missed a silver watch, Higgins a pocketbook with $5 in it and Baker a nugget valued at $20 which he had kept in his trunk.

Andy had wakened out of a sound sleep a few nights before and had seen Fritz skulking through the bunkhouse. When Andy failed to find his watch next morning, there was but one inference for him to draw.

There in the end of the "drift" he and Blakesly figured the matter all out. In the afternoon Fritz was not only to be discharged, but also to see the inside of the Phenix jail.

Blakesly sat reflectively on the handle of his wheelbarrow. Andy threw down his drill, unwound a two minute length of fuse from the coil, scraped the end and slipped on a cap. He pushed the cap down into the hole and followed it with two sticks of dynamite, gently ramming them home and filling up the hole with dust.

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Blakesly. "You're putting in a charge for your life, Andy."

"I'm going to blow out this horse and uncover the vein," returned the foreman, "if it takes a leg." Just then a burst of childish laughter echoed to them. "Is that Allie?" he asked.

Allie was his daughter, a motherless, sunny faced child, who had been the especial protege of Mrs. Hurst, the keeper of the boarding house, ever since her father had brought her to the Pactolus mine. Occasionally Allie was allowed to come down into the workings, which was always a treat for her. She was a prime favorite, and every one of the miners would have guarded her as the apple of his eye.

"It must be Allie," said Blakesly, getting up and starting off.

At that precise minute the noon whistle of the stamp mill sounded.

"Take Allie up with you," Andy called after Blakesly.

"All right," returned Blakesly, halting at the shaft.

"Where's Allie, Fritz?" asked Blakesly.

"She vas gone oop alretty," answered Fritz, looking down.

"Sure about that?"

"Yah, sure. Kingman carried her oudt. I seen him meinself."

All the miners of the day shift except Kingman and Andy were now on the ladder. Blakesly was satisfied and started nimbly up the greasy rungs.

The foreman removed his tools to a place of safety, applied the flame of his candle to the end of the fuse, watched the fuse splutter for a moment and then made his way to the ladder and started for the surface himself.

"Where's Allie?" asked Andy, springing out of the shaft and hurrying after Blakesly.

"She came up with Kingman," replied Blakesly.

"Who told you?"

"Fritz."

The miners were straggling out, singly and in couples, on their way to the boarding house. Kingman was in the lead, walking alone. Fritz was just ahead of the foreman and Blakesly.

"Hello, Kingman!" shouted Andy. "Where's Allie?"

Kingman turned.

"Didn't she come up with you?" he asked.

Every miner in the straggling line came to an abrupt halt. The very thought that Allie might still be below with a fuse lighted and leaping closer and closer to a terrific charge of dynamite was sufficient to set every heart to pounding. There were other charges in the level, too, but they were light compared with the one in the breast of the tunnel.

Andy went white in a second.

"You infernal villain!" he roared, springing upon Fritz and gripping him by the throat.

Fritz tore himself loose and ran frantically back to the shaft.

"Kingman vent past der slope mit Allie on his shoulter," he flung at them as he raced.

"I did," cried Kingman, joining the rest as they flocked excitedly after Fritz, "but she said she'd rather come up with her father, so I lowered her down the ladder again. Didn't you see her, Andy?"

"Oh, my God!" gasped the foreman and threw his hands to his face.

"How many holes were loaded?" demanded Blakesly.

"Three," said Higgins.

"All two minute fuses?"

It was a useless question, for that was the standard length for the noon firing.

Andy staggered against the framework of the "whim," his face ashen and his nerve completely gone. He could do nothing.

Another useless remark, for Allie could not have climbed the ladder if she had tried. Blakesly leaped on the platform to look down, but Fritz had already swung the ox hide ore bucket over the shaft, had kicked the coil of rope into the depths and had gripped the strands convulsively.

It was a time for action, not for words. How many seconds of the precious 120 had already slipped away? The climbing of the ladder, the walk toward the boarding house, the colloquy, the backward rush—it seemed as though all that must have consumed the time to the uttermost second.

"She's not coming oop!" cried Fritz, and as he spoke he sprang into the bucket and dropped from sight.

One glimpse of his wild, terror stricken face was all they caught, and then came the swirl of the rope and the shriek of the unoiled sheave. In a breath there followed the bump of the bucket at the bottom of the shaft, and the rope leaped upward and hung limp and shaking.

Boom! Some time from below, a puff of bluish smoke curling upward above the platform planks.

"One!" whispered Blakesly, drawing away from the choking powder.

Boom!

"Two!" gasped Higgins, holding his hat over his mouth and kneeling to peer downward.

"Do you see anything—hear anything?" demanded Kingman hoarsely.

Higgins turned a despairing face toward Kingman and shook his head.

Boom!

From under them came a sodden roar which seemed to rive the earth asunder. Kingman was thrown from his feet, and the others on the platform flung out their hands in an attempt to grasp something and support themselves. Up from the blackness rolled a billow of sulphurous fog.

"Fritz was mad to go down there," said Kingman. "They're both lost. What are you doing, Blakesly?"

Blakesly had jerked off his coat and was wrapping it about his head.

"If they're not both done for now," he replied in muffled tones, "they soon will be if we don't get them up. Stand ready to man the whim rope when I shake it."

He crawled gropingly to the ladder and lowered himself. All watched the rope breathlessly. Finally, after a wait that seemed hours in duration, the signal was given, and stout hands drew the bucket to the surface.

A little head lay against the bucket's rim, and a white childish face met the eyes of the men. Allie! Kingman took her out of the bucket. She was unconscious, but the miracle was that she did not appear to be hurt. Not a stone of all that flying debris had struck her. She was given into the eager, trembling arms of her father, who started at a run for the boarding house.

Meanwhile the bucket had again been lowered. The signal from Blakesly was longer in coming than the first had been, and when the bucket was drawn up a second time it was found to contain Fritz—Fritz, bruised, torn and bleeding, his clothes all but stripped from his body. Tender hands lifted him to the platform and stretched his mangled limbs out on the rough planks. They thought he was dead, but his eyelids quivered unexpectedly and partly opened.

"I vas between Allie und der rocks," he whispered weakly. "She vas in my arms und nodding touched her. It vas my mistake, und it's all right, all right."

His spirit flickered and went out even as the "all right" faded from his lips.

Blakesly had to be helped to the surface, for his work in the noisome vapor had told upon him. A few breaths of fresh air were all he needed, and when he had revived sufficiently he told how he had groped his way along the tunnel and had found Fritz lying among the splintered rocks, Allie clasped in his rigid arms, her body protected by his own.

That afternoon Andy and Blakesly found a battered silver watch, an old pocketbook containing $5 and a gold nugget, all on the floor of the fifty foot level.

"That is exactly where Fritz and Allie were lying," said Blakesly.

"'Sh-h-h-h!" whispered the foreman, slipping the purse with its contents and the watch and nugget into his pocket. "Not a word about this, Blakesly, to any living man. Leave me to deal with the matter."

The following morning Baker was surprised to discover that his twenty dollar nugget was back in his trunk, and Higgins, when he put on his best suit to go to Fritz's funeral, found the pocketbook with the $5 securely stowed away in the breast of his coat.

"Blamed if I didn't haul over everything in my trunk a dozen times looking for that chunk of gold," remarked Baker. "If it had been a snake, it would have bitten me."

"I went through the pockets of all the clothes I've got hunting for that purse," spoke up Higgins. "And to think that we ever suspected Fritz!"

"Think nothing but good of the dead, boys," said Andy, with feeling. "Come on! The minister is ready."

Aided by Lincoln.

When Joseph Jefferson, the famous American actor, was a boy, he used to tramp from town to town in the United States as a member of his father's traveling company. They once struck the town of Springfield, Ill., at a time when a great religious revival was in full swing. In the hope of preventing any play acting at such a period the town council demanded a heavy fee for permission. This was a serious matter for the strollers, who had to earn their daily bread, and a local lawyer took up their case out of good will. So persuasively did he plead that the fee was not insisted on, and the performance took place. The lawyer whose wit and humor served the players so well afterward became president of his native country and is known to fame as Abraham Lincoln.

Opportunity.

"Well," remarked the optimist, "opportunity knocks once at every door."

"Yes, there's something very feminine about opportunity," replied the pessimist. "She makes her call when she's pretty sure you're out, and that's the end of it."—Philadelphia Press.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 2—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The best gift.—I Cor. xii, 28-31, xiii, 1-13.

The best gifts of life are eagerly sought after by all men. But what a difference of opinion there is as to what are the best blessings which God has to bestow upon his children. The people of the world look upon pleasure, wealth, honor and power as the best things life has to offer, and they earnestly covet and strive after these supposed blessings; but among the people of God spiritual blessings and gifts are most highly esteemed and prized. Yet even here there is much difference of opinion as to which are the best gifts. The spirit has given a diversity of gifts to God's people. There are apostles, prophets and teachers, possessing varying gifts and powers. All have not the same spiritual gifts, yet the apostle exhorts all to covet the best gifts, which are possible to all. "Covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet I show unto you a more excellent way."

And what is the more excellent way which the apostle evidently esteems as the best gift? It is love—love to God and love to man. And who that studies the apostle's great utterance on love can doubt its excellency and superiority? The supreme duty of life is to love—to love God and our neighbor as ourselves. The gift of love is therefore the best of gifts, for it makes it possible for us to fulfill the supreme purpose of our lives. To love is to be like God, for "God is love," and what better grace can God bestow upon us than that which makes us like Himself?

The superior excellence of love as the best gift is comprehensively set forth by the apostle. Note:

1. The necessity of love (xiii, 1-3). Love is absolutely necessary to the fulfillment of life's duties. Eloquence without it is as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal. Knowledge and faith without it are nothing, and liberality and sacrifice without love avail and profit nothing. And why? Because the value of what we do depends upon the motive that leads us to do it.

2. The characteristics of love (xiii, 4-7). What a list of virtues love possesses! "Love suffereth long and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil, rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth, heareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things." The superior beauty and excellence of a life characterized by such attributes are apparent to all and should be coveted and sought after by all.

3. The permanence of love (xiii, 8-13). "Love never faileth." Other gifts perish or become useless, such as prophecy, tongues and knowledge. In eternity we shall have perfect knowledge, and hence there shall be no place for prophecy or the gift of tongues. But love shall always find a place. Heaven will need no prophets and no interpreters, but love will still reign supreme there as upon earth. Faith will have turned to sight, hope to reality, but love, the greatest of all graces, will remain forever. "And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, but the greatest of these is love."

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. xix, 16-18; Deut. vi, 4, 5; Matt. v, 1-12; xxii, 35-40; Luke xv, 1-10; John iii, 16; xv, 12, 13; Rom. viii, 35-39; 1 John iii, 1-3; iv, 7-21.

To Glorify God.

Many forget that "the chief end of man is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever." That grand end God always had in view, and He never loses sight of it. We lose sight of it often and so neither aim to glorify Him in our bodies nor spirits and seek to enjoy everything else more than God. Thus we miss both the noblest employment in the world and the purest and fullest happiness of living. There is no lasting enjoyment without God, in whom we live, move and have our being. The nearer we live to Him the more blessed will be our existence. A loving family is never happier than with its own parents.—Christian Instructor.

Gold Sweepings.

Behind the Christian Endeavor pledge you must let the light of the life of the Son of God shine on it.—Robert Johnston.

A Large Indorsement.

Professor Amos R. Wells, the managing editor of the Christian Endeavor World, recently asked 1,800 ministers in forty-five states and territories and representing thirty-nine denominations whether they believe in the Christian Endeavor pledge, and 91 per cent of them gave an enthusiastic yes.

Duty.

Duty comes to us as something hard, and we shrink from it. No one is a large man if he does not feel that his duty is larger than himself.—Alexander McKenzie, D. D.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Vol. 14. No. 256. QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1902. PRICE TWO CENTS

MARSHALL P. WRIGHT.

Candidate for RE-ELECTION as County Commissioner.

An Office the Duties of Which are Strictly of a Business Nature and Non-political.

The following circular has been issued to the voters of Norfolk County this week:

Norfolk County is a Republican County, but it sometimes elects Democrats to office, and re-elects them, if they deserve it, in spite of narrow-minded party efforts to displace them.

Last year MARSHALL P. WRIGHT was elected to fill out an unexpired term by the votes of thousands of influential Republicans and by those of the Democrats as well. He had 4800 majority. The reason that he received this large number of Republican votes was that the regular Republican nomination was one that ought not to have been made.

Mr. Wright is a man of high character and independent judgment, well fitted by training and experience for the kind of work he has been called on to do. He has proved an excellent commissioner, having the confidence of his associates and the appreciation of those in a position to know what he has done. He is peculiarly well adapted for dealing with the two large public works now in course of construction and in contemplation in Norfolk County—the Fore River Bridge and the Registry of Deeds Building.

Under these circumstances many Republicans felt that the best interests of the party as well as of the county made it desirable that Mr. Wright should be re-elected by general consent this year. As a means of promoting Mr. Wright's re-election, nomination papers were taken out in his interest and signed by a great many Republicans throughout the county. In Quincy alone, where Mr. Wright lives, and where his opponent also lives, more than 250 Republicans have signed these nomination papers for Mr. Wright. Under the law the Secretary of State will not allow the actual filing of more than 200 names upon nomination papers for a county commissioner, but the names of more Republicans are constantly being signed to the lists, although they cannot be filed.

The strength of the desire among Republicans that Mr. Wright should be re-elected was brought to the attention of the delegates to the Republican convention, and the Boston Journal, which helped elect Mr. Wright last year, declared editorially that the wise and decent thing for the Republican convention to do was to nominate Mr. Wright, and expressed the hope that this broad-guage course would be taken.

Nevertheless this convention, controlled by those who opposed Mr. Wright last year, by friends of self-seeking candidates, and by a few narrow-minded partisans, and including last year's defeated candidate in its membership, insisted upon taking a narrow view of the situation. Under the foolish cry that the county must be "redeemed," the nomination was made of a man whom no one seriously contends to be the equal of Mr. Wright in either capacity, experience or independence of judgment.

As at present constituted, the Board of County Commissioners consists of two Republicans and one Democrat. It is a harmonious and efficient board, and all citizens may be sure of obtaining from it exactly what they are entitled to. As there has been some talk about the apportionment of Representatives to the Legislature among the towns of the county by the Commissioners, it is well enough to say that the next apportionment comes in 1906, the year after the expiration of the term of the Commissioner to be elected this year. If it were otherwise, and the apportionment was to be made by the present Board, an absolutely fair and just one would be assured.

The result of the election depends upon the great body of voters who chose Mr. Wright last year, and who in years gone by twice chose Sheriff Endicott (a Democrat whom a Republican Governor had promoted to fill a vacancy,) in spite of narrow-minded party nomination made against him.

A committee of Republicans has been formed to make these facts known to the voters, and this circular is sent out accordingly.

HE EXPLAINS.

Mr. Edward J. Murphy Tells What He Knows.

A Boston Paper Investigates Merits of Vinol.

A Subject That is Agitating the Whole Country.

(From the Boston Herald)

There has reached us rumors of a new discovery. Something that will revolutionize the practice of medicine. A remedy that has given sufferers from wasting diseases hopes of renewed health and prolonged life.

Of enough importance have these stories appeared that a special interview with Mr. Edward J. Murphy, of Quincy, Mass., who is interested himself in this new preparation which is called Vinol, was thought advisable.

Our reporter had no difficulty in finding Mr. Edward J. Murphy's place of business. The first man he met said: "Oh, yes, Mr. Edward J. Murphy is the man who has the wonderful new remedy that will cure everything that people always thought cod liver oil would help," and he was speedily directed to his enterprising and busy establishment. Mr. Edward J. Murphy is business from the word go, but rather objected to the fame of this preparation being spread abroad as a discovery.

"Why, said Mr. Murphy, "this is no more a new discovery than was the moon when it was first viewed through a telescope. The discovery existed simply in the fact of finding out a means of getting at the truth we were after. Perhaps the method might be considered a discovery, but what we have found has been known for years, and it is nothing more nor less than the valuable medicinal properties that have always existed in the cod's liver, and for which cod liver oil has been prescribed by so many physicians. You see it is just this way. Cod liver oil (perhaps you have taken it yourself) is something that is very valuable in all sorts of wasting diseases, and in itself is extremely disagreeable. Why I firmly believe that a great many cases of consumption, even, could be cured if it were possible for the patient to take enough cod liver oil to let its virtues become manifest. For those who have a tendency to sore throat, bronchitis, coughs, colds, for every one of an anemic disposition, it has always been considered as simply invaluable; and yet it has more often been necessary to abandon its use than it has been possible to devise a way of administering it.

Two eminent French chemists started in and got interested in the matter, and after years of study they have succeeded in extracting from the liver of the cod just what is necessary, and have left behind that obnoxious, greasy, vile-tasting fatty matter, the thought of which even has turned the stomachs of thousands. That is all over now. We have just the thing at last. We have found a way of getting the kernel out of the nut.

This Vinol that is so much talked about is just exactly that. It is the concentrated essence of medicine found in the cod's liver that does the good. The grease is like the shell of the nut, absolutely useless, only it is different from the shell of the nut because besides being useless it is extremely obnoxious and disagreeable to sight, taste and smell.

We have now taken this extract and put a sufficient quantity of it in a delicious-tasting table wine. We have also added a small amount of organic iron. This heightens the tonic effect of the wine. The extract of the cod's liver comes in just the right proportion to do the greatest amount of good. "Here, drink this," said Mr. Edward J. Murphy, as he reached for a bottle and poured forth what appeared to be, and which smelled like, a delicious rich wine.

The reporter hesitated. The thought of cod's livers, or anything to do with them, brought back memories of the past, when he himself had made heroic struggles to take that awful medicine. "Go ahead and drink it," said Mr. Edward J. Murphy. The reporter did so, and looked up. "Yes, I know, but that is all right. I thought you were going to give me some of that Vinol you were talking about, and did not know that it was your custom to treat a man interviewing you to a drink like that."

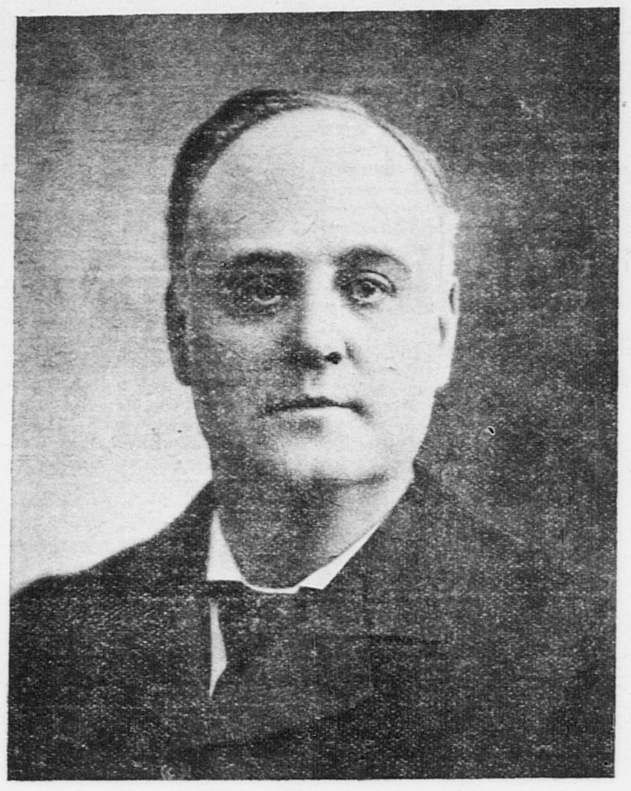

Mr. Edward J. Murphy laughed. "Well, that is Vinol that you have taken. Now you know that part of what I told you is true. It did not taste bad, did it?" And it surely did not. "Now said Mr. Edward J. Murphy, "let me tell you something else. You have just taken, condensed of the curative principles of the cod's liver what you would find in fifty percent. of its volume of cod liver oil. You can therefore imagine that if is necessary to take this remedy, how much easier it will be to derive benefit from it than it used to be when cod liver oil was administered. Do you realize that formerly you only obtained a small proportion of these same curative properties in a whole pint of that horrible oil? Doesn't that tell the whole story to you?

"You will have to excuse me now, as you see, I am more than driven. Of course I am getting the advantage of the discovery by being directly connected with the Boston house."

The reporter thanked Mr. Edward J. Murphy for his kindness, and left him, wondering to himself whether after all a man has to be born on purpose to be famous, or whether notoriety and good fortune did not sometimes come as a matter of luck.

The Quincy High Juniors defeated the Seniors 11—0 Wednesday afternoon at Merrymount Park. Both sides were weak, but the Sanders' boys snappy play won the game, each making a touchdown. As there is much rivalry between toe two classes, a second game will be played.

ALBERT A. BRACKETT.

It gives us pleasure today to present to our readers, a fine engraving of our next Senator from this district, Mr. A. A. Brackett of East Milton. He was a Quincy boy, born and bred here, and attended with us the Coddington school; and we know him to be a citizen worthy the confidence and support of our citizens. He has through his own energy and labors risen to a high plane, and now the citizens have invited him to assist in making what necessary laws the people may demand; and, being a practical business man, he will be a useful member.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The management of the Castle Square Theatre, having had many requests from patrons in recent months for a revival of the famous romantic drama, "The Three Musketeers, has decided to give this great play as the attraction next week. When this drama was presented by the Castle Square company, in its second season, it proved a most pronounced success, and its revival will afford the players of this organization fine opportunities in an attractive line of dramatic work. The scenic and costume effects of this revival will be notably elaborate, the cast will introduce almost the entire strength of the company, and in the groupings and stage pictures many additional people will be used. The same version as when presented four seasons ago will be used and the leading characters have been assigned as follows: King Louis XIII of France, James L. Seeley; Cardinal Richelieu, John Sainpolis; George Villiers, Edward Wade; Count DeRochefort, Lindsay Morison; DeTreville, Louis Thiel; Athos, Thomas MacLarnie; Porthos, John T. Craven; Aramis, George E. Mack; D'Artagnan, John Craig; Boniface, William J. Hasson; Pouchet, John J. Geary; Anne of Austria, Lillian Lawrence; Lady DeWinter, Jane Irving; Constance, Mary Sanders; Mannette, Sarah Kingsley.

PARK THEATRE.

There will be a lively series of performances at the Park Theatre next week, when Corse Payton's stock company presents the popular farce, "All the Comforts of Home." Ever since its first production some ten years ago, this piece has met everywhere with unprecedented success, its laughable situations and humorous dialogue serving to keep the audience in a continual roar of laughter from the opening of the first act to the final fall of the curtain. It is the work of William Gillette, and ranks with that popular actor-authors Secret Service and Sherlock Holmes among the leading plays of the day. "All the Comforts of Home" will be acted by the leading members of Mr. Payton's company, which has already proved itself one of the leading attractions of the Boston theatrical season. Large audiences are present at every performance, and the total attendance each week numbers more than ten thousand people. Matinee performances are given every day, it should be remembered, and they are made especially attractive to ladies and children. On Tuesday afternoons a reception and tea is held on the stage at the close of the performance, by the leading lady Una Abell Brinker.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

Vol. 14. No. 257. QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1902. PRICE TWO CENTS.

MARSHALL P. WRIGHT.

Candidate for RE-ELECTION as County Commissioner.

An Office the Duties of Which are Strictly of a Business Nature and Non-political.

The following circular has been issued to the voters of Norfolk County this week:

Norfolk County is a Republican County, but it sometimes elects Democrats to office, and re-elects them, if they deserve it, in spite of narrow-minded party efforts to displace them.

Last year MARSHALL P. WRIGHT was elected to fill out an unexpired term by the votes of thousands of influential Republicans and by those of the Democrats as well. He had 4800 majority. The reason that he received this large number of Republican votes was that the regular Republican nomination was one that ought not to have been made.

Mr. Wright is a man of high character and independent judgment, well fitted by training and experience for the kind of work he has been called on to do. He has proved an excellent commissioner, having the confidence of his associates and the appreciation of those in a position to know what he has done. He is peculiarly well adapted for dealing with the two large public works now in course of construction and in contemplation in Norfolk County—the Fore River Bridge and the Registry of Deeds Building.

Under these circumstances many Republicans felt that the best interests of the party as well as of the county made it desirable that Mr. Wright should be re-elected by general consent this year. As a means of promoting Mr. Wright's re-election, nomination papers were taken out in his interest and signed by a great many Republicans throughout the county. In Quincy alone, where Mr. Wright lives, and where his opponent also lives, more than 250 Republicans have signed these nomination papers for Mr. Wright. Under the law the Secretary of State will not allow the actual filing of more than 200 names upon nomination papers for a county commissioner, but the names of more Republicans are constantly being signed to the lists, although they cannot be filed.

The strength of the desire among Republicans that Mr. Wright should be re-elected was brought to the attention of the delegates to the Republican convention, and the Boston Journal, which helped elect Mr. Wright last year, declared editorially that the wise and decent thing for the Republican convention to do was to nominate Mr. Wright, and expressed the hope that this broad-guage course would be taken.

Nevertheless this convention, controlled by those who opposed Mr. Wright last year, by friends of self-seeking candidates, and by a few narrow-minded partisans, and including last year's defeated candidate in its membership, insisted upon taking a narrow view of the situation. Under the foolish cry that the county must be "redeemed," the nomination was made of man whom no one seriously contends to be the equal of Mr. Wright in either capacity, experience or independence of judgment.

As at present constituted, the Board of County Commissioners consists of two Republicans and one Democrat. It is a harmonious and efficient board, and all citizens may be sure of obtaining from it exactly what they are entitled to. As there has been some talk about the apportionment of Representatives to the Legislature among the towns of the county by the Commissioners, it is well enough to say that the next apportionment comes in 1906, the year after the expiration of the term of the Commissioner to be elected this year. If it were otherwise, and the apportionment was to be made by the present Board, an absolutely fair and just one would be assured.

The result of the election depends upon the great body of voters who chose Mr. Wright last year, and who in years gone by twice chose Sheriff Endicott (a Democrat whom a Republican Governor had promoted to fill a vacancy,) in spite of narrow-minded party nomination made against him.

A committee of Republicans has been formed to make these facts known to the voters, and this circular is sent out accordingly.

Saturday afternoon, and the great publishing house was almost deserted. In one of the offices a man and a woman were at work, the former busily writing and the latter reading wearily through a slowly diminishing pile of MSS.

The woman sighed. The man looked up at her.

"Tired, Miss King?"

"Tired! That does not express it, and it does seem that I am accomplishing very little today."

"Can I be of assistance? I am almost through."

"Well, there is one thing I would like to have you do when you can spare time. I have two stories here on which I should like to have your opinion."

"You think they are good?"

"Yes, but I should like to know whether your judgment agrees with mine. This 'Reason and Romance,' I think, shows decided genius, and this, 'For Auld Lang Syne,' seems to me to be rather a clever little story, but as it is written by a very dear friend of mine perhaps I am partial. Will you give me your unbiased opinion?"

He crossed the room and took the MSS. from her hand. A few minutes later she closed her desk and put on her hat.

"I am going home," she said as she paused at the door. "If Mrs. White should come in, would you mind asking her to telephone me from here?"

"It will be a pleasure, Miss King."

When she had gone, he laid down his pen, put away his papers in a methodical way, lighted a cigar and settled himself comfortably back in his chair. The first story he took up was "Reason and Romance." It was short, and he read it through quickly.

"Umph! Well, yes, I suppose there is genius in it," he mused, "but it certainly wants cultivation."

He picked up the other and at first glanced over it somewhat carelessly, then suddenly a few lines brought back his wandering thoughts. He turned the pages to look at the author's name.

"Lilian Watson!" he said thoughtfully. "Well, this is a coincidence!"

He read a few pages further.

"It is surely more than a coincidence, because no one but Bessie could have written this, no matter what the signature. Why, I remember this scene as if it were yesterday. We were only children then, to be sure, but there are things one never forgets, and she has remembered our very words."

Once more he turned to the sheets in his hand, but soon they were laid on the desk, and he sat with his forehead resting on his palm and his deep gray eyes looked wearily back through the years.

How vividly the little story brought it all back to him—the two childish playmates of long ago, the scrapes they fell into and out of together, the boy and girl who were schoolmates and shared each other's sorrows and joys and were loyal comrades, then the realization that this youthful companionship had developed into the passionate love of man and woman and the deep happiness this awakening had brought to both of them! How well he remembered his ardent wooing and her sweet surrender!

Then the gray eyes grew troubled as he thought of the "little rift within the lute" and the final quarrel and parting brought about by a woman's pride and a man's stubbornness.

That was five years ago, but it seemed as if he had just awakened from a long dream. He had tried so hard to forget and until today almost had convinced himself that he was succeeding, but somehow all the old hopes crowded into his heart, and he realized that they were mastering him in spite of himself.

"I cannot forget," he said. "I must see her again and win her forgiveness. She can not have forgotten the old days, or she would not have written this."

There came to him a great longing to hear her voice, to feel her hand, soft and cool, on his forehead, as she used to lay it long ago when he was tired or discouraged and came to her for sympathy.

He was roused from his reverie by the entrance of the office boy bearing a card.

"Lady for Miss King, sir!"

"Bring her in here," he said, without glancing at the card which the boy laid on his desk. He took it for granted that the lady was Mrs. White.

Was it fate? Was it chance? Who knows?

In a moment he heard the office boy return, and he could hear the faint rustle of a woman's skirt.

The shadows had gathered in the office, and the light was somewhat dim. He looked up and saw her standing there in the doorway in her simple white dress and blue ribbons, the sweet, girlish face just a trifle more serious perhaps than of old, but otherwise unchanged.

He jumped to his feet and came forward, but his back was to the light, and she did not have a good view of his face.

"Has Miss King gone?" she asked in a low voice, and the old tones thrilled his very soul.

Without answering her question, he held out both hands.

"Bess!"

For a moment the woman's self possession left her; her lips were colorless, and the roses in her cheeks turned from red to white. That deep, strong voice then had power to move her after five long years. It was only for a moment, however. She recovered and held out her hand.

"Why, Bert," she said, and her voice was almost natural, "this is a pleasant surprise."

Her tone of simple friendliness staggered him, for he had been quick to note the effect his greeting had on her, but she continued:

"When did you come east?"

"Six months ago. But tell me about yourself. Are you living in New York?"

"Oh, no! I am only visiting here. My home is still in Omaha, and I am going back tomorrow. I have been here three whole weeks, and I shall be so glad to get back."

"Is she perfectly indifferent?" he asked himself. "How can she be so matter of fact after all that has passed between us?"

Once he had held her in his arms, kissed her forehead and her lips, and now he did not dare to even touch her hand. Could he let her go like this?

"Do you know," he continued desperately, "I have been thinking of you all afternoon?"

"Of me?" she questioned in a surprised tone.

"Yes; I have been reading your story, and"— He came closer to her, and his gray eyes searched hers in silence. How well she remembered that look—the same look that in the old days had seemed to read her very soul! His eyes told her now, as they did then, all that he would say, much that was otherwise inexpressible, and her face flushed crimson. He had been reading her story into which she had put so much of the long ago—their long ago. What had it told him?

"What do you think of it?" she asked as carelessly as she could. "Harry makes fun of my writing and says it is"—

"Harry!" he interrupted, his face paling.

"Yes; my husband. You remember Harry Rogers?"

And then he showed of what he was made. "Yes," he answered quietly, "but I did not know you were married."

"Why, I have been married for three years. If you ever come to Omaha you will come and see us, won't you? Harry would be glad to renew old associations, and I want you to see my little boy. We call him"— The sweet voice trembled and hesitated ever so slightly, and then she went on with a brave little smile, "We call him—Bert!" The last word was said almost in a whisper, and just for one instant her little gloved hand rested on his, and he noticed that her lips trembled. He looked earnestly into the blue eyes.

"I shall try to come some time," he said gently as he held her hand for a moment at parting. "Goodby! God bless and keep you, little woman!" The old name slipped from his lips almost unawares.

She smiled and went out into the gathering dusk.

"I have been dreaming," he said to himself an hour later as he rose, with a shiver, and brushed his hand quickly across his eyes. "I have been dreaming, and this is the awakening. She called her baby Bert. I wonder— Ah, well, women are queer!" But there was a look of weary longing in the gray eyes as he mingled with the hurrying crowds on Broadway.

A week later a woman knelt by a tiny cot and stroked a baby's golden curls. "Bert, Bert!" she whispered. "God bless you, dear, and make you as happy as you deserve." Something glistened on the baby's cheek. Could it have been a tear? Perhaps she prayed for her boy and perhaps— Yes, women are queer.

Eating In Japan.

Overeating is not a sin which one can lay at the door of the dainty little almond eyed flower of Japan. She begins the day by eating when she wakes a couple of little green plums pickled in vinegar and rolled in sugar. This almost traditional breakfast of Japan is completed by a cup of tea. The dinner, which is brought in on a red lacquer tray, is the drollest affair. The viands are in tiny cups with covers, and among them are such dainties as a hashed sparrow, a stuffed prawn, a salt sweetmeat, seaweed with sauce and a sugared chili. After these dishes, which are mere "frills," the substantial part of the meal is begun. A wooden bowl bound with copper is brought in filled to the brim with rice plainly boiled in water. From this the flower of Japan fills her bowl, a capacious one, and, having mixed it with a black sauce flavored with fish, she then lifts it to her mouth and crams it down with the aid of her chopsticks. Thus ends her dinner.

Pillsbury's Best Flour

is sold by grocers everywhere in sacks and barrels. While it is sold everywhere, it is not sold by every grocer. Hence, a grocer who does not keep Pillsbury's Best Flour, naturally will try to sell the flour he has in stock, declaring, either through ignorance or from a desire to dispose of what he has on hand, that his flour is as good as any other. Care should be taken to buy Pillsbury's Best Flour in original packages, so as to get the genuine article.

VICTIM OF SLUGGER

Woman Is Killed by Vicious Blows From an Unknown Man

Waverly, Mass., Nov. 3.—Miss Clara Morton, an attendant at the McLean insane asylum, was murderously assaulted by an unknown man, who sprang upon her from the hedge, as she was passing along the driveway through the grounds leading to the asylum, about 9 o'clock Saturday evening. Her assailant dealt her several blows upon the head with some heavy weapon, fracturing her skull and rendering her unconscious. Her screams for assistance were heard by Mrs. Fowler, the night supervisor of women at the institution, who was following her at some distance, but when she reached the prostrate girl her assailant had made his escape. So sudden was the attack that no description of the man could be obtained, and the officials are entirely in the dark regarding his identity. Miss Morton was taken to the Massachusetts general hospital in Boston, where she died last evening without regaining consciousness.

Prince Westward Bound

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 3.—After a week of sight-seeing and entertainment in New York and Boston, which was necessarily tiring, the Crown Prince of Siam and his party were enabled to enjoy a comparatively quiet day while their special train was speeding through rural New England yesterday. The changing scenery, from manufacturing towns to the rural sections and then over the White mountains, was greatly enjoyed. From here the party proceeded directly to Niagara Falls.

Think Prices of Coal Too High

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 3.—At a meeting of citizens last night it was voted that a committee be appointed to confer with the local coal dealers to the end that lower prices may be obtained for coal. If no agreement can be reached by the committee a plan will be proposed looking to the organization of a company for the purpose of obtaining coal direct from the mines.

No Trace of Mansfield

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 3.—The disappearance of Earnest C. Mansfield, a second year law student at Harvard, still remains a mystery both to his friends and the police. The river has been dragged since Saturday morning at the spot near which his wherry is supposed to have capsized, in the hopes of finding the body, but so far all efforts have been unsuccessful.

Automobile Ran Away

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 3.—George M. Pratt, a merchant, and his son Charles were badly injured yesterday in an automobile accident. Pratt was driving the machine down a steep incline when it got beyond his control and left the road and crashed into a tree. It is feared that young Pratt has sustained internal injuries. The automobile was wrecked.

Railway Employes In Session

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 3.—About 2800 members of the four railway organizations, the brotherhoods of engineers, conductors, firemen and trainmen, gathered in convention in this city yesterday. Secret meetings were held in the morning and evening by the organizations, but no matters of vital consequence were considered.

Boy Loses a Leg

Naugatuck, Conn., Nov. 3.—Thomas Peterson, aged 15, attempted to board a freight train here yesterday when he missed his footing and fell. The wheels passed over his right leg and it was so badly crushed that it was necessary to amputate it. His arm was also bruised and torn. He is in a critical condition.

Despondency and Suicide

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 3.—Mrs. Armenie Belleville, 26 years old, who conducted a manicuring establishment, committed suicide yesterday by drinking carbolic acid. Despondency over poor business and trouble over her husband, from whom she was divorced, are thought to be the causes for her act.

Awaiting More Evidence

Portland, Me., Nov. 3.—Coroner Eben Perry has postponed his adjourned inquest on the death of William Thompson, believed to have been murdered at Westbrook last Tuesday, until next Thursday. Coroner Perry is awaiting additional evidence before taking testimony.

Masters Yield at Last

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 3.—A 17-months' strike of steam fitters and their helpers for an eight-hour day in Worcester was called off yesterday by the unions, which accepted the report of a committee of conference that the masters had agreed to the demands of the strikers.

Freight Handlers on Strike

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 3.—The freight handlers on the Boston and Maine railroad at Nashua Junction struck Saturday night on account of the discharge of three officers of the union. The company was asked to reinstate them, but refused, so the strike was ordered.

Slugged With Shovel and Axe

Dover, N. H., Nov. 3.—Ice Baher and Joe Baher attacked Peter Jacob with a shovel and an axe Saturday night, breaking his jaw and knocking out several teeth. Jacob lost considerable blood and is in a serious condition. The Baher brothers were arrested.

Record Shipment of Apples

Boston, Nov. 3.—Steamer Saxonia took out 3500 barrels of apples when she sailed for Liverpool yesterday. This is a record shipment. She also had 1500 dressed hogs for Sydney, N. S. W.

IN HAZLETON DISTRICT

Arbitrators Continue to Investigate Mining Conditions

RECESS NEXT THURSDAY

By Which Time Operators' Counter Statement Is Expected to Be Ready For Consideration—Workers Want Commission to Visit a Slope Mine

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 3.—The strike mine commissioners left for Hazleton at 11 o'clock last night to spend four days in further acquainting themselves with the physical features of mining. They have not decided how they will divide their time while in the middle and lower districts. It is definitely decided, though, that not more than four days will be devoted to the trip.

Assistant Recorder Neill was left behind to receive the miners' statement from President Mitchell today. On Thursday, it is expected, the operators' counter-statement will be presented. The commissioners will then take a recess until Nov. 14, by which time the two parties will be expected to have completed the preparation of their cases and be ready to go on with the hearings. The commissioners will also devote the interim to preparation for the hearings by acquainting themselves with the details of the two statements.

Bishop Spalding preached in St. Peter's cathedral yesterday. His fellow commissioners attended the service and occupied front pews. No reference was made to the work of the commission and only in a most general way could the sermon be made applicable thereto.

The commissioners remained in their sleeping car all night last night. They were met at 9 o'clock this morning at Pond Creek, nine miles north of Hazleton, by Thomas Duffy, the president of this district of the Mine Workers' union, who will represent the miners. General Superintendent Warriner of the Lehigh Valley and General Superintendent Richards of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre company will represent the operators.

The mines which the commission will visit have not yet been decided upon. Superintendent Warriner has suggested the No. 40 shaft, operated by his company. The miners prefer to have the arbitrators inspect the Harwood colliery of C. Pardee & Co. There are 25 mines in this region and all but No. 40 shaft are entered by means of a slope. The Harwood is a typical mine of this region and as the commission have thus far only visited mines with shafts and have not yet gone down a slope, the miners think they should select the Harwood. The commissioners on Saturday requested both sides to agree on one mine, and if they fail the commission will probably decide the matter.

The work of the anthracite coal strike commission was impeded Saturday by the mine workers' celebrating All Saints' day, and staying away from the mines. When the commissioners reached the Lehigh Valley mines it was found there were no workers inside. Nevertheless they went down, and spent 1½ hours in looking into the general features of the Dorrance, one of the most gaseous mines in the region. They carried safety lamps.

It was the second holiday the strikers have taken the first week after the five months' strike, and the commissioners had this fact pointed out to them by the operators. Fully three-fourths of the men had failed to report for work. The public, which needs so much coal, had 170,000 tons of its supply cut off for the second time in one week.

The miners of the Hazleton No. 40 colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company are to endeavor to have the commission make an immediate ruling in their case. They have some 60 fellow-union members who have not been reinstated, and they claim these men have been blacklisted. If the commission does not alter the conditions they will probably declare a strike and join the 9000 others of that region who are on strike.

No answers have as yet been received from the independent operators invited to appear before the commission when the other operators do. It is expected that but few of them will, being content to abide by the decision of the convention.

The men of the Kingston Coal company also threaten a strike. The company discarged two check weigh men employed by the miners to look after their interests. The men have threatened that unless these men are taken back they will strike.

The feeling of the region is apparent in the finding of the grand jury Saturday. Riot cases, 30 in number, against strikers were ignored and true bills were found in the cases of coal and iron policemen who were charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Smothering a Scandal

London, Nov. 3.—A tremendous sensation has been caused here by statements that another scandal of the Oscar Wilde type was about to become public property. It is asserted that the man whose name is connected with the affair and who is a peer has fled the country. A report of this affair found its way into print, in guarded language, this morning, but every effort will be exerted to prevent further publicity.

UNION NOT RECOGNIZED

In Hudson Valley Railway Officials' Agreement With Strikers

Glens Falls, N. Y., Nov. 3.—The Hudson Valley Railway strike was settled last night by unanimous vote of the striking employes, the company accepting a proposition made by the men. The terms upon which the strike is settled are as follows:

Men who have been receiving 16 cents an hour will receive 17 cents and men who have been receiving 18½ cents will hereafter be paid 19 cents.

The company makes no contract with the union and does not recognize it in the settlement, the men returning to work as individuals. They will abandon their present affiliation with the union on the lines of the United Traction company and a new union will be formed, to consist exclusively of employes of the Hudson Valley company and having no connection with any other union.

The case of Motorman Osgood, who was discharged for alleged incompetency and which has been one of the mooted points, will be placed on exactly the footing that it had before the strike and he will be given a hearing by the officers of the company. Hereafter any employe has the right to appeal to the general manager of the company.

There is general jubilation along the lines of the company because of the end of the long strike. The men returned to work this morning.

Perhaps Death Bed Wedding

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 3.—John Gibson, a wealthy resident of Cincinnati, was married here yesterday to Miss Henrietta C. Wolfe of Providence. Gibson, who was supposed to be in a dying condition, sat up in bed during the ceremony. Gibson came here for his health, but his condition becoming critical, he telegraphed for his fiancee. He is somewhat improved today and there is a chance for his recovery.

Fatally Shot by Accident

Walpole, Mass., Nov. 3.—Harland Graves, 14 years old, and his cousin, Howard Garby, aged 10, were hunting in the woods when Garby's rifle was accidentally disharged. The ball struck Graves in the right leg. It was a long time before a surgeon could reach the boy and in the meantime he had lost a large quantity of blood, dying yesterday. No blame is attached to the Barby boy.

Honor From Chinese Government

Washington, Nov. 3.—Alfred E. Jessup, now head of the testing laboratory in the supervising architect's office of the treasury department, has accepted the position of chief assayer of the Chinese mint at Tien Tsin, China. The designation for the place was made through the intermediary of Minister Conger, at the request of the Chinese government.

Murders by Ladrones

Manila, Nov. 3.—A portion of a gang of ladrones which has been operating on the island of Biliran crossed over to the island of Leyte last Wednesday and entered a small town and beheaded the presidente of the town, murdered his wife and abducted the presidente's children. The motive of this crime is said to have been the presidente's friendliness with the Americans.

Turkey Toes the Mark

Constantinople, Nov. 3.—The negotiations between Great Britain and Turkey with regard to the encroachments of Turkish troops to the Hinterland of Aden have resulted in a satisfactory settlement of the matter. The porte has modified its note to Great Britain and has ordered the evacuation of the Hinterland, which was formerly occupied by British troops.

But Three Survivors of Wreck

London, Nov. 3.—The British steamer St. Regulus, Captain McMullen, from Shields for Alexandria, has put in at Gravesend. She reports having collided with and sunk the Spanish steamer Enero, Captain Delgado, from Huelva, Spain, Oct. 22. With the exception of three members, the crew of the Enero were drowned. The accident occurred off Dungeness.

Marconi Tests This Week

Sydney, C. B., Nov. 3.—Preparations for the final test of the Marconi wireless system have already commenced and the inventor anticipates the complete success of the system. Nothing has been left undone at the station at Poildhu, Cornwall, and at Cape Breton to make the final experiment this week.

Silver Workers May Strike

New York, Nov. 3.—A meeting of silver workers, representing the 3000 of the craft, was held yesterday and it was decided to go on strike at noon today unless a nine-hour working day, instead of the 10-hour day, now the rule, be granted the men.

Jerusalem Cholera Stricken

Jerusalem, Nov. 3.—There have been 494 deaths from cholera here and 78 at Ghuzzeh during the past week. Great distress prevails at Lydda because of the total inadequacy of medical aid there to cope with the disease.

Denial of Czar's Sickness

St. Petersburg, Nov. 3.—The rumor that the czar is suffering from a nervous complaint and that a specialist has been summoned by telegraph to Livadia to attend him is officially denied.

WHALE HO! ONCE MORE

With the demand for whale oil greater than the supply, with rights and sperms blowing in all the seven seas, with good ships fitting out at the wharfs of New Bedford, it certainly seems that the picturesque and profitable whaling industry, whose knell has been so often rung, is by no means extinct. As a matter of fact it is not.

Indeed market conditions now favor the whaling business. After it had seemed on the verge of extinction it is again profitable, and all signs point to something of a boom. The few whaleships now in commission report whales numerous in all of the old fishing grounds, and big fish have been taken within two days' sail of New Bedford.

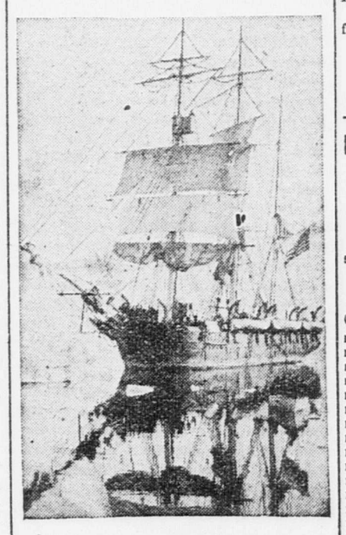

There is more money in whales today than in many a modern commercial undertaking, and so long as large profits can be made whalers will continue to be built and sent to sea, thereby preserving perhaps the most romantic occupation to which the sea has given rise since pirates went out of business.

New Bedford meantime is in somewhat of a quandary. The recent arrival of the whaling bark Canton, back from a seventeen months' voyage with 2,200 barrels of sperm oil on board, and the return of another bark with a full cargo of oil and whalebone have stirred up the old timers.

But of all the noble fleet of whalers that sailed out of that port before the war only a few vessels are now in commission, and most of these are schooners not adapted to the long cruises of two to four years that mean a profitable voyage, for it sometimes happens that months will elapse without a "fish" being taken.

Merchant ships cannot be made over into whalers. They must be built for it. The craft that must hold a huge fifty or sixty ton fish alongside in a tumbling sea, hanging on to the mighty bulk by main strength of tackle and timber, must be built far more massively than the ordinary merchant ship. So now, with sperm whales being encountered within two and three days' sail from port, the ancient whaling town is unable to take full advantage of its new opportunity.

In 1845 and 1846 over 700 vessels sailed from New England ports for the whaling grounds. Some went out of New London and some out of Stonington, Provincetown and Nantucket, but almost all of the great fleet hailed from New Bedford.

During the war of the rebellion the Alabama destroyed many a New Bedford whaler returning home from a long cruise in the arctic without knowing that two sections of the United States were at war with each other.

After peace came the discovery of petroleum in Pennsylvania, and from that time to this whaling has gradually declined. Because they saw no future for it Americans no longer took it up. The old sailors continued on with it, for they could do little else, and, besides, the excitement of the life held them to it.

When they became too old, though, for the daring work, no natives took their places. The Portuguese came to fill the empty berths in the fo'castle, and on the whole they fill them well.

Nearly all the captains of whalers sailing out of New Bedford today are Portuguese, and some of the owners are of that race also. As for the sailors, there are no others. All of the vessels are many years old, and one by one they are rotting to pieces. Many a New Bedford man believes that some day his famous old port will no longer be in the whaling business.

This dark belief is rather discredited, however, by the present prosperous conditions of the dwindled little industry. At present the demand for sperm oil is larger than the supply.

Many families laid foundations for the great wealth for which New Bedford is noted in the whaling business. Among those who were interested in the business, which old captains say must have been worth $70,000,000 in its heyday, were the Merrills, the Roches and the Robinsons.

Robinson was the father of Hetty Green, and it was through his work and luck in whaling that she is now known as "the richest woman in America."

Perhaps other fortunes will be made in the old business. Whaling is to continue despite the croakers. So long as whales swim the seas and oil is valuable men will pursue them, reckless of hardships and danger.

Good Afternoon.

It is your right and duty to vote Tuesday for the gentlemen you desire to hold offices the ensuing year. Make it a point to vote early and you will not be cheated our of your rights. If your name is not on the voting list ask yourself the question "Why not?"

It is said that the vote for Mr. Bryant in Ward Four Wednesday evening will depend considerable on the Ward Five vote on Tuesday for Candidate Sandberg. Wollaston last year gave F. E. Badger 342 and John McKnight 343, and Mr. Sandberg will expect to receive as many this year. It is doubtful if he gets them.

The Republican majority in Quincy at the last State election was 982, and this with the Hon. Josiah Quincy, a former resident of the city as the Democratic candidate. The vote for Governor was 1943 to 961. If the city is as strongly Republican this year, the vote should be close between the four Republicans and the two Democrats. Should any of the Republicans receive a large number of bullets, it would weaken the Republicans and help the Democrats. Every voter should vote for two.

Through Cars.

The street railway have established a through line of cars between Houghs Neck and Neponset via. Norfolk Downs. Cars leave both ends of the line at 25 minutes of the hour and leave City Square on the even hour. Houghs Neck has long desired through car service to Neponset but it was impossible to inaugurate the line until Hancock street was double tracked. This line relieves the West Quincy cars which have been making the Norfolk Downs loop. The West Quincy cars now go straight via. Hancock street and should run on time instead of from ten to fifteen minutes late.

On Saturday evening, Nov. 1, a meeting of the members of the Class of 1902, Q. H. S., was called to take action on the sudden and untimely death of their late president, Merton C. Alden. During the meeting resolutions of sympathy and regret were adopted, and the secretary was directed to forward a copy of these resolutions to Mrs. Alden, mother of the deceased. Unfortunately it was found impossible to notify all the members of the class of the meeting.

THE POPULAR CHOICE.

Ex-Councilman Elisha Packard Well Endorsed for Mayor of Quincy.

Veteran of Civil War, Author of Curfew Law and Initiated Movement for Free Transfers.

Not a Question of Reelection of Mayor, but Who Shall the Republicans Nominate for the Office.

On Wednesday evening the Republicans of Quincy will nominate their candidate for Mayor. Whatever may be the claims of the present incumbent to re-election, that is not the question at present. Cancuses are to be held by Republicans to select a candidate, and they should be allowed to make their choice without the assistance of Democrats or outsiders.

Mr. Bryant was not the candidate of the Republican convention last year, and therefore it is not a question of renomination for Republicans this year.

Mr. Bryant was a bolter last year. After entering the caucuses and failing to capture either a majority of the delegates or to secure a majority on the popular vote, he became an independent candidate. Again, Mr. Bryant has not given the city a Republican administration.

Frederick L. Jones was the Republican candidate last year, and this year he says—"No Republican can have any love for any man who has disrupted the Republican party as Mr. Bryant has done." The friends of Mr. Jones would have been pleased to renominate that gentleman this year and were confident he would have been elected if nominated. But they realzied that the opponents of Mr. Bryant could not win if they were divided, and therefore all have united on ex-Councilman Elisha Packard, and will give him hearty support.

Last year when the nomination was made by delegates in convention, Mr. Packard and Mr. Bryant were the only candidates before the Ward One voters, and Mr. Packard's delegation received 324 votes to 222 for the Bryant delegation, practically a vote of 3 to 2.

In all wards except Ward Six, the issue was clearly drawn—Bryant vs. anti-Bryant. The popular vote in the five wards was: Bryant delegations, 1008; anti-Bryant, 1194. In Ward Six, where only a Bryant delegation appeared on the caucus ballot, it was elected by 45 votes, which would swell the popular vote for Mr. Bryant to 1,053, or 141 less than his opponent.

Mr. Bryant was elected last year largely by Democratic votes as these figures will show:

Republican,	2036	1336
Independent	—	1547
Democratic,	1664	894
Total vote,	3974	4095

Where Mr. Jones received over two-thirds of the regular Republican vote, Mr. Tirrell received about one-half the Democratic vote. Where the Republican vote fell off 650, or less than 32 per cent., the Democratic vote fell off 770, or over 46 per cent.

Elisha Packard whom the Republicans will nominate as their candidate on Wednesday evening, is one of the successful business men of Ward One where he also resides. His estate is on Elm street, however, so that he lives in the heart of Ward One, Two and Three. For several years he was a member of the City Council. In 1896 he was elected at large and was chairman of the Committee on Health, Poor and State and Military Aid, and also a member of the Committee on Ordinances. In 1897 he was relected and was reappointed chairman; also a member of the Finance Committee. The next year he served on the Finance Committee and also on the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds. In 1900 he was a member of the same committees, but chairman of the latter. Thus he has served on four of the eight committees of the City Council, and was chairman of two.

Councilman Packard was always interested in city works, introduced more than the average number of improvement orders, and was prominent in debate. Quincy was one of the first cities to adopt a curfew law, and it was Councilman Packard who introduced the order. It was also Mr. Packard who initiated the movement for free transfers now so popular in the city.

Mr. Packard was born in Quincy, and married a Quincy lady. At the age of 17 years he enlisted in the Civil war in the 44th regiment, and in 1863 reenlisted in the 60th regiment, and is now a member of the G. A. R. When the Spanish war broke out, he introduced an order in the City Council granting temporary aid to families dependent on those who enlisted. The Legion of Spanish War Veterans showed their appreciation later by electing him an honorary member.

Mr. Packard has also been prominent in church work, serving for several years as warden of Christ church.

For several years the business of Packard & Co., manufacturers of stereotype and linotype metal has devolved upon Mr. Packard, and has taken him to all the large eastern cities frequently. He has been an observant traveller, and Quincy by electing him as Mayor would profit from his experience. He has the endorsement of many prominent gentlemen for the office.

City Council Business.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held tonight.

The street committee report upon a number of matters before them. Among which will be the widening of Goffe street; laying out Roslin avenue; draining Blake street; location of poles for the Telephone Co.; sidewalks on Lincoln avenue, Washington street between Chubbuck and Wharf streets, Washington street between Coddington street and Street Railway building, also on Beach street.

In the calendar are the orders granting the Electric Light Co. a location of poles; refunding tax to John V. Scott, and abatement of nuisance on Chubbuck street.

Mothers' Reception.

The annual reception to mothers will be held in Bethany chapel on Tuesday afrernoon at 3 o'clock instead of the scheduled date. Mrs. W. H. Allbright of Dorchester will read an interesting paper; Mrs. Emma Shufelt Moore will sing; and a delightful entertainment by the children will be given. All mothers also children under six years of age, in the church are cordially invited. Refreshments will be served.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

State election tomorrow.

Johnson Bros. invite the attention of housekeepers.

Republican caucuses Wednesday evening in all wards.

A beautiful day; the kind that is wanted tomorrow.

Mrs. Thomas Curtis of Dorchester renewed old acquaintances in this city last week.

George Monk, the quiet and lone fishman, caught thirty pounds of smelts one day last week.

Mrs. Kate A. Hayden has resigned her position at the Tubular Rivet Works at Wollaston.

Mrs. B. Porterfield will give a matinee whist at her home on Granite street on Thursday afternoon.

The indications are that in Quincy tomorrow it will be a battle of bullets rather than a battle of ballots.

Miss Florence Cairns of Charlottetown P. E. I., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Burgess of Whitney road.

Harold B. Faxon and Wellington W. Mitchell secured the monthly prizes for October at the Granite City club tournament.

Mr. Wilson Tisdale and family have returned from Somersworth, N. H., where they have been spending the summer.

Miss Emma D. Conklin, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Marden since July, has returned to her home in New Jersey.

John W. Hall and family, who have been spending the summer at Houghs Neck, return to their home on Hancock street this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lennon of Upland road are receiving congratulations on the birth of a little daughter just before midnight Sunday.

Mrs. F. P. Loud has been suddenly called to New York, owing to the death of her niece, a beautiful and talented young lady only 30 years of age.

Miss E. M. Freeman, who has been visiting relatives in Brooklyn, New York and Long Island for the past four weeks returned home on Saturday.

Mrs. Mary A. Perkins has been confined to her bed the past few days by illness. Her many neighbors and friends hope to see her up and around again soon.

Miss Tina Gordon has given up her residence in this city, much to the regret of her many friends, and has gone to Revere to make her home with her brother.

The State convention of the King's Daughters will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 5 and 6, in the Methodist church, Temple street, Boston. Many from Quincy will attend.

The degree team of Maple Lodge, K. L. of H., will perform the work on several candidates on Wednesday evening at Wilson's hall. The deputy, Mrs. Nellie E. Hallett, with friends will be present.

The value of the Quincy Daily Ledger has been recognized by a merchant in China, who advertised for a smart youth in this city. The "ad" appears just as it was written, and is quite a curiosity.

Robert E. Townsend while riding horseback through Elm street Sunday was thrown at the corner of South Walnut street. He was unconcious for awhile and received a severe cut in the forehead.

Mrs. Emma A. Burrell, who has been living in California the past year, returned to her native city last Saturday. Her health is very much impaired, but her many friends hope that the climate of this state will soon see her much improved.

The funeral of Henry J. White, the popular little newsboy, was held Saturday from his home on Wild place. Many of his companions were present, and his grade of the Cranch school sent flowers. Many other beautiful flowers were sent by friends and relatives.

CAUGHT IN ELEVATOR

The Instantaneous Death of Merton L. Alden.

First Week at a New Job.

Was a Graduate of Quincy High Last Year.

Merton L. Alden, son of Mrs. Charles Alden of Adams street, a well known and popular young man, was instantly killed Saturday morning at the office of the Walworth Manufacturing Co. on Federal street, Boston, where he had been at work but a few days.

Although the accident happened about 9 in the morning it was some time before it was ascertained who his parents were and whom to notify. This was finally accomplished through Joseph C. Morse, whose office building is near by. Hearing that the ambulance had carried someone away from the Walworth building, and knowing that Alden had gone to work there a few days previous, he went over to see who had been injured. The workmen could not give him any information, other than that a boy who had recently come to work had been killed in the elevator. His name they did not know. Mr. Morse then went into the office and there learned who the young man was. The firm knew his name but little more about him other than he lived in Quincy.

Mr. Morse telegraphed Mrs. Alden, who was visiting at the residence of Mrs. John R. Graham at Bangor, Me., to come home on the afternoon train, but did not telegraph her that her son had been killed. He also notified Undertaker Hall who went to Boston and brought the body to Quincy.

From employes at the Wolworth company, it was learned just how the accident happened. It appears that the young man was at work on the fourth floor. Having to go to the fifth floor he started toward the elevator. The elevator had just started but the young man made a dive for it. As he did so, the safety gate came down and caught him, drawing him back over the edge of the elevator. Before it could be stopped his life had been crushed out. In order to release him, it was necessary to build a platform over the elevator well and to saw away part of the elevator frame. His body was badly crushed, but fortunately his face received hardly a scratch.

The young man was well known about Quincy and was extremely popular with young men of his age. He had been at work at the Fore River Ship yard up to the time he received employment at the Wolworth Co. works.

Young Alden was graduated from the Quincy High school last June, having completed the three years course with credit. His popularity is shown by the fact that he was president of his class.

The family reside on Adams street, at the corner of Alleyne, and the funeral will take place tomorrow at 1 P. M.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

A case of Jack the Hugger has come to light in Braintree, when one night last week a lady on Washington street was greatly annoyed in this manner. Fortunately the lady escaped and made her way to her home.

QUINCY LOCALS.

The Atlantic A. A. foot ball team won again Saturday at Charlestown defeating Charlestown 12 to 0.

At foot-ball Saturday Wollaston A. A. defeated Tufts college '05 by score 12 to 0.

Miss Maude Cameran and Miss Maude Bellows spent Sunday in Maine.

Tonight is ladies' night at Music Hall, and any lady can have a reserved seat at half price. This will be the only ladies' night this season.

Jacob Warshaw has gone into business as manager of the Quincy Steam Dye House, having declined several excellent college positions.

Joseph Warshaw has returned from New York, after a successful year, to go into business with the Quincy Steam Dye House.

MARKED AN EPOCH.

Interesting Anniversary Meetings of West Quincy Church.

The three days' celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the West Quincy Methodist Episcopal church came to an end Sunday evening. As a whole the celebration marked an interesting epoch in the history of the church.

At Saturday evening's service the pastor Rev. David L. Martin, Ph. D., gave an interesting history of the Methodist church in West Quincy.

Sunday an all-day service was held, commencing at 9.30 with a love feast led by Rev. John Peterson, a former pastor. At 10.30 there was a sermon by Rev. C. W. Creswell of Boston who took for his text Hebrew 2-13. In the evening at 6.15 there was a rally of the Epworth league, led by Rev. Roscoe D. Tarbox, the assistant pastor of the church. The last service was at 7.15, and included a sermon by Rev. Willard T. Perrin, Ph. D., presiding elder of the Boston District. All the services were largely attended.

Caucus Vote of 1901.

The Republican municipal caucuses were held last year on Wednesday, Nov. 6, the day following the state election. The total vote was 2,374, divided as follows:

	Bryant.	Anti Bryant.
Ward One,	222	324
Ward Two,	140	201
Ward Three,	161	321
Ward Four,	210	141
Ward Five,	275	207
Ward Six,	45	—
Total,	1,053	1,194

This year there will be no convention but the nomination will be by direct vote as for Representatives. The candidate receiving the largest number of votes in the city will be the Republican nominee.

Teamster Missing.

Charles Anderson, a teamster residing on Faxon lane, is reported as missing since Saturday. It appears that Anderson had made an appointment with Peter Peterson to meet him on the 3.10 train from Quincy Adams to Boston. Peterson arrived at the depot a few minutes after the train had departed so he does not know whether Anderson took the train or not.

Wood at $6 and $7.

It is said that the demand for the Relief Committees wood at $11 per cord is not very active, and it is not surprising. A. L. Baker informs the Ledger that Weymouth now has 50 to 70 cords of oak and maple which he is delivering in Weymouth for $6 per cord, and thinks it could be delivered in Quincy for $7.

☞Today and tonight, Monday, Nov. 3, the much talked of "Merry Makers" will appear at Music Hall in High Class Vaudeville. The season is opened and ladies' night promises to be a grand success. The curtain will rise at 8.10 sharp.

☞There is a change today in the running of cars from and to Houghs Neck. The cars from the Neck will run through the centre of the city to Neponset, by way of Norfolk Downs; and also return by the same route to the Neck. Cars will leave at 35 minutes past the hour from each place. There will be two early cars from Quincy for the Neck; one leaving at 5.25 and the other at 6.18; then on the even hour.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Fat should always go in tin, never in earthen or agate ware.

To clean a knife that has been used in cutting fish, rub thoroughly with a slice of lemon.

To remove the smell of fish from the hands, put a little turpentine in with the soap and water.

Glassware should be washed in hot soapsuds and rinsed in cold water. A clean glass towel does the rest. Use a brush for cut glass.

A kitchen outfit costs little. New oilcloth for the floor, table and sink are cheap and add immeasurably to the contentment of the maid.

To clean gas ovens put a little ammonia in the water and clean in the ordinary way. They will be found to clean easier, and it prevents them turning brown.

A very simple and efficient disinfectant for a kitchen sink is a small quantity of charcoal mixed with clear water. Pour it so it will drain slowly through the pipe.

A cooking thermometer is nowadays an essential possession of the up to date cook, and these handy little registering instruments are to be had in most house furnishing shops.

A Widow's Charm.

The widow is, par excellence, companionable. She has been the constant associate of her former husband and through this association has learned to cater to a man's whims. Connubial companionship exerts a subtle, yet potential, influence over a woman's character. She imbibes strength of thought and force of action that round out her character. The girl who shrank with morbid fear from every rude contact becomes self reliant after a year or two of married life.

The woman who has loved and respected her husband bears the impress of this association. She has learned to think as he thinks. She has learned to cater to his whims and his appetite. She has enjoyed his fads and fancies and has entered into the spirit of his schemes for business and pleasure. Unconsciously to herself she has partaken of his nature, and it is this touch of a man's mental strength ingrafted upon a woman's tenderer qualities that make her more lovable, more charming and more attractive and companionable for a man.

More Sleep Needed.

Lack of sufficient sleep gives a woman more wrinkles than worry or increasing years. The busy woman of today does not spend enough time in her bed, says the Illinois State Register. Powders and toilet preparations are worthless when measured up with the health producing qualities of sleep. "To sleep is to strain and purify our emotions, to deposit the mud of life, to calm the fever of the soul, to return into the bosom of maternal nature, thence to reissue healed and strong," wrote Amiel.

The average woman spends only seven or eight hours in bed, when she should spend nine, ten or even twelve if shorter hours are not enough. If every woman would only sleep more, there would be fewer cross wives in the morning and more pretty girls on the avenue in the afternoon.

Another Substitute For Coal.

A Chicago man has patented a device which is to do away with coal, at least as long as the oil deposits hold out, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. It is a brick made of solidified crude petroleum. The oil is treated in such a way that it assumes a pastelike consistency and may be molded into any shape and hardened. A small block representing a half pint of oil is said to burn fiercely for twenty minutes, emitting no smoke or smell and giving a hotter fire than coal. It is said that these bricks cannot explode and can be made to sell at $5 or $6 a ton, each ton containing the calorific energy of two or three tons of coal.

Beware of the Mad Mollah.

Oh, Tommy—Tommy Atkins—take our quiet little tip:
Don't monkey with the mollah when he's mad.
He's a tough old proposition and a nasty man to whip,
And he'll put you, Tommy Atkins, to the bad.
He has his lucid moments when you may approach him, and
There are moments when he'd rather be alone—
When he gets the crazy notion that his state, Somaliland,
Isn't hitched securely to the British throne.

Oh, Tommy—Tommy Atkins—of your prowess we're aware,
And we know you're always Tommy on the spot,
But, Atkins, of this mollah you are chasing have a care;
He's the maddest, maddest mollah of the lot.
When he gets the crazy notion of his country's ownership,
His case of grouch is very, very bad.
So Tommy—Tommy Atkins—take our quiet little tip:
Don't monkey with the mollah when he's mad.

THE CANNIBAL TREE.

A Wonderful Plant Found in the Forests of Australia.

One of the most wonderful forest trees in the world is the "cannibal tree" of Australia, which grows up in the shape of a huge pineapple and seldom attains a height of more than eleven feet. It has a series of broad, boardlike leaves, growing in a fringe at the apex, which reminds one of a gigantic Central American agave. When standing erect, these broad, thick leaves hide a curious looking arrangement, which appears to perform the same functions as those of the pistils in flowers. Naturally these boardlike leaves, which are from ten to twelve feet long in the smaller specimens and from fifteen to twenty in the larger, hang to the ground and are strong enough to bear a man's weight.

In old aboriginal times in the antipodean wilds the natives worshiped the cannibal tree under the name of the "devil tree," the chief part of the ceremony consisting of driving one of their number up the leaves of the tree to the apex. The instant the victim would touch the so called "pistils" of the monster the leaves would instantly fly together like a trap, squeezing the life out of the intruder. Early travelers declared that the tree held its victim until every particle of flesh disappeared. On this account it is called the "cannibal tree."

Misquotations.

In a letter to the Boston Transcript on the subject of misquotations a correspondent says: "I have in my scrapbook three notable examples from the Thanksgiving proclamations of the governors of different states. Governor Bell of Texas began his with, 'Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious summer, in the words of Holy Writ.'

"I once attended a funeral in the country where the clergyman's opening remark was: 'My bereaved friends, you have loved and lost the demised. It has been truly said: "It is impossible to solve the biography of death." That is, my bereaved friends, the only way for us to look at it.'

"An acquaintance of mine tells me that Cyrus Burleigh, one of the well known writers of fifty years ago, told her that he had just come from a Quaker meeting where he saw a woman speaker rise and with a 'Quaker tone' say: '"A hoss, a hoss, my kingdom for a hoss." Doubtless, my friends, the inspired psalmist, when he penned these words, meant a spiritual hoss. That was all she said, and she solemnly resumed her place on the high seats."

Long Distance Courtships.

Sketching one day in Burma, an English artist noticed a man a little distance off glaring fiercely straight ahead at him at some object he could not see from his position. The man sat with the same fixed glare the whole afternoon and was at it again next morning. The artist had the curiosity to ask an English visitor what it meant. The reply was, "Oh, he is in love!" And it was explained that this was their method of courtship.

The object of the man's attentive gaze was a girl in a neighboring bazaar. When a young man falls in love, he has to seat himself at a certain distance from his adored one and wait for her to do the rest. If she looks in his direction once or twice on the first or second day, he is wildly encouraged, and if on the third day she nods to him and smiles it is time to go to the parents with reference to the marriage settlements.—London Tit-Bits.

The Thoughtful Stork.

On a tree close to a house within a short distance to the river or canal there was a storks' nest with young ones. The roof of the house caught fire one day, and, though the flames did not actually reach the tree, the heat became scorching. So the mother stork flew down to the water, got into it and drenched her breast; then, returning to her young, she spread the mass of cool, wet feathers all over them. This she repeated over and over again, flying to the river, going down into the water and returning, her plumage drenched with wet. And thus the nest was saved, and the tender nestlings were preserved alive until the fire had been got under control and all was safe. The truth of this remarkable story was vouched for by more than one eyewitness.

Starboard and Larboard.

The Italians derived "starboard" from questa borda, "this side," and "larboard" from quella borda, which means "that side." Abbreviated these two phrases appear as sta borda and la borda. Their close resemblance caused so many mistakes that the admiralty ordered the "larboard" to be discontinued and "port" substituted. "Port" for "larboard" is said to be first used in Arthur Pitt's "Voyages" in 1850.

Guy P. Walton has purchased three lots on Babcock street, Houghs Neck, and will build cottages.

THE SOCIALISTIC VOTE

May Cut Into Both Great Parties In Massachusetts

THE CAMPAIGN IS STILL ON

Will Continue Almost Up to Opening of the Polls—Usual Claims by Both Republicans and Democrats In States Where Elections Will Occur

Boston, Nov. 3.—If precedent ruled the Massachusetts campaign would have closed Saturday night, but so keen is the fight in this state, both over the governorship and for congressmen, that party managers did not want to rest. Yesterday was a day of political conferences, while so many rallies will be held today that the canvass will end in a flood of stump oratory not a long interval before the ballot boxes are brought into use.

The situation is rather complex, although the Republicans are the more sanguine, claiming the state ticket by a good margin, and 12 of the 14 congressmen. The two districts which they do not claim are the Ninth and Tenth, both in Boston, and both overwhelmingly Democratic, although in the former there are two Democrats running.

On the other hand, the Democrats believe that Gaston has a fighting chance with Bates for governor, and are confident of getting four congressmen, expecting that Sullivan will defeat Foss in the Eleventh and Congressman Thayer will win from Dodge in the Third, in addition to the two districts which seem theirs without question.

The election is expected to show a remarkable increase in the Socialist vote. Straw ballots taken in manufacturing centres indicate that defection from both Republican and Democratic tickets, as compared with last year's vote, may be expected, it going to Chase, the Socialist candidate for governor.

Chairman Goetting of the Republican state committee says: "The close of the campaign of 1902 makes certain the success of Republican principles in Massachusetts and the continuance of the state government in Republican hands. It is Republican registration.

"Before a change in administration can be made by the people of a state, they must be convinced that the existing condition is no longer to be borne. Upon Mr. Gaston and his supporters, therefore, has fallen the burden of showing to Massachusetts voters that the present administration of state affairs is unworthy of public confidence, of proving that a change is necessary for the welfare of the state. This task they have not performed.

"Our candidate for governor has proven himself a leader trustworthy and sound. He has served the state well already, and will be called to higher services by her citizens.

"The campaigns in the different congressional districts have been waged with thoroughness and intelligence. It now rests with the voters to say how great success shall crown these labors. No Republican should fail to cast his ballot on Tuesday."

Chairman McNary of the Democratic state committee is exceedingly optimistic in his predictions as to the outcome of tomorrow's election. He says:

"A good Republican has, to our knowledge, figured that the Republican majority for Bates will be only 12,000, but the Democratic state committee, from advices it has received, is confident that the contest will be very close and we feel sure Colonel Gaston will be elected by a small plurality. In the congressional contests we expect to make great gains and are confident we will elect six Democratic congressmen.

"In the legislative contests we believe we can gain five or six seats in the senate and that we can make a net gain of 15 seats in the house. The act passed this year giving the hours off after the opening of the polls to employes in mercantile and manufacturing establishments will give us many votes which have hitherto been lost because working men could not spare the time in the morning to vote."

In the Granite State

Concord, N. H., Nov. 3.—While the campaign in this state has not attracted attention outside it has been of importance to New Hampshire men. The new factors have been the issue of Prohibition against license in the canvass for legislative office, and the activity of the Socialists. The chairman of both state committees have summed up the situation. Senator Gallinger, for the Republicans, says that he expects a plurality of 9000 for N. J. Bachelder, Republican candidate for governor. He concedes slight gains for the Democrats in legislature and county offices. N. E. Martin, chairman of the Democratic state committee, declines to give figures, but says that his party will make astonishingly large gains both in the gubernatorial vote and in the legislature.

In Rhode Island

Providence, Nov. 3.—In the gubernatorial campaign a decidedly inhospitable field for forecast exists. Governor Kimball is the Republican candidate for re-election against L. F. C. Garvin, the Democratic nominee. A very close run will be made, and the result can hardly be determined with any degree of accuracy until the ballots are counted. Both branches of the general assembly will undoubtedly go Republican, although in the house the Democrats are likely to make strong gains.

Johnson Likely to Lose

Cincinnati, Nov. 3.—The canvass in Ohio for minor state offices and congressmen closed with less rallying than usual on the Saturday preceding election. Tom Johnson is a candidate to succeed Hanna as United States senator before the legislature that is to be elected next November. The result tomorrow will have much bearing on that contest. This campaign has been the most personal contest ever waged in Ohio. If the conditions of the canvassing shall continue in the balloting, Hanna will win. The Republicans have no factional fighting and Johnson has openly denounced some Democratic leaders, including county chairmen and congressional candidates.

Chances Favor Houston

Dover, Del., Nov. 3.—The Democratic and regular Republican leaders contend that J. E. Addicks will be unable to control the next legislature, which elects two United States senators. The campaign has been conducted in an effort to prevent Addicks' domination of the assembly. The Republican factions have united for state treasurer and auditor of accounts and their election is probable. Each faction has a congressional candidate, which is expected to insure the election of Henry A. Houston, the Democratic nominee.

Both Sides Predict Success

New York, Nov. 3.—With the leaders of both parties confident of success and predicting majorities of 40,000 to 50,000 for their respective tickets, the state campaign for the election tomorrow was brought to a close last night. Conservative men in both the leading parties predicted that success would be won with a majority possibly as small as 10,000.

Body Refused Burial

Manila, Nov. 3.—The body of a native woman, who was attended at her death by priests of the Catholic church of the Philippines, was refused interment yesterday at the Paco cemetery, which is owned by the Roman Catholic church. There was a scene at the cemetery and the police were called to maintain order. In retaliation for this refusal of interment leaders of the schismatic movement are discussing a plan to appeal to the courts to obtain possession of certain churches and other property in the Philippines.

Officer to Be Decapitated

Pekin, Nov. 3.—The efforts made by British Minister Satow have resulted in the publication of an edict ordering the decapitation of the Chinese military official who refused protection to the British missionaries, Bruce and Lewis, who were killed at Chen Chow by a mob, and the punishment of other officials implicated in the crime.

No Revolutionists In Sight

Colon, Nov. 3.—A representative of The Associated Press travelled over the railroad line between here and Panama yesterday. No revolutionists were seen, they having all retired toward the interior. The railroad stations between Tavernilla and Culebra are at present occupied by government troops.

Vegetation Covered

Tapachuila, Mex., Nov. 3.—Growers on neighboring haciendas will suffer great loss from the fact that their stock cannot procure food, the fields being covered with ashes from the Santa Maria volcano. The brooks are choked with ashes and cinders and all the neighboring roads are covered.

Jockeys' Claim For Damages

Paris, Nov. 3.—The hearing of the suits brought by J. Reiff and M. Henry, the American jockeys, against the Jockey club, for damages for having deprived them of their licenses, has been fixed for Nov. 10. The jockeys claim $40,000 damages.

Henry C. Brown, foreman of a section crew on the Maine Central railroad, was on a bridge and there was a thick fog. A train struck his handcar, breaking it in two and throwing Brown into the river, where he was drowned.

One of the temporary grand stands erected for the Wisconsin-Michigan football game at Chicago collapsed, carrying down fully 1000 people. Thirty-two were injured, but none fatally.

John H. Abbott died at Fall River, Mass. He was mayor of Fall River in 1899 and 1900 and was to have been a candidate in the caucuses this fall for the same office. He was a doctor by profession and was born in 1884.

Captain F. P. Gilmore, U. S. N., has been retired with the rank of rear admiral.

Tongue Boring.

Until the reign of Queen Anne an English army officer was liable to have his tongue bored through with a hot iron for blasphemy.

The Plague.

There is considerable evidence that the plague is a soil infection, to which Hindoos are particularly liable because they go barefooted and wear badly fitting toe rings, which give rise to chronic abrasions.

Cut Flowers.

Cut flowers will keep very much longer if a small quantity of alum is added to the water in which they are placed. A solution should be made by dissolving the alum in hot water, allowing it to cool and then adding to fresh water in about the proportion of a tablespoonful to a pint.

Bath Bags.

Bath bags are easy to make and inexpensive as well. A yard of cheesecloth is sufficient for half a dozen. Fill with bran, powdered orris root and castile soap shavings and use as a sponge.

Mexican Blankets.

The blankets and scarfs in use among the Mexicans are many of them as fine in weave and beautiful in coloring as the much prized Navajo rugs. They are lighter in weight, however, and therefore available only for couch covers, portieres and wall draperies.

Fainting.

When a person faints, place in a flat position and apply camphor or ammonia to nostrils; loosen clothing.

Carpets.

When choosing carpets, preference should be given to those of small pattern, for they are much more easily turned about and mended than those of large design and therefore are much more economical.

A Bright Comet.

The comet of 1843 was the only one during the last century visible in broad daylight.

State Flower.

California was the first state in the Union to choose a state flower. In 1890, at a meeting of the State Floral association, the golden poppy was chosen.

Dickens' Characters.

There are 1,425 characters in the works of Charles Dickens.

The Silk Industry.

Italy began the silk industry in the fourteenth century, but in 1750 France surpassed Italy and has since kept the first position.

Small Churches.

St. Mary's, Frinton-on-Sea, England, has only accommodation for thirty persons, and a church at Wastdale Head has only eight pews. Another church, at Haugh, Lincolnshire, is very small, but it seats the whole population, which only numbers thirty all told.

Colorado Canyon.

The Canyon of the Colorado is 300 miles long, and the cliffs on either side are from 5,000 to 6,000 feet above the water.

A Glass Cutter.

If you want to break off a glass jar or bottle quite evenly, soak a piece of string in turpentine and tie it around the glass just where you wish the break to come. Then fill the glass up to that point with cold water and set fire to the string. The glass will snap all along the heated line.

Too Much For the Goats.

Because sweetbrier became too abundant in Tasmania goats were introduced to head them off, as it were, by eating them, but the brier came out ahead by killing the goats.

Plain Gold Ones.

The maidens of Denmark never receive a diamond engagement ring. They are always presented with a plain gold band, which is worn on the third finger of the left hand. On the wedding day the bridegroom changes the ring to the right third finger, which is the marriage finger in that country.

Swiss Cheese.

The best cheese made in Switzerland is usually exported and is seldom to be had even in the famous hotels of that country.

Cleaning Jewelry.

Gold and silver jewelry when dirty should be placed in a wide mouthed bottle half filled with soapsuds to which a little powdered chalk has been added. Shake the jewelry well up and down in the suds, then take it out, rinse in clean, cold water, dry thoroughly and polish.

Cod Migration.

The records of the great banks of Newfoundland show that the cod leave there entirely two months every year—December and January.

An Emergency Compress.

In an emergency to make a compress for a wound, if nothing better is at hand, clean tissue paper makes an excellent application. It is much to be preferred to a strip torn from clothing or a soiled handkerchief, which may be the only other choice.

Ireland's Lord Lieutenant.

The salary of the lord lieutenant of Ireland is £20,000 a year, and he has £1,000 for an outfit.

Oatmeal and Apple.

Well cooked oatmeal eaten with a raw apple is claimed to be an ideal diet for humanity, and a man can keep strong and healthy on this at the smallest possible outlay.

TALES OF MRS. STANTON

Early Experiences of the Famous Woman Suffragist.

A WINTER SLEIGH RIDE IN IOWA

How She Met a Lecture Engagement While the Roads Were Almost Impassable—A Pathetic Anecdote of Her Early Ambitions—Amusing Incident of First Woman's Rights Convention.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton, the noted advocate of woman's suffrage, who recently died at her home in New York, some time ago recounted to a party of friends some of the stirring experiences of her earlier years, and they listened with absorbing interest to the stories of heroic efforts made by this pioneer woman, says a Chicago paper.

"It was in 1871, or thereabout," said Mrs. Stanton, "that I found myself in Lyons, Ia., in the worst storm of the winter season. All the railroads were blockaded with snow. I was to lecture in a town forty miles distant on that night, but how was I to get there? The landlord of the hotel said it would be presumption to try. I would founder in the snowdrifts. I asked him if he was willing to let me have a good team, sleigh and driver to try the way.

"'But, madam, the snow is too deep.'

"'Will you let me have the team?'

"He yielded at last and even saw me out to the sleigh and gave me a hot plank for my feet. Then he tied me up in a buffalo robe, fastening the two corners around my neck. I wore a woolen hood over my bonnet and must have cut a remarkable figure. When about half way to the town I was trying to reach, we met a party in sleighs.

"'What are the roads like?' called my driver.

"'Impassable!' came back the answer.

"'Not impassable, since you have passed!' I shouted from my hood.

"We kept on and drove up to the hall where I was to deliver my lecture at exactly 8 o'clock. All the bells were ringing merrily, that being the signal that I had come and that the townspeople were to rendezvous at the hall. I had a crowded house and felt inspired by forty miles of sleigh riding to do justice to my subject. A few weeks later I met General Kilpatrick, whose lecture, 'Sherman's March to the Sea,' was to follow mine. He was in Chicago then and said the reason he failed to fill his engagement in Iowa was that travel in that state during the rigors of such a winter was impossible. I then told him of my trip and asked him how he expected to give 'Sherman's March to the Sea' if he could not even take a march across Iowa."

Mrs. Stanton attended the first woman's rights convention ever held in America, and from that time she became thoroughly identified with the movement, says Jeannette L. Gilder in the New York Journal. She tells an amusing anecdote of her first year in swinging round the circle:

"One night in the Quaker meeting house at Farmington I invited as usual discussion and questions when I had finished. We all waited in silence for a long time; at length a middle aged man with a broad brimmed hat arose and responded in a singsong tone: 'All I have to say is if a hen can crow let her crow,' emphasizing crow with an upward inflection on several notes of the gamut. The meeting adjourned with mingled feelings of surprise and merriment. I confess that I felt somewhat chagrined in having what I considered my unanswerable arguments so summarily disposed of and the serious impression I had made on the audience so speedily dissipated. The good man intended no disrespect, as he told me afterward. He simply put the whole argument in a nutshell, 'Let a woman do whatever she can.'"

Elizabeth Cady began to work for the securing of larger rights to women when she was only a child. She was the daughter of Judge Cady of Johnstown, N. Y., and when she was ten years old her brother died. Apropos of this event comes a pathetic little story from the "Recollections" of Elizabeth Cady Stanton. She says that when her brother died she climbed upon her father's knee, wondering what could be said or done to fill the empty place in his heart.

"Oh, my daughter," he sighed, "I wish you were a boy!"

I threw my arms about his neck and said: "I will try to be all my brother was."

All that day and far into the night I pondered the problem of boyhood. I thought the chief thing to be done to equal boys was to be learned and courageous, so I decided to study Greek and learn to manage a horse. As soon as I was dressed I hurried to our good pastor, Rev. Simon Hosack, who was always early at work in his garden.

"Doctor," said I, "which do you like best, boys or girls?"

"Why, girls, to be sure! I wouldn't give you for all the boys in christendom."

"My father," said I, "prefers boys. He wishes I were one, and I intend to be as like one as possible. I am going to ride on horseback and study Greek. Will you give me a Greek lesson now, doctor? I want to begin at once."

"Yes, child," he said, throwing down his hoe. "Come into my library and we will begin without delay."

I kept up my lessons at the parsonage and made rapid progress. I surprised even my teacher, who thought me capable of doing anything. I learned to drive and to leap a fence and ditch on horseback. I taxed every power, hoping some day to hear my father say: "Well, a girl is as good as a boy after all."

But he never said it.

I began to study Latin, Greek and mathematics with a class of boys in the academy, many of whom were much older than I. Two prizes were offered in Greek. I strove for one and took the second.

"Now," said I, "my father will be satisfied with me."

I rushed breathlessly into his office, laid my prize, a new Greek testament, on the table and exclaimed:

"There! I got it!"

He took up the book and asked me some questions. Then he kissed me on the forehead and exclaimed with a sigh, "Ah, you should have been a boy!"

AMERICAN IDEAS IN CUBA.

Planters Beginning to Raise Tent Grown Tobacco.

The use of cheesecloth in the culture of tobacco is an innovation in Cuba, but has been used in the states of Connecticut and Florida for some time, says the Cuban Investor and Guide. Its use is intended to protect the plants from the nightly visits of the moth, which, alighting on a plant, lays its eggs, and in a few days these give life to myriads of the havoc producing cutworms.

The secret of obtaining a good return for your crop is to keep the tobacco free of worms, and in the tobacco growing districts it is a nightly sight to see torches all over the fields where the workmen are engaged in gathering the pests. We use the word gathering because many Cuban growers gather the worms in large mouthed bottles and afterward burn them. In this way they are totally destroyed, while they claim if the worms are killed in the fields some of their eggs may be left to give life to another generation.

The filler tobacco brings a very much inferior price to the wrapper, and no grower can expect to have the latter unless he pays close attention to his field and curtails as much as possible the ravages of this pest. The use of the cheesecloth, together with the necessary posts and slats, makes the original cost considerable, but the labor it saves and the increased returns which it assures make it the most profitable investment a grower can make.

In the tobacco growing sections of the United States it is not uncommon to see many lights in the tobacco fields. These are stationary and are so constructed that when the moth, which surely flies directly at it, strikes the light it falls into a pan of poisonous liquid which immeditely kills it. The cheesecloth is the simpler and surer method.

The Cuban congress has passed a bill permitting the growers to import free of duty cheesecloth for the above mentioned purposes.

A GORGEOUS GOWN.

Lady Curzon's Coronation Durbar Dress to Be of Indian Make.

Lady Curzon has a deep interest in and admiration for the higher kinds of Indian art work and has succeeded in communicating some of her enthusiasm on the subject to various influential friends at home and in America by means of handsome presents. It is probably not generally known that her excellency's sympathetic imagination had something to do with the original happy conception of the great Indian art exhibition in connection with the Delhi coronation durbar and that her excellency is now watching with close interest the detailed development of the scheme.

Further, we have heard, says the Bombay (India) Gazette of a recent date, that at the durbar on the 1st of January Lady Curzon will wear a dress of exclusively Indian manufacture. A fortunate Delhi craftsman whose unique skillfulness was one of Dr. Watt's many discoveries during his tour has secured the order for this dress piece, which will be in the main idea of its design a gorgeous piece of silk embroidery work in imitation of peacock feathers.

THE ODD PENNIES.

For the sake of saving odd pennies do not buy an inferior emulsion of cod-liver oil when you really need Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion costs more to buy because it costs more to make.

The difference in price is pennies. The difference in results is pounds—pounds of flesh—and days of new strength and comfort.

The consumptive and others who have lost flesh get more cod-liver oil into their systems by means of Scott's Emulsion than in any other way.

TWO KILLED BY BOMB

Several Others Injured In Explosion at Chicago

DYNAMITE UNDER COTTAGE

Tore a Hole In Floor and Scattered a Man and One of His Children to Fragments—Flesh Blown From a Woman's Side

Chicago, Nov. 3.—A dynamite bomb blew up the home of Joseph Kordeck at Chicago Heights yesterday, killing two members of the family outright and injuring several others. The house was set on fire and burned while that of a neighbor caught fire and also was destroyed. The dead are Joseph Kordeck, arms and legs blown off, and Lucy Kordeck, aged 2, body blown to pieces. Mrs. Lucy Kordeck had the flesh blown off her right side and was injured internally. She may die. Several children who escaped were injured, but not seriously.

The explosion occurred while the family was asleep. The father and mother, with the daughter, Lucy, occupied a room in the front of the cottage. On the other side were rooms occupied by the rest of the family. The cottage stood two feet from the ground on wooden posts. The bomb was placed under the room occupied by the parents and the impact of the explosion tore a hole in the floor and blew the bed to pieces, dismembered Kordeck and scattered into fragments the body of Lucy, who was sleeping with her parents. Pieces of flesh the size of a man's hand were the largest remnants of the child's body that could be found.

The force of the explosion was directly upward and tore a piece of flesh from Mrs. Kordeck's side and blew her through a window. The noise aroused the rest of the family and they had hardly time to escape from the flames which soon destroyed the cottage. Kordeck's body, torn to shreds, was found in the debris after the fire.

Charles Smith, a former boarder at the Kordeck house, who was paying attention to one of Kordeck's daughters, has been arrested charged with the crime. The Kordeck girl was to have been married to another man next week.

Smith declares he is innocent, but neighbors declare that he made threats to them that if the girl refused to be his wife he would blow up the entire family with dynamite. Smith was absent from his room at the time of the explosion. His room-mate claims that Smith returned to his room greatly excited shortly after the explosion.

Pilgrimage to City of the Dead

Vienna, Nov. 3.—One-third of the population of Vienna made pilgrimages Saturday and yesterday, All Saints day and All Souls day, respectively, to the Central cemetery of Vienna. It is estimated that 600,000 people visited the graves in the cemetery on these two days. The pilgrims all carried wreaths or flowers and before the tombs and in the long gress burned countless candles. The sparsely occupied parts of the cemetery presented a weird and picturesque spectacle.

Deputies to Fight a Duel

Paris, Nov. 3.—Gerault Richard of The Petite Republique has telegraphed two of his friends to meet the seconds of the Marquis de Dion today and arrange for a duel. The trouble between Richard and the marquis, who are both members of the chamber of deputies, grew out of a recent angry discussion in a corridor of the chamber De Dion slapped Richard's face.

Boisterous Weather at Sea

Boston, Nov. 3.—From the reports of the incoming steamers it appears that the unusually calm weather which prevailed in this section of the country the last month did not extend very far out to sea. Five ocean liners came in yesterday, all more or less battered by heavy head seas almost the entire distance across the Atlantic.

President at Cedar Mountain

Brandy Station, Va., Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt passed several hours yesterday on the battlefield of Cedar Mountain. He received from an eyewitness and participant an account of the fight. The day was perfect and the drive to the battlefield was as pleasurable as could be desired.

St Pierre's Big Fire

St. Johns, Nov. 3.—The main portion of the town of St. Pierre, Miquelon, has been devastated by fire. The main portion of the town has been destroyed. There was no loss of life, but the damage will probably reach $500,000.

Three Coal Mine Fatalities

New Straitsville, O., Nov. 3.—Three men were killed by an explosion of gas in Lost Run mine yesterday. It is supposed the gas found its way into the mine from an adjoining mine, which has been abandoned for several years.

Fatally Hurt at Football

Knoxville, Nov. 3.—Walter Cole, fullback of the Tennessee Deaf and Dumb school football team, is dying as a result of injuries received in a game played at Maryville on Saturday.

American the Fastest Rider

Paris, Nov. 3.—Eddie Bald, the American bicyclist, won the international scratch bicycle race here yesterday. The distance was 1458 yards. Bald's time was 2:33 1-5.

October 25, 1902. 27-3t--27-3-10

To the Honorable the Judge of the Probate Court, in and for the County of Norfolk:

RESPECTFULLY Represents Mary H. MacMullin of Quincy, in said County, and that she is of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, and desirous of adopting of said Quincy, a child of Elizabeth Olivette Watson of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and which said child was born in Boston on the first day of July A. D. 1900.

Wherefore she prays for leave to adopt said child, and that her name may be changed to that of FAITH TRENHOLM FERNALD.

Dated this seventeenth day of October, A. D. 1902.

MARY H. MACMULLIN.

The undersigned, being the mother of said child, hereby consents to the adoption, as above prayed for.

ELIZABETH OLIVETTE WATSON.

CITY BREVITIES.

Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Hardwick are the guests of the doctor's parents on Revere road.

A cottage prayer meeting meets with Deacon Brown, 263 Farrington street on Tuesday evening, Nov. 4, at 7.45 o'clock. All invited.

This afternoon and evening will be the opening of the season of Vaudeville at Music Hall. Captain Eddy presents a fine bill at popular prices.

The rehearsals for the play "Our Boy," to be given by some of the members of Memorial church, Atlantic, are under way. The play will be given the first week in December.

The stone sheds of Mayo Fuller at West Quincy were broken into sometime between Saturday night and this morning and four bush hammers and one hand hammer was stolen.

By request of Mayor Bryant, the Overseer of the Poor will deliver to the worthy poor of Quincy a fine quality of Nova Scotia hard wood at the rate of $9 per cord and $4.50 for half a cord.

Eugene F. De Normandie is generally picked as one of the winners in the Representative contest, with second place in doubt between Messrs. Sandberg, Fallon, Freeman and McKnight.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet in the vestry of the Wollaston Baptist church on Thursday at 2 o'clock. Supper will be served at six o'clock, after which a social time will follow.

Mrs. Chas. Hammond of Billings street gave an at home Saturday afternoon for her numerous friends and former classmates of Boston University, where Mrs. Hammond attended school.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olmsted of Webster street, whose illness of smallpox was reported last week, was removed to the pest house on Friday. The red flag still marks the house as quarantined.

Mrs. C. A. Neily of Squantum street surprised her boarders with a hallowe'en party Friday night, Oct. 31. All the games appropriate to Hallowe'en were enjoyed and presents were awarded those who were the fortunate winners. A collation ended the evening's amusement.

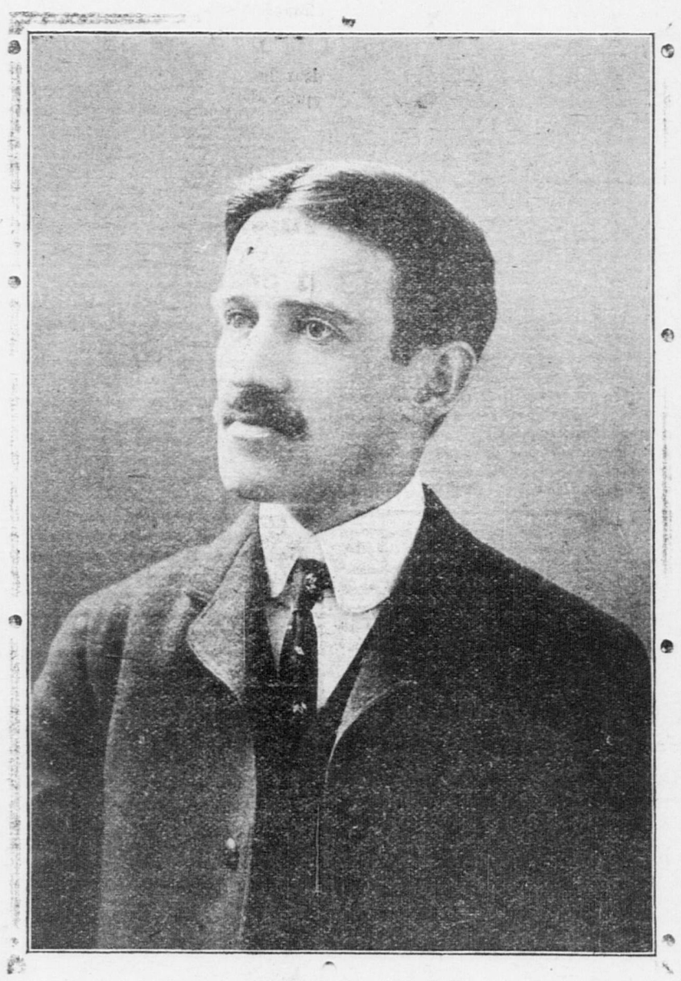

The South Quincy eleven defeated the West Quincy eleven at South Quincy Park Saturday afternoon by a score of 15 to 0. The visiting team were considerably heavier but could make no impression on the South Quincy line. The South Quincys made their gains constantly through the line occasionally going round the ends for long runs. The West Quincys braced up in the second htlf but were unable to score.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE

(FOR SECOND TERM).

JOHN McKNIGHT.

His Record and the Custom of the District Demand His Return.

First—Because he is a representative citizen, fit and capable in all respects to fill the office.

Second—Because he is a young man of sterling qualities and will represent the best interests of the city.

Third—Because he is a fluent speaker, quiet and unassuming in manner, straightforward in all business matters.

Fourth—Because of his legal training and experience he is competent to pass upon legislative matters with judicial care.

Fifth—Because the district has always given its representatives to the general court, at least, two consecutive terms.

Sixth—Because his record during the past session has been such as to reflect credit on himself and his district.

According to Custom.

"When John McKnight of Quincy got through with his first term in the house his friends had every reason to feel certain that the time-honored custom in that city of returning a man who has made a pretty good record would be adhered to. In the caucuses, however, a march was stolen on him by other aspirants, and he was turned down."

"Now McKnight issues a circular to the voters of the 5th Norfolk district which puts the case before them very plainly. The features of the situation which makes matters look favorable for his election as an independent is found in the fact that McKnight's record has not been assailed at any time during the contest."

"The issues appear, therefore, to be purely personal on the part of the opposition, and it certainly seems fair to the citizens of Quincy to assume that they will send McKnight back to the house."—Practical Politics of Nov. 1.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

MASCAGNI AT BOSTON.

Music lovers all over the United States are interested in the American tour of the famous composer, Signor Pietro Mascagni, but nowhere is this interest any more manifest than right here at home. To hear the work of a great master is, indeed, a most pleasant treat, but when that work is conducted by the master himself the interest becomes all the more intense. For months the music lovers of this section have been reading about the forthcoming engagement of Mascagni and his opera company in Boston and his engagement at the Boston Music Hall this week promises to be the most successful he has had since his arrival in this country. The opening bill for tonight night will be a double one, opening with the one-act opera "Zanetto" and being followed by "Cavelleria Rusticana." The latter is probably Mascagni's best work in this country and has always been a great favorite with music lovers. It will be a great treat to see this opera presented just as the composer intended and with a cast that is the equal, if not superior to any that has ever been seen in the opera.

Tuesday night will be presented "Iris" the Japanese opera New York critics declared the most beautiful ever heard in that city. Wednesday afternoon the double bill of "Zanetto" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be repeated and on Wednesday night "Ratcliffe." In the latter opera Mascagni feels that he has done his best work and when it was first presented in Italy the opera created profound and wholesome criticism. The seat's for the entire engagement are now on sale at the box office of Music Hall. Mail orders for seats, accompanied by remittance, should be addresed to C. H. Smith, Manager, Boston Music Hall.

SYMPHONY HALL.

The coming of Creatore, the great Italian bandmaster, to Boston this week will, without doubt, create quite the same sensation as that which has resulted from his appearance in all the large cities of this country. That Creatore has a personality calculated to hold the attention of any audience before which he appears is best proven by the fact that a single concert in New York last summer made him famous and gained him recognized prominence as one of the world's great musicians. He has almost a hypnotic control over both his musicians and those who listen to his programmes, and the effects resulting from his leadership defy description. As a bandmaster Creatore never spares himself and however emotional, theatrical and extravagant his movements may appear they all have a distinct and definite meaning to his musicians and enable him to control his organization as if it was a single instrument. Creatore and his band will give ten concerts at Symphony Hall, Boston, this week appearing every evening and afternoon except Monday and Friday. Constant changes will be made in the programmes presented and they will be pleasantly varied with solo numbers. A popular scale of prices has been made for seats or these concerts.

Refused to Sell a Book.

Some of these secondhand booksellers or seliers of secondhand books are as independent as a fool farmer on a two acre patch of ground. Desiring to secure a certain book long out of print, I tracked a copy to a lair in a street not far from the postoffice. "How much?" I asked. "I don't want to sell it," said the dealer. "But I must have it." "I must have it myself." "What's it worth?" "More than you would care to give." "Five dollars?" "No, sir!" "It sold for $2 a few years ago." "Well, I won't sell it at any price." "I'll give you $10." "I won't sell it." "Would you take $100?" "No, sir! Nor $200 nor $500. It's worth as much to me as to any one. I need it in my business." I have my opinion of a merchant who has things to sell and won't sell.—New York Press.

Another Biblical Dispute.

"De devil is lak a roarin' lion," said Br'er Williams.

"No, he ain't," said Brother Dickey; "kase ef he wuz dey ain't a sinner among you what wouldn't climb a tree w'en you heerd him comin'!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Officers were elected at the Braintree High school Thursday noon for the Sophmore class as follows: President, Elbridge R. Dam; Vice President, Miss Friede Winn; Secretary, John Remick; Treasurer, Miss Marion D. McKenney; Executive Committee, Elbridge R. Dam, John Remick, Miss Eva M. Dam, Clifton Neal and Fred Smith.

THE SOCIALIST VOTE

An Uncertain Element In the Election In Massachusetts

CLOSE FIGHT IN NEW YORK

Defeat of Addicks Looked For In Delaware—Republicans In Pennsylvania Think They Will Win by 100,000—The Contests Elsewhere

Boston, Nov. 4.—The last word from the stump in the political campaign of 1902 was spoken last evening by the leading orators of both parties. It is believed that the total vote in Massachusetts will run well above 300,000, and perhaps reach the figures of 1900, which were nearly 370,000. Republicans are exceedingly confident and the Democrats very hopeful. The former claim the state by 25,000, while the latter believe that they will elect their candidate for governor by 8000 plurality. The present congressional delegation stands 10 Republicans and three Democrats, but this year Massachusetts gains a congressman on the re-districting. Under the new apportionment, the Republicans assert that 12 of the party candidates will win, while the Democrats claim that they will elect six out of 14 congressmen.

The uncertain element in today's election is the strength of the Socialist vote. In past years it has scarcely been 1 percent of the total, but this year a considerable increase is looked for, and it is generally asknowledged that any decided gain for that party will be at the expense of the Democrats.

Not for years has the campaign in this state been fought with such vigor. The Democrats started early but the Republicans followed right along at their heels, and every city in the commonwealth has had its two rallies, one by each party. The only section which appears to have been at all neglected is Cape Cod, where the vote for the past few years has been very small. Ten years ago William E. Russell was elected governor by the Democrats by a small plurality. Since then the Republicans have won every year without apparent effort. With the exception of 1893, when the effect of the Democratic victory of the previous year was still felt, the average Republican plurality has been over 80,000.

With all the energy which they have put in to the present campaign, the party leaders are therefore looking for a very heavy vote, especially as registration this year has been unusually large.

While the work on the stump in this campaign has been ahead of any previous year since 1892, the managers of the two parties have not relied on oratory alone, but have sent an immense amount of literature through the mails.

ELECTIONS ELSEWHERE

Reports From All States on the Situation as It Looked This Morning

New York elects a full state ticket, a legislature that will choose a successor to Senator Thomas C. Platt, and 37 representatives. Mr. Odell carried the state in 1900 by 111,000 plurality. Odell figures on 47,000 majority this year. Rarely in recent years has the result of a state election in New York been so doubtful or so likely to be determined by a narrow majority as that of today.

New Hampshire will elect a governor, a legislature to choose a successor to Senator Gallinger, and two representatives. In 1900 McKinley had 19,305 plurality. A light vote will probably reduce Republican pluralities.

Rhode Island will elect state officers and two representatives. In 1901 the Republicans carried the state by 6537. The entire voting strength of both parties in this state will be brought out as a result of the unusual interest which centres in the success of nearly every individual candidate.

Connecticut elects a full state ticket, a legislature which will choose a successor to Senator O. H. Platt and five representatives. In 1900 the Connecticut Republicans elected their governor by 14,402 plurality. Democrats this year say they are united, but Republicans are more confident.

Pennsylvania elects a full state ticket, a legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Penrose, and 32 representatives. The Republican state committee estimates Pennypacker's plurality at 100,000, while the Democratic state committee maintains that Pattison will be victorious.

Wisconsin elects a governor, state officers, a legislature which will fill Senator Spooner's seat and 11 congressmen. The state has been heavily Republican since 1894. Indications favor the election of the Republican ticket.

Missouri will elect state officers, and, with the exception of half the senate, a legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Vest, and 16 representatives. Each side predicts success in this state.

California will elect a full state ticket and eight representatives, and a legislature which will elect a successor to Senator Perkins. In 1900 McKinley carried the state by 39,770 plurality. Republicans claim 17,000 majority in the state.

Delaware will elect a treasurer and auditor, a legislature that will fill the two vacant seats in the United States senate, and one representative. In 1900 the Republicans elected their governor by a plurality of 5613. The Democrats and regular Republican leaders claim that J. E. Addicks and his Union-Republican followers will be overwhelmingly defeated.

New Jersey elects part of the state senate, assemblymen, and 10 representatives in congress. The state in 1900 gave Murphy (Rep.) 17,000 plurality and 27,000 for the Republican legislative ticket. The congressional delegation from this state probably will continue as at present.

Michigan elects a governor and state officers, a legislature which will choose a United States senator to succeed the late James McMillan, and 12 representatives. Bliss (Rep.) was elected governor in 1900 by 79,384 plurality. The Democrats hope to elect their candidate for governor, while Republicans claim everything.

Ohio will elect minor state officers and 21 representatives. In 1901 the Republican plurality was 67,467. Republicans' ranks are united under Hanna, while leading Democrats oppose Johnson.

Nebraska elects minor state officers and six representatives. In 1901 the Republicans had about 11,000 plurality for their state ticket. Each party is likely to elect three congressmen.

Colorado elects a state ticket, a legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Teller and three representatives. Fusion carried the state for governor in 1900 by 28,750 plurality. There is no fusion now. Betting favors the election of the Democratic ticket.

Indiana will elect minor state officers, a legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Fairbanks, and 13 representatives. In 1900 the Republicans elected their state ticket by 23,162 plurality. Republicans claim 20,000 plurality, while Democrats claim the legislature.

North Dakota will elect a state ticket, a legislature which will choose a successor to Senator Hansbrough, and two representatives. In 1900 the Republicans elected their governor by 11,677 plurality. The state will go Republican.

Texas will elect a governor and other state officers, a legislature, and 16 representatives. They will all be Democrats.

Georgia elects only congressmen, state officers having been chosen in October. There is practically no opposition to the Democrats.

Kansas will elect a full state ticket, a legislature which will select a successor to Senator Harris, and eight representatives. The Republican state ticket in 1900 won over fusion by 17,175 plurality. The interest is mainly in control of the legislature.

Maryland elects six representatives in congress. In 1900 McKinley carried the state by 13,941 plurality. The Democrats will probably gain one congressman.

Tennessee will elect a full state ticket and congressmen. The normal Democratic majority is about 25,000.

Illinois will elect minor state officers, a legislature, which will choose a successor to Senator Mason, and 25 representatives. McKinley carried the state by 94,924 in 1900, while the Republicans elected a governor by 62,000. The Republicans are sure they will have a majority of the members, but the Democrats are by no means hopeless.

Nevada will elect state officers, a legislature to choose a successor to Senator Fair and one representative. In 1898 the Democrats elected their state ticket by 1488 plurality. Both political parties express confidence of winning.

Wyoming will elect a state ticket and one representative. In 1898 the Republicans elected their state ticket by 1394 plurality. The Democrats have waged an active campaign, but few of them are sanguine enough to predict a Democratic victory.

Alabama elects a full state ticket and congressmen. Democrats usually carry the state by about 30,000.

Kentucky will elect a judge of the court of appeals and 11 representatives in congress. The state has been Democratic since 1896.

The Republican managers claim Dovener will be returned to congress from the First district of West Virginia. The Democrats are sure of carrying the congressional elections in Virginia and Arkansas. There are conflicting claims in Utah.

Grand Duke Banished

St. Petersburg, Nov. 4.—The dismissal from the Russian army of the Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch, uncle of the czar, which was officially announced yesterday, was due to his recent marriage to the Baroness Pistolkoff, who got a divorce from her husband in order to marry the grand duke. The grand duke has also been banished from the Russian court for 10 years.

BADGER VS. WRIGHT.

An Interesting Contest Today for County Commissioner.

Next to the Representative contest in interest is the election of Norfolk County Commissioner. The county is two to one Republican, but last year Marshall P. Wright was selected by Democrats and Independent Republicans to rebuke the nomination of Mr. Bowker. This year Mr. Wright has been renominated by Democrats and Independents, while the Republicans have nominated William E. Badger, a worthy and qualified gentleman also from Quincy.

W. L. Chase, the Hancock street baker, is to open a new branch bakery in the Hancock block on Saturday Nov. 8th, and will have a very convenient lunch room in connection. Mr. Chase has had fifteen years experience in the baking business and has in his employ two first class Swedish bakers fully competent to do the very best work. Also Mr. John Lyons who has had twenty-five years experience in this line of business.

INCREASED VOTE.

About 4000 Expected to Cast Ballots Today.

Increase of 600 Over Last Year.

Greatest Interest in the Representative Contest.

It is an ideal election day and the indications at 1 P. M. were that a vote of upwards of 4,000 would be thrown in the city. This would be about 600 more than last November, when 3,360 visited the polls. At the last city election the total vote was 4,095.

The large vote is encouraging for the Republican candidates, as the stay-at-homes are usually in that party. The city will probably give the Republican State ticket nearly 1,000 plurality and Mr. Towle for Congress about 600 against 78 for Dr. Pierce two years ago.

Friends of both candidates for County Commissioner are claiming the city, and their totals promise to be close.

There is danger that all the Republican candidates for the Legislature will be defeated for two reasons. First, because there are two Republican candidates to one Democrat, and second, because bullets are being thrown for Republican candidates, the voters thereby casting but half their strength. It would not be surprising if Councilman Fallon was elected.

Ward One.

The total vote in Ward One at 1 o'clock was 581 against 503 at the same hour last year. The total vote in the ward last year was 671 but this year will come near 800.

Ward One always had a good place to vote, but the remodelling of City Hall has improved it, and it is more comfortable.

The two precincts have vied with each other in getting out the vote; Precinct 2 being ahead at 7, 8, 11 and 12 o'clock and Precinct 1 at 9, 10 and 1 o'clock, as these figures show:

	Pre. 1.	Pre. 2.
7 o'clock,	44	46
8 "	114	125
9 "	174	171
10 "	209	205
11 "	230	235
12 "	248	262
1 "	291	290
2 "	315	313

The election officers are:

Precinct 1,—Messrs. Kittredge, Dunphy, Jenness, Dunn, Goodridge and Welsh. Police,—Officers Hanson and Conway.

Precinct 2,—Messrs. Packard, Cook, Coyle, Goss, Davenport and Murphy. Police,—Officers Goodhue and Milford.

The vote at 2 o'clock in Ward One was: Precinct 1 315; Precinct 2, 330.

Ward Two.

Visits to the two polling places found everything quiet. A comparison of the vote today with that of a year ago show that a larger vote is being polled.

In precinct one 152 votes had been cast at 10.45 o'clock, while last year an hour later but 120 votes had been cast. This shows an increase of over thirty votes.

In precinct two, there is also a gain. Today at eleven o'clock 197 votes had been cast as against 164 at 11.30 last year. It would be a fair estimate to say that the ward was 100 votes ahead of last year at 11.30.

The election officers on duty are:

Precinct 1, Messrs. Moynihan, Weston, R. H. Newcomb, Cleverly, Burrell, Cain. Police—Officers Larkin and Stewart.

Precinct 2, Messrs. E. W. Newcomb, Kelley, Keating, King, Gatcomb. Police—Officers Ferguson and Donovan.

The vote at 1 o'clock in Ward Two was: Precinct 1, 179; Precinct 2, 275.

Ward Three.

The total vote in the South Quincy ward at 10.30 was ahead of that at 11 o'clock last year. This year at 10.30, Precinct one had cast 218 votes against 170 at 11 o'clock last year. This is the Democratic precinct and shows that that they are getting out a large vote.

In precinct two, the Republican precinct, the vote was not as large as last year when visited this morning. At 10.30 but 160 votes had been cast against 170 at 11 o'clock last year. The ward as a whole, however, showed 377 votes at 10.30 against 311 half an hour later last year.

Everything is quiet at both polling places, and there is but little doing. The election officers on duty are:

Precinct 1,—Messrs. Cahill, McCalder, Elcock, Marnock, Kelley and Sullivan. Police, Officers Cahill and Johnson.

Precinct 2,—Messrs. Williams, Boyle, Campbell, Platt, Heaney and Shea. Police, Officers Curtain and Colbert.

The vote at 1 o'clock in Ward Three was: Precinct One, 355; Precinct Two, 300.

Ward Four.

The West Quincy ward will poll a larger vote today than a year ago, mainly for local reasons. It has four of its citizens seeking offices, namely: Messrs Badger and Wright for County Commissioners, Fallon and Sandberg for Representatives.

Friends of all parties are working hard to get out a large vote, and at 10 o'clock the total vote of the ward was 414. Last year at 10.45 o'clock the total vote of the ward was but 268 votes. In precient 1, the Democratic precinct, the vote at 10 o'clock showed a gain of 38 votes. In precinct 2, the Republican precinct, the vote at 10 o'clock showed an increase of 120 votes over last year.

If this counts for anything it is that Badger and Sandberg are polling a large vote. As for Mr. Fallon report has it that he is being cut some in his own ward. This ward is clannish and will give all its own candidates a good vote.

The election officers on duty are:

Precinct 1, — Messrs. Crowley, Loud, Burke, Rierdon, Fuller and Williams. Police, Officers Bradley and Kelliher.

The vote at 1 o'clock in Precinct 2 of Ward Four was 340.

Ward Five

A fair day and intense local interest brought out a big crowd in Ward Five this morning. At 10 o'clock 510 had voted, one more than the total vote cast all day last year. The registration being 789 as against 732 last year, points to a total vote of over 628 for today's election.

The local candidates for Representatives were early at the polls, Mr. DeNormandie remaining throughout the morning to look after his interests. The wiseacres say Mr. DeNormandie will run ahead of Mr. Freeman in Ward Five. Many bullets are being cast as in the recent caucus.

A record vote will be cast today, as the ward workers have the carriages out for the lame, the halt and the blind.

The election officers on duty are: Sherman, Richmond, Olney, Sargent, Twitcher, Denneen. Police—Officers Lyons and Boutin.

The 1 o'clock vote was 580.

Ward Six.

For the first time the Atlantic ward is voting in precincts. Precinct one is located in Music hall and precinct two in the Poland block at Norfolk Downs. Both precincts are polling a very large vote and it would not be surprising if fully ninety per cent. of the registered vote was cast.

The total vote of the ward last year at 1 o'clock was 342. This year at the same hour 435 votes had been cast. As the total registered vote of the ward is but 595, some idea of how the voting is progressing may be had.

In precinct 1 the total registered voters were 319, and at 1 o'clock 230 had voted. In precinct 2, the registered voters numbered 276 and at 1 o'clock 205 had voted.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Mrs. John V. Hunt, who resided at the corner of Bigelow street and Revere road, died Monday morning in her 74th year.

The warm weather is glorious for pedestrians, but fatal to the hopes of scores of smelt fishermen, who are trying to be busy along the Quincy shores.

The Guild of St. Perpetua gave a Hallowe'en party and mystery tea Friday evening in the parish rooms of St. Chrysostom's church. The attendance was large and a goodly sum was realized.

Dr. Barbour gave an interesting talk on "The Situation in China" at the Wollaston Baptist church Sunday evening. The singing was by a large chorus of young people.

The lecture course under the auspices of the Quincy Tennis club will open on Saturday evening in Colonial hall, when Leon H. Vincent will speak of Dr. Johnson and the Literary club.

But two more games are scheduled for the Quincy High football team. The first of these will be today with the Miltons, and the second Saturday with the Mechanic Arts. Both games will be played at Quincy.

The Monday Evening Whist Club, met at the home of Miss Elizabeth Ruxton, 31 Whitwell street, last evening. The first whist prize was won by Miss E. Phillips, and the second by Miss H. Mischler. Other games were played after which refreshments were served. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

The wedding of Miss Grace Peck and Mr. Arthur Rindge Wendell will be solemnized in New York, Saturday, Nov. 8. Miss Peck is a high social favorite, esteemed alike for personal charms and grace of manners. The prospective bridegroom's parents were the late Capt. and Mrs. George B. Wendell of Quincy. He is a graduate of Harvard, class of '96, is well known in Boston and is a cousin of Prof. Barrett Wendell.

WHAT

Will a policy in the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. do?

"It may create wealth; save your estate; pay off the mortgage; protect your children; be the bread winner for your loved ones; support you in your old age; a promoter of thrift; a true friend when adversity comes."

Can you afford to be without this safeguard to you and yours.

WARD TWO'S NEW CANDIDATE.

Eugene R. Stone Prominently Mentioned by Republicans for the City Council.

Councilman Newcomb having withdrawn as a candidate for the City Council, Councilman Adams has been selected to run at large. It is therefore necessary to select at least one new candidate for Councilman from ward. Among the available timber is Eugene R. Stone, a successful young man of good character, who is worthy of the support of the voters.

Mr. Stone was born in Boston in 1871 and educated in that city. In 1890 he accepted a position in the public building department of a New York concern, remaining with them until 1898, having advanced to superintendent of construction.

In 1898 he accepted a position at the head of the public building department of the Magee Furnace Company, where he now is.

He has always been a Republican in politics, and has been a resident of Ward Two for three years.

MOTIONS, ORDERS, ETC.

Upon motion of Councilman Freeman it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be to Tuesday, Nov. 11.

Councilman Nichols offered an order for the Committee on Elections to meet tonight.

Councilman Faxon offered an order instructing the Committee on Poor and the Overseer of the Poor to expend the income of the Johnson fund. Adopted.

CALENDAR.

The order refunding $7 tax to John V. Scott was passed.

The order granting the Electric Light Company locations on South Central avenue, Adams and Safford streets were passed.

CHUBBUCK STREET DRAIN.

The order for $1,500 for abating the nuisance at the corner of Chubbuck and Washington streets took its second reading.

Councilman Bass moved the matter be referred to Committee on Sewers and Drains. He did not know why it should not have gone there.

Councilman Whiton opposed. It was an important matter. It was injurious to public health.

Councilman Bass wanted to know how money was to be expended.

Councilman Freeman. It was not necessary for the Board of Health to come to Council at all. It had authority under the statutes.

In reply to question Commissioner Knowlton explained how it was proposed to abate nuisance. No money could have been saved by doing the work before Chubbuck street was rebuilt.

Mayor Bryant explained the situation at length. The Board of Health could have abated the nuisance and the city would have to pay. It was though best, however, to come to the Council first. This would save the city from suit for damages.

Councilman Piper said he could not support the order as it was not plain how nuisance was to be abated.

The motion to refer to Committee on Sewers and Drains was lost.

A motion was made to suspend the rules but was withdrawn.

Councilman Bass moved to amend by making the amount $1000. Ruled out of order.

Adjourned at 8.40.

Birthday Party.

Margaret Knox, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Shirley of 28 Filbert street, gave a birthday party Monday evening to her many friends. Dainty little invitations with a winter scene on them were sent out a week ago, her friends breaking all other engagements for this event. At 8 o'clock the party assembled and played various games until 9, when a dainty repast was served. Among those present were, Miss McGrath of Quincy, Master Cromwell of Hyde Park, and many of her Woodward friends. During the evening there was a vocal solo by Miss Terese McGrath, cornet and violin solos by Miss Moriarty and Miss Alack of Wollaston. At the close of the party, Miss Margaret was presented with a beautiful watch chain and various other tokens, among which was an eight-pound pumpkin. There were many fashionable costumes and, Miss Margaret wore a dainty point d' esprit over pink.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

Rehearsal.

At the first rehearsal of the Wollaston Choral Union Wednesday eve, Nov. 5, at the Unitarian church, new members will be received and new music will be taken up. Mr. Stevens of Boston who gave such good satisfaction last season has been re-engaged as director and Miss Florence Olney will again serve as accompanist. Anyone over sixteen years of age is eligible to membership, and all who love music are invited to be present at the rehearsal Wednesday evening.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

Merry Makers in Vaudeville Score a Hit,

A Large Crowd Witness a Fine Bill.

To Be Given Every Afternoon at Three and Evenings at Eight.

The opening night at Quincy Music hall in vaudeville was certainly a success. The humorous element is given great consideration, and if you wish to "laugh and grow fat," as the old saying goes, and see a refined high class performance, you must attend some afternoon or evening this week.

Each number was received with great applause, and honors were divided between "the Watermelon Trust," Maritini and Grossi, and Rano's dogs.

The watermelon Trust was a strong and prominent feature in a comedy sketch full of comical sayings, actions, songs and dances. This feature alone is worth the price of admission. The performers were the noted colored comedians, Coates and Grundy assisted by Lulie Coates, Tina Russell and Susie Grundy.

Maritini & Grossi in a comedy musical act played upon every imaginable musical instrument from the several parts of a bicycle to a basket of flowers that were passed over the footlights. They were received with great applause.

Rano's dog circus of Boston terriers was another great feature, and the finals was very exciting. This will be a strong matinee feature.

Annie Whitney, the character change comedienne made a fine impression in her monologue and songs.

Frances Aldworth in description ballads has a fine voice, strong personality and fine stage presence.

Damody, the juggler, ranks with the best and his exhibition last evening was extremely wonderful.

Capt. Eddy is to be congratulated; success will crown his efforts if he continues to give as fine attractions during the season as he has given this week. There will be a performance each night this week and matinees daily with special tickets for ladies.

Quincy People's Union.

There will be a public meeting of "the Quincy People's Union" Tuesday, November 11 at 7.45 P. M. in the hall of Woodward Institute. Wollaston people are cordially invited to attend this meeting of Quincy's new organization. Its object is co-operation for public service—organized effort to make Quincy a more attractive and desirable place in which to live and bring up children.

The program of the meeting will include discussion of some general plan of work; officers will be elected, and there will be an informal address of special interest by D. C. Heath, Esq., president of the Newton Educational Association, well known for his public spirit and ability.

All persons interested in local progress and civic improvement are asked to encourage "the Quincy People's Union" movement by their presence at this meeting, and to bring friends.

Miss Elizabeth Johnson—Secretary (Quincy People's Union Organization Committee.)

KEITH'S THEATRE.

For the week commencing Nov. 3, the famous "myriad" dancer, the agile and graceful Papinta, is to be the special attraction, this being her first appearance in more than a year, during which time she has been resting at her stock ranch in California. Notwithstanding it seems an almost impossible feat, Papinto announces that her dances will be more brilliantly beautiful this time than ever before. The surrounding bill will include Clarice Vance, the favorite Southern singer; Chester Blodgett Johnson, one of the most noted trick riders of the bicycle in the world; Mae Sailor and Barbetti, in a novelty singing sketch; Bertie Fowler, the only really successful female monologue comedienne in the varieties, and Eddie Mack, a wonderful step dancer and vocalist. Charles E. Grapewin and Anna Chance will hold over, playing "Above the Limit," one of their best comedy sketches.

The next communication of Rural lodge will be the annual.

WORTH MILLIONS.

But Could Not Buy Bread, So Goes the Story.

Like the Man at Klondike, who Died of Starvation, with His Hut Full of Gold.

Many Die Yearly, With Means of Salvation at Hand, Were They But Able to Use Them.

Physicians the world over have known of and believed in the virtues of cod liver oil. They have, alas! also realized its drawbacks and the impossibility of administering it where it would do good. Doctors have seen hundreds of people die of consumption and other wasting diseases, whom they knew might have been saved had they only been able to take enough cod liver oil to obtain from it a sufficient amount of the medicinal principles which it contained.

It is not necessary to go to doctors to know why cod liver oil has not been a popular remedy or to realize how few people have been able to to take enough of it to do them any good. The many who have needed and attempted to take this nauseating remedy, if they are still in a position where they need cod liver oil, are the ones who should throw their hats in the air and shout their joy from the housetop at the news which comes to us of Vinol.

These are the people who will never forget the name of this new remedy, nor will they ever cease to thank Mr. Edward J. Murphy, our prominent druggist, who has become famous in the past few days, on account of his connection with the Boston firm who introduced this same remedy.

How simple it all sounds now that we know of it. Here Mr. Murpy has, right in his own store a preparation that looks like and tastes like delicious wine. It is a delicious wine only there has been added to it this extract of the cod's liver, this peculiar special extract of the curative principles, the means of obtaining which is the only discovery about Vinol. We do not believe there is an invalid in this city suffering from throat, lung or bronichal troubles, or in fact any wasting disease, but has already interested himself in this new preparation.

Mr. Murphy is kept busy explaining its merits and telling his many friends how it is now possible to take all that is necessary of cod liver oil, or Vinol, its concentrated, active medicinal principals, to overcome disease. It has not been a difficult matter for him to explain, as he has done, the absolute uselessness of the grease itself and to demonstrate the great values of the medicinal properties of the liver of the cod. It has not been necessary for him to tell sufferers from such troubles that fat does not make fat, but simply upsets and disarranges the stomach.

There are many people right here in our city who know from but a few days' experience how much benefit they are deriving from this preparation, and who have already learned that the medicinal properties of Vinol act in a most wonderful manner in checking the symptoms of disease, while at the same time enabling the stomach to assimilate and digest from palatable, every-day food, the necessary nourishment to renew tissue depleted by disease.

Mr. Murphy is justly pleased at the success that will attend the connection he has made with the prominent Boston firm who are putting up this preparation, and justly deserves all the fame and profit that will attach themselves to his name, on account of his enterprise in introducing Vinol to our city.

LEHIGH VALLEY REGION

Visited by Men Who Will Arbitrate Coal Troubles

COXE AND MARKLE MINES

Are Still Idle and Commissioners Listen to Story of Reasons Therefor—Got Somewhat of a Scare by a Blast While Far Below Earth's Surface

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 4.—The anthracite strike commission spent the entire day in the Lehigh Valley region, visiting one mine and several of the mining villages. While most of the commissioners were looking over the territory, Recorder Wright was kept busy in attending to the correspondence of the commission. Among the matters he disposed of was the sending of a copy of President Mitchell's statement of the miners' case, which was filed with the commission on Sunday night, to all the coal companies involved in the present controversy. Under the agreement made before the commission at Washington the operators will make a reply in three or four days.

The trip of the commission through this region was an interesting one, the conditions of mining being somewhat different from those existing in the Lackawanna and Wyoming valley. The commissioners were met at Poad Creek by Messrs. Duffy and Gallagher of the Miners' union, who represented the mine workers. The operators' interests were taken care of by General Superintendents Warriner of the Lehigh Valley Coal company and Richards of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company.

The commission's first stop of the day was at upper Lehigh, where the commissioners took a drive through the town While in this place the arbitrators visited one of the homes of the miners, the first they have been in since they have been touring the region.

Drifton was the next place visited, and there a crowd gathered about the commission as Superintendent Smith of the Coxe Bros.' company, whose mines are located there, explained the trouble between the company and its men. All the miners employed at these mines are still on strike because the company insists upon the men returning to work as individuals and not in a body. At Jeddo, John Markle, the independent operator, joined the party and escorted the commissioners to the mining village of Oakdale. Mr. Markle showed them the club house which he maintains there for the benefit of the men.

On the run into Hazleton, where the breaker of No. 40 shaft was inspected, Messrs. Markle, Duffy and Gallagher had a spirited discussion over the differences existing at the Markle mines. None of the men at the Markle colliery have returned to work for the same reasons as those which are keeping the men out of the Coxe mines. Mr. Markle told them he was running the Markle company and would maintain discipline.

Luncheon was served at the Central Hotel here and the entire afternoon was spent in the Audenried mine. The commissioners were lowered into the workings 300 feet below through an 1100-foot slope. One of the new "physical features" they saw was a vein of coal with a very steep pitch which was difficult to mine. While they were inspecting this a blast was fired in a nearby chamber and the lights carried by those who remained in the gangways below were extinguished by the rush of air. Some of the party were timid for a moment, wondering what had happened, but they were quickly assured that there was no danger.

After they came to the surface the arbitrators visited a "stripping," which is a place where the coal lies so near the surface that the earth can be taken off with a steam shovel, exposing the coal and thus making its mining an easy matter.

The commissioners spent last night at the Central Hotel and left for Shamokin at 7:45 this morning. The day will be spent in that vicinity and Wednesday will find the commissioners in the Panther Creek valley. On Thursday the arbitrators will visit the region around Pottsville and that night the commission will adjourn until Nov. 14.

Chinese Not to Be Trusted

London, Nov. 4.—Giving an instance of the Chinese way of fulfilling treaty obligations, the Pekin correspondent of The Times notes the issuance of an imperial rescript elevating fourth grade officials to the rank of first grade mandarins for their patriotism in smuggling into Kwang Si 1000 Mauser rifles and 300,000 cartridges, which were placed at the service of the governor for the suppression of rebels. This was done, although an imperial decree forbade the importation of arms.

New Molineux Witness

New York, Nov. 4.—Counsel for Molineux yesterday fully confirmed the current report that they will call as a witness a woman 60 years old, the wife of a policeman of this city and the mother of another, who will swear she saw another man mail the poison package in the general postoffice here on Dec. 23, 1898. She will also identify the man that she saw post the package.

Summary Vengeance

Salem, Ala., Nov. 4.—Sam Harris, a negro, entered the home of George Meadows yesterday and struck his wife and 18-year-old daughter on the head with an axe, crushing Mrs. Meadows' skull and fracturing that of the daughter. Mrs. Meadows will die. The negro was taken in charge by 125 men and his body riddled with bullets.

The Grampus Did Well

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—The Holland submarine boat Grampus had her first surface trial trip yesterday and so far as the test went proved a success. She made nine knots, a knot more than the speed contract calls for and so far as steering gear and diving machinery are concerned gave every satisfaction.

Two Less Outlaws

Guthrie, O. T., Nov. 4.—Bert Casey, an outlaw, and Jim Sims, one of his lieutenants, trapped by two deputy sheriffs in a rendezvous near Glen Springs yesterday, were shot and killed. They put up a strong fight, firing several volleys, but neither of the deputies was hit.

Twenty Dishonorable Discharges

Newport News, Va., Nov. 4.—The United States training ship Monongahela, which has been at Fort Monroe several days, sailed for New York last evening. Before sailing the commanding officer issued an order giving 20 of the men dishonorable discharge for disgraceful conduct.

Editor Held Up With Own Pistol

Clinton, Ia., Nov. 4.—Last night a burglar entered the residence of C. A. Fay, editor of The Advertiser, and with a pistol which he took from under the editor's head compelled Fay and his wife to give him money and diamonds valued at $1300. The robber escaped.

Yates Is Critically Sick

Springfield, Ills., Nov. 4.—Governor Yates yesterday passed the most critical day since he has been sick. His fever reached the maximum point of 103 4-5 degrees, while his pulse was 98. The governor was irrational during part of the day.

PALMA'S MESSAGE

Cuban President Takes Optimistic View of the Republic's Future

Havana, Nov. 4.—The Cuban congress reconvened yesterday. President Palma, in his message to congress, refers to the remarkably good order that has been preserved throughout the island, which he says, is proof of the peaceful nature of the Cuban people. The president says also that the sanitary condition of Cuba is today even better than it was during the period of American intervention.

"Our relations with the United States," continues the message, "are especially cordial; proof of this is found in the negotiations between Cuba and the United States for a commercial treaty on a basis of mutual tariff concessions. The special object of this treaty is to obtain positive advantage for our products, particularly sugar, which is the principal basis of Cuban wealth. It can be hoped, from the sympathy with which the American people regard us, and from the manifest interest which President Roosevelt entertains in the prosperity of Cuba, that a reasonable arrangement, by means of this treaty, can be arrived at.

"The state of the treasury is extremely encouraging. The balance on hand is $1,561,942. This condition gives reason to hope that there will be sufficient funds to give important encouragement to agricultural pursuits in all the provinces of the island."

President Palma's only reference to the Platt amendment was contained in a statement to the effect that he had made ample appropriation to carry on sanitation as provided for in the amendment.

Decision Reserved In Croker Trial

New York, Nov. 4.—The trial of Chief Edward F. Croker of the fire department on various charges was ended yesterday. A motion to dismiss the charges was denied by the fire commissioner and he announced that he would reserve his decision.

BATES WINS BY 37,479

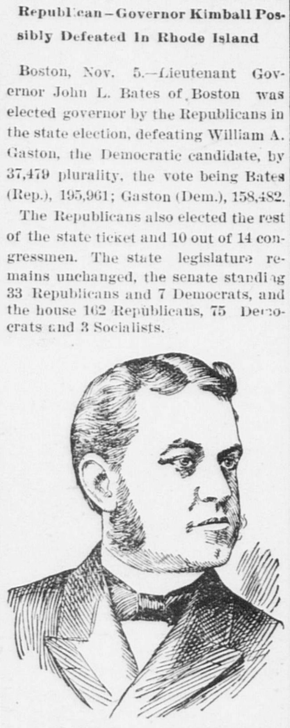

Legislature Remains Republican In Massachusetts

VOTE IN GRANITE STATE

Results In Election of Batchelder For Governor—Connecticut Safely Republican—Governor Kimball Possibly Defeated In Rhode Island

Boston, Nov. 5.—Lieutenant Governor John L. Bates of Boston was elected governor by the Republicans in the state election, defeating William A. Gaston, the Democratic candidate, by 37,479 plurality, the vote being Bates (Rep.), 195,961; Gaston (Dem.), 158,482.

The Republicans also elected the rest of the state ticket and 10 out of 14 congressmen. The state legislature remains unchanged, the senate standing 33 Republicans and 7 Democrats, and the house 162 Republicans, 75 Democrats and 3 Socialists.

GOVERNOR-ELECT BATES.

The results exceeded the expectations of the Republicans and was correspondingly disappointing to the Democrats, who had waged a spirited campaign and hoped to reduce the Republican plurality to less than 20,000 and even perhaps win by a small margin. The superb weather, however, brought out a tremendous vote, especially in the country towns, and the total was well up to the big vote of 1900.

The congressmen elected are Lawrence, Gillett, Thayer, Tirrell, Ames, Gardner, Roberts, McCall, Keliher, McNary, Sullivan, Poers, Greene, and Lovering. The Democrats are Thayer, Keliher, McNary and Sullivan.

The surprises of the election outside the big vote was the defeat of Eugene N. Foss by Sullivan in the Eleventh district. Foss ran in the new district, which includes a number of strong Republican wards in Boston, and after defeating Adams in the caucuses seemed almost sure of an election. His campaign against Adams, in which he advocated changes in the tariff, much against the wishes of some of the party leaders, apparently did him little good at the polls, as he was badly cut in all the wards.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR-ELECT GUILD.

The strength of the Socialistic movements was also a feature, and that party gained one representative in the house, besides polling a good vote for the candidate for governor.

Three Democrats will represent in the next national house of representatives the districts which are made up almost entirely by the various wards of the city of Boston. In the Ninth congressional district John A. Keliher was elected over Congressman Conry. Both candidates are Democrats and both ran as independents. In the Tenth district W. S. McNary (Dem.) is elected over the Republican candidate, W. W. Towle, McNary's plurality reaching at least 5000.

In the Eleventh district Republican expectations were shattered by the victory of J. A. Sullivan (Dem.) over Eugene N. Foss (Rep). Sullivan is conceded to have a plurality of 1500 over his opponent, with three Democratic precincts to hear from.

The contests in the Ninth and Eleventh districts were among the most remarkable ever waged in Massachusetts. In the former district the voters had before them the unprecedented situation of having no regular Democratic nominee, and this in a district thoroughly Democratic in its make-up.

The reason for this omission was that the Democratic convention failed to nominate, the three candidates Keliher, Conry and Dennison, having an equal number of delegates who stood steadfast to the end.

Later all three men took out nomination papers, but Dennison withdrew in the interest of the party, it was believed, since a contest with three Democrats would insure the election of Charles T. Witt, the Republican nominee. The contest between the two Democrats was carried on with intense effort on either side.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Concord, N. H., Nov. 5.—The number of split tickets will make the returns from this state very large. The indications are that the total vote will be about 80,000, an unusually large number for an off year election. The figures thus far at hand show that both the Republicans and the Democrats have suffered in the shrinkage of the vote from the figures of two years ago, the Republicans suffering the more. The shrinkage in their vote is nearly 23 percent, while the Democrats lose 2 percent. On this basis, computing on the vote already returned, Bachelder (Rep.) will be elected governor by a plurality rising 10,000. The heaviest Republican slump occurred in Manchester, where Governor Jordan's plurality of 2000 two years ago has been transformed into a Democratic plurality of 1000.

The legislature is Republican in both branches by large majorities, ensuring a Republican successor to Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, who will probably succeed himself.

RHODE ISLAND

Providence, Nov. 5.—The Republicans have undoubtedly secured full control of the senate, a majority decreased somewhat from last year in the house and, with the possible exception of the chief executive, they have elected their state ticket. If the Democrats continue to gain in the same ratio as has held true thus far the election of L. E. Garvin over Governor Kimball, the Republican candidate, seems likely. The election of Congressman Capron is assured, but his majority will be slightly decreased from that of two years ago.

In the First district the congressional contest is very close between Melville Bull (Rep.) and D. L. D. Granger (Dem). Because of the complexity of the ballot, the returns are delayed. A considerable number of towns where Bull is expected to poll a strong vote have not been heard from.

CONNECTICUT

New Haven, Nov. 5.—Connecticut elected the full Republican ticket for state officers and all the five Republican candidates for congress. Returns thus far indicate that the plurality for Chamberlain (Rep.) for governor will be at least 15,000, an increase of 1000 over the plurality of two years ago.

The Republican candidate for congressman at large, G. L. Lilley, is elected by approximately the same plurality, while the four congressional districts are also Republican by safe figures. The state legislature will be Republican, thus ensuring the return of O. H. Platt to the United States senate.

Accounts Short $5400

Washington, Nov. 5.—John L. O'Brien, for seven years confidential clerk in the employ of Frank Hume, a local wholesale grocer, is accused of being a defaulter in the sum of $5400. O'Brien was married on Oct. 27 last and left the city, ostensibly for New York, to spend his honeymoon. He is supposed to have gone to London.

EXPLOSION OF FIREWORKS

Results In the Killing of Eleven Persons and the Injury of Fifty

New York, Nov. 5.—By a series of explosions of pyrotechnic bombs and other fireworks among the vast multitude gathered in Madison Square to witness the ascension of an airship and the display of the election returns last night, 11 persons were killed outright. Many were blown almost to pieces and at least 50 were injured, many of them fatally. It is estimated that at least 30,000 persons thronged the square at the time of the explosions, and in the frightful panic which followed the catastrophe hundreds were thrown down and trampled under foot.

Five hundred policemen and all the ambulances in the city were summoned and the dying and seriously injured were removed to various hospitals. In addition to these many of the wounded were taken away by friends.

Nine men in charge of the fireworks display were placed under arrest immediately after the explosion.

Vessel and Four Seamen Lost

Boston, Nov. 5.—Fruit steamer Admiral Sampson was in collision with and sank the three-masted schooner Charley Bucki, at a point about 10 miles off the Cape Cod lightship, yesterday morning. The weather was foggy, although the sea was smooth. The smaller vessel was so cut that she sank within two or three minutes of the disaster. The captain of the schooner, his son, who was first mate, and two seamen went down with the divided parts of the vessel and only two men out of the six making up the schooner's small crew were saved.

Good Afternoon.

Only Republicans should vote at the caucuses this evening. Then the candidates and the party should abide by the result.

Congratulations to County Commissioner Wright, Senator-elect Brackett, and Representative-elect Fallon and Freeman.

A motion to amend an order before the City Council is in order at any stage. By what authority does President Alden rule such a motion out of order.

Rumors that Elisha Packard will run independent if he fails to receive the Republican nomination, are emphatically denied by Mr. Packard. Will Mr. Bryant agree not to run independent if defeated?

There is great need of a building ordinance in a growing city like Quincy and a general looking after new buildings that are being erected, to see that they are set well back on the sidewalk instead of narrowing up the thoroughfare. Nothing adds more to the looks and comfort of a place than broad streets and broad sidewalks. We think the Quincy Real Estate trust is making a mistake in putting the building which they are erecting, on the site of the old car barn, so near the road. Doubtless the company owns the land but how much better for them to give a few feet to the city and have a broad sidewalk. It would add 50 per cent to the looks of the building and surrounding property.

VOTE TONIGHT

FOR

ELISHA PACKARD

FOR MAYOR.

A Change is Needed.

QUINCY REPUBLICAN.

But Plurality is Reduced Nearly One-Half For Governor.

The City Gives Marshall P. Wright a Plurality and He is Reelected County Commissioner.

Peter T. Fallon the Leading Candidate for Representative to General Court—Richard R. Freeman Also Elected.

Democratic gains were general yesterday, and the Republicans of Quincy lost one Representative to the Legislature, and suffered reductions in pluralities for all candidates. The city, however, remains strongly Republican, giving Bates for Governor over 500 plurality, and all Republican candidates, except Badger for County Commissioner and Sandberg for Representative, handsome pluralities.

The fact that Mr. Badger was one of Mayor Bryant's department officials, and had his backing, is responsible for Mr. Badger's defeat, as the anti-Bryant men were active.

The defeat of Mr. Sandberg is also laid at the door of Ward Five and Six, especially Mayor Bryant's ward. This is a strong Republican ward and gave Gov. Bates 423 votes, Senator Brackett 421, and Candidate Towle for Congress, 402, but when it came to Representatives, Mr. Freeman, one of the regular Republican candidates, received 380 votes, and Mr. Sandberg, the other regular Republican candidate, but 177, less than half as many. This was discrimination with a vengance, and Ward Four will probably retaliate at the Mayoralty caucuses tonight.

Not a ward elected its favorites for Representatives. The Ward One choice was McKnight and Sandberg in the order named.

Ward Two preferred Fallon and McKnight.

Ward Three's favorites, and also Ward Four, were Fallon and Turner.

Ward Five wanted Freeman and De Normandie.

Ward Six gave pluralities to Freeman and Turner.

The Returns.

The returns from the several voting precincts throughout the city were received in good season at City Hall and at 9 o'clock all of the official returns had been announced. Long before that time, however, unofficial returns had settled beyond all question who the next Representative would be. The result was as expected. The many Republican candidates had divided their strength and contributed to the election of a democrat.

The arrangements for receiving the returns at City Hall were admirable. Heretofore, the men seeking returns had crowded several deep about the City Clerk's desk, and by their loud talk and pushing were more or less a bother to the clerk and City Council Committee on elections.

This year the official returns were received in the City Clerk's room, from which the crowd were excluded, and the result telephoned to the City Messenger in the Committee room off the Council chamber, who promptly bulletined them. The usual City Hall election crowd was gathered here and got their returns promptly.

The first official returns to come in were those from precinct one of Ward One, which arrived at 5.15. At 6 o'clock precinct two of Ward Three, arrived, and seven minutes later precinct two of Ward One. The other precincts came along pretty promptly up to 8 o'clock, when everything had been received except Ward Five which is the only ward not divided into precincts.

Just as the curfew sounded an officer appeared from this ward and everything was in. There were some errors in the early returns, especially in precinct one of Ward Three, and the election officers will have to correct them today.

The hours at which the different returns were officially received follow:

WRIGHT ELECTED.

He Carries Quincy by 204 and Norfolk County by 242.

The towns of Norfolk county were very equally divided between the two leading candidates, Marshall P. Wright of Quincy carrying 13 and William E. Badger of Quincy 15. Although Mr. Badger, the Republican, was ahead in more towns, he was defeated by just 242 plurality in the county. Mr. Wright polled nearly the same vote as in his memorable campaign against Mr. Bowker falling off 1,090 votes. Mr. Badger was a victim of circumstances and was unable to poll his full party strength, but he made a grand rally receiving 3,927 more votes than Mr. Bowker last year.

Mr. Wright carried Quincy by 204 plurality. Had Mr. Badger carried it by 20 he would have been the next County Commissioner.

Mr. Wright has now been reelected for a full term of three years, a worthy tribute to faithful official, and the Ledger extends hearty congratulations.

The full vote below is compared with the vote in 1901:

NORFOLK ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of late of Stoughton, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate by Albert Dickerman of Boston, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the nineteenth day of November, A. D. 1902, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week for three successive weeks in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fourth day of November, in the year one thousand nine hundred and two.

RATHER SERIOUS.

Capt. Benj. King Claims Bryant Man Assaulted Him.

Capt. Benjamin King, the popular veteran of Wollaston, was the victim of a dastardly assault near the Ward Five polling place. He was talking with M. R. Sparrow when he was struck in the head by a stone.

The wound was dressed at the office of Dr. Johnson and required a few stitches. But for a stiff hat the wound would have been more serious perhaps fatal.

Capt. King is active against Mayor Bryant in the compaign, and he is positive it was a Bryant man who assaulted him. Has Quincy come to that?

Mothers and Babies.

That it was babies' day at Bethany church could not be doubted by those who attended the reception given Tuesday afternoon, to mothers and young children. Not less than one hundred mothers and little ones gathered at the chapel.

While the children were entertained with games, the mothers listened to Mrs. W. H. Allbright of Roxbury, who read a thoroughly interesting paper on "Good Reading for Young Children," which was rich in thought and charming in tone. She said that our chief care must be selection and repression from the great volume of reading matter of our day. Mothers need not so much instruction as an awakening of interest and enthusiasm to lead their children up to the higher literature.

Mrs. J. D. Buckingham gave two delightful solos, after which came the social hour.

Not the least enjoyable to all was the children's part of the program, given by some of their number.

The opening recitation by Roberta Smith was so pleasing that another was called for later in the afternoon.

Ruth Packard, always a favorite, sang "The Alabama Coon" in costume, accompanied by her sister Minnie, and Mabel Wentworth was truly a little mother, as she sang her baby to sleep with a sweet lullaby.

A most original feature was a Negro dialect recitation in concert by Blanche and Beatrice Morrison, which was perfectly done.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles E. Ford, Miss Lillian Taber, Mrs. J. Percival Sears, Mrs. J. F. Welch and Mrs. Frank F. Prescott.

Altogether it was an unusual success, and much credit is due the President Mrs. E. W. Sheppard, who had entire charge of the affair.

That the Mothers' Meeting is an established feature of Bethany church is well known, nor is it the least important, for is it not with the babies that we lay the foundations of character. May the interest in and the love of child study continue to increase, and we may some day see the results in good citizenship.

Julia Williams Beale,
Secretary Mother's Meeting.

Pept-iron Puts Iron Into the Blood

Gives the blood what is necessary for its perfect oxidation—the process by which it gets its deep red color seen in the lips, cheeks and ears.

Peptiron combines iron with the best nerve and stomach tonics, and meets all the requirements of the anemic, pale, nervous and dyspeptic.

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

Another Estate Upon The Market.

Negotiations have recently been completed for the purchase and improvement, by a syndicate of well known Quincy gentlemen, of about fourteen acres of land a part of the homestead tract of the late Chief Justice George T. Bigelow, bounding on the South, Sumner and South Walnut Streets. This fine old estate has been held in one family for over one hundred years, and its purchase by the syndicate referred to, put, upon the market almost the last of the large, gentlemen's estates once so numerous in our city. Plans are now being prepared and streets laid out and built over the property. The location is ideal, being easily accessible from both the Quincy station and the Quincy Avenue and Quincy Point line of electric cars, and only a short distance from the Fore, River Ship and Engine Works. It is without doubt the finest property ever put upon the market in Quincy, being high and dry, with accepted streets on three sides and bearing some of the finest old elms in the County. This property should have a ready sale among the people looking for a beautiful home site or those who seek a good nvestment.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

Popular With Classmates.

The funeral of Merton L. Alden was held Tuesday at 1 o'clock from his home on Adams street. The services were very largely attended, many young people being present, among whom were a number of his class at the Quincy High school, which was graduated last June.

The services were conducted by Rev. Ellery C. Butler of the First church. During the services a quartette from Bethany church sang several selections. There were many beautiful flowers.

After the services the remains were taken to Brockton for burial in the family lot. A delegation from his class acted as bearers from the house to the corner of School and Franklin streets.

☞ Now is the time to use printer's ink on the elm and apple trees, for the heavy frosts.

ODELL DEFEATS COLER

Though Latter Had Big Plurality In Greater New York

OVER 1,000,000 VOTES CAST

In Pennsylvania, Where Republicans Carry the State by Large Majorities—Iowa Elects a Republican to Succeed Henderson—Returns From Many States Are Not Yet Complete

New York, Nov. 5.—In spite of a phenomenally large vote in New York and Kings county for Bird S. Coler, Democrat, the returns indicate the re-election of Benjamin B. Odell, Republican, to the governorship of New York state by from 6000 to 12,000. Coler's plurality in greater New York exceeded 115,000, a surplus of 3000 above the claim made by Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, but even that large vote was not sufficient to overcome the Republican majorities from up the state. Odell's vote in the country districts was lighter than two years ago, but Coler's was also lower than Stanchfield's in the same year. In New York city Coler's plurality was approximately 117,500.

Oyster Bay, where President Roosevelt's country home is situated and where he voted yesterday, was carried by Coler, his plurality being 131. Two years ago Odell's plurality was 512.

Figures from the congressional districts in New York city and the Long Island counties apparently showed a loss of four Republican members of the national house, the heavy Coler vote having carried, according to the first returns, the first 19 districts in the state for the Democratic candidates.

The election followed a campaign which, in spite of strong efforts by the political leaders on both sides, was remarkable for the lack of interest taken by the public. Almost the only points at issue to excite comment or discussion were the coal plank in the Democratic platform and Senator Hill's charge that Governor Odell was a partner in the grocery firm of Matthews & Co. of Newburg, and that the firm had profited by the governor's connection with it, his influence, according to the Democratic leader's statements, having secured an enlargement of Matthews & Co.'s business with state institutions. The governor replied to these allegations that the money placed by him with Matthews & Co. was a loan and that he did not share further than that of the profits.

As is usually the case in New York, the state was divided into two parts for purposes of comparison—the greater New York and the state outside of the city. In the former a Democratic and in the latter a Republican plurality were certainties and the question was whether Coler's vote in the city would be large enough to overcome the Odell pluralities in the up-state counties. New York and Kings counties did all that had been expected of them by the Democrats and even more, for the former gave Coler approximately 87,000 more than Odell, and Kings, Mr. Coler's home county, went Democratic by 26,500. Queens and Richmond were counted to raise the total to 120,000.

PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—For the first time in the history of the state more than 1,000,000 votes were cast in an election. Samuel W. Pennypacker (Rep.) was elected governor by an estimated plurality of 175,000 and the Republican ticket was generally successful in the various counties. The Democrats elected two and possibly three of the 32 congressmen. The legislature will be more strongly Republican than ever before with the exception of the 1897 session and it is certain that Boies Penrose will succeed himself in the United States senate.

MICHIGAN

Detroit, Nov. 5.—The Republicans of Michigan have elected Governor Bliss and their entire state ticket, 11 of the 12 congressmen, and an overwhelming majority of the members of the legislature. The vote was light throughout the state and the Republican majority is estimated at between 30,000 and 40,000. The Republican majority in both branches of the legislature assures the election of General R. A. Alger to fill the unexpired term of the late United States Senator James McMillan.

IOWA

Des Moines, Nov. 5.—On the basis of precinct returns thus far the Republicans have elected their state ticket by about 75,000 plurality. The reports from the congressional districts are meagre. Enough has been received from the Third to indicate that Judge Birdsall, nominated by the Republicans to succeed Speaker Henderson, ran substantially with his ticket and will be elected by 4000 to 5000 votes over former Governor Boies. At Republican headquarters it is asserted that the Republican plurality in the state, as a whole, is sufficient to carry all the congressional candidates.

CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Nov. 5.—Scattering returns indicate that the governorship is very doubtful. Lane (Dem.) is running ahead of his ticket. He will carry the city of San Francisco by 10,000 plurality and is developing strength throughout the state. The legislature probably will be Republican. The vote on congressman in the Fourth and Fifth districts is close. In the Second district the returns indicate the probable defeat of Coombs (Rep).

DELAWARE

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 5.—The complete election of the next Delaware general assembly is in doubt. It is apparent that a deadlock on the two United States senatorial vacancies will be the result, as was the case two years ago. The regular Republican state committee claims that the body will be composed of 19 Union Republicans, 8 regular Republicans, 22 Democrats and 3 doubtful. Democratic State Chairman Saulsbury says that his returns show that 24 Democratic members have been elected. The majority on joint ballot and the number necessary to elect United States senators is 27.

NEW JERSEY

Trenton, Nov. 5.—The Democrats made gains, but failed to gain control of this state. The count is slow, owing to the length of the ballots, which in many districts contained 50 or more names. In the congressional contests the Republicans elected seven of their candidates, as against six which they had under the old appointments. The Democrats elected three as against two under the old allotment. The Republicans again control the senate and house by a reduced majority.

OHIO

Columbus, O., Nov. 5.—The Republicans carried Ohio by next to their highest plurality on record. Nothing above 70,000 had been predicted, but partial returns indicate that it will greatly exceed that figure. At the same time the Republicans on returns thus far made no gain in Ohio congressmen and are likely to lose one.

INDIANA

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—Republicans are estimated to have from 25,000 to 40,000 plurality in this state. The delegation to congress remains unchanged. The legislature will be Republication on joint ballot, assuring Senator Fairbanks' re-election.

ILLINOIS

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Meagre returns prevent anything like an accurate statement of the result of the election in Illinois, although there is every indication that the Republican ticket has been elected by a good majority. The next legislature will be Republican without a doubt, and the successor to United States Senator Mason is certain to be Republican.

MARYLAND

Baltimore, Nov. 5.—The election in this state was only for congressmen, the Republicans electing four of the six members.

MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Nov. 5.—Chairman Jamison of the Republican state committee says: "Returns so far received indicate that Van Sant will have a plurality of 30,000 for governor. Substantial gains have been made all along the line." Chairman Buck of the Democratic state committee said: "Returns are very meagre, but so far as received are not flattering, as to Rosing's success."

COLORADO

Denver, Nov. 5.—The returns from the state are so meagre that it is impossible to give a reliable estimate of the result in Colorado. It is generally conceded that the Republicans have made heavy gains throughout the state.

WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Nov. 5.—Returns indicate Governor LaFollette re-elected by a plurality of at least 55,000. Congressional returns are very meagre, but the indications point to the election of 10 Republicans and one Democrat. The legislature will probably be Republican.

MONTANA

Butte, Mont., Nov. 5.—The latest reports received give the state to the Republicans almost beyond a doubt, although defeat has not yet been conceded by the Democrats.

WASHINGTON

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—Indications are that the state will go Republican by about 2000 majority, with the election of three congressmen and the control of the legislature.

WYOMING

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 5.—Meagre returns from the state indicate that the entire Republican ticket is elected. Mondell (Rep.) for congress will have 4000 majority.

NORTH DADOTA

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 5.—Indications received from the state at Republican headquarters are that the state ticket will have a plurality of about 15,000.

IDAHO

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 5.—Scattered returns show Morrison (Rep.) for governor, running ahead of Hurt (Dem). Definite figures will be very late.

UTAH

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 5.—Polls in this state did not close until 8 o'clock and returns will be very late.

KANSAS

Topeka, Nov. 5.—Kansas has gone Republican by at least 40,000 majority. The entire state ticket and all the congressmen are elected by the Republicans. The Republicans will have 100 members in the legislature. It was the most complete Republican victory since the days before Populism.

NEBRASKA

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—Returns in Nebraska show the vote to be exceedingly close on governor, with the remainder of the Republican state ticket probably elected. The first 60 precincts reported give Mickey (Rep.), for governor, 6541; Thompson (fusion), 5857. The Republicans have cast practically the same vote as a year ago, and the fusionists have made small but steady gains. Mickey is running behind his ticket.

NEVADA

Reno, Nev., Nov. 5.—Meagre returns point to a fusion victory in the state.

ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 5.—Alabama Democrats elected a solid Democratic delegation to congress, and re-elected Governor Jelks by a majority of about 23,000. The negro voters almost entirely remained away from the polls, the Republican state convention having proclaimed a "Lily White" party.

VIRGINIA

Richmond, Nov. 5.—Returns are coming in slowly but the state certainly will return a full Democratic congressional delegation. The latest returns from the Ninth district, where there was the only serious contest in the state, assures the election of Rhea (Dem).

TEXAS

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 5.—The Democrats swept the state, electing Lanham governor by a heavy majority. The Democrats elected congressmen from all 16 districts. The constitutional amendment requiring voters to pay a poll tax was carried by a good majority.

WEST VIRGINIA

Wheeling, Nov. 5.—Returns indicate the re-election of B. B. Dovener (Rep.) for congress in the First district by reduced majority. In the Second district John T. McGraw claims his election over A. G. Dayton (Rep.), but the Republicans do not concede it.

TENNESSEE

Nashville, Nov. 5.—Forty-two counties heard from give James B. Frazier (Dem), for governor, a majority of 37,830 votes. The legislature will be largely Democratic in both branches.

NORTH CAROLINA

Raleigh, Nov. 5.—Returns thus far give a Democratic majority of over 30,000. These are from the eastern and middle counties and the same ratio will give the Democratic state ticket a majority in the state of approximately 65,000.

MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 5.—The vote in Mississippi was very light, the tabulations so far made indicating a total of less than 40,000. All the Democratic candidates for congress were elected without opposition.

ARKANSAS

Little Rock, Nov. 5.—Less than 60 percent of the normal vote was polled in the election for congressmen in Arkansas. All the seven Democratic nominees were elected.

GEORGIA

Atlanta, Nov. 5.—Georgia elected a solid delegation of 11 congressmen. Except in the Eleventh district, the Democrats had no opposition. The election was for congressmen only.

LOUISIANA

New Orleans, Nov. 5.—All the Democratic nominees for congress in Louisiana are elected.

Senate Republican Majority Reduced

Washington, Nov. 5.—The next United States senate will be Republican by at least 16 majority against the present majority of 20. The present senate contains 54 Republicans and 34 Democrats, in a total of 90 seats, there being two vacancies from Delaware, where the Republican legislature failed to elect.

Small Republican Majority

Washington, Nov. 5.—Although the returns from the doubtful congressional districts were slow in arriving, the indications are that the Republicans will control the next house of representatives by a narrow margin. In the present house, with a membership of 357, the Republicans have 41 majority.

Greater New York's Vote

New York, Nov. 5.—Greater New York, which last year elected a fusionist to the mayorality, returned to the Democracy yesterday and rolled up one of its old-time majorities for that party. Locally, the candidates voted for were three justices of the supreme court, 19 members of the national house of representatives, 21 state senators and 62 state assemblymen. Coler's plurality for governor in the city was well above 100,000.

Casey Pleases Colombia

Panama, Nov. 5.—There is at present much satisfaction in government circles owing to the fact that Rear Admiral Casey has notified the Panama Railroad company that he will allow the transportation of government troops across the isthmus on special cars. Large numbers of Colombian troops are at present encamped along the railroad line.

Cured of Asthma

After Years of Terrible Suffering.

Mary Josephine Bezy, Floyd Knob, Ind., writes: "After suffering untold agonies for 32 years from Asthma, I was cured by Schiffmann's Asthma Cure. I used to be so bad that I could not move without help, but I can now do all my own work." Another writes: "My little boy 7 years old has been a sufferer for several years, sometimes so bad off that we could not hold him in bed, expecting any moment for him to breathe his last. Doctors did him no good and we had almost given up in despair, when through accident we heard of Schiffmann's Asthma Cure, tried it and it almost instantly relieved him," Mrs. D. C. Harris, Elbow P. SUPERIOR COURT. NORFOLK ss.

To the Honorable, the Justices of the Superior Court next to be holden at Dedham, within and for the County of Norfolk:

RESPECTFULLY libels and represents Maria Harvey, of Quincy, in said County, that she was lawfully married to James H. Harvey, late of Brockton, in the County of Plymouth, but now of parts unknown to your libellant, at Brockton, on the eighth day of January A. D. 1899, and thereafterwards your libellant and the said James H. Harvey lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth to wit: at said Quincy; that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said James H. Harvey being wholly regardless of the same at said Quincy, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1900, without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant which desertion has continued from said eighth day of April to the date hereof being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel. That the said James H. Harvey being of sufficient ability so to do grossly, wantonly and cruelly refuses and neglects to provide suitable maintenance and support for your libellant.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said James H. Harvey.

Dated the eighteenth day of July A. D. 1902.

MARIA HARVEY.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

SUPERIOR COURT. NORFOLK, ss.

ON the foregoing libel, it is ordered that the libellant give notice to the said JAMES H. HARVEY, the Libellee, to appear before the Justices of this Court, to be holden at Dedham, within and for said County, on the first MONDAY of December next, by causing an attested copy of said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published once in a week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper printed at Quincy in the County of Norfolk, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of December next, and further, by sending through the mail, as soon as may be, by a registered letter addressed to the last known residence of the said James H. Harvey an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon, that the said James H. Harvey may then and there show cause why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

By the Court,

LOUIS A. COOK, Clerk.

TWENTY-FIVE MAJORITY

For the Republicans In the Next National House

RHODE ISLAND'S TURNOVER

Democrats Elect Governor and Lieutenant Governor, but Republicans Have Majority on Joint Ballot In General Assembly

Washington, Nov. 6.—The latest returns received show that the Republicans (including in this description the fusionists elected from the Pittsburg-Allegheny districts in Pennsylvania) will control the next house by a vote of 204 Republicans to 179 Democrats, with one district, the Eighth Tennessee, and two California districts remaining so much in doubt that the official returns will be needed to decide the result. The totals given are believed to be correct, although there are a few districts, such as two in Colorado and one in Minnesota, where the Republican and Democratic party managers respectively do not concede defeat, but the general result could not be affected even should their claims prove well founded.

Figures From Rhode Island

Providence, Nov. 6.—The Democrats of Rhode Island succeeded in their attack on the Republican stronghold and, as demonstrated by the complete returns, elected their candidate for governor and lieutenant governor, their congressional candidate in the First district and cut down the Republican lead in the house by securing 36 members as against a like number for the Republicans. The senate, however, remains overwhelmingly Republican, with a representation of 27 in 37 members. The Republican majority in the general assembly on joint ballot gives the latter party the control of the appointive state and county offices. The total vote for governor was Garvin (Dem.), 29,825; C. D. Kimball (Rep), 23,467, a plurality of 6358.

Socialists Made Big Gains

Boston, Nov. 6.—Complete returns from all the 353 cities and towns in Massachusetts show that John C. Chase, Socialist candidate for governor, received in the election of Tuesday a total of 32,935, as compared with a total vote of 10,671 votes for the party's candidate for governor last year. This shows an increase of about 210 percent. The gains are found all over the state, but seem especially prolific in manufacturing centres.

In the Granite State

Concord, N. H., Nov. 6.—Returns have not come in so slowly after a state election in New Hampshire for many years. Of the 290 cities and towns in the state 200 towns and seven city wards give Bachelder (Rep.), for governor, 31,169; Hollis (Dem.), 24,717, scattering 1538. The Republican vote was slightly decreased and the Democratic vote increased.

Platt Will Be Returned

New York, Nov. 6.—Official figures on the vote for governor vary but little from the unofficial reports. According to returns made to the executive at Albany the plurality for Odell is 12,887. The state legislature is controlled by the Republicans by a reduced majority, but one so large as to admit of no doubt of the return of Platt to the United States senate.

Pennypacker's Big Plurality

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Practically complete returns from the state indicate a plurality for Pennypacker (Rep.), for governor, of about 135,000. Of the 32 congressmen elected 28 are Republicans. The incoming house of representatives will be made up of 157 Republicans and 47 Democrats and the senate will contain 39 Republicans and 11 Democrats.

Latest From California

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Partial returns from all over the state indicate that George C. Pardee (Rep.), for governor, is elected by a majority of 2000 to 3000. The legislature, which will choose a United States senator, is largely Republican on joint ballot. The Republicans have lost two congressmen—Kahn in the Fourth and Loud in the Fifth.

Mickey Is Elected

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—The Republicans have elected five of the six congressmen in Nebraska. It is now claimed and is almost certain that Mickey (Rep.) is elected governor by about 2000. He ran behind his ticket. The entire Republican state ticket is elected. The next legislature will be strongly Republican.

Bliss Was Heavily Cut

Detroit, Nov. 6.—The plurality of Governor Bliss will run up to 36,975. That Bliss was ruthlessly cut is shown by the fact that the plurality of Judge Carpenter, Republican candidate for justice of the supreme court, amounts to 59,816. The state legislature will have exactly the same complexion as its predecessor, one Democrat among the 32 senators and 10 Democrats out of 100 members of the house.

Colorado's Turnover

Denver, Nov. 6.—The Rocky Mountain News, Senator Patterson's paper, concedes the election of Peabody (Rep.) for governor and H. M. Hogg (Rep.) for congress in the Second district. The entire Democratic ticket is defeated, with the possible exception of Mrs. Grenfell for superintendent of public instruction. On the face of the returns, the Democrats will have a majority in the legislature, but there are charges of fraud and contests will be filed, which, if successful, may defeat the re-election of Senator Teller.

Minnesota's Vote

St. Paul, Nov. 6.—With the receipt of more complete returns the majority of Governor Van Sant assumes large proportions. It may go as high as 75,000—a record-breaking majority in Minnesota for a gubernatorial candidate. The governor apparently has run considerably ahead of the rest of the state ticket, although the entire ticket is elected by about the normal majority. Eight of the nine congressmen are Republicans, the lone Democrat being ex-Governor Lind.

Oklahoma In Doubt

Guthrie, O. T., Nov. 6.—Both the Democrats and Republicans are claiming the election of delegate to congress from Oklahoma by 1000 votes. The returns are coming in slowly and the official count may be necessary to decide the election. The Republicans claim the legislature by one majority in the senate and six in the house.

La Follette's Big Plurality

Milwaukee, Nov. 6.—Belated returns increase Governor La Follette's plurality in the state. The latest estimate brings his figures up to 50,000. As near as can be figured, the next legislature will be made up about as follows: Assembly, 75 Republicans and 25 Democrats; senate, 31 Republicans and 2 Democrats.

Landslide In Montana

Helena, Mont., Nov. 6.—There appears to have been a Republican landslide all over the state. The Republicans will have a safe working majority in the house, but on joint ballot the labor people will hold the balance of power.

Late Iowa Returns

Des Moines, Nov. 6.—Fuller returns place the Republican plurality on the state ticket in Iowa a little above 70,000. The plurality of P. B. Birdsall, who will succeed Speaker Henderson from the Third district, is 5575.

Democratic Gain In Maryland

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—Complete returns from city and state show that Maryland's representation in the next house will be four Republicans and two Democrats, a gain of two seats for the Democrats.

Complete Republican Victory

Topeka, Nov. 6.—All the state offices and a large part of the county offices were taken by the Republicans. They have elected every member of congress and more than 90 members of the legislature.

In South Dakota

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 6.—Reports thus far give the Republican congressional ticket a plurality of 19,666. The Republicans have a large majority in the state legislature.

Arizona's Slow Count

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 6.—The election of a delegate to congress from Arizona is still in doubt. Whether Republican or Democratic, the majority probably will be less than 300.

APPLAUSE IN COURT

When Witness Gave Testimony Which Was In Favor of Molineux

New York, Nov. 6.—The trial of Roland B. Molineux, which was adjourned on Saturday, was resumed yesterday, the whole session being devoted to the testimony and cross-examination of experts in handwriting. Marshall D. Elwell, who was under examination when the court adjourned, resumed the stand. His statement that certain peculiarities of Molineux's handwriting, on which the prosecution laid stress, were common to 50 percent of all writing, were greeted with applause which was quickly suppressed.

Dr. Elwell was succeeded by Warren A. Drake, who testified that there were too many points of difference in the disputed writings to warrant the belief that they were all by the same hand.

Mrs. Stephenson, the woman who is reported to have made an affidavit that she saw the poisoned package mailed by a man who was not Molineux, was in court under a subpoena by the defense. It is doubtful, however, whether she will be called on to testify. David N. Carvalho, another expert, was on the stand when court adjourned until today.

Good Afternoon.

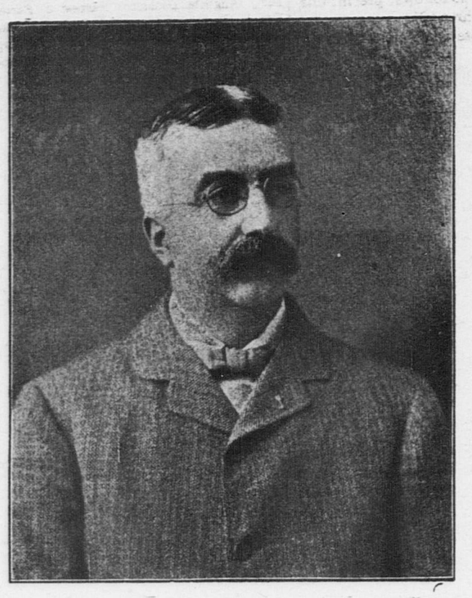

It is time now for the Republicans of the city to bury the hatchet. The Republican caucuses, although attended largely by Democrats, were representative of the party, and the majority by which Mayor Bryant was nominated was decisive and assures his reelection on December 2. There will need to be a spirit of forgiveness on both sides, but it will probably be forthcoming, and Quincy become a stronger Republican city than ever, and will have no trouble in the future in electing all its candidates at large.

Mayor Bryant was not the candidate of the Ledger for the nomination, but he is our candidate for the election, and will receive our hearty support. Much in opposition to Mayor Bryant has appeared in the Ledger during the campaign, but very little editorially, and we believe nothing which demands an apology or retraction. Often times we may have differed on local issues, but our position has been honestly stated without attempt at mud slinging and we are willing to abide by the verdict of the majority.

No one can question the business ability of Mayor Bryant, and few have had more experience in city affairs. The fine job done in remodelling City Hall is a monument to his administration, and the establishment of the police signal boxes and patrol wagon are in the line of progress which the city very much needed. Other improvements might also be noted, and probably better progress will be made in 1903 in relieving the demand for better school accommodations. A reduction of the tax rate is also promised.

Again permit us to join in the congratulations to Mayor Bryant.

Never have the citizens of Quincy expressed themselves more decisively at a caucus than they did Wednesday evening at the Republican caucuses. It was the first time that direct nominations for Mayor, Councilmen-at-large and School Committee-at-large were made at the caucuses and worked well.

They were the caucuses of the Republican party although there can be no doubt but what Democrats voted in all wards, and it can not be said that they confined themselves to one particular candidate.

All of the caucuses were very largely attended and it was 1 o'clock this morning before the complete returns had been tabulated. In all wards, however, the vote for Mayor was announced first and as the returns began to come in it was seen that Mayor Bryant would unquestionably be renominated.

The first three wards to be heard from were one, two and three. These only gave Packard a majority of 90 votes. It was certain that Wards Five and Six would give Bryant a majority and it was also figured that Ward Four would do the same, so that the only question was how large a majority he would have.

At 10.40 the vote for Mayor had been received from all wards and Bryant had a majority of 439. Later the official returns made some changes in Wards Two and Four so that his majority is 423.

These figures make it evident that between Mr. Bryant and Mr. Packard there can be no doubt whom the Republicans prefer, and there can be but little question as to his being elected to succeed himself next December.

The total vote of the city was nearly 2800 votes an increase of 363 votes over the caucuses last year.

The total vote was: Bryant, 1580; Packard, 1157. Last year the Bryant vote at the caucuses was 1,053 and the anti-Bryant, 1,194.

These figures show that while Mr. Bryant made large gains, the anti-Bryant side lost.

One source of Mayor Bryant's gain was in Ward Six, the Atlantic ward. Last year this ward gave him a majority of 46 votes, while this year it gave him a majority of 233, this with his majority of 281 in Ward Five brought him across the line at Butler's brook with a majority of 534 to meet Mr. Packard's majority of 104 in Wards One, Two and Three with Ward Four to hear from.

The story of each ward follows:

Ward One.

The Quincy caucus was more largely attended than last year when 570 votes were considered phenomenal, and total vote this year being 603. Mr. Packard came within one vote of last year, while Mr. Bryant gained 47, the totals being Packard 323 and Bryant 269, a majority of 54 for Packard.

The caucus organized with Frank F. Prescott as chairman, Wilson Marsh secretary and George S. Keyes, Jr., as assistant secretary. It was voted to proceed to ballot by precincts as at the State election, which avoided much confusion and handled the 603 voters without delay in three hours.

The chairman was authorized to appoint the necessary tellers and a very efficient corps was obtained, viz: Jesse F. Curtis, A. F. Macleod, W. T. Isaac, T. B. Davenport, A. H. Gilson, Melville Hayward, T. J. Smith, Fred Goss and N. B. Furnald. They were able to announce the Mayoralty vote in one minute after the polls closed, and the complete ticket within ten minutes. They say they could have given the result as promptly if 1,000 had voted.

For Councilmen at-large George E. Adams was high man with 380 and William T. Spargo low man with 227, the full vote being given elswhere.

For Councilman from ward, Lewis Bass, Jr., received 455, Charles H. Hardwick 325, Andrew A. Meyer 318, and Perley R. Glass 292, and the first three were declared nominated.

For Ward Committee there was no contest, as only seven names were presented: Albert G. Dolliver, 445; Otto Gellotte, 423; William T. Isaac, 434; Joseph W. Johnson, 469; Archibald F. Macleod, 450; Arthur W. Stetson, 460; George T. Westland, 439.

Ward Two.

Franklin Jacobs was the chairman of the Quincy Point ward, and John Peteron secretary. The counters were Edwin W. Newcomb and Frank Burrell, Melville Holmes and Maurice I. Gatcomb.

This was one of the three wards to give Packard a majority, although it was not as large as last year, or as was expected. It was one of the largest caucuses ever held in the ward. One of the events took place a little after 7 o'clock when a gang of forty or more Packard sympathizers marched from Dublin. They were headed by President Connors of the Coal Handlers Union. When they reached the polls it was seen that only about half of the crowd were voters. That portion who could vote marched into the polling place and the balance into their hall in an adjoining building.

The only local contest here was on Councilman from the ward, and the result was so close that there will probably be a recount.

The vote in detail:

For Mayor,—Bryant, 190; Packard, 235.

For Councilmen at large,—Adams, 285; Alden, 203; Loud, 218; Nichols, 196; Smith, 196; Spargo, 127; Stewart, 137.

Ward Councilmen,—Harding, 212; Stone, 199; Thompson, 198; Whitman, 173; Whiton, 251.

One of the unexpected things about this caucus was that while there was but one list of names for Ward committee on the ballot, the anti administration crowd went into the caucus armed with stickers upon which was an entirely different set of names, and they succeeded in electing them all.

The vote for the two sets of Ward committee was as follows:

Ernest C. Ford, 133; Maurice I. Gatcomb, 143; John S. Gay, 159; Arthur E. Harding, 164; Albert Keating, 149; James H. Lally, 137; George Weston, 148.

The sticker list,—George A. Sidelinger, 179; Melville C. Holmes, 178; Edwin W. Newcomb, 177; Rollin H. Newcomb, 177; George E. Adams, 178; C. Arthur Sampson, 178; Eugene C. Hultman, 172.

Ward Three.

There was a large turnout at the caucus in the South Quincy ward the total number of votes cast being 525. Estimates on this ward had been that it would break about even, as both sides claimed it. These estimates proved to be correct, for the ward only gave Packard a majority of 5 votes

Aside from the interest over the mayoralty there was local contest on Councilmen at large and for Ward committee. Of two candidates at large from the ward, Councilman Smith received a very flattering vote. Ex-Councilman Spargo also received a good vote but not as was expected. The vote for mayor was: Bryant 258; Packard 263.

The vote for Ward committee was as follows, the first seven being elected: Carlton, 332; Diack, 324; Kennedy, 204; Nicholl, 311; Piper, 289: Roberts, 263; T. W. Smith, 314; W. A. Smith, 176; Tenney, 164; Tite, 162.

John P. Bigelow was chairman and Frank Tenney was secretary. The tellers were Maurice T. Cantfill, James Milne, William H. Bennet, George A. Cameron, George O. Shirley and George Clark.

Ward Four.

The West Quincy caucus was very largely attended, 467 votes being cast The ward gave Charles M. Bryant a majority of 33.

Thomas F. Burke was chairman of the caucus and Thomas J. Lamb the clerk. The tellers were Tobias H. Burke, Virgil W. Fuller, John Williams and John R. Walters.

The only contest in this ward other than that of Mayor, was Councilmen at-large as follows: Adams, 181; Alden, 198; Loud, 237; Nichols, 184; Smith, 200; Spargo, 155; and Stewart, 140.

Ward Five.

The caucus in Ward Five was well attended but void of interest. It was generally understood that Mayor Bryant would run way ahead of his vote last year. Many who voted for Mr. Jones last year voted for Mr. Bryant, believing that he had given the city a good administration.

The polls were opened at 5 o'clock, two hours earlier than usual to enable all to vote. Last year the crush between 8 and 9 being too great for comfort.

By 7.30 voting was going on briskly. The total vote was smaller than last year, Mayor Bryant receiving 371 and Mr. Packard 110. This vote was very gratifying to friends of Mayor Bryant.

Charles R. Sherman was chairman, E. E. Jameson clerk and A. G. Olney, Howard Gannett, Jr., Walter L. Whittemore, George Wardwell and Daniel B. Lincoln the tellers.

A notable thing about this caucus was that Mr. Freeman received a larger vote for ward committee than the ward gave him the day before for Representative.

There was a local contest on ward committee. There were eight candidates only seven of whom could be elected and Senator Sprague did not get left.

It was nearly midnight before the complete returns were announced. The result of the vote for Mayor, Councilmen at-large and Ward Committee was as follows:

For Mayor,—Bryant, 371; Packard, 110.

For Councilmen at large,—Adams, 328; Alden, 328; Loud, 288; Nichols, 389; Smith, 237; Spargo, 124; Stewart, 190.

These nominations were made for Ward Councilmen,—Natham S. Nickerson, Herbert J. Polk and Charles A. McFarland.

The vote for Ward Committee was: Chase, 364; Fairbank, 377; Fay, 378; Freeman, 388; Pinkham 382; Polk, 327; Sprague, 294; Morgan, 284. The first seven were elected.

Ward Six.

Mayor Bryant can well be proud of the handsome majority which he received at the Atlantic caucus. It was 233 votes almost as many as in Wollaston, Mr. Bryant's own ward.

Daniel McGrath was chairman of the caucus and Arthur C. Beale the clerk. The counters were J. J. A'Hearn, W. G. Woodward, George H. Sherwin, Henry Warmsley and Edward Thorpe.

The local contest in this ward was for ward councilmen, and the present councilmen won out.

The result of the vote was as follows: For Mayor,—Bryant, 275; Packard, 42.

Caucus Vote of 1901.

The Republican municipal caucuses were held last year on Wednesday, Nov. 6, the day following the state election. The total vote was 2,374, divided as follows:

	Bryant.	Anti-Bryant.
Ward One,	222	324
Ward Two,	140	201
Ward Three,	161	321
Ward Four,	210	141
Ward Five,	275	207
Ward Six,	45	—
Total,	1,053	1,194

BUT IT DOESN'T.

Many Have Erroneous Idea that Fat Makes Fat.

One Reason of Cod Liver Oil's Popularity.

Nevertheless a Decidedly Wrong Impression.

Fat taken into the stomach does not make fat. Thousands of physicians have prescribed cod liver oil for wasting diseases and all troubles that show themselves in a decline of weight. Physicians know that the fat or grease is not what is necessary to make fat or tissue. They also know that it is one of the main things that make cod liver oil impractical in many cases. The fat is too rich to be digested by a stomach weakened by disease.

When cod liver oil is given, often the oil passes from the body in exactly the same state in which it is received. The reason doctors prescribe cod liver oil is that it contains certain curative properties. It is to take advantage of these same curative properties that they have so often tried to force their patients to take this horrible, greasy, vile-smelling, nauseating remedy.

There are but few people who have not had experience in one way or another with cod liver oil, and even the thought of its smell is enough to cause a shudder. When we think of these things it is not strange that everyone in our city is sounding the praise of Vinol.

Vinol, which Mr. Murphy is handling, is the solution of an embarrassing puzzle that physicians have had to contend with for years. Much has been said in the past few days of this wonderful discovery and yet it would be impossible to say too much in its praise.

Vinol, Wine of Cod Liver Oil, will indeed prove itself to be a Godsend of the most precious kind. As we have described it before, there is no need now of entering into the subject at length; but just remember that in Vinol you can secure all the medicinal properties or curative principles that make cod liver oil famous, but without the greasy fat. Vinol contains just the right amount of the active medicinal properties of the cod's liver that is necessary for the cure of such diseases as cod liver oil has been prescribed for.

This is a subject that everyone should become familiar with and we recommend that you make inquiries of your druggist in regard to Vinol, or if you will call on Mr. Murphy, who has associated himself with the Boston chemists who are preparing this remedy, he will gladly give any one all explanations that may be desired in regard to this subject.

Not Authorized by Mr. Sandberg.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

I ask that you inform the readers of your paper that the advertisement printed in your paper of yesterday, to the effect that my friends would vote for Mr. Elisha Packard was put in without my knowledge or consent, and so far as I know, by no friends of mine; and they consider the attempt not right to mislead the public as to who they would support for Mayor, particularly as it was put in at the last moment without chance for contradiction or explanation.

Yours respectfully,
Edward J. Sandberg.

Concert at Wollaston.

The concert under the auspices of the Mission Study club drew a large and appreciative audience to the Congregational church Tuesday evening. All those who attended the concert must have felt an intense enjoyment from the presentation of so classical a program.

The Currier Trio included Mr. Frank Currier of the Symphony Orchestra, violinist, Mr. Bertram Currier cellist, and Miss Eckman pianist. They were assisted by Miss Flora Burpee a reader widely known in Boston circles. The musical selections were rendered with admirable skill and exquisite taste—and called forth repeated applause from the audience. Especially fine was the treatment of Haydn's symphony by the trio. "The Berceuse" and the "Swanee River" were given touchingly sweet by Mr. Frank Currier. Miss Eckman's treatment of the "Black Note Study" of Chopin and the Dance of the Elves by Sappellnikoff especially exhibited superior excellence. Her touch was light and sympathetic. The last selection by the trio, Hungarian Dances by Doorak-Brahms was a wonderful piece of execution as the presentation of such a subject with its various movements is extremely difficult and seldom has a composition of this kind been attempted and rendered so well by so small an orchestra.

The selections by Miss Burpee were well chosen and her gift of pleasing the audience in whatever she presented evidenced much genius. The ushers Miss Patterson, Miss Bates, Miss Blaine and Miss Thompson, were charming in white muslin and corsage bouquets.

☞Now is the time to use printer's ink on the elm and apple trees, before the heavy frosts.

A Ready Made Park.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

At the corner of Sumner and South streets and at the foot of Scammell street there is a piece of ground known as Bigelow's field. This land is a natural park. A most beautiful rolling, clean, grass covered ground, extending over many acres, with trees placed by nature, as though by the hand of an artist. For just such a Park, as we have here all ready made, other cities have been expending considerable money to lay out.

Now there is not any play ground at this side of the city. Would it not be good policy for the city to purchase this land and appropriate a few hundred dollars each year, to further beautify an already handsome piece of property before it is too late?

I understand there is a movement on foot to cut it up for building purposes. With an influx of population on the south side of the city and more to come on the establishment of a new industry on the banks of the Fore River, I deem the purchase of this property an economical investment for the city.

A Resident of Ward Two.

Fine Concert.

The entertainment given under the auspices of the Mission Study Club, Tuesday evening at the Wollaston Congregational church was a great success. The talent consisted of the Currier trio of Boston assisted by Miss Burpee reader. The program though a trifle long was made up of new selections which were given with admirable skill by the performers. Particularly enjoyable was Mr. Currier's skilful handling of several violin pieces. The concerted work of the trio was well executed, Miss Elsman at the piano pleasing all by her graceful execution. Miss Burpee was effective in her interpretation of "The Seigneury of Pontiac" by Gilbert Parker. The ushers were Miss Grace Patterson, Miss Caroline Bates and Miss Elizabeth Frame. The audience was about two hundred in number.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

VALUABLE KNOWLEDGE

Gained In Week's Investigation by Coal Arbitrators

PAID VISITS TO MANY MINES

Heard Grievances of Workers and Operators' Side of Complaints—Now Feel Themselves Qualified to Sit In Judgment on the Controversy

Mahanoy City, Pa., Nov. 6.—The anthracite strike commission ended its tour of observation of the coal fields in the Panther Creek valley yesterday, and the members of the party will return to their homes today and will meet again at Scranton on Nov. 14 to take the testimony of the miners.

The biggest day's work of the entire trip was accomplished yesterday, when the commissioners made a complete inspection of the large collieries and a tour of the region lying between Mount Carmel and this city. Six working days have been consumed in travelling from place to place in the anthracite coal regions and the arbitrators feel they are now qualified to sit in judgment on the controversy between the mine owners and their employes. In all, the commissioners were lowered into seven mines of varying conditions and went through several breakers. They met the general superintendents, the mine superintendents and the foremen of the various collieries visited, and also personally talked with the coal diggers hundreds of feet below the earth's surface. They heard the grievances the workers claim they have, and also heard the companies' side of the complaint. Besides this the commissioners gained a somewhat technical knowledge of mining in its many different features that will be of the greatest assistance to them. They will be able to understand questions and ask questions where they would not have been able to understand them if they had not been under ground.

The commissioners first visited the Potts colliery, in Columbia county, yesterday. The breaker of this colliery is different from those seen by the commissioners at other places. From the Potts colliery the train proceeded through Ashland, Girardville and Gilberton to the Maple Hill colliery in the Mahanoy valley, a few miles from Shenandoah. This is one of the best mines in the entire anthracite field, and is equipped with all modern appliances. The bottom of the shaft is 730 feet below the surface, and during their two hours' stay in the workings the commissioners went about a mile and a half from the shaft. The whistle blew the noon hour just as the party came to the surface. At the breaker nearby the commissioners talked with the boys. Judge Gray and Bishop Spalding seemed the most interested in the lads and each gave some of them small coin.

From the Maple Hill colliery the commissioners' train was run down through Mahanoy city and Tamaqua to the Panther Creek valley. Then the arbitrators visited the Lehigh's No. 8 colliery at Coaldale. The entrance to the mines was through a drift which is a horizontal opening into the base of a mountain. About 100 feet inside the entrance the party was lowered by means of a shaft to the bottom, which is 850 feet down. The mine proved to be quite wet. As the members of the commission passed along the gangway in the mine cars drawn by mules they went under worked-out chutes from which water flowed in streams. While going under one chute the mules stopped and the water fell into one of the cars, thoroughly soaking all its occupants. The party went to the end of two long gangways about a half-mile in length and up into a very steep chute, where they found miners at work. In order to get into the chute the commissioners had to climb a ladder and crawl over broken coal through a small opening. Their hands and faces were smeared with coal dust when they came out.

After leaving the mine a number of idle workers crowded around Chairman Gray and told him that they had been discriminated against by the company in the matter of getting their old places back. They said Superintendent Behner would not take them back for some reason unknown to them and that other men had been given their positions. On the other hand, the company officials claimed that they have not enough work at this time for all the men on account of repair work now being done in the mines. Judge Gray listened to them, but made no comment.

The commissioners arrived in this city at 5 o'clock and spent the night in a local hotel. This morning they left for Pottsville and will depart from the latter place for their homes during the afternoon. The commissioners' special cars will be run to Washington by way of Philadelphia and from the latter city some of the commissioners will go to New York.

The status of the independent coal companies in the present arbitration proceedings is not quite clear. All of them have been invited to participate in the hearing if they so desire. The Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, it is understood, has agreed to abide by the decision of the commission, as have also several small independent concerns. It is believed that all of them will accept the arbitrators' decision. If they do this the commission is likely to take up the grievances which have recently arisen at some of the independent collieries.

THEY DIED TOGETHER

Minister and Missionary Found In Vestibule of Church

Omaha, Nov. 6.—Clapsed in each other's arms, lying on the floor of the pastor's study in the German Baptist church, the janitor of the church yesterday discovered the dead bodies of Rev. W. C. Rabe, pastor, and Augusta Busch, a missionary and assistant to the pastor. Death had been caused by asphyxiation. The room was filled with gas, a jet and a burner of a small stove being partly turned on.

The bodies were lying on the floor, the woman's head being pillowed on some cushions. There seems to be little doubt that death was accidental. It is believed that the pair had fallen asleep, the stove flame blew out and the gas escaped.

It was thought at first the two had committed suicide, for on the table was an open letter, a neatly arranged boquet, Rabe's watch and glasses and his hat, Miss Busch's gloves and handkerchief, and neatly folded upon the back of a chair was her jacket. The letter was an answer to another letter which Rabe had received. There was nothing in it to indicate that the two had intended taking their lives.

Mr. Rabe was 54 years of age and came to Omaha from Buffalo. In New York he left a wife, who is attending a missionary school, and one son. He was held in high esteem by his congregation.

Miss Busch was 31 years of age, and had been a missionary in Omaha for the last five years. She came here from Chicago, sent by the church missionary school. She was very popular.

Epilepsy

weakens the body and degrades the mind. It saps the nervous strength that is the source of all health, and perverts the functions of every organ. Because of its stubborn nature, it is often called incurable. This is not true. There is one medicine that never fails to check the nervous spasms and give new strength to the entire system.

"Our baby boy had epileptic spasms and the physicians were unable to do anything to help him. We heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine, and from the time he took the first dose he never had another attack." MRS. J. PENNER, 459 N. Meridian Ave., Anderson, Ind.

Mortgagee's Sale.

BY Virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by George Meilligan to Lucretia A. Gill, dated July 25, 1887 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 594, Fol. 73, and for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the foreclosure thereof, will be sold at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, on TUESDAY, the eighteenth day of November, A. D., 1902, at three o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular, the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed and therein described substantially as follows, to wit:

A certain lot of land containing 13,486 square feet, with all the buildings thereon, situated in said Quincy and being lots Nos. 11, 12 and 13 on "Plan of Lots in Quincy, Mass., belonging to Barnabas Clarke," made by George G. Saville dated June, 1884, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds. Said tract is bounded as follows: viz.:—Northerly on land now or late of Barnabas Clarke, one hundred and thirty-three (133) feet; Easterly on lot No. 10 on said plan, being land of John Johnson, ninety (90) feet; Southerly on a private way thirty feet wide, that runs parallel with Garfield street and called Clarke avenue, one hundred and twenty-six (126) feet; Westerly on lot No. 14 on said plan, being land of William Turner, one hundred and thirty (130) feet.

My title to lot No. 11 is by deed of Ellen A. and William Kelley, dated Jan. 3, 1887, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 586, Fol. 463; to lot No. 12, by deed of John Bradley, Jr., dated Sept. 2, 1886, recorded as above, Lib. 582, Fol. 244, and to lot No. 13, by deed of Barnabas Clarke, dated July 9, 1884, and recorded as above, Lib. 559, Fol. 6

The premises will be sold subject to an existing mortgage on said lot No. 13, for five hundred dollars with accrued interest, and to any unpaid taxes or assessments.

Two hundred dollars of the purchase money to be paid at the time and place of sale, and the balance in ten days from said sale on delivery of the deed.

A GENUINE SENSATION

Created by Mrs Stephenson In the Molineux Trial

FAMOUS POISON PACKAGE

Mailed In Her Presence by a Man Whom She Declares Looked Like Cornish—Prosecution May Make Effort to Show Insanity of Witness

New York, Nov. 7.—The greatest sensation in the second trial of Roland B. Molineux, charged with the murder of Mrs. Adams, came late yesterday, when Mrs. Hannah Stephenson, the wife of a Brooklyn policeman, was called to the stand by the defense and testified positively that Molineux was not the man who mailed the now famous poison package at the general postoffice on the evening of Dec. 23, 1898. Then the witness partially identified Harry Cornish, who was asked to stand up in court, as the man whom she saw standing in front of her in the line at the postoffice and holding in his hand a package addressed to "Mr. Harry Cornish, Knickerbocker." That was all she saw.

Her identification of Cornish was not positive. She said he looked very much like the man, but hesitated before replying affirmatively when asked if she did not think he was the man. The account given by the witness of her movements on the evening of Dec. 23 and her reasons for not appearing at the first trial were given in detail.

The prosecution, on cross-examination, brought out the fact that Mrs. Stephenson had suffered from attacks of nervous prostration within the last two years and had carefully read the details of the former trial. The questions of the assistant district attorney tended to show that an effort would be made to show insanity or delusion under hysteria.

The witness, under questions by the prosecution, said there were three stamps on the package, and when shown the wrapper with five stamps on it in two rows said she might have overlooked the lower row. Mrs. Stephenson was on the stand when court adjourned for the day.

Other witnesses were handwriting experts, who all testified that Molineux did not write the address on the poison package. A clerk in a drug store testified that he had sold bromo-seltzer to Cornish, also to Mrs. Rogers. Miss Miller, the clerk in the store where the bottle-holder was purchased, testified that she sold the holder late in the evening. Her evidence was corroborated by a man who was in the store at the time. The prosecution has held that the holder was purchased early in the afternoon. Miss Miller positively swore that the man who bought the holder was not Molineux. The trial will be continued today.

Old Newspaper Man's End

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Charles O. Zeigenfuss was found dead yesterday in his room in a downtown hotel. An open gasjet which, it is believed, was left open intentionally, disclosed the manner of his death. Zeigenfuss had worked on the principal newspapers of this country from New York to San Francisco, and his field of labor carried him also to Manila and Honolulu, in both of which places he edited a newspaper.

Yates In Bad Condition

Springfield, Ills., Nov. 7.—Governor Yates suffered a relapse yesterday and his condition is said to be worse than at any time since he has been ill. He was given food yesterday afternoon and shortly afterwards was seized with a prolonged fit of vomiting. Fever began to rise and the patient relapsed into delirium, from which he had been free for 24 hours.

Senators to Visit Territories

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—Senator Beveridge left for Washington yesterday to arrange for a tour of the senate committee on territories through New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma. The trip is for the purpose of securing data to be used in consideration of the question of admitting these territories to statehood.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The president has received a cablegram from the King of Siam extending his earnest thanks for the kindly reception accorded the crown prince on his arrival in the United States.

INVESTIGATION ENDED

Real Work of Anthracite Strike Commission Will Begin on Nov. 14

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Messrs. Gray, Wright, Wilson and Parker, four of the seven members of the anthracite strike commission, and Assistant Recorders Moseley and Neill, arrived here late yesterday from the coal regions, where they have just ended a week's tour of the coal belt.

The commissioners finished their work in good physical condition and separated in the best of spirits. They have gained much information in the regions visited, and during the interim they will look over statistics which some of them have in their possession.

The commissioners will meet again at Scranton Nov. 14, when the hearing of the miners' side of the case will be begun. After they have concluded their case the operators will make their defense, after which the mine workers will probably be again heard in rebuttal. From Scranton it is likely the commission will go to Pottsville and sit there for a few days, and then go to Philadelphia and New York. The commissioners have no idea when they will be able to make their decision.

Between now and Nov. 14 Recorder Wright will be kept busy preparing for the real work of the commission. He has a large amount of correspondence and other work to dispose of. He will probably receive the answers of the coal companies to the statement of the miners' case which President Mitchell of the Miners' union has filed with the commission.

Indians' Battle of Ballots

Rochester, Nov. 7.—Tuesday was an important day on the Cattaraugus and Allegany reservations in western New York, when the Indians held their election. At bitter contest was on between the Democratic and Republican factions of the tribes. Elijah Turkey was the Democratic candidate for president, while Frank Patterson, Republican, was a candidate for re-election. The election resulted in a triumph for the Republican ticket on both reservations.

Revolutionists Quietly Withdrew

Willemstad, Nov. 7.—The report of a great victory over the insurgents spread by the government of Venezuela was incorrect. The priests refused to ring the bells of the churches in celebration of the alleged defeat of the Matos forces and the police were compelled to ring them. The revolutionary army simply withdrew from San Mateo, going toward Cua, where 2000 revolutionists are now engaging a government force.

Roosevelt Talked to Masons

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt was the principal guest yesterday at the sesqui-centennial anniversary celebration by the grand lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania, of George Washington's entrance into the Masonic fraternity. The president was also the orator of the occasion. The celebration was exclusive, being limited to one representative from each subordinate lodge in this state, together with the members of the grand lodge and its committees.

Fatal Election Quarrel

Knoxville, Nov. 7.—James Carter died yesterday at Cardiff from a bullet wound in the abdomen received in an election fight in Roane county. John Boiley, who shot Carter, was shot twice by Deputy Sheriff Day while resisting arrest. Boiley has been taken to Kingston jail to avoid mob violence.

A Great Jumping Pony

St. Louis, Nov. 7.—At the horse show last night the pony Kreuger, owned by D. H. Sands of Mendon, Mich., broke the world's hurdle record by jumping 5 feet, 9 inches. The broken record was also held by this pony.

To Get Pointers From Rosebery

London, Nov. 7.—Lord Rosebery has been given permission to accede to the request of President Roosevelt's coal strike arbitration commission to be supplied with copies of the notes of the proceedings in Lord Rosebery's settlement of the British coal dispute in 1893.

Pillsbury's Best Flour

is sold by grocers everywhere in sacks and barrels. While it is sold everywhere, it is not sold by every grocer. Hence, a grocer who does not keep Pillsbury's Best Flour, naturally will try to sell the flour he has in stock, declaring, either through ignorance or from a desire to dispose of what he has on hand, that his flour is as good as any other. Care should be taken to buy Pillsbury's Best Flour in original packages, so as to get the genuine article.

HE WANTED AN HEIRESS

But Baron Muenchausen Compromised on a Widow

A MATRIMONIAL SYNDICATE

Planned to Secure an American Woman With a Fortune of $7,500,000 For the Nobleman, but Plans Went Awry After He Paid Bills

Berlin, Nov. 7.—The relations of Baron Burchard Von Muenchausen with the so-called "marriage syndicate" which financed his journey to the United States in 1898 to obtain a rich wife have been made public through a prosecution for blackmail brought by the baron against Hermann Pincus, Moritz Mendelsohn and Adolf Mendelsohn, three tradesmen who were members of the syndicate. The trial has just come to its close.

Baron Von Muenchausen is a member of a famous German family which dates from 1587. The testimony showed that an ex-convict named Eissler, living in Stuttgart, telegraphed to Frau Von Quitzow, a noblewoman residing in Berlin, who undertakes to obtain wealthy wives for army officers, saying that if she had a titled officer on active service for an American fortune of $7,500,000, to let him know.

Frau Von Quitzow put Eissler in communication with Baron Von Muenchausen, who is a lieutenant in the Prussian artillery. The baron, according to statements made in court, agreed to give Eissler 5 percent of the money of the heiress he was to wed in the event of the marriage taking place, and he signed conditional bills for $375,000. On these bills Eissler raised money in Berlin from a numerous group of persons, which included Pincus and the two Mendelshons, and Baron Von Muenchausen was provided with the cash with which he paid the expenses of his journey to the United States.

Eissler's partner in this adventure was a lady's maid who had been formerly in the service of the rich American woman referred to by Eissler; she preceded the baron to the United States to negotiate the marriage, but her efforts were not successful. The name of the heiress in question was not disclosed in court. Baron Von Muenchausen did make the acquaintance while in the United States of Martha Washington Beckel, a widow of moderate wealth, who, according to the German peerage, he married Dec. 23, 1898. Since his marriage the baron has been living with his wife on his estate near Schwobler, Hanover.

On his return to Germany Baron Von Muenchausen had to reckon with the holders of his bills. A compromise was negotiated with Pincus and the Mendelsohns, who surrendered his paper on the payment of comparatively small sums. Baron Von Muenchausen afterwards accused these men of blackmail and the matter was thus brought into court.

Pincus and the Mendelsohns were acquitted of the charges against them.

Labor Men In a Row

Denver, Nov. 7.—President McDonald of the American Labor union is seriously ill from the effects of a blow on the head which he received on election day. He was standing with Secretary Haywood of the Western Federation of Miners when Policeman Bramer attacked them. McDonald was struck on the head with a revolver and Haywood then shot the officer in the left arm.

Eight Men Perished

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 7.—Eight men were drowned, three vessels driven ashore and practically every lighter on the Nome beach was wrecked in a storm that commenced on Oct. 14 and continued throughout the day. The facts are supplied by Purser Robertson of the Ohio, which arrived yesterday. A dozen or more people thrown into the surf were rescued by the life saving crews.

Called to Door and Killed

Guthrie, O. T., Nov. 7.—As a result of the prolonged war between the cattlemen and homesteaders in western Oklahoma G. W. Lane, a leading figure among the homesteaders, was called to his door yesterday and shot dead near Shirley. A prominent cattleman named John Joy has been arrested, charged with complicity in the crime. Mrs. Lane was also arrested.

Good Afternoon.

Hard coal is selling at $9 per ton in Boston, with prospect of a further reduction. It cannot come too soon.

President Harper of the University of Chicago deplores the fact that the churches are alienating the rich. Mr. Harper is at least setting them an example in the opposite direction.

The campaign just ended has at least served to demonstrate that President Roosevelt is the actual leader of his party and that he is a clean and able politician.

As a member of a labor union, President Roosevelt urged the laborers renovating the White House to push the work with all possible speed—and they are pushing.

The United States Navy offers special inducements at this time to young machinists who can, by ability and faithfulness, secure rapid promotion to places paying from $1,200 to $1,800 per year.

Those who were so sure that Gen. Guild would lead Mr. Bates know now that nothing is positive. Mr. Bates received over 1000 more votes than Mr. Guild in twenty cities from which full returns have been received by the Republican State Committee.

Henry H. Faxon is not pleased at the stand taken by the Daily Ledger relative to the mayoralty and we are sorry for that. But Mr. Faxon and all Republicans should gracefully accept the verdict of the majority, especially when it was as decisive as it was at the Republican caucuses. Mayor Bryant gained not only in one ward, but in all wards of the city, and and it is remarkable the hold that he has upon the voters. For the Republicans to continue in discord would be a great injury to Quincy in political districts of which we ara a part—Congressional, County and Senatorial. The sooner the Republicans get together the better for the party, and the city.

—A woman never can understand why a man buys a new Derby hat, that, as far as she can see, is just like his old one.

NOW WITH BRYANT.

Benjamin King Does Not Blame Bryant Men Now.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

I noticed in your Wednesday's Ledger that the stone that struck me in the head and nearly cost me my life, was said to have been thrown by some Bryant man. It may be I made that remark when my mind was in such a delirious state.

Now, I wish to state in justice to all of Mayor Bryant's supporters that I don't think there is a man among them that would be guilty of doing me any bodily harm, no matter how much we differed in regard to Mr. Bryant. Now that a majority of the Republicans have selected Mr. Bryant as their candidate, I desire to add my congratulations. I shall vote for Mr. Bryant and hope my friends will do the same.

Benjamin King.

279 Central avenue,

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The adoption of the "District Option Bill" would only intensify the conditions already produced in certain districts by suburban no licence. If a district votes against license it will still have drinkers. Obviously they will go where they can get liquor. Thus "yes" districts will be forced to bear their own burdens and some burdens of "no" districts as well. Now where is the justice in that? Boston has the reputation of being a rum city, and the reputation is due largely to people who live in the suburban dry belts and come to Boston for their drinks. When the old railway stations in Kneeland Streets were open there were about thirty saloons crowded around and all did a good business. Dealers were anxious to get a location near those stations. Today there is the same population around Kneeland Street, but there are only a few saloons. The explanation is clear. The outsiders made the liquor business good. So it will be if some parts of Boston are to be dry and others wet. In the latter will be more saloons than the population warrants. They will get the reputation of being "rum districts," and that largely through out side traffic. There is no justice in the proceeding. It is a plain shirking of responsibility, a benefit to some at the expense of others.—Boston Home Journal.

Sudden Death.

The many friends of Mr. Hemming Samuelson extend their sympathy to him in the loss of his wife, Hilda A., who died at his home on Cranch street Thursday in her 28th year. Mrs. Samuelson has resided in Quincy many years and was a general favorite, and her sudden death has cast a gloom over a large circle of friends. She had apparently been in her usual good health up to Monday when she was taken sick with heart trouble. Everything possible was done for her, but she died Thursday morning. Besides her husband she leaves a daughter 16 months old.

Declined.

Editors of the Ledger:

Gentlemen—I noticed in your issue of yesterday that my name is to be used at the Socialist caucus as a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination. I have persistently refused to allow my name to be used at this time in connection with that high office, for I am not a candidate.

Respectfully yours,

G. B. Bates

Nov. 7, 1902.

Declined Call.

A dispatch from Providence announces that Rev. Francis L. Whittemore, has declined the call to Christ church at Quincy, and has accepted a call to become the rector of Calvary church of Providence.

The new five story factory for Rice & Hutchins at South Braintree will be rushed. It will be 203 by 50, and Mr. Curtis of North Abington has the contract.

GEO. H. WILSON.

The Only Nominee for Office of Mayor

At the Democratic Caucuses.

List of Nominations at Large and by Wards.

The nomination papers of candidates to be voted for at the Democratic caucuses next Monday evening were opened Thursday evening.

The lists were not complete in all wards but as far as filed are as follows:

For Mayor, George H. Wilson.

For School Committee at large,—James H. Churchill.

For Councilmen at large,—Timothy J. Carey, Ward 2; Patrick W. Driscoll, Ward 3; John C. Ballou, Ward 4; Clinton Jones, Ward 5.

WARD COUNCILMEN.

Ward One,—Zenas S. Arnold, John W. Hersey, Lewis Bass, Jr.

Ward Two,—James M. Cleverly, Fred W. Newcomb, Edward H. Perry, Jr.

Ward Three,—Cornelius B. Austin.

Ward Four,—John J. Reardon, William P. Hughes, Richard H. Walsh.

School Committee from Ward Four,—Rev. William J. Foley.

Ward Five,—Joseph H. Vogel, Jr., P. J. Ferguson.

Ward Six,—Michael A. Hayes, Peter J. Collagan, John A. Duggan.

School Committee from Ward Six,—Dr. F. J. Peirce.

It is reported that papers were filed with the Democratic City Committee Thursday evening placing the name of William T. Shea in nomination for Mayor but they were later withdrawn. It is also reported that papers were prepared for ex-Mayor Keith but were not filed. No one seems to care much about becoming the party candidate against Mayor Bryant and it is said that Mr. Wilson reluctantly allowed his name to be used.

Smoke Talk.

Understanding that Capt. Arthur E. Harding, Republican candidate for Councilman from Ward 2, had a few cigars left over, about fifty fellow employes of the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. called to see him at his home on Cleverly court last evening, to congratulate and tell him of the many needs of the ward; also to promise to do all in their power to elect him on Dec. 2d.

After they had carefully gone over the campaign work a lunch was served and a pleasant hour was spent in song, etc. The Captain is a hustler himself and with the assistance of his friends he will be elected by a large vote.

UNDER RECEIVER.

J. K. Berry Appointed Over the Betts' Companies.

Judge Colt of the United States circuit court on Thursday in the proceeding brought by N. T. Palmer of Bath, Me., a creditor for $4,800, against F. E. Betts and others, appointed J. K. Berry receiver of the property of C. B. Hyland & Co., J. C. Morgan & Co., the Hallett & Blackford Co., J. M. Fisher & Co., and the Bankers and Manufacturers Mercantile Agency.

C. A. Reed was appointed receiver of the property of the Cobb-Everett Investment Co.

The appointments were made on motion of counsel for complainant, M. W. Brick, counsel for the Cobb-Everett Investment Co., G. A. Adams and F. A. Harford appearing and consenting.

Exceptions Filed.

Counsel for Frederick E. Betts filed in the United States District Court on Thursday a bill of exceptions and a petition for a writ of error.

The defendant lately was convicted of using the mail in pursuance of a scheme to defraud. Numerous exceptions were taken at the trial and these are set forth in the bill. He contends that the court erred in certain rulings and instructions and in refusing to make other rulings and to give other instructions asked for by the defendant. They relate to the indictments and to the admission or exclusion of evidence.

Exit of Barre Exchange.

The Barre Granite exchange has been discontinued for lack of support. The decision was brought about by a vote of the Granite Manufacturers Association. The principal reason was that while nearly all the granite manufacturers were getting better prices because of the exchange, only a portion of the firms were willing to pay for the benefits by contributing their share of the expense. Those who were paying the bills thought it too much for their shoulders.

Vesper Program.

At the vesper service at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday at 4 o'clock the choir will be assisted by Miss Adelaide Thomas, violinist. The music will be:

Anthem,—The Strain Upraise. Dudley Buck
Berceuse,—for violin and organ, Mrs. H. A. A. Beach.
The Redeemed of the Lord, J. C. D. Parker
Alto Solo and Quartette.
Legende,—for violin and organ, Carl Bohm
O Jesus thou art Standing, J. Hyeth Brewer
Quartette.

The Boy Apologized.

Mr. Benjamin King who was struck in the head by a stone at Wollaston on election day is not yet out of danger. It was a boy who threw the stone, without malicious intent, and he has since apologized. Mr. King has a communication of interest in this issue.

Americans Threaten Vengeance

Manila, Nov. 6.—As the result of the killing of an American bartender, named Armitage, by a native policeman who had quarreled with him, the governor of the province has requested General Bell to furnish military protection against a party of unemployed Americans who are threatening vengeance. General Bell has ordered the garrison to preserve order.

Think Wages High Enough

Paris, Nov. 6.—The arbitrators of the miners' strike in the department of the Pas de Calais yesterday gave a decision against an increase of the present rates of wages, holding that the rates are proportionate to the selling price of coal. The delegates of the miners are dissatisfied with the decision.

St Pierre Fire Was Incendiary

St. Johns, Nov. 6.—Reports show the big fire which partially destroyed the town of St. Pierre, Miquelon, last Saturday night was due to incendiarism. The fire originated in the Catholic cathedral. An unknown man was seen leaving the building by a window shortly after the fire broke out.

CITY BREVITIES.

A meeting of the City Council will be next held Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Edward Richardson of Gay street is visiting in Lynn and Salem.

Two days more of the cracker bazaar at the store of L. M. Pratt & Son.

An exteuded report of the Home Science meeting will appear in the Saturday eight-page Ledger.

Mrs. W. H. Washburn of Arlington street is detained at Campello on account of the critical condition of her father.

The little six-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Lamb died on Thursday. She was six years old last month.

The case of Peter P. Veale of Boston, for assessment land damages at Fensmere Beach, Houghs Neck, continues on trial at the Norfolk Superior court.

C. F. Derby has something new in sweaters, and some with low neck overcome objections of many people to them. Many of his sweaters are quite dressy.

The Daily Ledger of Thursday reported four deaths which took place in the city that day within twelve hours, and there was at least one other Thursday death. An unusual record for one day, the average for Quincy being about one per day.

The Quincy granite used in the construction of the buildings near the Old South church, Boston, which are being torn down, has been purchased by J. P. Galvin and is being carted back to Quincy from which it was shipped many years ago. The stock is extra dark and without a blemish.

Consul Victim of Extortion

Washington, Nov. 6.—Commander Diehl, commanding the Marietta, cabled the navy department from La Guaira yesterday that the American consul at Barcelona, Venezuela, has asked for protection against an enforced loan, and announced that he would leave with his ship immediately. Commander Diehl goes at the request of Minister Bowen, who reported the case to the state department on Tuesday.

Slugger Condemned to Death

Paris, Nov. 6.—Henry Vidal, who confessed to the extraordinary wanton murder of two women, and to attempts to assassinate various others, was sentenced to death at Nice yesterday. The defense failed to obtain mitigation of the sentence on account of the murderer's weakness of intellect. Thousands of persons hissed and execrated the murderer as he was being conducted to prison.

Russia's Hand Seen

London, Nov. 6.—The Pekin correspondent of The Times says Russia has sanctioned the Chinese request for permission to dispatch 1000 troops outside the great wall to protect the railway and suppress brigandage. The dowager empress has spontaneously decided, according to The Times, to construct a 30-mile branch railway from the Pekin-Han Kau main line to the western tombs.

Silversmiths' Threat

New York, Nov. 6.—The striking silversmiths threaten to tie up the holiday work of the manufacturing jewelry firms in this city and vicinity unless a settlement is reached soon. Over 800 men are now out and business is practically at a standstill in the factories.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Mason Is Committed to Jail Without Bail

RESULT OF NEW EVIDENCE

Which Is Said to Show That He Was In Waverley on the Night That Clara Morton Was Murdered—Statement of Prisoner Contradicted

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 6.—Alan G. Mason was arraigned before Judge Almy yesterday and held on the charge of murder until next Tuesday. He entered a plea of not guilty. As is usual with so serious a charge, he was held without bail, and was committed to the East Cambridge jail.

The action was a complete surprise, for everybody not intimately connected with the case expected that the prisoner would be discharged. The definite statement was made in all the morning papers that Officer Dunham of the state police would ask for his release, on the ground that the suspicions against him had not been substantiated. The presence of Dunham in the court room at the time of the case was called strengthened this feeling. But shortly after court opened Dunham had a conference with Judge Almy, at which the prisoner's counsel was present, and after it was finished Dunham swore to the complaint, as follows:

"George Dunham of the petition on Nov. 5, 1902, on oath complains that A. G. Mason did assault and beat Clara H. Morton with intent to murder her by striking her on the head with a weapon unknown, and by such assault and beating did kill and murder said Morton."

This unexpected turn of affairs is the result of new evidence, which, according to the state police, greatly strengthens their case. Though they will not tell as yet the definite nature of the evidence Dunham told a reporter that it relates to the prisoner's presence in Waverley at the time the crime was committed. Of this evidence the officers have had "an inkling," as Mr. Dunham expressed it, for some time, but they were not able to run it down until late Tuesday night.

Though the officer would not state definitely what the evidence was, it is understood from other reliable sources that it is the testimony of a conductor, Charles F. Brown, who runs on the electric cars between Boston and Waverley. He says that a man boarded his car just before it left Waverley at 10:28 o'clock, who attracted his attention by his nervousness and his great desire to talk. When the conductor was given a glimpse of Mason in the court room yesterday he is said to have identified him at once.

His story, if true, contradicts the statement of the prisoner that after leaving his house at 9:30 he took a train in the Boston subway for Sullivan square, rode out on the cars, as was his almost nightly habit, to Highland square, Somerville, and returned home about midnight.

The state's other two witnesses, said by the morning papers to have gone back on their original statements, were declared by Dunham to hold to their testimony. This testimony that they saw Mason in Waverley about 9 o'clock, just after the murder—conflicts with statements of the prisoner's brother, Edward P. Mason, president of the Mason & Hamlin Organ company. He has declared to the police that he was playing chess with Henry C. Tyler at his mother's house in Newbury street, and that his brother was with him, an interested spectator of the game, until 9:30 o'clock of the evening in question. In this Tyler and Mason's mother have borne him out.

MILTON.

Albert A. Brackett, the newly elected senator, did things in style at the election Tuesday. Instead of employing hacks to carry the voters from East Milton to the Town Hall, he had a large automobile. The machine would carry a dozen at a trip and was kept busy all day. After the polls closed he took a party of friends to Boston.

The alarm from Box 62 Tuesday evening at 7.30 was for a chimney fire on the Hutchinson place. There was no damage.

The entertainment and lecture at Ellsworth hall Monday evening for the benefit of E. A. Rich was largely attended.

The East Milton gymnasium opened this week. The class for boys between 11 and 15 years, meets Friday evenings, and for boys over 15 years, Saturday evenings.

Plans for the remodelling of the Congregational church have been made, and work will be commenced immediately.

A whist party was held by the Thursday Evening club this week.

One of the workmen on the sewer being built on Adams street was injured Tuesday noon by being hit with a bucket. His name could not be learned.

The ladies' guild of the Mission of Our Saviour church will hold a cake and candy sale and entertainment tonight at the home of Mrs. Hammons.

The funeral of Miss Arabella Graham was held Wednesday afternoon from the Congregational church.

What Observant Citizens Say.

Well! the tree is down!

It makes a nice clear space now.

I am going to start a paper to have the fountain moved to any old place, then they will have fiuished their job.

A good thing; we can't have a city and trees too.

To think that Quincy should cut down trees in the public square, when other places spend thousands of dollars to plant them! I cannot express myself?

We will put it back if you say so.

We have a nice large dust spot now.

Steps should at once be taken to remove the Stone church in order to get rid of the clock, for it will always hold its hands before its face in shame, to think that there are those in Quincy who have no regard for natural nor for the appearance of the city.

Over Five Thousand Daily.

The average attendance at the public schools of the city for the four weeks ending Oct. 3 was 5017 plus, out of a total enrollment of 5,291. The percentage was over 95, while at the High, Lincoln and Willard the average was over 96 per cent. Supt. Parlin makes the following report for the four weeks ending Oct. 3:

Whist Prizes.

At the matinee whist given Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Porterfield on Granite street, eight tables participated and the following souvenirs were awarded: Silk sofa pillow, Mrs. J. Thomas of Warren avenue, Wollaston; pin cushion, Mrs. R. R. Smith; work basket, Mrs. Maggie Hall; cushion for a chair back, Mrs. Daw; fernery, Mrs. Laura E. Holt; china platter, Mrs. Dr. Henderson; cut glass cold cream jar, Mrs. G. W. Spooner; statue, M. Lizzie Furnald.

Distress After Eating

Nausea between meals, belching, vomiting, flatulence, fits of nervous headache, pain in the stomach, are all symptoms of dyspepsia, and the longer it is neglected the harder it is to cure it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Radically and permanently cure it—strengthen and tone the stomach and other digestive organs for the natural performance of their functions.

Accept no substitute for Hood's.

"I had dyspepsia twenty-five years and took different medicines but got no help until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Have taken four bottles of this medicine and can now eat almost anything, sleep well, have no cramps in my stomach, no burning and no distress." MRS. WILLIAM G. BARRETT, 14 Olney St., Providence, R. I.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

☞Vaudeville at Quincy Music hal will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week and a strong bill is booked. The biograph will be a strong feature.

VICTIMS' WATCHES FOUND

Police Think They Are Surely on the Trail of "Jack the Slugger"

Boston, Nov. 7.—Yesterday's developments in the case of Alan G. Mason, who is under arrest charged with the murder of Miss Clara Morton at Waverley last Saturday night, have been of a startling nature. It was announced first that the watch of the victim had been found in a pawnshop, where it had been pawned for $4 by a young colored man. When the pawnbroker's memory had been jogged he remembered that the watch had been brought to his office late Saturday night by a white man and offered in pawn. Owing to the fact that it was after business hours, he refused to receive it.

On Monday morning the same watch was brought in by a colored man about 21 years of age, of whom the pawnbroker bought it for $4. A burly colored man had been waiting outside the shop, while the trade was being made, and as soon as it was completed, he entered and took the money which the proprietor had passed over. Both men then departed.

Continuing their investigations, the officers discovered that the watch of Miss Agnes McPhee of Somerville, another "Jack the Slugger" victim, had been pawned at the same Cambridge street shop on Oct. 3, the day after her murder, by a white man whose description tallied exactly with that of the man who brought the Morton watch to the pawnbroker last Saturday night.

The descriptions of these men is said to agree to a striking extent with that of suspect Mason and the pawnbroker will be given a chance to identify him, if possible, as his visitor.

The unexpected developments have been most unfavorable to the prisoner, although his friends still claim that he can fully establish an alibi.

Irish Envoys at Lawrence

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 7.—A warm reception was tendered John Dillon, Michael Davitt and Joseph Devlin in this city last night, when they paid a visit here as the guests of the local branch of the United Irish league. Mr. Davitt told the object of their mission. Mr. Dillon explained the work which the United Irish league was doing at home and in this country through its local branches. Mr. Devlin exhorted the people to give financial and moral support to a cause which is bound to be successful if properly managed.

Shot by Unknown Man

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 7.—A posse was organized late last night in Thomaston to search for a man who attempted to kill Harold Beardsley. Beardsley was leaving his home on Plymouth hill at 7 p. m. when an unknown man sprang from behind a tree and fired a revolver at him. Beardsley had a revolver and returned the shot, but did not hit his assailant. The motive of the assault is unknown. There have been several similar assaults in that section recently.

The Admiral Sampson Libelled

Boston, Nov. 7.—A libel was brought in the United States district court yesterday by George T. Jenkins of Jonesport, Me., against the steamship Admiral Sampson. The action arises from a collision between the libelee and the schooner Charley Bucki, owned by the libellant, on Nov. 4, 1902. Damages are placed at $11,055. Four members of the crew of the Bucki were drowned.

Baby Burned to Death

Weston, Mass., Nov. 7.—In a fire last night, which practically destroyed the old Emerson house and made homeless four families, Jessie Gannett, 8 months old, was burned to death. Mrs. Gannett started out of the house with her babe in her arms, but put it down to collect some of her things. She ran out with them, but when she attempted to return the flames held her back.

To Fight Tobacco Trust

Boston, Nov. 7.—The retail cigar dealers interested in forming an organization to oppose the methods of the tobacco trust met yesterday in the Quincy House. About 200 firms were represented, and committees on constitution and bylaws were appointed, together with a committee on membership. The meeting adjourned to meet Nov. 13.

Two Deaths as Result of Fire

Malden, Mass., Nov. 7.—The explosion of a lamp at the home of Luke Maydic yesterday set fire to a bed in which Maydic's 7-year old daughter Freda was sleeping, and the child was burned to death. The child's mother died later. The fire caused very slight property damage.

Jones For Senate President

Boston, Nov. 7.—In a canvass of members-elect of the legislature, The Herald says that George R. Jones of Melrose is the preference of a majority over Rufus A. Soule of New Bedford, who is re-elected and has been president of the senate for two years.

Coal Takes a Tumble

Boston, Nov. 7.—Anthracite dropped $3 a ton to $9 yesterday immediately following the receipt of three big cargoes of that quality of coal. Dealers gave the opinion that if consignments of hard coal come forward rapidly the price will drop $2 within a month.

Both Knew How to Shoot

Grandin, Mo., Nov. 7.—Joseph Farrow and Marion Dun engaged in a duel with pistols on the street here yesterday, as the result of which both men were killed. Eleven shots were exchanged at short range, each man being hit four times. The immediate cause of the duel was difference over election matters.

BEATEN AND CHOKED

New Hampshire Woman Severely Handled by a Masked Man

Colebrook, N. H., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Martin Bunnell of Lemington spent Tuesday afternoon at Colebrook village in shopping and was driving home to Lemington, a distance of five miles, at about 4:30 o'clock. As she was going through a patch of woods a man wearing a mask sprang from the bushes and grabbed the bits of her horse. The animal jumped suddenly and Mrs. Bunnell was thrown from the wagon. The man grabbed her and dragged her into the woods, in spite of her violent struggle and screams. When she tried to tear the mask from the man's face, he struck her on the head and choked her into insensibility. As Mrs. Bunnell's horse, after the plunge which threw out the driver, had run home with an empty wagon, Mr. Bunnell hurried back to find his wife. Apparently the outlaw had taken fright, for Mrs. Bunnell was found alone in a semi-conscious condition. Her clothing was nearly torn off and she was badly bruised.

She was taken to her home. She is in a serious condition, but able to describe her assailant as being a large man wearing a slouch hat. As soon as the town authorities heard of the assault they took the matter in hand and a posse of citizens started out yesterday to find the stranger. Their search was without result.

Program Cancelled

Boston, Nov. 6.—Owing to complications that have arisen between Mascagni, the Italian composer, and his management, regarding money matters, a large audience that had assembled in Music Hall last night to witness the first production in America of Mascagni's "Ratcliffe" was doomed to disappointment by the non-appearance of the composer-leader and his orchestra, and after waiting an hour was dismissed by the management. Mascagni and his orchestra claim that they are 10 days in arrears of salaries, which statement is denied by his managers.

Explosion In Gas Works

Spencer, Mass., Nov. 6.—A heavy explosion, which did not prove fatal to anyone, occurred in the purifying room of the Spencer Gas company last night. The front part of the building was entirely demolished and the windows in the building across the street were blown in. In the gas building itself were three workmen, and one of them was hurled for some distance, but received only a few bruises. The loss is about $10,000.

Irishmen Appeal For Funds

Boston, Nov. 6.—An appeal for financial aid is made to the American people by the United Irish league in an address of the national officers issued yesterday, as the outcome of the national convention here last month. A national defense fund of $100,000, to be raised within six months, is asked for. The fund, the appeal states, is entirely distinct and separate from the United Irish league and parliamentary funds.

Union Labor and Politics

Boston, Nov. 6.—English labor movements were discussed by John A. Hobson of England in an address before the Twentieth Century club last night. He said that in Australia, trade unions, after being badly beaten in strikes, organized a political party through which, in 10 years, they gained far more by legislation than they could have obtained through trades union methods.

Dragged to Death by Horses

Ware, Mass., Nov. 6.—William F. Sullivan, 21, was dragged a mile along a rough road yesterday and died soon after the pair of runaway horses were stopped. The king-bolt of his heavy wagon broke, the horses sprang forward, the front wheels separated from the body of the vehicle and Sullivan fell so that his legs were caught between the whiffletree and brace.

Robbers Took Safe and Contents

Colchester, Conn., Nov. 6.—Michael Levine, a farmer of this town, was robbed of a safe containing $1100, the proceeds of a recent auction sale of farm property. The safe was in a room next to the chamber in which Levine slept, but the burglars pried open a window of the room, lifted out the safe and escaped unmolested.

Will Fight For No-License

Boston, Nov. 6.—After discussion of the vote by which the district option bill was defeated the executive committee of the Boston Temperance Federation yesterday decided to begin a vigorous campaign for a no-license vote at the city election.

Cattle and Cornfields Burned

Napier, Neb., Nov. 6.—Fire has been raging on the Rosebud Indian reservation since Sunday. Three hundred head of cattle are known to have been burned and several ranches in the path of the flames have not been heard from. A great many cornfields were destroyed.

Philippine Commissioners' Move

Manila, Nov. 6.—The Philippine commission has quietly purchased upwards of 20,000 tons of rice in India and on the Asiatic coasts in order to avert a rice famine. The plans of the commissioners were concealed in order to prevent possible combinations with the view of raising prices. The government's rice supplies will be sold to the famine sufferers at a cash price, covering the cost.

Spanish Warrior's Misfortune

Madrid, Nov. 6.—General Toral, who surrendered Santiago de Cuba to the American forces in July, 1898, has become insane at Murcia.

A TARIFF MODIFICATION

Advised by Managers of the Recent Campaign

DEMANDED BY THE PEOPLE

Republican Success In Elections Due to the Belief That Roosevelt Favors Liberal Measures—New York No Longer Considered a Pivotal State

Washington, Nov. 7.—If the recommendation of the officers of the Republican congressional committee have any weight with congress this winter, there will be something done toward tariff modification. This is the conclusion which persons who have been closely connected with the campaign management invariably bring back to Washington. The attitude of doing nothing with tariff and its trust complications urged in some quarters does not appeal to the managers of the campaign, who believe that the house has been saved to the Republicans by the popular belief that President Roosevelt was on the side of liberal measures, and that his efforts in that direction should be approved. It is pointed out that the Republicans have elected almost unanimously delegations in those states of the agricultural west where the tariff revision sentiment is strongest, while in several of the states of the east, where the other view is ascendant in Republican councils, the Democrats have made surprising gains.

Horace A. Taylor of Wisconsin, an assistant secretary of the treasury, in commenting on the election results, says New York no longer holds the balance of power in a presidential election, although he has no doubt that it would be a Republican state on a presidential vote by much increased majority over that which Odell received on Tuesday. But with the Republicans again in control of that great belt of states from the Missouri river to the Pacific, most of which only a few years ago were either Democratic or Populistic or doubtful, there has come to the party such strength that New York will no longer determine the results as it did in so many elections between Tilden's time and the rise of Bryan.

The members of the present house, who will soon be getting back into Washington for the short session, may be expected to give their views regarding the speakership and the tariff. Until they begin to come in it will be hard to gauge congressional opinion. It would seem ominous to elect Mr. Cannon to the speakership at a time when tariff revision sentiment was rising, for he would probably be as adverse to it as anybody who could be found. Whether the tariff revisionists will unite on somebody in opposition to him cannot yet be known, and of course the actual contest is a year distant.

The scurrying for votes has, however, begun. General Grosvenor has requested all the Ohio Republicans not to pledge themselves to any speakership candidate until they have conferred with him. Most of the members will disregard this request, but its appearance indicates the desire of the professional schemers to utilize at once the trading value of speakership votes.

From present indications the committees of the next house will be made with practically the same proportion of Republicans and Democrats as now. While the latest returns indicate a slightly smaller Republican majority than in the present house, this majority will be increased somewhat by the unseating of an occasional Democrat in districts like that of western North Carolina, where the margin is very close and the liability to questionable practices always large. The report that Congressman Conry of Boston will, in the next house, challenge the seat of Mr. Keliher, brings the promise of an interesting election contest. It is rare that a Republican house is called upon to decide between two Democrats.

Fraud Talk In Colorado

Denver, Nov. 7.—Although the returns from Tuesday's election in Colorado are very far from complete, enough have been received to show that the Republicans will have a majority of the lower house of the legislature, while the Democrats, with 17 holdovers, will have a majority in the senate. From the best reports obtainable at this time, the legislature seems to stand on joint ballot Democrats 52, Republicans 47. Of the Democratic representatives 14 are from Arapahoe county, and their seats will be contested by the Republicans on the ground of frauds in registration and at the election. Republican leaders declare that the whole number will be unseated, thus making the legislature heavily Republican on joint ballot.

Addicks Not Likely to Win

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—Complete returns from Sussex county show the election of Thomas W. Jefferson (Dem.) as state senator by a plurality of seven votes over George E. Magee, an Addicks' Republican, whom earlier reports declared elected. There are 52 members of the legislature and in the vote on joint ballot the Republicans will have a majority of one, but as seven are "regular Republicans" and opposed to Addicks, his chances of election to the United States senate are still further reduced by Jefferson's election.

Mind Was Probably Deranged

Baltimore, Nov. 7.—Herman Grutzebauk, a steward on the steamship Brandenburg, which arrived here yesterday from Bremen, jumped overboard on Oct. 28 and was lost. Grutzebauk was one of the survivors of the Hoboken fire, being at that time on board the Bremen. He was nearly roasted by the fire on that vessel, and is said to have been demented ever since. He had been in the service of the company 15 years.

Baiz Backed by Gunboat

Port of Spain, Nov. 7.—The United States gunboat Marietta arrived yesterday at Barcelona, Venezuela, in order to compel the revolutionists there to release the United States consular agent, Ignacio H. Baiz, who was arrested for refusing to subscribe to a forced loan. The treatment which Baiz has been subjected to is only an incident similar to many others which have occurred in every part of Venezuela.

Anti-Salers' Eyes Opened

Copenhagen, Nov. 7.—The smallness of the subscriptions (one-fifth of the proposed capital of about $1,000,000) to the proposed Danish West India company, is discussed everywhere in this country. Many former anti-salers are now wishing the islands had been sold. The prospect of assisting the inhabitants of the islands is now more problematical than ever.

The Rabe-Busch Tragedy

Omaha, Nov. 7.—The coroner's jury which investigated the deaths of Rev. W. C. Rabe and Miss Augusta Busch returned a verdict that death resulted from asphyxiation by gas, through carelessness. Nothing which could throw any light upon the tragedy was brought out at the inquest.

President In New Offices

Washington, Nov. 7.—President Roosevelt yesterday began the transaction of business in the new executive offices adjoining the White House. A few finishing touches still remain to be put upon the building, but the interior is practically completed and the office force has been installed.

Overlooked For Twelve Years

Washington, Nov. 7.—By an oversight, an extradition treaty between the United States and Guatamala, made 12 years ago, has remained unproclaimed, and so inoperative, up to the present time. Arrangements are being made for its mutual proclamation at an early day.

Bank Safe Cleaned Out

Herington, Kan., Nov. 7.—Robbers blew open the safe of the Tampa State bank here and took about $2800 in currency, escaping on a handcar. The safe was blown to pieces.

If you have a bad cold you need a good reliable medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to loosen and relieve it, and to allay the irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs. For sale by all druggists.

An Anti-Duelling Proposition

Paris, Nov. 7.—M. Lecomte introduced a bill in the senate yesterday making duelling a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment and fine. The bill provides, if death ensues from the encounter, for the punishment of the surviving duellist with imprisonment from one to three years and a fine of from $11 to $1000.

Mile In 47 1-5 Seconds

Paris, Nov. 7.—At Dourdan yesterday Henri Fournier, driving an automobile, covered a mile in 47 1-5 seconds, thus breaking the record held by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr. Fournier's time was made in spite of muddy roads. His machine travelled at the rate of 76 miles an hour.

LOSING FLESH.

Are you losing flesh? If so, better consult your doctor at once. He will tell you the cause. We can provide the remedy, which is Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil.

We have known persons to gain a pound a day, by taking an ounce of the Emulsion.

A young woman in Batavia writes us she had lost twenty-five pounds in three months, and her lungs were seriously affected. She took three bottles of Scott's Emulsion and gained fifteen pounds, and was able to resume her work

It will cure consumption in the early stages. It is a remarkable flesh producer.

SLAYER UNKNOWN

Result of Coroner's Inquest In the Case of the "Hobo Burglar"

Portland, Me., Nov. 7.—At the adjourned session of the coroner's inquest yesterday a verdict was reached that William Thompson came to his death at Westbrook Oct. 28 through bullet wounds inflicted by some person or persons to the jury unknown. No witnesses were called by Coroner Perry, as there was no evidence to place the charge against any one.

Thompson was shot through the lip and wrist on the highway about four miles from here and a mile from Westbrook on the morning of Oct. 28. It was the theory of the police that the bullet which proved fatal was fired by one of two men with whom Thompson robbed a general store a mile from where the shooting occurred, and had a disagreement regarding the division of the spoils. Thompson was intoxicated when he dragged himself to a farmhouse and begged for admission. His pockets were filled with articles taken from the store, beside a small bottle of nitroglycerine and a stick of dynamite.

Agreement of Gilman Heirs

New York, Nov. 7.—Notice of an agreement between the "half-blood" and "full-blood" heirs of George F. Gilman, the millionaire merchant, who left an estate over which was started a legal controversy that threatened to be interminable, was filed yesterday in the supreme court at Brooklyn. The business formerly conducted by Gilman is to pass into the hands of a corporation, to be organized with a capital of $2,100,000, $1,250,000 of which is to be issued to the administrators of the estate. They, in turn, are to distribute four-fifths among the "full-blood" relatives and one-fifth, or $250,000, among the "half-blood" relatives.

Miss Biggar Secures Bail

New York, Nov. 7.—Bail was furnished yesterday for Laura Biggar, charged with conspiracy in connection with the Bennett will case. She surrendered voluntarily three days ago. No bail has yet been found for Dr. Hendricks or Former Justice Stanton, who are held on the same charge.

Big Output of Gold

Washington, Nov. 7.—Mr. Roberts, the director of the mint, yesterday made public his final statement of the gold output of Alaska for the last 10 months. These figures, which are based on the receipts at San Francisco, Seattle and the Selby refinery, show a total of $18,870,075.

Persian Minister Returns

Washington, Nov. 7.—Isaac Khan, Persian minister to the United States, returned to Washington yesterday after an absence of six months, which he spent mostly in company with the Shah of Persia at the different summer resorts in Europe and also in the various European capitals.

Kaiser Goes Visiting

Kiel, Nov. 7.—Emperor William left here last night on board the Hohenzollern for England, where he will visit King Edward. It is expected that the emperor will remain at Sandringham as the guest of the British sovereign until Nov. 16, when he will visit Lord Lonsdale.

Unfortunate Indeed

Boston, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Lizzie Chase of Somerville lost or had stolen from her pocket $2700, the amount of insurance upon the life of her husband, who died last week, and which she had just collected. The money was all she possessed.

Shortened by Seventeen Rounds

St. Louis, Nov. 7.—In the boxing contest scheduled for 20 rounds between Benny Yanger and Tony Moran here last night Yanger knocked Moran out in the third round by a solar plexus blow. Each man weighed in at 125 pounds.

The Social Realm.

The mellow year is hastening to its close.
The little birds have almost sung their last
Their small notes twitter in the dreary blast;
The shrill piped harbinger of early snows.
The patient beauty of the scentless rose,
Oft with the morn's hoar crystal faintly glassed
Hangs a pale mourner, for the summer past,
And makes a little summer where it grows.
In the chill sunbeam of the faint, brief day
The dusky waters shudder as they shine;
The russet leaves obstruct the straggling way
Of oozy brooks, which no deep banks define,
And the gaunt woods, in ragged, scant array,
Wrap their old limbs with sombre ivy twined.
—Hartley Coleridge.

THE SOCIALISTS.

Nominate William T. Richards for Mayor.

Salesman of a Boston Firm.

Complete Ticket for Councilmen at-Large and by Wards.

The Socialists held caucuses in all wards last night and nominated candidates for Mayor, Councilmen-at-large, School Committee-at-large, and Councilmen from the several wards.

There were two candidates for Mayor, Gustave B. Bates and William T. Richards. Mr. Bates announced yesterday that he did not desire the nomination and he received but a small vote. The candidates nominated follow:

For Mayor,—William T. Richards.

Councilmen-at-large,—Alexander D. Booth, Albert G. Coffin, James F. Foye, William M. Packard and Charles H. Sargent.

School Committee-at-large, — Mrs. Emily T. Turner.

Ward Councilmen:

Ward 1,—Gustaf Livendale, Lewis Cote, Daniel Doran.

Ward 2,—Daniel Banks, Willie E. Stoddard, Patrick Conners.

Ward 3, Henry J. Rendle, John Malmquist, James Savage.

Ward 4, — Fred Baylor, William Cochrane, Jeremiah Dennie.

Ward 5,--Clarence H. Barstow, A. Hall Kingsley, Elmer E. Gray.

Ward 6, — Elmer Baker, William Flemming, Andrew Raiche.

Mr. Richards, the Mayoralty candidate, was born in West Brookfield in 1858. He is a machinist by trade, but is employed as a salesman for the Puritan Manufacturing Co. of Boston.

TIE ON RECOUNT.

Another Caucus by Republicans of Ward Two.

The chairman and secretary of the Ward Two Republican caucus made a recount last evening, on the petition of Alexander Thompson of the votes of the caucus Wednesday evening for Ward Councilmen.

The returns of the caucus officers gave Councilman Thompson 198 votes, or one less than Mr. Stone.

At the recount Mr. Thompson gained one vote making the nomination of the third Councilman a tie between Mr. Thompson and Mr. Stone.

This means that another caucus will have to be held by the Republicans of Ward Two to nominate one candidate for the City Council.

Section 93 of the caucus act provides that if there is a tie for candidates for an elective office a new ballot must be taken forthwith.

A RECOUNT.

The Socialists Ask for One for Representatives.

Levi H. Turner, the Socialist candidate for Representative at the State election, is not satisfied with the result, and believes there was some crooked work somewhere, and for that reason he wants a recount of the votes. He was about Atlantic yesterday trying to get some justice of the peace to circulate his petitition in the different wards. He was evidently successful, for yesterday afternoon before the time for filing petitions for recounts had expired he had filed his.

The Socialists claim that by the returns as published there is a discrepancy, and that there was a large number of blanks not accounted for. Mr. Turner's total vote was 943 and the votes of the two elected were: Freeman, 1268; Fallon, 1272.

The recount will be by the Board of Registrars.

☞The first of a course of lectures by Leon H. Vincent, who is so well known to Quincy people, will be given at Colonial hall this evening at 8 P. M., under the auspices of the Quincy Tennis Club. Dr. Johnson and the literary club is the subject of the first lecture and the literary people of the city are promised a great treat. Tickets at $1 for the course, of four lectures, may be had of members of the club. Admission to a single lecture, 35 cents.

Asthma and Hay Fever Cured.

The truly marvelous cures of Asthma, which are being effected by Dr. Schiffmann's Asthma Cure certainly call for notice.

Rev. G. L. Taylor, of Washburn, Ill., says: "Some 7 years ago my wife used several packages of your Asthma Cure which resulted in a permanent cure."

A Hay Fever sufferer writes: "I have been a sufferer from Hay Fever for over 20 years, and it seemed harder every year. The first night I used your Asthma Cure I was greatly relieved. It cured my cough after using a few times. I shall recommend it to all sufferers of Hay Fever." Mrs. Martha Simerson, Laingsburg, Mich.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 9—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—God's covenant and ours.—Ex. xxiv, 3-8; Jer. xxxi, 31-34.

A covenant is a compact between two or more persons. The covenants of the Bible are between God and His people. Inasmuch as God is so superior to man the covenants between Him and man resolve themselves into conditional promises. God makes a promise to man upon certain conditions. Man accepts the promise and agrees to fulfill the conditions. This is the character of the covenants between God and man. After they are made it is man's place to fulfill the conditions and God's place to keep the promise attached to the conditions. This He always does.

In the history of the human race God has made many conditional promises to mankind, but two of these stand out pre-eminently above all others as God's covenant with His people.

1. The covenant of works. This is the covenant of the Old Testament dispensation. By this covenant God promised man eternal life upon condition of perfect obedience to His law. This covenant was reiterated to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses and the other leaders of Israel. God's people accepted this covenant. They agreed to the conditions. Upon their part they agreed to obey God's law. At Mount Sinai, when Moses had received the law anew from God, "he told the people all the words of the Lord and all the judgments, and all the people answered with one voice and said, All the words which the Lord hath said will we do." With sprinkled blood Moses solemnized their ratification of the covenant. But alas for the frailty of human nature! Swift to promise, it is slow to pay. Israel did not here nor at any other time keep its covenant vow, and hence a new and better covenant became necessary.

2. The covenant of grace. The covenant of works having failed to save man, God made the covenant of grace with His people to the end that their salvation might be assured. By this new and better covenant, which was prophesied even in the Old Testament (Jer. xxxi, 31-34), God promised to save His people upon their acceptance of the sacrifice of His Son in their stead. They had broken the law and were condemned. Christ was to keep the law and by His death pay the penalty for the broken law. Acceptance of Christ and His work under the new covenant was to bring salvation. This is the covenant of grace, and it is in operation today and should be accepted by all men everywhere. It seems incredible that such a blessing as eternal salvation could be so easily obtained. So incredible does it appear that many have doubted or rejected it. Christ crucified has been a stumbling block to the Jews and foolishness to the Greeks. But we need not doubt the covenant of grace. The gospel is the power of God unto salvation. It's God's covenant, and He will be faithful to it.

Our covenant with God should be as inviolable as His covenant with us. If we have accepted the covenant of grace, we should be strong in Christian faith and in Christian endeavor. "He is faithful who hath promised." Let us be faithful who have accepted the promise with its accompanying conditions.

Endeavor In Unexpected Places.

In an appendix to her husband's book, "Training the Church of the Future," a manual of the Christian Endeavor movement, published by Funk & Wagnalls company, New York, Mrs. Francis E. Clark says: Christian Endeavor has found its way into many unexpected places. In 1890 a society was formed in a Wisconsin state prison, and the chaplain found it a real help in his work among the prisoners. Because of the good work done in that society other societies have been organized in other prisons, notably in Kentucky, where a splendid work has been done. Other flourishing prison societies are found in Indiana, Iowa, New Mexico, New York and several other states. Societies have also been formed in schools and in hospitals among the nurses and among policemen and among traveling men, in the army and in many other places where no one would have thought of finding them, but their object is always the same, to help their members to be better Christians.

IN THE SHADOW OF THE JOSS

By JESSIE JULIET KNOX

Copyright, 1901, by J. J. Knox

A shower of almond blossoms, a low, musical laugh, and the world had just begun for the young Ah Gong.

It was the week of the Chinese New Year, the time when every heart Celestial beats with joy, and the heart of the handsome young Chinaman beat with more than the usual allotment of joy as he glanced upward to find the source of the snowy shower of the omnipresent almond blossom. Was it a woman who had dared? In that glance upward his whole soul went out to the owner of the sweet, piquant face as it leaned far out over a mass of Chinese lilies and almond blossoms, and his young heart thrilled with something that went straight to the heart of the fair one, the one who dared.

With all the coquetry of her sex, she smiled upon him in a sweet, shy way not to be resisted by one of the temperament of Ah Gong. Who could wonder that in the sweet intoxication of that glance he forgot that he had a wife? A wife who was old and ugly and like a piece of parchment, not a sweet, dimpled, perfumed thing like this!

The fair one, Ah Leen, had been burning her incense before the good Joss and had bowed her pretty head, glistening with jewels, so many times upon the rugs and waved her sandalwood sticks so dutifully. And while doing this it had seemed to her maiden heart that it must be lovely to be good, as good as joss would like one to be, and after her devotions she had stepped out upon the long balcony overlooking the streets in order to gaze upon the ever changing crowd.

The narrow streets were lined with almond blossoms and lilies, and in front of every door and on all the picturesque balconies, swayed by the breeze, glowed the great, round lanterns, and in every doorway were the little bowls of burning incense and the red papers to scare away the devil. Far up in the latticed windows burned large red candles and from these same windows peeped happy faces.

Ah Gong looked again, and the more he looked the more was he convinced that his soul was in great peril and that it was absolutely imperative that he should at once repair to the josshouse and supplicate the gods. He suddenly remembered that he had been very lax in that respect lately, and with a boldness quite remarkable for one who cared nothing for these things he mounted the stairway and—well—"hearts are hearts the weary world over." There comes a time to every one when the sound of one voice and the glance from two eyes have the power to thrill our heartstrings and make one forget everything except the intoxication of being loved. That time had come for the aristocratic little Chinese maiden, and through no fault of hers. It was fate—that was all.

She said to the maid: "Ah, Suey, look! You think bimeby he come? My hair—is it pretty? My lips—are they red? What makes me feel so strange? Will the good joss be angry?"

"No, no. You are beautiful; more beautiful than the almond flower! Your eyes are stars, your mouth a rose, your heart speaks—listen!"

And, listening, she heard and saw with the eyes of her soul, and then—he came, and with his coming life was changed.

First, as the maid reported through the chinks of the carved woodwork, he burned his incense sticks and little red papers before the great joss, his silken robes clinging gracefully to his lithe form the while, and then he placed his New Year's card, a long slip of red paper with his name in Chinese letters, on the carved table.

His devotions over, what more natural than that he, too, should repair to the balcony to look down upon the crowd? What more natural than that the little Ah Leen should drop her fan at that precise moment? She really did not mean to do it, but she was so startled by the appearance of the one upon whom she had showered her almond blossoms. He was not like any one she had ever seen. He was so strong and handsome and young, not in the least like the vicious old Gum Ching, the highbinder to whom her father had promised her in marriage.

It was also quite natural that Ah Gong should pick up the perfumed fan and return it to the fair unknown with a light pressure of the hand and a thrilling glance from his dark eyes.

Ah Suey might have been deaf, dumb and blind for aught one could notice to the contrary. Like the well trained little maid she was, she saw and heard nothing. The two conversed as readily as if they had known each other forever, and for a time Ah Leen forgot that she was promised to old Gum Ching. She meant no harm. She was only a young thing and human, and she had a tender, innocent heart which had never before been touched. But tonight she knew as she looked into the eyes of this man that life would never again be the same.

After hearing her sad story he mentally registered a vow that she should never wed the highbinder.

They must meet again, but how and where? It was the deaf and dumb Ah Suey who spoke at this moment and suggested the theater. The theater—ah, yes! As this was only the first night of the New Year she would be allowed her liberty for a week. A week of bliss was before her if only she could play well her cards. And he did not remember until he had left her that he did not think to tell her he was married.

She and her maid leisurely took their departure from the place, with a guilty look at the joss as they passed, and toddled along through the narrow, blossom lined streets to their home. She slept that night with her lips on the dainty sandalwood fan he had touched, and no premonition of evil disturbed her slumbers.

Next day she was happy in the thought that she was to see him again. Was ever a day so long? The maid dressed her hair more gorgeously than she had ever done before and covered it with jeweled ornaments. The pretty lips were dyed a vivid red, the cheeks were tinted and the eyes blackened. The long finger nails were manicured most carefully, and when at last she was ready a more beautiful picture cannot be imagined.

With loudly beating hearts the two girls wended their way to the large theater. Pushing through the mass of Celestials who were literally packed into every available niche of the place, they ascended with hundreds of other women and children to the balcony next the roof.

They could look down on the stage. The tomtoms were clanging noisily and the shrill notes of the stringed instruments rose high in unison with the sharp falsettos of the men who were impersonating women. The air was heavy with the ever present odor of opium, but Ah Leen hardly knew what was going on about her. She had told him that she would remain only long enough to be seen at the theater, so soon the two girls slipped out unnoticed in the crowd and met Ah Gong in a little dressing room back of the stage. Passing on, down some narrow steps, they found themselves winding through tortuous underground corridors.

Ah Leen was completely mystified, but she had no fear of anything except separation from this wonderful being. At last they slipped into one of the small compartments on either side of the opium scented passageway, and there, chaperoned by the little maid, they enjoyed several hours of uninterrupted bliss.

Ere they had parted they had agreed to meet again the next night at the josshouse. When the young Ah Gong stepped out into the pure air, he felt something pushed forcibly into his hand. A horrible fear stole upon him. He glanced quickly in every direction, but could see no one who looked as if he had done this thing. The Celestials toddled along just the same, the almond blossoms still retained their fragrance and yet—this man had just received his death warrant. On the little slip of red paper in his trembling hand he read: "You shall die like a dog; the reason, Ah Leen."

Knowing well that the highbinders always kept their vows, all hope died within him.

"To die," he groaned, "when she loves me! I must see her! Perhaps we can escape if we hasten!"

Ah Leen had gone home another way. He could not warn her.

"I will see her tomorrow night. Perhaps we can escape!"

Meanwhile Ah Leen was happy.

Again fell the night. Ah Leen was first at the rendezvous, and the dutiful Ah Suey was eagerly watching through the chinks of the carved wood.

"He comes! He comes! He is fairer than the sun! See! He kneels before the joss! He burns the incense! He"—

Just then sudden darkness fell on the place. They could not understand. They were afraid.

It lasted only a moment. The tapers were relighted, and before the trembling Ah Leen could realize what had happened she felt her tender little body seized in the rough grasp of some one and felt his hot breath on her pretty face. With a scream of horror she looked into the yellow face, and then all hope died within her, for it was Gum Ching, the highbinder. Forcing her upon her tiny feet while Ah Suey was made prisoner by one of his accomplices, he brought her out into the temple, saying:

"You mine now. I never let you go! You go no more to meet Ah Gong!"

And then she beheld the brave and handsome one, the one whose warm lips had so lately clung to hers, lying dead in the shadow of the joss.

Wouldn't Do For a Minister.

A carping old Scotchwoman said to her pastor one day:

"Dear me, meenisters mak' muckle adae aboot their hard work. But what's twa bits o' sermons in the week tae mak' up? I cud dae it masel'."

"Weel, Janet," said the minister, "let's hear ye."

"Come awa' wi' a text, then," quoth she.

He repeated, with emphasis:

"It is better to dwell in the corner of the housetop than with a brawling woman and in a wide house."

Janet fired up instantly.

"What's that ye say, sir? Dae ye intend onything personal?"

"Stop, stop!" broke in her pastor. "You wud never dae for a meenister."

"An' what for no?" asked she sharply.

"Because, Janet, you come ower soon tae the application!"

Durability of Wood.

In some tests made with small squares of various woods buried one inch in the ground the following results were obtained: Birch and aspen decayed in three years, willow and horse chestnut in four years, maple and red beech in five years, elm, ash, hornbeam and Lombardy poplar in seven years; oak, Scotch fir, Weymouth pine and silver fir decayed to a depth of half an inch in seven years; larch, juniper and arbor vitæ were uninjured at the expiration of the seven years.

I'M THE ROMOC MAN

I TRAVEL ABOUT THE COUNTRY WITH A MISSION—A VERY DISTINCT AND DEFINITE OBJECT. I PREACH LITTLE SERMONS ABOUT NATURE—NATURE IN HER RELATION TO MAN'S PHYSICAL NEEDS. I HAVE SOMETHING DIFFERENT TO SAY EVERY TIME YOU SEE ME, AND I SHOULD LIKE TO HAVE IT UNDERSTOOD THAT I DON'T MAKE STATEMENTS AND ADVANCE THEORIES JUST TO HEAR MYSELF TALK. NATURE STARTS EVERY HUMAN BEING OUT WITH A SET OF PHYSICAL ORGANS, ALL NECESSARY TO THE LIFE OF THEIR OWNER. THE STOMACH, THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND THE BLOOD (WITH ITS CIRCULATING SYSTEM, INCLUDING THE HEART)—THESE ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT ORGANS OF THE BODY. NATURE KNOWS BEST HOW TO REPAIR THESE ORGANS WHEN THEY GET OUT OF ORDER. I AM GOING TO TELL YOU HOW, BY MEANS OF ROMOC, SHE DOES SO. MASON NOT IDENTIFIED

As the Man Who Pawned Miss McPhee's Watch

SLUGGING MYSTERY GROWS

By a Woman's Identification of the Prisoner as the Man Who Annoyed Her In a Public Building—Recalls the Case of Janitor Soderquest

Boston, Nov. 8.—Joseph Nemser, the Cambridge street jeweler, who bought the watches of Clara Morton and Agnes McPhee, both murdered by "Jack the Slugger," was taken by the state police yesterday to the house of correction, East Cambridge, to have a look at Alan G. Mason, now held there on a charge of murder. The journey was made as a result of the discovery of the McPhee watch—a discovery second only in importance in this case to that of Miss Morton's watch. The watch, a small silver one, was bought by Nemser for $4 on Oct. 3—the day after the McPhee murder—from a man described by him to be a white man of dark complexion, medium in stature, with a Roman nose and close-cropped black moustache.

Nemser's trip to Cambridge was to see if he could identify the man as Mason. This identification was not made. It is rumored that out of the group Nemser picked out another man than Mason as the one who sold him the watch. This man, it is said, was a prisoner in the institution. The possibility immediately suggests itself that this other man was Marshall Bean—the man arrested in Lowell for an assault case in which the details were similar to that of the "slugger's" work. It has been impossible, however, to discover whether or not this surmise is correct. The possibilities such a surmise opens up are limitless.

An important detail in connection with the disposal of the watches was the establishment last night that the signatures on the checks kept on file by the jeweler in identification of the persons who offered him the articles, were written by one and the same person. This confirms the theory that the two women were murdered by the same man. But Jeweler Nemser has not agreed at all times that the man who sold the watches was a white man in each instance, or that he was a negro. The state police are instituting an expert examination of the signatures in comparison with Mason's handwriting.

Scarcely had the officers in charge of Nemser left the jail when a Watertown woman called at the institution and asked to see Sheriff Fairbairn. She gave her name as Mrs. Sayres, and she was accompanied by Patrolman Bent and Druggist Butler of Watertown. She said she wanted to see Mason because she believed from the picture which had appeared in the newspapers that he was the man who had annoyed her last summer in the natural history rooms in this city, and again Mason was placed in a line with other inmates of the jail, and again he was with others subjected to a rigid scrutiny. As in the case of Nemser's attempt at identification, Mrs. Sayres was allowed to give no sign or utter no word in the presence of the men before her, but when she entered the sheriff's office from the jail she declared immediately that the fourth man in line was the man who had annoyed her. The fourth man was Mason.

This alleged identification by the Sayres woman adds another mysterious feature to a case which has already tried the minds of the best detectives in Massachusetts and at the same time it recalls another "Jack the Slugger" case in which John C. L. Soderquest was convicted in September of assault with intent to kill on Miss Eva Crockett on Aug. 30 at the same natural history building referred to by Mrs. Sayres. Soderquest was the janitor at the building. For this crime the man is now serving a sentence of seven years in state prison and the belief was expressed at the time that Soderquest was responsible for the many mysterious assaults on young women in Cambridge and Brookline, who were beaten on the head with some iron weapon, just as Miss Morton and Miss McPhee were. State police are now investigating the story of Mrs. Sayres in comparison with the more important details of the Soderquest affair.

Other features of the case were the arrest last night at Watertown of a young mulatto on suspicion. He was taken to this city and confronted by Jeweler Nemser, but the latter failed to identify. The negro was released.

Still another clue for the police is the statement of a Winchester nurse that she saw a negro board a train at North Cambridge and leave it at Waverley just before the murder of Miss Morton. This falls in line with the theory of the Boston police that the murderer was a negro and not a white man.

So serious has the case become that Governor Crane has interested himself and looked over the scene of the assault while on a visit yesterday to Waverley.

Beaten and Robbed

Hilton, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Masked burglars entered the home of Ezra Clint in this village, shoved a revolver into his mouth, beat him over the head with an iron bar and secured $100. Clint has always been credited with having money concealed about the house.

No Love For Courtney

London, Nov. 8.—Referring to the possibility of Cornell university sending a crew to compete at the Henley regatta next year, The Daily Telegraph says: Cornell will be warmly welcomed at Henley, but the crew would be well advised not to allow the prominence of their professional coach, Mr. Courtney, which he enjoyed upon the occasion of his last visit. Courtney's attitude toward the Leander club has not been forgotten and it need not be forgiven. Nobody at Henley wishes to have anything to do with his methods of management.

Political Riot In Vienna

Vienna, Nov. 8.—Riotous disturbances marked the election in the favoriten district of Vienna yesterday of members to the landtag (or provincial assembly). Anti-Semites stormed the headquarters of the committee of the Socialists and a fierce fight ensued. The rioters were charged by mounted police, and 40 of them were arrested. Many received sabre wounds. The anti-Semites carried the election by a majority of 39 out of a total poll of 13,000. The clericals now hold the entire representation of Vienna in the landtag.

Democrats Will Fight For Teller

Denver, Nov. 8.—At a caucus yesterday of Democratic members of the new legislature, it was decided that if the Republicans shall take revolutionary tactics to unseat Teller men in the house the senate, which is strongly Democratic, will not meet in joint lock the legislature in order to make it impossible to elect a successor to be impossible to elect a successor to Senator Teller.

Oklahoma Result In Doubt

Guthrie, O. T., Nov. 8.—Only the official count will determine the election for congress in Oklahoma. The Republicans claim the election of McGuire by 260 majority, while the Democratic committee has fairly definite returns showing the majority of Cross to be 987. Official returns from the remote western section of Oklahoma have not been received.

Long Life Well Spent

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Sarah J. Jones died here yesterday at the age of 102 years. She was born in England and came to the United States 90 years ago. Mrs. Jones possessed considerable literary talents and kept up her interest in the world's events to the very last. She rode out frequently, going out as late as last Monday.

Populists Turned Down

Helena, Mont., Nov. 8.—Nearly complete returns show that the Republicans made a clean sweep in Montana for the first time in 10 years. There was a bitter factional fight in the Democratic party between Clark and Heinze, and the Democrats elected very few members of the legislature, while the Populists, whom Heinze marshalled, did not win a single office.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Ground for the new Pennsylvania state capitol was broken at Harrisburg by Joseph M. Huston, who designed the building. The building will cost $4,000,000.

Hall Mahone, colored, was hanged at Van Buren, Ark., for assaulting Mrs. Rebecca McLoud. The execution was witnessed by about 5000 people.

The Cuban press is at present making a campaign for the appointment of Frank Steinhart as United States consul general at Havana.

Secretary Moody has resumed his official duties at the navy department after an absence of several weeks in the west and in New England, where he took an active part in the political campaign.

Professor Fuertees, who for 30 years has had charge of the department of civil engineering at Cornell university, has tendered his resignation to the executive committee of the board of trustees, giving ill health as his reason. The resignation was accepted.

The postmaster general has ordered that the position of postoffice physician be abolished in all postoffices in cities under 500,000 population.

Schooner Mary Farrow of Winterport, Me., with 250,000 feet of boxboards, went ashore on Great Ledge.

HE PLAYED PORTER.

How a Quick Witted Girl Settled a Clever Gentleman.

On this particular occasion she landed in New York from a trip to Philadelphia about 8 o'clock in the evening. As, suit case in hand, she stepped lightly from a Twenty-third street car at Broadway, two gentlemen—tall and distinguished looking in full dress, opera hats, etc.—crossed the tracks at the rear of the car and met her face to face.

"Carry your grip, mum," impudently remarked one of them, with all the airs of a "smartie" who thinks he has done something clever.

Quick as a flash into the white gloved hand went the travel soiled grip, and with a "To the next corner" the "clever gentleman" found himself suddenly transformed into a porter, with a trim little miss walking along beside him in a very matter of fact way.

Looking as if he wanted to treat the matter as a joke and didn't know exactly how, he religiously carried the grip to the corner. What else could the poor man do?

Relieving him finally of his burden, the girl innocently slipped a dime into the elegantly gloved hand (she was used to having porters assist her) and prepared to board a car. Not the slightest suggestion of a smile crossed her pretty features.

As the whiz of the car finally drowned the uproarious laughter and the "That's one on you" of the victim's companion a merry twinkle might have been seen in a pair of blue eyes on a Columbus avenue car bound Harlemward.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Lawn Games In England.

We get nothing like the pleasure out of our lawns which the English do. Where we are at fault is that we do not use our lawns to anything like their full capacity of enjoyment. Here and there we use them as the framing of lawn tennis or croquet courts (which we make either of dirt or asphalt), and here and there we mark out upon their surface a baseball diamond. Still rarely and only in limited localities they are used for the playing of cricket. Both the latter games, however, require for their outfielders rather a field than a lawn, within the ordinary meaning of the word, and, speaking broadly and generally, it may be said with truth that we have no games which require only a lawn and nothing more.

Nevertheless the two games of jack o' the green, or lawn bowls, and quoits have held their own through ten centuries at least in Great Britain and in later times have spread with the race to the remotest parts, which might be played on tens of thousands of lawns in America, to the great advantage of the players and to the enhancement of the pleasures of country life.—Country Life In America.

An Alligator's Nest.

Alligators' nests resemble haycocks more than anything else to which they can be compared. They average about four feet in height and five feet in diameter and are constructed of grasses and herbage. First the mother gator deposits one layer of eggs on a mortar-like floor, and, having covered this with a stratum of mud and herbage about eight inches thick, lays another set of eggs upon that, and so on to the top, there being commonly from 100 to 200 eggs in a nest. With their tails the parents then beat down the tall grass and weeds to prevent the approach of unseen enemies. The female watches her eggs until they are hatched by the heat of the sun and then takes her brood under her own care, defending them and providing for their subsistence.

The Blenheim Spaniel.

It is a traditionary custom in the Marlborough family for each duke to present a Blenheim spaniel to the duchess when she enters Blenheim palace for the first time as its mistress. The story from which this custom had its origin is that during the battle of Blenheim a spaniel followed at the heels of the great duke throughout the day, never leaving him until victory was assured, and the duchess, the famous Sarah Churchill, in memory of the incident forthwith adopted the spaniel as her favorite dog.

Ideal.

"An ideal match," they say, indicating the newly married couple.

"Eminently suited to each other," they continue.

Here they pause and watch the happy pair.

"Seems like a made to order meeting of affinities," they conclude. "He is a vegetarian, and she is a grass widow."—Judge.

Appropriate.

"Why," asked the stage manager, "do you insist upon shouting 'Bah!' at intervals of about two minutes?"

"Why?" repeated the villain in tones that indicated a complete confidence in the consistency of his performance. "Because the cast of characters plainly indicates that I am the black sheep of my family."—What to Eat.

FOR MAYOR
CHARLES M BRYANT

Good Afternoon.

It was to be expected that somebody would be jealous because the Ledger came out in endorsement of the Republican nominee for Mayor, but that is not an unusual position, for the Ledger is not a bolter, and did not bolt the regular nomination last year. On the other hand the Advertiser came out after the State election and asked its readers to SHOUT! Shout at what? Shout because "Democrats elect one Representative" and "Social Democrats make big gains throughout the city." No reference at all was made in the heading to the grand Republican majority for Gov. Bates and all the Republican State ticket, or for the majorities for the Republican candidates for Congressman and Senator, and the fact that Quincy elected one Republican Representative by only four less votes than the Democrat received.

The statement that "for a year past Mr. Bryant's administration has been the subject of the Ledger's abuse" is exaggerated and untruthful. No newspaper has supported more heartily the remodelling of City Hall or given a better description of the building since completed. When Mr. Faxon and the Brookline Chronicle assailed the appropriations and the debt of Quincy, it was the Ledger which promptly, clearly and conclusively showed up the mistake, and presented the situation in its true light. The Ledger favored a new police station, signal boxes and patrol wagon. Words of praise for the work of the Fire department have always been freely given; and appreciation has also been shown for improvements in the Street department, and other departments. Oh, no! the Ledger has not been hot after Mayor Bryant's administration. Kindly give us just aittle credit.

It is a remarkable change which has been made in Norfolk county's representation in the Legislature. In 1903 both our senators will be new men, but not without experience, as both have been active members of the House. The flattering votes which Hon. Albert A. Brackett of Milton and Hon. Albion F. Bemis of Foxboro received, attest to their popularity. In the house, Norfolk County will have eight new members out of thirteen, the reelected men being Dean of Brookline, Dyer of Hyde Park, Drinkwater of Braintree, Willis of Weymouth and Sutton of Needham. In political complexion both Senators are Republicans as last year, and nine of the Representatives, giving the Democrats four, a gain of one over last year.

Senators—Norfolk County.

District.
1.—Albert A. Brackett of Milton, R.
2.—Albion F. Bemis of Foxboro, R.

Representatives—Norfolk County.

District.
1.—Henry E. Weatherbee of Westwood, R.
2.—Benjamin C. Dean of Brookline, R.
3.—Edward Q. Dyer of Hyde Park, R.
4.—William W. Brooks of Canton, D.
5.—Peter T. Fallon of Quincy, D.
Richard R. Freeman of Quincy, R.
6.—Horace R. Drinkwater of Braintree, D.
Gordon Willis of Weymouth, R.
7.—Fred M. French of Randolph, R.
8.—Gordon Southworth of Stoughton, R.
9.—Thomas Sutton of Needham, R.
10.—Franklin Brown of Wrentham, R.
Herbert W. Thayer of Franklin, R.

Relative to a motion to amend, Rule 5 of the City Council provides that motions shall have precedence as follows: 1—To adjourn; 2—To lay on the table; 3—The previous question; 4—To postpone to a day certain; 5—To commit; 6—To amend, or to postpone indefinitely. The Council had just voted adversely on a motion to commit the $1500 nuisance order, and a motion to suspend the rules had been entertained and withdrawn, and before the Council had proceeded to any other business, a motion was made to amend said order. Inasmuch as the Councilman had the floor, and an amendment is in order at any stage, we claim the motion was in order. The amendment would undoubtedly have been defeated, but nevertheless there should be fair play.

Edwin Marsh, Esq., voted on Tuesday last for the sixtieth time at the annual State elections. A gentleman in Hingham has voted 59 times, but Mr. Marsh of Quincy has gone him one better. He has not missed a State election during the past sixty years, which but a few citizens in the State, can say. And he is good for ten years more in our humble opinion; being strong and active, and doing considerable business each day.

Hon. John L. Bates led Gen. Curtis Guild, his running mate 3,605 votes in 292 cities and towns. A few more to hear from.

☞Now is the time to use printer's ink on the elm and apple trees, before the heavy frosts.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Time is up for petitions for recount of votes cast at the State election.

Calendars for 1903 are beginning to arrive and handsome ones they are too.

The Altar society connected with the Wollaston Unitarian church are to give a dance.

James Rose has been appointed administrator of the estate of John Rose; bond $4,000.

Free social next Tuesday evening under auspices of the Epworth League at M. E. church, Atlantic.

Miss Bertha Nichols of Botolph street has accepted a position as assistant bookkeeper with T. Gurney.

A meeting of the Fragment Society will be held in the Unitarian Chapel on Wednesday afternoon, November 12, at two o'clock.

There was a large attendance of Unitarians at the meeting of the New England Associate Alliance at Hingham on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thurston of Braintree and formerly of Atlantic, have the sympathy of their many friends in the loss of their child.

The "Gleaners Circle" of King's Daughters will hold its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Hicks, South Central avenue on Monday Nov. 10th. at half past two P. M.

Timberlake & Small are having a big mark down sale at their South Quincy department store and many have taken advantage of it and secured bargains in boots, dry goods, groceries, etc.

Campbell Tange, an employe on the Metropolitan sewer at Houghs Neck had his left leg broken Friday afternoon by a bank caving in. He was taken to the City Hospital in the police ambulance.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. George A. Brown, 263 Farrington street, Tuesday, Nov. 11, at three o'clock. Mrs. Lydia Earle, State Superintendent of Sabbath Observance will be present.

One of the events of next week will be the fourth annual banjo, mandolin and guitor recital of The Lord Family and fifty of Mr. Lord's pupils. It will be given in Hancock hall, Monday evening. These annual recitals increase in popular interest.

A food fair is to be held several days next week at the Park and Downs church, corner Rawson road and Hamilton street. Music will be furnished by Miss M. V. Hastings and the Wollaston orchestra. On Thursday evening there will be a "Kaffee Klatsch" with music.

Many will be glad to known that Rev. Mr. Hardy begins tomorrow evening at Bethany Church a series of addresses illustrated by the stereopticon. The illustrated addresses given last season were greatly enjoyed by large congregations. These are services in which the children specially delight and from which they receive much good.

The first of a series of assemblies under the auspices of the John Hancock Lodge, 224, I. O. O. F., of Wollaston, was held in Wollaston hall, Newport avenue on Thursday evening and a very pleasant time was had by those present. Music was furnished by McTear's orchestra of four pieces, C. D. Sargent, prompter. The committee is F. L. Merrill, G. A. Wardwell, J. E. Bean and R. T. Fisher. A masquerade will be held later.

The Wollaston Choral Union held its first rehearsal, Wednesday evening in the Unitarian vestry. Mr. Charles Stevens of Boston directed the singing in his masterly manner. There were present about half a hundred, most of whom joined as members for the season of 1902-03. The union starts its second season with good prospects. There are many strong new voices in the sopranos and bass, but a few good tenors are needed. At the next rehearsal Wednesday, Nov. 19, music for the coming concert will be taken up.

Entertainment.

A pleasing entertainment was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Otho Allan Hayward, under the direction of Mrs. Emma Shufelt Moore, chairman of the music ten, U. C. K. D.

Mrs. Anna Spencer Frost of Boston gave several readings in a very delightful manner.

Mrs. Irene C. Tirrell sang charmingly, the "Jewel Song" from Faust and a group of English ballads.

A finely rendered piano solo by Mrs. Helen S. Sampson was much enjoyed. Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt at the piano.

The proceeds of this entertainment will be devoted to charity.

The Nerves

Are good servants when they are strong; tyrannical masters when they are weak—when they will not let you sleep, nor eat, nor do anything as you should, when they keep you pale, thin, and miserable all the time.

Peptiron

Strengthens the nerves and makes good servants of them; it is both medicine and food for them and the brain; promotes sleep; perfects digestion and permanently benefits the whole system.

Pronounced Pept-iron.

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

HOME SCIENCE.

What Has Been Accomplished and the Plans Ahead.

The small number of ladies who attended the annual meeting of the Quincy Home Science Association Friday afternoon of last week were rewarded by a program of unusual interest.

Reports of the Kindergarten, Sloyd and other work were presented. Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, the treasurer, reported expenditures during the year of over $600.00, and a balance of some $37 with nearly $50 still due in uncollected membership fees.

The report of the retiring secretary, Mrs. W. E. Burke, presented by Mrs. H. M. Faxon, assistant secretary, gave interesting information with regard to last winter's Home Science ball and the second dance in February, quite as successful socially and financially if not more so than in former years, and also as to the school children's May day festival. On the latter occasion over 1,200 children, with many older friends of the Home Science Association, crowded Music hall with an audience said to be one of the largest ever gathered there, and made merry, bestowing appreciative applause upon the stage entertainment presented, singing, dancing and tableaux and patronizing freely the gaily decorated May basket and candy tables and the always popular ice cream counter, and the Sloyd exhibit also claimed a large space of admiring attention.

The proceeds from the dances and the festival enabled the Home Science Association to plan its summer's work on a more than usually generous scale, the number of boys in the free Sloyd classes being more than doubled and the Kindergarten work somewhat enlarged.

The report of the Sloyd committee in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. Emery L. Crane, was presented by Mrs. R. R. Freeman and was received with special and enthusiastic appreciation. Some 70 boys from the different school districts received Sloyd instruction under the direction of Mr. J. M. Nowland during the summer. Much creditable work was done. Many friends showed their interest by visiting the classes, and the successful six weeks' course closed with an exhibition of work in the Adams school on the evening of 15 August, when the master's room was filled with visitors, coming and going from seven until nearly nine o'clock.

The boys were seated at benches with all the articles they had made spread before them and the pride with which the parents examined them was interesting. To many the name Sloyd had meant very little, but a smooth sleeve board, a neat hat rack or a little footstool made a strong appeal to them." Mrs. P. R. Blackmur sang popular songs and lemonade and wafers were served to the guests and the boys also. The Sloyd classes are the latest and by many considered the most interesting development of the Home Science work.

Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth reported for the Committee on Home Science Intelligence, turning her attention chiefly to the vacation classes conducted in Boston during the summer in connection with Denison House, the well known college settlement. She gave a most interesting account of work done in the departments of nature study, gymnastics, sloyd, cooking (for boys as well as girls), etc.,—of the mothers' meetings,—of plans for supplying the school rooms in which the classes are held with instructive and artistic decorations in the way of casts and photographs, and for starting classes for new kinds of work among the children of the vicinity. Denison House work and methods as outlined in this report suggested practical and delightful future possibilities in Home Science work.

Following Mrs. Wadsworth's report, Mrs. J. H. Litchfield of Wollaston read her Home Science prize essay paper entitled "How Can the Leisure of Youth be profitably employed?"

The paper was one of great value in its detailed and common sense yet comprehensive grasp of the vital question of the education of children emphasizing their various needs, physical, intellectual moral and spiritual the value of wholesome recreation both in doors and out—possibilities in the way of home made gymnastic apparatus and neighborhood play-grounds, music, reading, the Camera, as lessons on—social life sightseeing in the best sense of the words, visiting Art Museum, Natural History Rooms, places of picturesque or historic interest, all these are wholesome and stimulating experiences, fitting the boy or girl to get the greatest benefit and enjoyment from his or her individual convironment.

Finally the interests of the child should centre in the home—the home should be comfortable and attractive however simple, and the child should assist in making it so. The spirit of helpfulness should be developed—the desire to be of service to others, to give as well as to receive.

Mrs. Litchfields audience was most cordial and appreciative—her ideas are, however, worthy of a wide hearing and larger audiences, and it is to be hoped that there will be further opportunity to hear and discuss a paper so valuable and suggestive.

At the close of Mrs. Litchfield's paper, Miss Johnson, president of the Home Science association, made a brief and informal report of the summer Kindergarten work, speaking with enthusiasm of the work done by the teachers and the encouraging increase in the number of children whose parents desired to send them to Kindergartens, especially to the John Hancock and Adams districts, in the former seventy-five children having been received; in the latter the number of applicants being more than double that last year. The mothers' meetings had also been unusually successful and well attended, and the programs, thanks to the ladies of the several committees who provided flowers and refreshments; to Drs. Gordon, Johnson and Hunting; to Mrs. Schenkelberger and Mrs. Wade of Atlantic, all of whom gave most helpful and interesting talks to friends who supplied the music so much appreciated at each meeting, were apparently all that could be desired. Results of the Kindertgarten work seemed fully to justify time and money expended.

In view of constant difficulties with regard to membership fees, the president announced that the membership list of the association was to be carefully examined and corrected; some special time for the collection of membership fees decided upon, and special efforts made to insure their collection at that time.

The election of officers to fill vacancies on the executive committee resulted as follows: Mrs. H. M. Faxon and Miss Etta Prescott were elected corresponding and recording secretaries respectively, and Mrs. R. R. Freeman and Mrs. Thomas A. Addison, directors.

In closing the meeting, Miss Johnson reminded those present of the Quincy assemblies to occur December 5, and February 20, for the benefit of the Home Science association work.

New Braintree Industries.

The American Machine Co. of Boston has purchased the paper mill site, and will commence the manufacture of automobile parts within a short time. The company will also start a smelting plant on the same location, and will at first employ fifty hands. A high board fence will be erected around the property, and improvements made.

The American Tube Works which will locate in East Braintree, employs 1400 hands, and they all receive good wages, and short hours, as the work is very hard.

The company is the largest manufacturers of brass pipe and tubing in the United States and when their immense plant once gets to going, things in the East section of the town will boom.

Hatch & Grinnell of North Easton, who it is said will occupy the D. B. Closson factory, is a concern, who are alive and awake, and each run sees them increasing their output of fine footwear, and will be a large addition to the town.

Another company that employs 400 people have been in town this week looking for a location near the railroad track, and if they could be induced to locate here would build large brick buildings. They manufacture fine machinists tools, and are now located in Rhode Island.

A silk mill of Newark, N.J., has also made inquiries in regard to the town, but as they wished for some of the townspeople to take a little stock, not much encouragement was given.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued cases of John J. Cunniff and Wilbur W. Tirrell were called and they paid fines of $3 each.

Michael O'Flaherty and Bernard Moore were arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Randolph. The case against O'Flaherty was dismissed. Moore's case was continued until Dec. 13.

Augustus Blondin was arraigned for disturbing the peace at Quincy. Case continued until next Momday.

Quincy People's Union.

There will be a public meeting of the Quincy People's Union, Tuesday, November 11 at 7.45 P. M, in the hall of Woodward Institute. All the people are cordially invited to attend this meeting of Quincy's new organization. Its object is co-operation for public service—organized effort to make Quincy a more attractive and desirable place in which to live and bring up children.

The program of the meeting will include discussion of some general plan of work; officers will be elected, and there will be an informal address of special interest by D. C. Heath, Esq., president of the Newton Educational Association, well known for his public spirit and ability.

All persons interested in local progress and civic improvement are asked to encourage "the Quincy People's Union" movement by their presence at this meeting, and to bring friends.

Samantha at Braintree.

"Samantha Allen at the Court of Fame" was presented at the Town Hall, South Braintree, on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of All Souls' church. The entertainment was under the direction of Miss Harris of Weymouth and was a success in every way. Two good and appreciative audiences made the affair a financial success.

Frost Carnival.

Great preparations are being made at Bethany church for the Frost Carnival, Nov. 18, 19, 20, which promises to be the event of the season. There will be at least ten artistic booths. All the attendants will be in costume. There will be a Japanese room, doll house, mystery trees with packages for the boys and girls, and lots of other attractions which you cannot afford to miss. A great feature will be the restaurant where lunch will be served from 4 to 10. Supper from 5 to 7.30. Ten kinds of ice cream and sherbet and good food at right prices. The public will appreciate this feature. We cannot enumerate all the many good things at this carnival but want you all to see for yourselves. Proceeds to be used in reducing the chapel debt.

SPARE THE TREES.

The People's Union Can Do Good Along this Line.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Although too late I would like to add my protest to those of others regarding the wholesale destruction of the natural beauties and improvements in our city, the most glaring of which are the removal of the old elm trees on Coddington street and not replacing them with others, and now the removal of the green and the very old elm tree near the fountain.

Anyone standing at the Nightingale corner and looking toward Hancock street could easily see that the green did not project into or narrow the street, that it was as wide near the green as it was at the Nightingale corner. If it was thought necessary to widen Washington street for public safety, why not have commenced at the Coddington corner, on Mr. Faxon's property and widened properly to Faxon avenue? This would have given a broader junction with Hancock street and been a great improvement. As it is, the street has been narrowed by taking off a slice for the sidewalk. A queer method which obtains in Quincy.

The same scheme was tried on Hancock street which brings the trees in the centre of the sidewalk. In a few years the cry will go up that they are dangerous and then there will be some more kindling wood.

The angle at which the street railway office building stands has always been an eyesore to beauty-loving people, and the erection of a new building by the Quincy Real estate trust at the same angle, only more pronounced, will put on the finishing touch, and make an unsightly spot, no matter how nice the building may be, especially as viewed from Hancock street.

The need of a union, such as it is proposed to form on Tuesday evening at Woodward hall, should result in great benefit to our city. It is just these things that need careful thought. I hope there will be a large attendance and a free discussion which will result ultimately in making Quincy a more beautiful city. We throw away what other cities spend fortunes to save.

Maine Beware.

An important meeting of the Sunshine club was held early this week, and although local politics were occupying almost everybody's attention, there was a large attendance. The object of the meeting was to select the two best shots and send them to Maine after game. The club were unanimous in voting that Tom Smith, treasurer of the Austin & Winslow—Gallagher Express Co., and Al. Bisson, president of the Bisson Carriage Company, were the proper men to send. Accordingly these two sharp shooters loaded down with guns, ammunition, etc., started early this morning for Mechiasport, Me., where for two weeks they will shoot everything in sight. They were instructed to bring home some of the fruits of their skill and were warned that black bears with ring marks on their nose would not be accepted under any condition. The two gunners took a solemn oath not to do so, and they have departed with many wishes of good luck.

An English Author Writes:

"No shade, no shine, no fruit, no flowers, no leaves—November!" Many Americans would add NO FREEDOM FROM CATARRH, which is so aggravated during this month that it becomes constantly troublesome. There is abundant proof that catarrh is a constitutional disease. It is related to scrofula and consumption, being one of the wasting diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla has shown that what is capable of eradicating scrofula, completely cures catarrh and taken in time prevents consumption. We cannot see how any sufferer can put off taking this medicine, in view of the widely published record of its radical and permanent cures. It is undoubtedly America's Greatest Medicine for America's greatest Disease—Catarrh.

CANADA IS DISPLEASED

At England's Attitude on Trade Preference

MAY ASK FOR ITS REPEAL

Should It Be Abolished It Would Make For Reciprocity With the United States—Government May Even Recede From Its Position

Montreal, Nov. 8.—The publication of the British Blue Book account of the colonial conference has raised the question in Canada whether the present British preference is to be continued. Canadian politicians of all stripes are noting that Britain does not seem to set much store by it. Mr. Chamberlain did not see enough in it at the time of the conference—or in the Canadian proposal to increase it—to even consider reversing British policy so far as to give an answering preference. Yet Mr. Chamberlain, if anyone, was supposed to be in favor of such a scheme. Now the London Times goes out of its way to show how very little good the preference does Britain, Canadian trade returns themselves being quoted in evidence. "Taken as a whole," says The Times, "our exports to Canada pay 18 percent ad valorem in spite of the preference, while American goods pay on the whole only 12 percent."

This English coldness toward the scheme is having its effect in Canada. T. Chase Casgrain, one of the Conservative leaders in Quebec, is out with an interview in which he points to the trifling advantage this arrangement is to the British manufacturer, while "it is well known that it has injured and is injuring every day several of our important industries, not only in favor of the English manufacturer, but of the Germans and others who send their goods to England, have a small value added to them by English labor, and then forward them to our markets to compete with our manufacturers and our artisans who pay taxes and help to build up this country." This is an outspoken utterance, even for a Conservative leader, against the preference. Straight opposition to it has been avoided, though the Conservatives have all along held that the government should have demanded a preference in return before putting it on the statute books. But now they show signs of asking for its repeal.

The Liberal government has all along defended it as a measure of free trade and a free gift to the mother country, and not an appeal for a like return. Still, now that they have asked for a return and been refused, and now that British authorities are speaking slightingly of its value, even the government may recede from its position. Should this be done, a "free trade" government must look for tariff reduction in another direction, and the only place left to look is Washington.

In any case, the present is a capital time for the friends of reciprocity on both sides of the line to be up and moving. The next session of the Canadian parliament will see a revision of the tariff; and there is a strong movement in favor of increased duties on American goods. The retirement of Mr. Tarte weakens this policy within the government; but, unless reciprocity seems near, it is likely to prevail for all that. And, should the preference go, reciprocity would be doubly welcome.

Cardiff Giant Carver Dead

Chicago, Nov. 8.—John J. Sampson, the last survivor of the famous "Cardiff Giant" humbug, died in this city yesterday. Sampson had no part in the exhibition of the giant, but assisted in the making of the figure. He was a marble cutter and did the work of carving the giant. One of his sons says that his father always said that the work was done in a barn located near Lincoln park in this city.

Cole Held In Gilbert Case

Washington, Nov. 8.—Richard Cole, a colored porter, 20 years old, was yesterday committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of commiting the assault on Mrs. Ada G. Dennis, a well known dressmaker, at her home in this city over 10 months ago. Mrs. Dennis died from her injuries about a fortnight ago without recovering sufficiently to talk rationally.

Noted Men Under Arrest

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—Thomas H. Williams, Jr., president of the California Jockey club, and Truxton Beale, formerly United States minister to Persia, were held yesterday for trial for an alleged assault with intent to kill on Frederick Marriott, editor of The News Letter, last September. Their bonds were fixed at $10,000 each.

Mrs Somerset Sees President

Washington, Nov. 8.—Miss Risley Seward yesterday introduced to the president Lady Henry Somerset, who for many years has been identified with temperance and philanthropic work in Great Britain. The women called merely to pay their respects to the president.

Evacuation Details Later

London, Nov. 8.—It has been finally decided that the details and conditions of the evacuation of Shanghai by the troops of the powers are to be adjusted subsequent to the actual evacuation, which will take place at an early date.

A HARD-HEARTED FELLOW

Who Thought More of His Stomach Than He Did of His Family

Bath, Me., Nov. 8.—Few cases brought to the attention of the Bath board of overseers of the poor have been so deplorable as one which necessitated the arrest of Peter H. Doucette yesterday. He is charged with the non-support of his wife and six children, the ages of the latter being 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 years respectively.

Doucette left the family penniless and in a starving state. Chairman Strout of the poor board yesterday was notified and gave relief, including an order for food. Mrs. Doucette prepared a good dinner for herself and children, but before they could eat it Doucette reappeared and ate nearly everything. He then departed. Strout got out a warrant and it was finally served and the board will appear against Doucette.

Labor Must Not Interfere

Boston, Nov. 8.—Judge Braley of the superior court yesterday ordered a stoppage of interference by labor bodies with Lynch & Woodward, steamfitters, who had contracts for work in the new Majestic theatre and the new New England Conservatory of Music. The defendants in the equity case were J. T. Cashman and others, including the Building Trades Council, and the case was the outcome of a recent strike on a number of new buildings because of alleged refusal of contractors to fully recognize the unions.

Garvin's Election Celebrated

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 8.—Enthusiastic Democrats from this city and vicinity to the number of 5000 went to Cumberland, the home of Governor-elect Garvin, last night to celebrate his election. Mr. Garvin reviewed the parade and made a brief speech. As Mr. Garvin was the only Democrat elected governor north of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi river, the enthusiasm of the crowd was unbounded.

Anti-Trust Organization

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 8.—About 100 cigar and tobacco dealers of Pawtucket and the Blackstone valley last night organized a permanent union to be known as a protective association for the purpose of fighting the so-called trust. This action has received the support of the local trades unions. Some of the local unions have placed a fine on men who make purchases of trust-made goods.

No Light on Alleged Bribery

Woburn, Mass., Nov. 8.—The bribery investigation by the city council reopened last night before a special committee, and although three witnesses were examined, very little new evidence was brought out. The witnesses were Aldermen Woods, Alyward and Remington. The latter denied making any statement to Alderman Brady which would have aroused the latter's suspicion.

Tour Remains Blocked

Boston, Nov. 8.—The troubles of the Mascagni Opera company are by no means settled and several conferences have done little toward straightening them out. A portion of the chorus has left for New York, but Mascagni and his musicians are still in the city awaiting a possible solution of the many complications before them.

Lower Prices For Beef

Boston, Nov. 8.—Market men in the big markets of Boston yesterday announced the first break in prices of meats for many months. All pork products remain high, and dealers are unable to predict when prices will drop, but some believe that the drop in meats means that pork products will come next for lower prices.

Explosion In Copper Mines

West Fairlee, Vt., Nov. 8.—The first fatal accident in the Westinghouse copper mines in this place occurred yesterday. A blast furnace became clogged and exploded, killing an Italian and seriously, if not fatally, wounding two other men.

First Smallpox In Forty Years

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 8.—The town of Hudson is wrought up over the appearance there of smallpox. There are four cases in the town. These are the first cases of smallpox in Hudson in 40 years.

Caught Robbing the Mail

Dayton, O., Nov. 8.—A postoffice inspector yesterday arrested Clinton J. Robbins, a clerk at the local office, for the theft of letters containing money. Through a hole in the ceiling the inspector says he saw Robbins rifle a number of letters and that Robbins has admitted his guilt. The Hayner Distilling company has been robbed of between $2500 and $3000.

To Prepare For Maneuvers

New York, Nov. 8.—The battleship Kearsarge, flagship of the north Atlantic squadron, started south yesterday from the navy yard, with Rear Admiral Higginson aboard, to begin organizing the great fleet which is to go through war maneuvers in the Caribbean sea during the winter.

Republicans Will Control

Washington, Nov. 8.—Chairman Griggs of the Democratic national congressional committee has conceded the next house to the Republicans. He has abandoned all hope that belated returns may give the Democrats control.

Two Killed by Dynamite

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—Two men were killed and 12 injured by a premature explosion of dynamite at Jeffriesville yesterday. The injured were buried under a great mass of earth thrown up by the explosion.

HOME A PLAY BUILT.

How the Author of "Hearts Aflame" Realized Two Ambitions.

Mrs. Genevieve G. Haines, author of the successful play of New York society life, "Hearts Aflame," attributes her final success as a playwright to faith in herself, in her ability to succeed.

Since childhood Mrs. Haines, who is the wife of Robert Haines, the actor, and has herself been on the stage, had been filled with an ambition to become a dramatist. After many failures she completed her now famous play and submitted it to a prominent manager for his opinion. He refused it, saying the entire plan of the drama was impossible.

"That," said Mrs. Haines, "aroused my fighting blood, and I determined that my play should be produced if I had to produce it myself." This she did, with the result that the public reversed the manager's opinion, and the play proved the success of the spring season.

Another dream of Mrs. Haines has also come true. During the early stages of her career, when she herself trod the boards, her professional duties necessarily exposed her to all the discomforts of the life of the traveling player. She longed to own a home of her own. By the success of "Hearts Aflame" both her ambitions were realized. When the returns from the play began rolling in, Mrs. Haines turned from play building to house building, and the last is as great a success as the first.

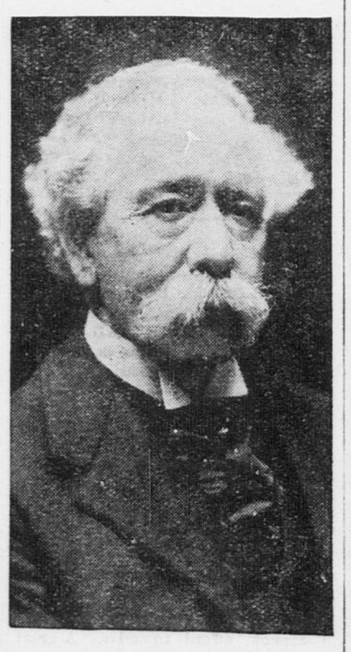

In her home in New York, won by her courage and her pen, Mrs. Haines may look back on the old life with a smile. Here in her workroom, as she calls her den, she spends six to eight hours a day in reading, writing and study. At present she is preparing a new play and recasting an old one, both of which will be produced next year.

VERMONT'S GOVERNOR.

Was Once a Member of the California Legislature.

It is not often that a man has so varied a career that two states call him to fill high offices. General John G. McCullough, the newly chosen governor of Vermont, has that distinction. While a resident of California back in the sixties he was elected a member of the state legislature and also served the state of California for four years as attorney general.

His recent election as governor of Vermont was the result of the most exciting political campaign which the Green Mountain State has experienced in many years. The issues were high license against prohibition. At the polls General McCullough failed to receive a majority of the votes cast, although he had the highest number. Later he was elected governor by the state legislature.

General McCullough was born in Delaware and went to California in his youth. In 1873 he removed to Vermont. He owns a 200 acre farm in southern Vermont, near Bennington.

FINE GIFT FOR MITCHELL.

Gold Watch and Diamond Badge Presented by Coal Miners.

President Mitchell the other afternoon was the recipient of a gold badge and gold watch, the gift of Polish, Lithuanian and Slavonian members of the United Mine Workers, says a Wilkesbarre (Pa.) dispatch to the New York Times. The badge bears his monogram, "J. M.," in diamonds just underneath the bar containing the pin by which it is fastened to the coat lapel. Below this is the button of the United Mine Workers of America, from which hangs a pendant—a tiny pick and shovel, with miner's lamp in the center, and underneath a medallion containing the seal of the organization.

The presentation took place at President Mitchell's headquarters, and a large crowd listened to the speeches of presentation and acceptance. Mr. Mitchell in the course of his remarks said:

"These gifts will ever remind me of the duty I owe to the great army of workers who have reposed confidence in me and followed my leadership during the trying times. I shall regard it a great favor if you will express to the Polish, Lithuanian and Slavonian people my gratitude for the confidence they have so freely given me. I beg you to say to them that my highest ambition shall be to promote the welfare and advance the interests of all the men and women in their labor for a livelihood.

"I look forward to the time when strikes shall be no more; when peace and justice and right shall be secured for those who toil; when labor and capital, each recognizing its rights and obligations to society, shall work in harmony for the common welfare of our country and the general good of all our people."

When Mr. Mitchell left for Washington, he was accompanied to the station by a large and enthusiastic crowd, and when he boarded the train he was heartily cheered.

RECLAIMING OF MANILA.

Governor Taft's Measures to Prevent Further Epidemics.

Governor Taft and the health board of Manila, according to official reports to the war department at Washington, have agreed to a comprehensive plan for reclaiming the city of Manila from the unsanitary conditions which prevail there, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The experience during the past few months in controlling the epidemic of cholera has satisfied the American authorities that only the most rigorous measures will suffice to protect Manila from pestilence whenever occasion arises. It has been decided that buildings which are insanitary must come down and be removed, the low places in the city are to be filled in, suitable sewerage is to be insisted on, walls are to be built to hold back tide water and new buildings will be permitted only in compliance with strict regulations as to plumbing and construction which will insure healthful conditions.

It is estimated that when the buildings in the slums of the city are torn down over 40,000 people will have to be moved out into temporary camps. Governor Taft announces that he will do this and have the people carefully looked after in their temporary quarters.

Captain McGregor, the city engineer, has taken part in the conferences and gives it as his opinion that it will be necessary to fill in over the whole site of the city in order to secure the grades that will make it possible to drain the streets and houses and accomplish such sanitary conditions. The cost will be large. It is estimated that the reclamation of the San Nicolas beach will cost at least $500,000.

GREAT APPLE RECORD.

Connecticut Man Says He Picked 135 Bushels In a Day.

Frederick Judd of Cheshire, Conn., claims the record as champion apple picker. He went to New Haven the other day with an affidavit signed by a justice of the peace asserting that in the space of nine hours he had picked forty-five barrels of apples, each barrel containing three bushels.

The feat was performed on the farm of Judge S. L. Bronson, a millionaire of New Haven, says the New York World. Judd says that Judge Bronson will vouch for his record and that his son Harmon will back him for any amount of money against any other aspirant for apple picking honors.

Growth by Electricity.

Dr. Maurice Springer recently read an interesting paper at the Academy of Medicine in Paris on animal growth, specifying four elements of nutrition having most effect in inducing organic development, namely, lecithin, potash, oxides and water, says the New York Herald. The doctor also pointed out that electricity is a powerful agent in the development of growth. By applying a Faraday current to certain muscles and joints of children both growth and increase of weight have been obtained.

Lorenz, the Cripple's Friend.

He wears no gorgeous uniform
To captivate the eye;
He rides before no glittering host,
With head held proud and high;
No bugles loudly blare,
No hats wave in the air
As Lorenz passes by;
He does not wear a warrior's crest;
No gold braid gleams upon his breast;
For him no banners fly.

"Take up the crippled little ones
And bring them unto me"—
His words send joy to many a heart—
"And love shall be my fee!"
The poor, bent limbs he takes
With tender hands and makes Them straight and fair to see!
For him no bugles proudly blow,
But it were well if men might know
More heroes such as he.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Railroads Handicapped by Unusually Large Fall Distribution

New York, Nov. 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Trade and industry are making steady progress, reports from all sections of the country containing evidences of wholesome development. An unusually large fall distribution occurred and current transactions in heavier goods are liberal, considering the mildness of the season. Complaints of slow freight movement are still heard, testifying to the enormous volume of business handled by the railways.

Taking of inventories interrupts work at New England shoe shops and will probably occupy much of this month, so that cutting will not begin on the large contracts already placed for delivery during the first quarter of next year. Shipments continue heavy from Boston. The tone is remarkably strong, no concessions being obtained even on very large orders.

Some decline in the raw material did not produce any lower offering prices for cotton goods, although it made buyers all the more anxious to delay placing contracts. As a result the movement is only for immediate requirements. Export orders are limited. Reorder business in woolens is light. Quotations are fully maintained for woolens and worsteds.

Votes Greatly Exceeded Ballots

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The Record-Herald today says that Daniel D. Healey, Republican candidate for sheriff at the recent election, claims that he has been elected sheriff, and that the count which showed the election of Thomas E. Barrett, Democrat, by nearly 7000 plurality, is false. According to a report from the board of election commissioners between 284,000 and 285,000 ballots were issued at the polls, including the number destroyed and those wrongly stamped. Figures give the total on the vote for sheriff at 294,943.

Satisfactory Negotiations

Washington, Nov. 8.—The conferences between Secretary Hay and Colombian Minister Concha, who are engaged in the preparation of the projected Panama canal treaty, are proceeding satisfactorily, and the prediction is made that the terms of a treaty will be agreed upon within a fortnight. If such be the case the president will be able to deal with the treaty in his annual message to congress.

Cost of Rural Free Delivery

Washington, Nov. 8.—The annual gross cost of a complete rural free delivery service throughout the United States will approximate $24,000,000, according to the annual report of the general superintendent of the service. The remaining 700,000 square miles not now covered by rural free delivery service will require the employment of 26,000 or 27,000 carriers in addition to those now employed.

Big Land Contest Up Again

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 8.—The circuit court of appeals yesterday reversed the decision of the lower court in the land suit of Henry C. King of New York against Watkins and 500 other defendants and a new trial will be had. This suit involves the title to land in five counties in West Virginia and one or two counties in Kentucky and Virginia. The land is valued at $12,500,000.

Cuban Treaty Being Discussed

Havana, Nov. 8.—President Palma is authority for the statement that instructions regarding the drawing up of the commercial treaty between Cuba and the United States have been sent to the Cuban minister at Washington, Mr. Quesada. Palma says he has every reason to believe that Quesada was in consultation last Monday with Secretary Hay with regard to this treaty.

REBELS HARD PRESSED

No Ammunition to Continue Venezuelan Revolution

LEADERS IN A QUARREL

Over Responsibility For State of Affairs Which Led to Their Retreat—Government Forces Capture Four Thousand Men and Ammunition

La Victoria, Venezuela, Nov. 8.—News has been received here concerning the retreat of the revolutionary forces. It is to the effect that on the night of Nov. 1 the revolutionists withdrew from their positions near La Victoria and San Mateo because they were without ammunition. The fact that the rebels lacked cartridges caused a disagreement between General Matos and General Rolando, which was followed by hot words. Rolando declared that the shortage of ammunition was the fault of Matos, and that if the success of the revolution was endangered by this condition, Matos alone was responsible. He said that all was lost, and with his followers, about 3200 men, he withdrew from the main body of the rebels in the direction of Alta Gracia. It is reported that Rolando proclaimed El Mocho Hernandez as the leader of the revolution.

President Castro, since he discovered that the revolutionists only retreated because of their absolute lack of ammunition, has caused them to be pursued day and night by government soldiers. The latest report issued by the government says that Generals Matos, Mendoza and Riera and their commands are fleeing in disorder in an effort to reach the mountainous districts. These generals are supposed to be near Barrea, a point 12 miles from the Lake of Valencia.

Guerillas in the service of the government have captured and brought to President Castro certain records and documents belonging to members of General Matos' personal staff, as well as the general's personal correspondence. The contents of these papers give evidence of the critical situation of the leaders of the revolution.

It is difficult to understand the apparent sudden and complete collapse of the revolutionary movement, but a few days ago the rebels seemed to be upon the eve of victory, while today their cause seems absolutely lost.

President Castro, having sent his men in all directions to cut off the retreat of the enemy, left here yesterday for Caracas. The government soldiers who are following up the rebels scored their first success yesterday morning by the capture of General Luizi, who was making his way in the direction of Alta Gracia with 300,000 rounds of ammunition and 4000 men to reinforce the revolutionists.

From here President Castro goes to Los Teques, which point was abandoned by the rebels on Thursday. From Los Teques the president will go by rail to Caracas, arriving there Sunday morning. He will then take his place at the head of the government.

Telegraphic communication between La Victoria and Caracas has been restored.

Revolutionists Afraid

San Jose, C. R., Nov. 8.—General Vargas-Santos, the military director of the Colombian revolution, who is here, will not attend the proposed peace conference between representatives of the Colombian revolutionists and the Colombian government, which is to be held on board the United States battleship Wisconsin in Panama harbor. Advices received here last night are believed to show that the Colombian government intended to perpetrate some treacherous action if the general went to Panama.

It is reported here that the Colombia revolutionary general, Uribe-Uribe, who surrendered to forces of the Colombian government at Rio Frio last month, has been sentenced to death.

Expectations Fulfilled

Queenstown, Nov. 8.—John E. Redmond returned yesterday on the steamer Celtic from the United States, where he attended the convention of the Irish League of America in Boston. He did not disembark at Queenstown, but went direct to London to resume his parliamentary duties. Redmond said also that his mission to the United States had fulfilled his every expectation.

Two Millions Clipped Off

Washington, Nov. 8.—Secretary Root has cut down the estimates of the engineers for the continuing contract work of rivers and harbors nearly $2,000,000, leaving the total amount $16,570,000. The appropriations which are made for these works will depend on the probable amount of work contractors can do in the next fiscal year.

Australia Suffers From Drouth

Sydney, N. S. W., Nov. 8.—Official statistics show that, owing to the drought, the wheat harvest in New South Wales this year has been very poor. The shortage is estimated at 11,000,000 bushels. Queensland and other states of the federation will probably also have very poor harvests.

Won't Forsake Politics

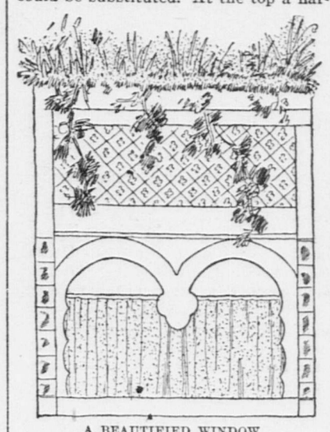

St. Petersburg, Nov. 8.—Only a few of the exiled students will return to their universities. The majority have refused to abstain from taking part in politics and have elected to remain in Siberia.

A REAR WINDOW.

How One With an Uninviting Outlook Was Beautified.

Many windows labor under the disadvantage of possessing no view or else an impossible outlook. So the following window decoration seen in a room looking out on an uninviting rear scene may prove useful:

A plain frame of thin wood was nailed over the existing window frame and into the lower half two Moorish arches were fixed from the back. The upper half of the frame was filled in with lots of Moorish latticework picked up cheaply at an oriental depot, but fine fretwork by a home worker could be substituted. At the top a narrow wooden box running the whole length of the window was very firmly fixed. The whole wooden framework was enameled white, and the sides of the lower half divided into equal parts and painted a rich blue and white oriental tile pattern.

A BEAUTIFIED WINDOW.

It was only permissible to open the window from the top, so the latticework did not quite cover the lower half of the upper panes. Amber silk curtains were tightly drawn before the framework was screwed in its place, and it was an easy matter to loosen the screws sufficiently to allow of fresh curtains being passed between when required. The top box was filled in with empty tin boxes filled in their turn with moss, artificial or real flowers and ferns, and a very pretty finish was given by allowing long trails of ivy to hang downward from the top, while a small mosque lamp gave the finishing touch to the tout ensemble.

An Acorn Portiere.

"An acorn portiere? How perfectly ridiculous!"

"By no means," said the girl who had made one. "You've seen the bead ones that the Japs make, and the wonderful shell ones, haven't you? Well, the acorn ones are made something like them. I brought mine back from my summer outing last year, and as I made it myself and originated it I feel justified in boasting about it.

"I had to bribe all the children in the inn to get the acorns for me. It took nearly a bushel. You might think they'd be easy to find, but they weren't.

"You can imagine how pretty it is with its soft tans, deep browns and golden yellows.

"I strung them on heavily waxed cord of a brown dye, and now it hangs between my study and my dressing room and has the coziest little rattle and tinkle when you go through. It's capable of more modifications, I believe, but this is my first one, and so I had something to learn.

"Big portieres from little acorns grow," said the girl, smiling. "Try to do it and see."—New York Herald.

Companionable Mothers.

There are many conscientious fathers and mothers who make themselves and their children miserable by taking youthful foibles too seriously. It is an innate propensity of a child possessed of the average good health and spirits to make older people laugh with him—not at him, but at the things that seem amusing to his own senses. And the mother who has the blithe and ready humor to enter into his fun becomes his most fascinating companion.

He heeds her rebukes and bends to her correction without ill feeling, where sternness would arouse his pride and ire, for he is assured that she is ready to share all his innocent pranks and that her disapproval has no foundation in impatience or injustice.

Women as Inventors.

During the last few years the United States has granted patents to women for inventions of various kinds at the rate of two a week. In 1790 the first patent was granted to a woman in this country, according to the Brooklyn Eagle. But fifty patents were granted during the next sixty years or so for feminine inventions. Since that time, however, the number has steadily increased, and in the past two decades the patent office has filled many a page with entries of patents awarded to women for ingenious devices and contrivances of various kinds.

The Toy Basket.

The "toy basket" is one of the simplest and most efficacious means of keeping the house in order and teaching young children to clear up after their play. Any large, round basket will serve as a general receptacle and may be searched for special toys a dozen times a day and then returned to its corner until the next one is wanted.

A Saving of Labor.

Short muslin curtains if edged with ball fringe look quite as nice done in the following way as if they are ironed: First wash and starch in the usual way. Then while still wet put them on the window rods, pull into shape and position and let dry.

FRILLS OF FASHION.

White and black combinations in millinery will again be popular for the two coming seasons.

The French jackets with dip fronts and narrow postilion backs are the very best models for women inclined to stoutness.

The zibelines and vicunas are particularly attractive this season, and some becoming tailor suits have been made from these.

Very few of the demidress gowns of the season are plain in effect. Nearly all have some sort of braid work, small frills set one above the other, strappings and fancy buttons, tucking, lace en applique, etc.

Fancy medallions, lattice and scroll designs in openwork mohair and other silky wool braids, chenille, velvet, bits of fur, silk netting and cording, all in new applique effects, are used as a garniture for stylish cloth and silk gowns.

The Monte Carlo coat in various designs is again popular this season. Some of the coats are in three-quarter styles; others are in hip length with an inverted plait at the center of the loose back and a similar plait on each side of the box fronts.—New York Post.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Since entering upon their exposition project St. Louis people think they must do everything on a large scale. Even their scandals are huge.—Kansas City Journal.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's charge that the British war office is dominated by petticoat influence merely shows that the British war office has met the common fate of humanity.—New York Mail and Express.

Those Wall street losses are for the most part "constructive." They don't impair the value of a dollar's worth of property and needn't worry any person who keeps out of the whirl of stock gambling.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Divorce laws which are so lax as ours need to be carefully studied with a view to their speedy amendment and with a view, too, to the enactment of an intelligent federal measure which will unify the diverse statutes of the various states.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Italian government has forbidden the use of a title of nobility save by the head of the family to which it appertains. Rich title hunting American girls will please take notice. The girl who marries an Italian prince will not be a princess. She will merely be sold.—Los Angeles Herald.

CURTAIN CALLS.

Mr. Tim Murphy is this season meeting with gratifying success in "Old Innocence."

The present season will be Mr. E. S. Willard's last in America for some years to come.

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, the theatrical agent, has just returned from Europe with several new plays.

Edward Potter, half brother of Bishop Henry C. Potter of New York, has composed an opera entitled "Editas."

Elizabeth Tyree is to try her fortunes with "Gretna Green," which will be produced in New York Jan. 5.

Henrietta Crosman in "The Sword of the King" has made an even more substantial success than in "Mistress Nell."

Mrs. Le Moyne opened her season with "Among Those Present" at Montreal, and a substantial success was recorded.

Miss Gretchen Lyons has been engaged to play Mlle. de la Vire in support of Mr. Kyrle Bellew in "A Gentleman of France."

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

The University of Foura Bay, Sierra Leone, is said to be the smallest in the world. A few years ago it had but twelve students and five professors.

Professor Jerome K. Schneider, the oldest member of the Tufts college faculty, has just celebrated his seventy-eighth anniversary and is still in active service at the head of the Greek department.

W. W. Stetson, superintendent of education of Maine, has named four Maine college presidents—William De Witt Hyde of Bowdoin, Charles L. White of Colby, George C. Chase of Bates and George E. Fellows of the Maine university—to arrange for the selection of the Rhodes scholars from the state.

LAW POINTS.

The state supreme court of California has declared that the law making eight hours a legal workday is valid.

The adoption of a law authorizing the prosecution of crimes already committed, by information, is held in state versus Kyle (Mo., 56 L. R. A. 115) not to be forbidden by the constitutional provision against ex post facto laws.

A condition in a life insurance policy that if within three years from the date of the policy the insured should die by suicide, sane or insane, the liability of the company should be limited to the amount of the premiums paid is held in Scherar versus Prudential Insurance company (Neb., 56 L. R. A. 611) to be valid.

BRAINTREE.

The sale of standing wood on Grove street South Braintree, owned by Charles Penniman which took place last week was a success. A large crowd was present and good prices prevailed. George E. Sampson was auctioneer.

The harvest sale given by the ladies of the First church passed off pleasantly proving a success financially and socially. This occured Tuesday afternoon and evening and was followed Wednesday afternoon by the meeting of the Ladies' Home Missionary society, one hundred, more or less were present. Various letters were read and the harvest sale discussed. The ladies in charge of the supper were Mrs. B. F. Wallis, Mrs. George H. Hamblett, Mrs. F. D. Thayer, Mrs. George Wheeler, Mrs. R. E. Morrison and Mrs. E. A. Haskell.

The annual Sunday school convention for East Norfolk District will be held in First church, Braintree on Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 10 A. M.

The harvest supper given by the Ladies' Aid at G. A. R. hall last Tuesday evening was a great success. Following the supper all engaged in the Hallowe'en games provided, and a most social hour was enjoyed.

George E. Sampson, real estate agent, reports sale of two Braintree estates this week; Mrs. S. E. Stoddard's estate on Mt. Vernon avenue to Miss L. A. Cowles of Ayer, Mass., and the Stedman estate on Stedman avenue owned by Mrs. Richard Long to Edwin H. Plumer of Newton. He has rented the Hayden estate corner of River and Washington streets to Dr. E. G. Hill of Newton, and house owned by Rev. Mr. Crathern on Oak street to Mrs. S. E. Stoddard.

The field class in geology visited Marblehead Neck last Saturday when slow sea-coast erosion was considered. A pleasant feature of the trip was the finding a small pocket beach whose sand shone red so thickly was it impregnated with garnets.

Word has been received that Mrs. Lyman Gates and daughter Bessie are enjoying the mild air of Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Gates has already greatly improved in health.

Wednesday, Mrs. A. S. Pennock, Mrs. Leonard Hunt, Miss Delia Dyer, and Mrs. Russell Randall, attended the neighborhood conference at the South Congregational church, Campello.

An interesting event at the rooms of the Braintree club last Saturday evening, was a pool game between Fred Tenney and H. E. Junkins of Somerville. Tenney won 100 to 96 in a close and exciting contest.

Horace R. Drinkwater entertained his adherents in Pythian Hall, Wednesday evening. Coffee, rolls, etc., were served.

The will of Elizabeth J. Thorndike of Braintree was allowed at probate court this week, Alden A. Thorndike being appointed executor under $15,000 bonds.

Mr. W. H. Shaw received 1164 votes for representative of the sixth Norfolk district, at the state election Tuesday. Mr. P. C. Spring guessed that Mr. Shaw would receive 1163 and won the barrel of flour.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Healy of Mount Pleasant will move with their family to Boston, this month.

Rev. G. E. Whitehouse attended the neighborhood conference of churches in Campello on Wednesday.

Miss Minnie Annis was tendered a surprise party last Wednesday evening and presented with a gold ring. There were about thirty young people present. Refreshments were served and games played.

The four months' old infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Jordan died Monday, after a brief illness of pneumonia. Services were held at the house Wednesday afternoon and burial was in the village cemetery.

Mrs. Albert F. Humphrey celebrated her birthday Saturday evening by giving a party to a few of her intimate friends at her home on Front street. Refreshments were served and a general good time enjoyed until a late hour.

John Wilder had the misfortune to break his right wrist again Monday in the same place as in the early summer. He was riding along on his wheel in the vicinity of the grain mill when he was thrown to the ground, striking heavily on his right arm. This second accident happened within a few rods of his former one. He is under the care of the Emergency hospital physicians.

UNPRECEDENTED FAME

Vinol, the New Form of Cod Liver Oil.

Causes a Sensation in Medical Circles.

Not Only in America, But in Europe.

"Good news goes fast," said Mr. Edward J. Murphy yesterday, talking to a reporter about that wonderful Vinol, concerning which so much is heard nowadays. "Why, you know that besides being talked about in New England many of the prominent papers in America are devoting more or less space to this wonderful discovery. See here, what do you think of this?" Whereupon Mr. Murphy produced an article from the Lancet of London, England.

The Lancet is the greatest medical publication in the world, and anything appearing in its columns is considered as indisputable evidence. "Let me read this to you," said Mr. Murphy. "I won't bother you with much of it, but here is enough to show you what the great men of the old world think of Vinol," whereupon he read the following:

"Recent investigation has led to the isolation of several distinct bodies in cod liver oil, notably amongst which are the alkaloids. These principles have been tested faithfully and the results form the subject of an exclusive report by Gautier and Mourgues in the Journal de Pharmacie, who concluded that the combined active principles of cod liver oil act as powerful stimulants of nutrition and assimulation, and show definitely the nature of the principles, to which the oil owes its valuable medicinal properties.

"And the best part of all this is," continued Mr. Murphy, "it is not only the physicians that are enthusiastic, but the people who are taking the remedy. After all, I do not blame them much, either. It does not take but a minute for any one who is obliged to take cod liver oil to find out that Vinol is tasteless. Then the patient soon realizes its advantage. It does good so much more quickly, and accomplishes the desired end in a much more marked manner than cod liver oil in its crude form was ever able to do. Oh yes, of course I consider the success of Vinol as assured. How can it be otherwise,—a discovery that has revolutionized the forms and made it practical to prescribe the greatest known remedy for all wasting diseases.

"Just think what it means; getting all the benefits in a concentrated form, and no more nauseating, vile-smelling grease. Yes, come any time you would like to see me. I am always glad to see you about Vinol, and I find out more to say in its praise every day."

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

Misguided Doukhobors

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 8.—At Yorkton a young Doukhobor woman of attractive appearance dressed herself in white cotton, with white canvas shoes, and proclaimed herself the Virgin Mary. Many of the Doukhobors believe her story and she may cause trouble if her advice shall be in the wrong direction.

Seventy-Four Years a Postmaster

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Roswell Beardsley of North Lansing, who was the oldest postmaster in point of service in the United States, having held that position for 74 years, died at his home yesterday, aged 93. He came to North Lansing when 19 years old and was at once made postmaster.

Prince Visits Stock Yards

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The Crown Prince of Siam and party were taken in a special car to the stock yards yesterday. The magnitude of the yards and the dispatch with which animals were slaughtered and dressed excited the prince's admiration.

SPEEDY TICKET SELLERS.

The Elevated Railroad Man and the Circus Man Work Alike.

New York ticket sellers for the elevated roads do their work with a celerity equaled only by the lightning change artist of a big circus. How do they manage it? Peep into one of the little ticket offices, and you will see that the methods of the man inside are identical with those of the circus man. There is only one way of selling tickets rapidly, whether at an "L" station or from the red wagon of a circus. When you hand in your money through the little opening, your coin or greenback goes to the ticket seller's left, and from that side comes the ticket, which he tears off from the long strip with his right hand. Almost simultaneously the same hand shoves out your change, for he has the exact change for your coin or bill ready, counted out and piled up. Close to his right hand, just inside the little window, are a lot of nickels for changing dimes. Next to these are nickels and dimes arranged with 20 cents in each pile, ready for the man with a quarter. Then there are a lot of forty-five cent piles and others containing 95 cents, so he doesn't need to stop to count out your change. If you call for two tickets and hand in a dollar, the ticket seller takes a nickel from one of the ninety-five cent piles and instantly has the change that you require, and whenever there is a lull in the stream of ticket buyers the man behind the window replenishes his piles of change, so that he is seldom caught without just the amount you need already counted out for you.—Detroit Free Press.

A Strategist.

He was too old to jump on a moving car with safety and was handicapped by a heavy bag of tools slung over his shoulder. Half a dozen motormen had disregarded his signals to stop and had run their cars past the crossing at even greater speed than that with which they approached.

The old laborer didn't grumble or swear. He waited on one rail for the next car. As it drew near he signaled the motorman to stop. The power was increased to run by, as before, and the old man turned as if to get out of the way. The heavy tools slipped from his grasp and fell on the rail. The motorman frantically shut off the power and set his brake hard. The wheel was within a yard of the obstruction when the car stopped. The old man picked up his bundle and smiled broadly as he climbed on the front platform.

"Think you're smart, don't you?" said the motorman.

"Much obliged," said the old man, still grinning. "You're the only accommodating motorman I've seen today."—New York Tribune.

The Wonderful Toad Bone.

All early writers attribute wonderful qualities to toads and frogs and the various parts of their bodies. Pliny believed, for instance, that if a toad was brought into the midst of a mob or other large and unruly concourse of people "silence would instantly prevail." A small bone found in the right side of toads "of the proper age" was also believed to have powers over the various elements. "By throwing this bone into a vessel of boiling water," says Pliny, "it will immediately cool it, the water refusing to boil again until the bone has been removed. To find this bone, expose the dead toad on an ant hill. When the facts have eaten her all away except the bones, take each bone separately and drop it into boiling water. Thus may the wondrous toad bone be discovered."

Strange Craft.

A traveler says: "The strangest craft I have ever seen were the balsas of Lake Titicaca in Bolivia and Peru. These balsas are made of an aquatic plant growing in the waters of the lake. The principle on which they are constructed by the Aymaras Indians proves their ingenuity. A bale of hay naturally floats in the water, and according to the quantity of dried grass used in constructing the boat do they control the displacement or carrying capacity. These boats are likewise fitted with a mast and sail, and in some instances carry from eight to ten persons. The Indians travel long distances over this vast inland lake, the surface of which is on a level with the summit of the Jungfrau of the Swiss Alps."

Shakespeare's Blunders.

The anachronisms and errors of Shakespeare are too well known to require repetition. He speaks of cannon in the reign of King John a century and a half before their invention; he refers to printing in the reign of Henry II., of clocks in the time of Cæsar; makes Hector quote Aristotle and Coriolanus refer to Cato. He introduces a billiard table into the house to Cleopatra, makes Delphos an island and gives a seacoast to Bohemia.

Cutting the Counselor Short.

"Do you give me credit for wisdom?" asked the judge.

"Certainly," replied the lawyer who had just started on a long winded and wearying argument.

"Well, just remember," said the judge, "that a word to the wise is sufficient."—Chicago Post.

Sure to Follow.

"Hello, central!" called the man at the phone. "Give me the gas office."

"Yes, sir," replied the operator, "but I must warn you in advance that we cannot tolerate any bad language over the wire."—Spare Moments.

Viola (gloomily)—Yes; a man once asked me to marry him, but I forgot myself and told him I hadn't time.—Detroit Free Press.

Teachers' Convention.

The addresses and papers at the Norfolk County teachers' convention yesterday were unusually interesting, and with Mr. Charles F. Harper of Quincy as presiding officer it was an ideal convention. This city was largely represented.

At the business meeting these officers were elected: President, Merle Getchell, vice-presidents, T. B. Pollard, Mrs. Ruth Lander, Walter Severance; councillors, G. I. Aldrich, F. E. Parlin, F. E. Chapin, Miss Annie Whittier, F. H. Wilkins; secretary, Miss Dorcas Higgins; treasurer, Joseph Belcher.

Foot Crushed.

Peter Sullivan of Weymouth, a law student of Boston University, had his right foot badley crushed by a train at the Braintree depot yesterday. He came to Braintree from Weymouth on an electric car, intending to take a train for Boston. The train was just pulling out of the depot as his car arrived. He ran to get aboard, and his foot caught in a frog and he fell. Before the train could be stopped several cars passed over his foot crushing it in a terrible manner.

Echoes.

The complete vote of the Tenth Congressional district as received was: McNary, 17,560; Towle, 11,337; a plurality of 6,113 for the Democrats. When the vote for the Socialist candidate is added, it is seen that the Tenth is a lage district. In 1900, Naphen received 23,507 to 16,318 for Dr. Pierce. Col. Gaston's plurality in the Tenth district this year was but 4,404.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Next week at the Castle Square Theatre will be made notable by the first production in this city, at popular prices, of a dramatic version by Edward Rose and H. V. Esmond of Anthony Hope's romantic novel "Phroso." This play was given its first production on any stage in this city four years ago and instantly gained the same favor with the theatre-going public that it had enjoyed with novel readers. In this stage version selections have been skillfully made from the episodes of the novel and pictures arranged to heighten their effect. The first act shows the asasssination of the aged ruler, the arrival of the English purchaser of the island, the rage of the natives, the imprisonment of the Princess and the love at sight between her and her captor. The second and the third are turbulent with as much of the novel's plots and counterplots as they can be made to hold by condensation and rapidity. The passionate, sacrificing love of the Princess for the gallant foreigner is the dominating interest, and it holds its own even against the strong melodramatic scenes into which the action frequently rises. A brief fourth act serves merely as a happy conclusion. The usual distribution of souvenir boxes of choice chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

With Papinta in her second successful week of astonishing "myriad" dances, the bill at Keith's beginning Nov. 10 will be another extraordinary attraction in the engagement of Eva Tucker and Jac Williams, who have proved to be among the most popular and original comedians in the varieties. Their slang classic "Skinney's Finish" and "Driftwood" have made them famous and the latter will be given during this engagement. Other features are Carroll Johnson in blackface monologue; Flood brothers, comedy acrobats; Elizabeth Knight, the "Annie Laurie Girl;" Melville and Stetson, two jolly women; the Zarnes, on the flying rings; Joe Mitchell, with songs; Doyle, the jugler, and Burke's musical dogs. The Present series of pictures in the biograph showing up to date scenes in this and other countries has been making a very decided hit at this theatre recently.

PARK THEATRE.

The most notable production of the present season will be made by Corse Payton at his Park Theatre next Monday, November 10th, when Alfred Roland Haven's great historical drama, "Josephine, Empress of the French" will be elaborately staged and acted for a series of performances continuing only through the week. Mr. Haven's play deals with that great period of French history when Napoleon was at the height of his power, and introduce many familiar and picturesque historical characters. Napoleon himself plays a leading part in the action of the drama, and the central figure is Josephine that wonderful woman whose personality and cleverness influenced the little Corporal so powerfully and so persistently for many years. The great Talleyard also appears in the play, in which will appear other great personages well known to the student of French History As "Josephine, Empress of the French" cannot be continued beyond the limit of a single week's run, the patrons of the Park Theatre should make early application for seats. The performances will be given every day, at two o'clock in the afternoon and at eight in the evening. In spite of elaborateness of this production there will be no increase in the price

MURDER OF STAMBULOFF.

Said to Have Been Plotted by Present Members of Bulgarian Government

Sofia, Nov. 8.—A sensation was created here yesterday by the publication of alleged facsimiles of correspondence relating to the organization of plots against the late Premier Stambuloff and the government, resulting in the assassination of Stambuloff and two other members of his ministry July 15, 1895. Friends of Michael Stavreff, who was found guilty Oct. 24 of the premier's murder and was sentenced to be hanged, are responsible for their publication. They claim that Stavreff was only a tool. According to the correspondence M. Ludskanoff, the present minister of the interior, is alleged to be directly responsible for the organization of the plot, and holders of important posts under the present government are implicated. The name of Count Ignatieff is mentioned in connection with the intrigues. The revelations are expected to lead to an upheaval of the cabinet.

Britishers' Formidable Enemy

Berbera, East Africa, Nov. 8.—General Manning is pushing the preparations for the British advance against the mullah, but he is hampered by the fact that the country has so few resources and the consequent necessity of awaiting supplies. The mullah has advanced to within a few miles of Bohotle. He is known to have 2000 rifles, one Maxim gun, much ammunition, 15,000 spearmen and immense reserves of camel and sheep at his command. Guns are constantly carried to the mullah through French territory and the British are unable to prevent the practice.

☞ Mr. Vincents lecture tonight for the Quincy Tennis club promises to be very well attended. The subject "Dr. Johnson and the Literary Club" is a fertile one, and is certain to be ably treated. Admission to single lecture is 35 cents. Tickets may be had of members of the club.

NEGRO YOUTH'S STORY

Pawned Watches Taken From Murdered Women

GIVEN TO HIM BY MASON

Police Inclined to Believe That Both Men Are Connected With Numerous Slugging Cases and That Further Crimes Will Be Brought to Light

Boston, Nov. 10.—After having given out Saturday night the confession made by the young negro, George L. O. Perry, with reference to selling the watches taken from the murdered women, Miss Clara A. Morton and Miss Agnes McPhee, the police admitted yesterday that Perry declares that Alan G. Mason is the man from whom he received these articles.

This admission of the police was made just before young Perry was taken to the jail in East Cambridge, where Mason, who is the prominent Boston man under arrest on the charge of killing Miss Morton, is confined, pending a hearing in the Cambridge court. Here Perry positively identified Mason as the man who had given him the two watches.

During the day Chief Ryan and Officer Argy of Belmont went to the station where Perry was locked up and had a conversation with him. What was said or the subject of the conversation could not be ascertained. Later State Officers Neal, Dunham, Dexter and others took Perry to the jail for the purpose of identification. The callers were shown into the room where Mason and six others were in line. Perry walked straight up to Mason, who was second in line, and, pointing his finger at him, said: "This is the man who gave me the watches to pawn."

The fact that the negro accused Mason of giving him the watches does not give the police any false confidence that the mystery of the series of brutal crimes has been solved. They recognize well enough, just as the defense, that the Perry confession does not establish that Mason is "Jack the Slugger."

Every slight clue which might offer any assistance in solving the complications before them is taken up and followed. The most important consideration in the light of the charge that Mason murdered Miss Morton is the appearance of a negro in several instances where women were assaulted, for the police authorities are assuming in this case that the men who beat one of the women on the head was the man who killed Miss McPhee and Miss Morton. This is true in spite of the fact that Mason is charged at this time only with the murder of the Morton woman.

All the assaults have the same characteristics. The criminal used a weapon in each case which was probably made of iron. When Miss McPhee was struck the assailant's weapon was an iron shaker, such as might be used for furnaces. In other instances it was proved that the material was iron or lead, or some substance with which the skull could easily be crushed. Moreover, the man who has attacked the women in Cambridge and Somerville has almost always shown the same craftiness of approach, the same capacity for stealing on his victim undetected and the same ferocity and cruelty in delivering blow after blow, even after he has rendered his victim unconscious. These characteristics alone have all along indicated to the police that if the "slugger" was possessed mainly with the idea to rob, he had also a mania for striking and killing women.

In connection with the question of the type of weapon which has been employed in the assaults it has been brought to the attention of the police that Mason has had charge of selling the old iron which accumulates at the pianoforte manufacturing establishment of the Mason & Hamlin company in Cambridge. This iron consists of iron bolts and other broken pieces left over from the making of the pianofortes.

According to the arrangements as made by the state police, Perry will be arraigned on the charge of being accessory after the fact. The police gave out yesterday that Perry in his confession made a sworn statement that the man who gave him the watches is Alan G. Mason. The police have established the fact that Perry's record is a bad one.

The more the police probe into the case the more convinced they are that further crimes can be traced to both Mason and Perry. One theory is that Perry is an accomplice, if not a principal, in the slugging business, some of the officials holding that both a white man and a colored man have been committing assaults on women during the past few months. More than this, some of the officials confidently believe they are on the point of bagging a gang of criminals who for utter depravity have not been equalled in the annals of crime in Boston.

Some discoveries made yesterday would seem to establish a closer connection between Mason and Perry. Mrs. Maxwell of Dilworth street says she was assaulted three weeks ago by a man she believes to be Alan Mason. She knew him as "Gregory Hall," and she first met him three years ago, about the same time that she was assaulted and robbed by young Perry, as the result of which the latter was sent to the Lyman school. Mrs. Maxwell will try to identify Mason.

Fire Scare at Boston

Boston, Nov. 10.—Several persons were in danger of death or injury for a few minutes during a tenement house fire in East Boston yesterday, and only the energetic work of the firemen saved them. The blaze was in a drygoods store, the upper floors of the four-story building being used for tenements. The fire was kept in the store, the loss being placed at $30,000. The thick smoke penetrating the rooms upstairs caused a stampede to the roof. All but one woman and her two children were led down the stairs, but these three were so frightened that they had to be forcibly carried to a place of safety.

Williams Not the Judge

Boston, Nov. 10.—William A. Gaston, late Democratic candidate for governor, in the way of comment on the announcement of George F. Williams that he would return to political life, says that it is for the Democrats of Massachusetts and "not for Mr. Williams to determine for what the party shall stand and to whom its nominations shall be given, and I have no doubt but that the party will decide these questions wisely." Gaston denies the assertion of Williams that he obtained the nomination under misrepresentation.

To Study Industrial Conditions

Boston, Nov. 10.—William Coffey of the Book-binders' union of London and G. J. Lapping of the Leatherworkers' union of Leeds arrived yesterday on the steamer Merion. They are among the English trades unionists who are sent to this country to investigate the conditions of trade unionism in the United States and Canada. They expect to be in the United States about a month, and are members of the industrial commission sent out under the auspices of Alfred Moseley, a wealthy manufacturer and political enonomist.

Guarded Against Saving Himself

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 10.—The body of George A. Henderson, who has been missing three weeks, was found floating in the pond at Institute park yesterday. A stout cord bound Henderson's wrists together. An autopsy proved that Henderson deliberately planned suicide. He was a good swimmer and those who know him well believe Henderson thought he might lose courage and try to save himself, so he tied his wrists together and waded out over his head.

Not Wanted In Providence

Providence, Nov. 10.—Emma Goldman, widely known for her anarchist utterances, was stopped by the police last evening as she was on the point of entering a hall where she had been advertised to speak. She was told that she could not address a Providence audience and went away with little protest. She came to Providence from Boston.

War Survivor Killed by Train

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 10.—Charles Lamonday, recently discharged from the United States army after three years' service in the Philippines, was struck by an express yesterday and instantly killed. Lamonday was walking on the tracks and stepped from one track directly in front of the fast-moving train.

Finback Whale Stranded

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 10.—A finback whale 70 feet in length was found high and dry on the shore at Davis Neck, Bay View, yesterday. The whale was seen floating in Ipswich bay Saturday by fishermen, but they made no attempt to secure it.

Smallpox Increasing

Webster, Mass., Nov. 10.—Another smallpox victim was discovered yesterday in the person of John Gevry, employed until a week ago as a grocery clerk. This makes the 36th case in this town. Citizens are becoming greatly alarmed.

Suicide by Hanging

Malden, Mass., Nov. 10.—Miss Sarah A. Davis, aged 40, committed suicide in her apartments here yesterday by hanging. She was very deaf and had been suffering some time from catarrh, and it is thought that despondency caused her act.

THE WAR IN COLOMBIA

Will Continue by Order of Chief of Revolutionists

GOVERNMENT BROKE FAITH

By Limiting Proposed Peace Conference to Acceptance of Decree of Amnesty—Death Sentence Pronounced Upon Uribe-Uribe Also a Factor

San Jose, C. R., Nov. 10.—The reason why General Vargas-Santos, military director of the Colombian revolution, did not go to Panama to attend the conference arranged to take place yesterday on board the United States battleship Wisconsin in Panama harbor between representatives of the Colombian government and of the revolutionists, is because the government of Colombia, according to advices received here, intended to limit the subject of the conference to the acceptance of the decree of amnesty recently promulgated by President Marroquin of Colombia.

General Santo Domingo arrived here last month bearing peace proposals from the Colombian government to General Vargas-Santos. He said the purpose of his government in calling the peace conference was to establish an effective and lasting peace which would harmonize the interests of the several political parties concerned in the revolution.

The matter was discussed between Vargas-Santos and the Colombian representative, who exchanged a number of cablegrams with the Colombian authorities at Panama, with the result that Vargas-Santos accepted the proposals made by Santo Domingo and promised to attend the conference at Panama with Generals Perdomo and Salazar of the Colombian government and General Herrera of the revolutionists.

At this point of the negotiations Vargas-Santos received advices to the effect that, notwithstanding the proposals of the Colombian government made through its representative here, Colombia proposed limiting the conferees to the acceptance of the decree of amnesty.

General Vargas-Santos thereupon refused to accept such a proposition and decided to withdraw from the conference, which, he says, he considers futile.

At the same time the military director of the Colombian revolution learned that the Colombian government had issued orders to General Tovar to imprison the revolutionary general, Uribe-Uribe, and sentence him to death without mercy. This order was given in spite of Uribe-Uribe's capitulation to the government forces, which occurred at Rio Frio, Colombia, last month. The receipt of this news, which is considered in Colombian revolutionary circles here to be a shameful violation of public faith, further decided Vargas-Santos not to attend the peace conference at Panama, and he issued orders to the Colombian revolutionary army to continue its warfare.

General Vargas-Santos declares he is willing to make peace providing that the Colombian government will recognize the civil and political rights of which the Liberal party has been deprived for the last 17 years, but not otherwise.

After Revolutionary Fleet

Panama, Nov. 10.—The Colombian government gunboats Bogota and Chucuito left here yesterday on a trip along the coast in search of the revolutionary fleet. It is reported that Captain Marmaduke of the Bogota has received instructions to engage the revolutionists in a decisive battle if he finds it possible to do so.

Leon H. Vincent.

If the rest of the lectures in the course being given under the auspices of the Quincy Tennis club, are as interesting as the one given at Colonial hall Saturday evening, there will be a larger attendance henceforth to greet Mr. Leon H. Vincent. As it was, the hundred or so who gathered, showed their appreciation of his entertaining way of presenting his subject. Many quite familiar with Dr. Johnson and the Literary club of his time, learned something new about him, and thoroughly enjoyed Mr. Vincent's enterpretation of him. Those not familiar, found much to interest them and will, without doubt study up the subject for themselves. Mr. Vincent is an easy talker; one who holds the attention of his audience from beginning to end, and the end came all too soon on Saturday evening. The next lecture is on Charles Dickens, which ought to be one of the best in the course. It will be given on the 22.

Indicted on Another Charge.

Frederick E. Betts was on Saturday indicted by the Suffolk grand jury for larceny of a certificate of stock for fifteen shares of stock in the Adams Express Company from Mary E. Ross.

MANY RUMORS.

As to Dark Horses at Democratic Caucuses.

Possibly Chas. H. Porter for Mayor.

Some Withdrawals and Substitutions for Councilmen.

The air is full of rumors today in regard to a dark horse that is to be sprung upon the Democratic caucuses tonight, and steal the nomination away from George H. Wilson. The rumor is that stickers are being printed and will be used at the caucuses. No one seems to know exactly whose name is to appear upon the stickers although at noon it was generally rumored that Ex-Mayor Charles H. Porter was the one.

Mr. Faxon who is taking considerable interest in tonight's caucuses, says he does not know anything about the affair.

It is also understood that stickers for a ward committee in Ward Two will be used, the same as at the Republican caucus.

There have been some changes in the list of candidates to be voted for at the Democratic caucuses tonight from the list published on Friday. These changes are as follows:

The name of Patrick Ferguson of Warren avenue extension has been added to the list of Councilmen at large.

For Ward Councilmen in Ward One, the name of John W. Hersey has been dropped by request, and the name of Andrew M. Stewart of Whitwell street added.

In Ward Three the name of Cornelius B. Austin has been dropped by request, and the name of Henry McGrath added.

In Ward Five the name of P. J. Ferguson has been dropped.

For Ward Committees there are no contests except in Ward Four where there is a double list, as follows:

Dennis Sugrue, Michael Kiley, John J. Reardon, Fred J. Trenton, James E. McDonald, William T. Shea, James F. Burke, James Dillon, Henry M. Hughes.

Cornelius Crowley, Martin A. King, Thomas V. Keating, James A. White, Thomas M. Murphy, Richard H. Walsh, Michael Boyle, John S. Dolan, Philian A. Dalpe.

To Run on Papers.

It has been decided not to hold another Republican caucus in Ward Two to nominate a third Councilman from the ward, as both Mr. Thompson and Mr. Stone, who were tied for the third place will run on nomination papers. With four Republican candidates in the field all may be defeated.

—Men exposed to the rigors of the Alaskan winter never wear mustaches. They wear full beards to protect the throat and face, but keep the upper lips clean shaven. The moisture from breath congeals so quickly that a mustache becomes embedded in a solid cake of ice and the face is frozen in a short time.

—It has been stated that John Walter of the London Times left as a legacy to his daughter one of the advertising columns of the paper. It brought the lady a steady income of $150 a day.

Quincys Won.

The Quincy Association football club journeyed to Franklin Field to meet the Roxbury A. A. football club on Saturday and won 3 to 0. Quincy lined up as follows: Goal, W. Marshall; backs, T. Smith and Brown; halfbacks, J. Gall, J. Smith and J. Craik; forwards, J. Bissett, J. McLeod, R. Robertson, T. Robertson and J. Storey.

Quincy won the toss and played with the wind. The home team kicked the ball off, and one of the Quincy players caught it and passed it to the forwards, who carried it up the field and put it through the goal amid loud cheering, in 10 seconds. The Roxburys tried hard to score but to no avail, Quincy scoring another goal in the first half. After five minutes' rest, the Quincys kicked off the ball and with some fine team work scored number three, the game ending 3 to 0 in favor of Quincy.

This being Quincy's first game, it was a surprise. J. Gall excelled for Quincy in the half back line, and Robertson, Storey, Robertson and Bissett for the forward line.

The Quincys play Roxburys on Nov. 22, on Ward Three playground; game called at 3 o'clock.

Walkover for Wollaston.

The Wollaston A. A. won its fifth game Saturday afternoon defeating the Linwood C. C. eleven in a snappy game 16—0. Linwood was minus the services of their regular centre, thereby weakening the line.

Wollaston won the game by clever end runs and plunging tackle plays. In the first half Miller made a 35 yd. run around right end, Fowler interferring superbly. Taylor failed to kick the goal.

In the second half, Wollaston played strongly and were able to score the second touchdown on hard rushes by Fowler. The goal was missed.

The last touchdown came after Wollaston had carried the ball to the 50 yd. line after the kickoff. Here Taylor made a grand run of 60 yds for the final touchdown. 16 0.

Linwood played a faster game than Wollaston, the work of quarter back Dunbar being very strong, and Capt. L. Peterson made several good rushes.

A crowd of about five hundred enjoyed the game.

The line up and summary:

WOLLASTON A A	LINWOOD C C
Gearwar le	re H. Lewis
Welsh lt	rt Smith
Ferguson lg	rg W. Lewis
Linnell c	c Atwood
Kemp rg	lg Finch
Ripley rt	le Gourney
	lt Perkins
Otis re	le Ford
Taylor qb	qb Dunbar
Miller lhb	rhb L. Peterson
Scharnagel rhb	lhb Leslie
Fowler fb	fb M. Peterson

Score, Wollaston A. A. 16. Touchdowns, Miller, Taylor, Fowler. Goal from touchdown, Taylor. Umpire, Baker. Referee, Alden. Linesmen, Ela, Vining. Time 20m periods.

The West Quincy A. A. foot ball eleven went to Hingham Saturday but were not in it with the local team. Score: Hingham's 20; West Quincy's 0.

The Y. P. R. U.

The Wollaston Y. P. R. U. held its first regular meeting at the Unitarian vestry Tuesday evening and about sixty were present. The president Mr. Fred M. Rollins called the meeting to order. Mr. Ray Weston was elected Secretary in place of Mr. H. Houghton Schumacher who resigned. The report of the last meeting was read. A program has been planned for the coming year which will appear in print later. Though the generosity of Mr. Frank E. Parlin, Mr. W. E. Simmons and Mr. Eugene A. Sprague thirty new service books had been purchased and were used for the first time. Mrs. J. Q. A. Litchfield assisted at the piano. The object of the Society was set forth by Mr. Rollins who also read selections from pamphlets. A collection was taken up.

October Court Business.

Probation Officer Francis A. Spear reports the total number of criminal cases before the District court at Quincy during the month of October to have been 117 against 99 for October 1901.

Of the cases, 50 were for drunkenness; 11 for disturbing the peace; 7 for assault; 7 liquor search warrants; 6 for liquor sale; 6 for larceny; 4 for keeping and exposing liquor for sale; 3 each for malicious mischief, peddling without license, violating fish and game law; 2 each for liquor nuisance, bastardy, keeping unlicensed dog, threat, violation by-laws, violation park rules; 1 each for abduction, neglected child, receiving stolen goods, trespass, search for stolen goods.

Of the cases begun in October seventeen were unfinished Oct. 31.

Vaudeville Tonight.

The attractions at Capt. Eddy's vaudeville at Quincy Music hall this week include: Golden Gate Quartette, engaged for Keith's concert; Reidy and Currier, the noted operatic duetists; Lutz Bros., in novelty acts; the biograph with new films: John Healey, in black face monologue; William Davis, impersonator; etc. Even a better show than last week is promised.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Henry H. Faxon is still at the firing line.

Mrs. P. Kerrigan of Myrtle street is quite ill.

There may be some surprises at the Democratic caucuses.

Nov. 11-22 is the anniversary date of the birth of Abigail Adams in 1744.

It was on Nov. 12, 1828, that the present Unitarian or First church was dedicated.

At the Unitarian Club Wollaston on Tuesday evening supper will be served at 6.30 o'clock.

The dancing party at the K. of H. hall Saturday evening was well attended and a great success.

The noon temperature a year ago was 36 degrees, and Nov. 12, 1899, the mercury climbed only to 33.

A strong pressure is being brought to bear on Elisha Packard to run as a Citizens' candidate for Mayor.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 3 P. M. with Mrs. Webber, 68 Winthrop avenue, Wollaston.

The report on Sunday that a well known citizen had met with an untimely death was without foundation.

Sunday many men brought out their winter overcoats. Today at mid-day a light overcoat was uncomfortable.

That part of Washington street near the fountain in City Square that was recently a grass plot is being macadamized.

The Sacred Heart church of Atlantic has received a new coat of paint. A new cross will be added to the front of the edifice.

An important meeting of the Woman's Guild connected with Christ church is to be held in the Parish house Wednesday afternoon.

There is to be a ping pong entertainment in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Tuesday evening, Nov. 18. The proceeds will be used to repair the organ.

The parish supper will be held at the parish rooms of St. Chrysostom's church Tuesday at 6 P. M. All who are in any way connected with the church are invited to the supper.

When Run Down

The system needs, like a clock, to be wound up again, and the best key is the new iron tonic,

Peptiron

Good at all times and especially good at this time.

Peptiron restores strength, courage, vim, appetite, good digestion, and the ability to rest well at night. It is both medicine and food for the nerves and the brain, which it nourishes and strengthens, permanently benefiting the whole system.

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

THE RECOUNT

Shows Republicans to Have Voted for Fallon.

Only a Very Few Straight Tickets

For R. R. Freeman and E. J. Sandberg.

The Registrars of Voters commenced this morning to recount the votes cast for Representatives at the State election last Tuesday, as petitioned for by Levi H. Turner. It is a long job and but slow progress is being made. But two wards had been completed at noon.

The recount showed many combinations. Hundreds of Republicans voted for Fallon. There were also many votes for Fallon and Freeman, and a few for Fallon and McKnight.

In Ward Two it was somewhat remarkable that on twenty-two ballots only did a cross appear against the names of Freeman and Sandberg, the regular Republican nominees.

In the two wards counted, there were many blanks but the combination seemed to be Fallon and Freeman.

William H. Quincy.

The body of William H. Quincy of Dorchester was brought to West Quincy for interment today. Mr. Quincy, a real estate dealer, died of heart disease on Friday night at his home, 26 Angell street, Dorchester. He was 56 years of age. He was born in Dorchester, June 1, 1846, and was the son of Capt. Charles Clement and Mary K. Braiser Quincy of Boston. He began his career as a real estate dealer when about 19 years of age and established the firm of Quincy & Co., with which he was connected up to the time of his death. For 30 years he was located at 28 School street, and with his two sons transacted a large business in the real estate line. He was married on Aug. 7, 1867, to Mary Emma, youngest daughter of Dr. William B. and Emma B. (Glover) Duggan, who survives him together with three sons and two daughters.

Admiral Dewey.

The United Fruit Company's steamer Admiral Dewey left the Fore River shipyard last week practically a new vessel. She was given a thorough overhauling inside and out while she was under repair. New tops were put on her tanks, her decks were relaid, and a new base plate was set under her engines, which were largely rebuilt. The inside of her hull underwent a careful examination, every part that showed the slightest wear was renewed, and she was completely repainted. The work was done in 27 days.

Run Them In.

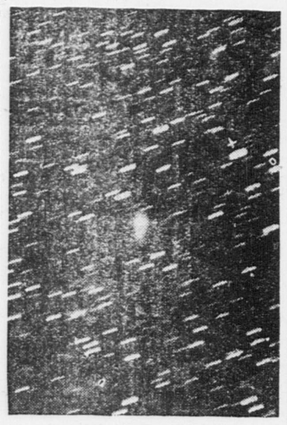

Residents of Washington street complain of the crowd of drunken roughs that come from Boston on the late train especially Saturday nights and make a nuisance of themselves. Last Saturday night an unusually rough crowd came out and there were drunken fights and shouting all the way down the street. One officer is useless in such a crowd. What is needed is to put on enough officers some such night to handle the gang and run them all in. Granite street used to be the rough place Saturday nights but that is nothing to what Washington street has become.

A SKY WANDERER.

How a Photograph of Perrine's Comet Was Secured.

The new comet recently discovered by Perrine, which for some time has been visible to the naked eye, since the 8th of October has been receding from the earth. On that date it made its nearest approach to our planet and was then about 35,000,000 miles distant.

Just previous to the comet's turn to recede from the earth it was photographed in England. An exposure of ninety minutes was given, during which time the comet was kept stationary in the center of the plate with a finding telescope attached to a camera and driven by clockwork in the usual way.

PHOTOGRAPH OF THE NEW COMET.
[The comet is the white blur in the center of the picture. The long dashes of white were made by the motion of the stars.]

While the comet has been visible to the naked eye, it has only been so in the form of a light haze on the blue-black background of the sky. It is moving with great speed toward the sun.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

Navy Yard Contracts.

The navy department issued calls Saturday for bids for the construction of two more big buildings at the Charlestown navy yard, and also called for proposals for constructing the final section of the new quay wall.

Wollaston P. O. Station.

Letters unclaimed for week ending Nov. 8:

Columbia Theatre.

That cleverest and most musical of all musical comedies, "The Defender" at the Columbia Theatre, has started upon the fourth week of its return engagement under the most flattering circumstances and with every indication of a continuation of its phenomenal success. Apart from its costumic and scenic beauties, which have never been surpassed in a production made in the city of Boston, "The Defender" has musical qualities of a decided merit, and as a laugh producer has never been surpassed. Interpreted as it is by the cleverest company of comedians and singers that the Columbia has ever shown at one time, every moment of the performance cannot fail to be of interest. New songs and other features are being continually introduced to add novelty to the performance.

Burglars About.

An unsuccessful attempt was made sometime Saturday night to burglarize the store of Rogers Bros. on the corner of Hancock street and Merrymount road. The parties succeeded in getting into the cellar but were unable to force the door leading from the store. They also attempted to gain an entrance from the street floor by forcing one of the doors. It was evidently the work of boys. This is the second time within a few months that this store has been visited by burglars. The first time a little change, cigarettes and crackers were taken.

Fitting Out the Des Moines.

The fitting out of the protected cruiser Des Moines at the Fore River shipyard has progressed so fast that it is expected that she will be ready for her official trial early next summer. The laying of the wooden main deck was finished last week and her condensers and windlass installed. The propeller shafts are already in place and the engines will be set up at once. All the cruiser's auxiliary machinery, including the various sets of pumps, is ready to go into her hull and the work of installing her electrical plant began this week. The framing of the gunports has been begun and the brasswork of the airports is being put in.

Mr. Webber of Wollaston will give a resume of the day's addresses.

Co-operative Dining Room.

A co-operative dining room was opened this morning at No. 3 Granite street, its object being to furnish table board at lower rates than is obtainable at the present time. It has a good membership to start with, and any interested are invited to call at the house any time, and join. This dining room is opened on this plan for the mutual benefit of all. Table board, $3 per week.

England's Oldest Alehouse.

The oldest licensed village alehouse in England is claimed to be the George inn, in North St. Philip. The license dates from 1397. Each story of the picturesque old structure overhangs that beneath. The front is broken by bay windows, a porch and a flight of stone steps leading to a doorway in the wall. At the back are more quaint doors and windows, and a turret built against the wall incloses an outside stair, while in the yard still remains part of the old gallery found in so many hostelries of the middle ages. Most of the front is timbered, and a curious chimney surmounts each gable. The upper floor inside is of plaster.

MISHAPS TO GUNNERS

Three Accidents, Two of Which Are Expected to Terminate Fatally

North Vassalboro, Me., Nov. 10.—While gunning yesterday Willie Donnelly, aged 17, was probably fatally wounded by the accidental discharge of his rifle. In attempting to push the rifle through a fence with the muzzle toward him, the weapon was discharged. The bullet entered the left breast, passed between the ribs through the lung and became lodged in the muscles of the back. There is little hope of the boy's recovery.

Westerly, R. I., Nov. 10.—James gent, a farmer of Stonington, was fa- Nugent, a farmer of Stonington, was fa- from a gunning expedition. James Longworthy, who was a few feet behind him, stumbled, his gun was discharged and the contents of one barrel penetrated Nugent's left lung. Nugent, who is 42 years old, cannot recover.

Bath, Me., Nov. 10.—While gunning in the woods Walter King, 14 years old, was accidentally shot by a friend, William Olys. The bullet entered the left cheek and, going through the base of the nose, lodged in the right cheek. It is expected that young King will recover unless blood poisoning sets in. The boys were fooling at the time, and became careless. King says his companion is not to blame.

Ball Player Victim of Robbers

Pomeroy, O., Nov. 10.—Harry Allemang, a ball player who had signed with Cincinnati for the coming year, was shot and mortally wounded at Mason, W. Va., his home, early Sunday morning. Allemang was returning home when he found burglars at work in the postoffice. A sentry on the outside fired on him, the bullet lodging in the left lung. Physicians state that the wound is fatal. When Allemang had fallen to the ground the robbers took $980 from him.

For President to Consider

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—Senator Spooner has decided to call President Roosevelt's attention to the reports of political irregularities or outrages in the islands of Porto Rico, and probably will ask that an official investigation be made. Senator Spooner left for Washington last night, having been called there by the president for a conference on the coming message to congress. The senator will bring the Porto Rican subject to the attention of the president.

Generals Favor the Canteen

New York, Nov. 10.—General Wood, who went with Generals Corbin and Young to represent this country at the German war maneuvers, arrived yesterday on the steamship St. Louis. General Wood was asked whether he is in favor of establishing the canteen in the army. He replied: "My canteen reports are on file. General Funston has come out strong for the canteen. I think we are all of one opinion on that subject."

President Going Bear Hunting

Memphis, Nov. 10.—The Commercial Appeal says: President Roosevelt and party will not be the guests of the Ozark Hunting and Fishing club this week, but on the contrary will go after bear in the vicinity of Greenville, Miss. They will remain in camp until the morning of the 19th, when they will return to Memphis in time to participate in the ceremonies to be given in honor of Luke Wright.

AID OF THE MILITARY

Will Be Invoked to Suppress Ladrone Depredations

MODIFIED MARTIAL LAW

And Suspension of Privilege of Writ of Habeas Corpus May Be Resorted To—Complete Inactivity of Soldiers Has Been Taken Advantage Of Manila, Nov. 10.—The government is adopting vigorous measures to suppress ladronism in the provinces of Cavite, Rizal and Bulacan. A zone embracing these provinces, and surrounding Manila, is the scene of constant petty, and sometimes serious, disorder. Several armed bands, some of them numbering 200 or 300 men, are operating in the described districts and have committed various depredations. They find a safe refuge in the mountains.

The plan of the government contemplates securing the assistance of the military, which has been inactive since the end of the insurrection. The extent of the army's participation in the work of suppression depends upon developments. It is probable that the military authorities will require the garrisons to protect the more important towns while the constabulary conduct the field operations. It is thought that martial law, in a modified form, will be declared, and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus suspended in Cavite province, which has been the home of ladrones for ages.

Military control of Cavite province is not contemplated. It is intended that the military and civil authorities shall work in conjunction. The belief is held that advantage has been taken in some parts of the islands of the complete inactivity of the soldiers, and it is thought that the use of the army by the civil authorities will have a beneficial effect.

The vigorous campaign against the ladrones which has been conducted by volunteers in Bulacan province has resulted in driving many refugee bandits into Rizal, where the campaign is now opening.

General Davis is co-operating with Governor Taft. He has strengthened the garrisons in Rizal and is supporting and assisting the native constabulary which is now afield. The operations in Cavite province will commence shortly.

Crowd Threatened Car Crew

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—A wagon containing 12 persons was run into by a street car on Jefferson avenue last night and eight persons were injured. The crowd attracted made an unsuccessful attempt to lynch the motorman and car conductor. Several policemen rushed to the rescue and by threats to shoot kept the crowd back until a patrol wagon was called. The car men were taken to the police station to save their lives.

Spanish Ministerial Crisis

Madrid, Nov. 10.—As a result of a prolonged cabinet council which was held to discuss the recent attacks made upon the government by leaders of the opposition an official note says the ministers are ready to place their portfolios at the disposal of Premier Sagasta if this step is necessary. It is believed that a crisis and the reconstruction of the ministry are imminent.

Volcano Creates Terror

Guadaljara, Mex., Nov. 10.—A violent eruption of Colima volcano is threatened and the people living in the valleys at the base of the mountain are fleeing to Nanzanillo and other points. A dense volume of smoke has been pouring from the crater for several days and during the last 48 hours deep rumbling and sharp reports have come from the interior of the volcano.

Sickening "Entertainment"

Mexico City, Nov. 10.—The winter bull fighting season opened yesterday, the first fighting being attended by a large crowd, including many Americans. The sensation of the spectacle was the serious horning of Parrao, one of the matadors. Parrao received a deep wound in the abdomen and may die. The fight was not interrupted. Ten horses were disemboweled.

Deaths and Wreck by Explosion

New York, Nov. 10.—Two men were killed and one of the pumping stations of the city's water supply system in Queens borough was totally destroyed yesterday by the explosion of one of the two big boilers which furnished power for the pumps. The building was ripped to pieces. Bricks from it flew a distance of 1000 feet or more.

Wanted to Shoot Senator

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 10.—A man about 25 years old, who says he came to this city to shoot United States Senator Kean, is locked up at headquarters. He says he is Fred H. Robinson and that he comes from Corning, N. Y. He declined to explain his enmity towards Senator Kean or why he had intended to shoot him.

Bride, Widow and Heiress

Cincinnati, Nov. 10.—John M. Gibson of this city, who a week ago at Asheville, N. C., was married to Miss Henriette Wolfe, on what was considered his death-bed, died at Asheville Saturday. He had made a will leaving his estate, valued at $1,000,000, to his bride.

Two Wrecks In One Day

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 10.—As the result of two wrecks on the Norfolk and Western railway yesterday three men are dead, one is fatally and two seriously injured.

RIOTOUS STRIKERS

Troops Will Be Kept Busy Unless French Miners Return to Work

Paris, Nov. 10.—The government is taking precautions to handle another outbreak on the part of the striking miners in case the decision reached Saturday night to continue the strike is followed by violence. Troops are active in the mining regions. The authorities believe that the crisis in the strike is near and that the next 24 hours will settle the question whether the men hold to their decision to continue the movement or straggle back to the mines.

Following the decision of the miners' congress to continue the strike, there were disorderly occurrences in Lens Saturday night. The cavalry repeatedly charged a crowd of 15,000 riotous miners and succeeded in preventing them from advancing. Considerable minor damage was done.

At Courrieres houses of non-strikers were sacked and a number of coal wagons were burned.

A clash between strikers and gendarmes and cavalry is reported from Clermond Ferrand. It was not attended with serious results.

From some mining centres it is reported that the miners are likely to return to work in spite of the decision of the congress to the contrary.

Verdict Approved by Public

Madrid, Nov. 10.—The jury in the trial of Sabino Arana, an autonomist leader, who was charged with having sent to President Roosevelt last spring a congratulatory dispatch on the granting of Cuban independence, returned a verdict of not guilty, and the court discharged the prisoner. The public received the decision with expressions of satisfaction. The public prosecutor took the ground that the prisoner had infringed the integrity and dignity of Spain and he demanded that a sentence of eight years be imposed.

Big Mandarin Put to Death

New York, Nov. 10.—Big Mandarin, an elephant of the Barnum & Bailey circus, was executed by strangulation last night in his cage on the main deck of the steamship Minneapolis of the Atlantic transport line. Mandarin was the largest elephant in captivity at the time of his death and had been with the Barnum & Bailey circus for 24 years. He weighed five tons and stood 9 feet, 10 inches high. The elephant had recently become unmanageable, rendering his destruction necessary.

Negro Assaulted a Child

Mobile, Ala., Nov. 10.—A mob gathered about the Central police station last night with the intention of lynching Lewis Wyatt, a negro who yesterday assaulted Maria Constance, a white girl of 6 years. The child's father headed the mob. The chief of police assured the crowd that the negro would be punished, but told them they must let the law take its course. At midnight comparative quiet had been restored, although many people were still clamoring for the negro.

67,000 Deaths From Cholera

Manila, Nov. 10.—The cholera continues to be intermittent in different parts of the archipelago. The recorded total of cases is 105,000 and of deaths 67,000. It is believed that the actual number of cases exceeds the recorded number by 20 percent.

Ella Frances' Great Time

New York, Nov. 10—The two-masted schooner Ella Frances of Rockland, Me., with a cargo of lime from Rockland for this port, passed City island yesterday after having made the passage in the remarkably quick time of 45 hours.

Texas Bank Looted

Rock Island, Tex., Nov. 10.—The safe of the H. S. Lundy bank was blown open late last night by professional burglars. They secured all the money in the vaults. The proprietors' loss is estimated at several thousand dollars.

New Chinese Rebellion

Pekin, Nov. 10.—A rebellion against taxation to meet the indemnity China is to pay to the powers has broken out in the southwestern part of Chi Li province. Troops have been sent to suppress the disorder.

FOOD NOT ALL.

Food is not all the thin man needs. Maybe he's sick. You can't make him eat by bringing him food. But Scott's Emulsion can make him eat. That Emulsion gives a man appetite and feeds him both. It brings back lost flesh.

No trouble about digestion. The weakest stomach can digest Scott's Emulsion. It tastes good, too. Scott's Emulsion paves the way for other food. When wasted and weakened by long illness it gives strength and appetite that ordinary food cannot give. Not only food—medicine, too—Scott's Emulsion of pure cod-liver oil.

We'll send you a little to try if you like.

FANATIC DOUKHOBORS

Resist Efforts of Police to Send Them Back to Their Villages

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 10.—Another chapter in the history of the Doukhobors' pilgrimage to convert the world has closed, but with the ending "to be continued." The Doukhobors were taken by special train from Minnedosa to Yorkton Saturday night and yesterday were kept in the cars, closely guarded by police. Although victorious at Minnedosa, it is a question yet to be decided whether the government will be defeated in their effort to get them back to their villages. If the fight to move them 100 yards is any example of what the government has to contend with, it will take a much larger force to move the Doukhobors the 100 miles to their villages, which are that distance from Yorkton.

Minnedosa dispatches report stormy scenes during the entraining of the pilgrims there. After repeated interviews with Seikroff, the leader of the fanatics, Agent Spears decided to use force and, grabbing the leader by the shoulders, pushed him out of the building in which the Doukhobors had spent the night, and called upon the police to bring the rest. As they came out the fanatics locked themselves together, each man clinging to his neighbor, thus making a solid body.

Then the excitement commenced. The citizens turned out to help the police, but it was hard work to pry the fanatics apart, four or five men being needed to pull one Doukhobor from the interlocked mass. The majority fought every inch of the ground. The scene was one never equalled in Canada, a sullen, stubborn mob of people fighting fiercely with police and citizens, not in the mode of warfare but wanting only to be left alone and allowed to go on their way.

Her Faults Overlooked

Omaha, Nov. 10.—A great crowd of women gathered in the German Baptist church to attend the funeral of Miss Augusta Busch, who, with Rev. W. C. Rabe, was found dead in the vestibule of the church. Rev. Thomas Anderson conducted the service. Mr. Anderson referred openly to the tragedy in his sermon, saying: "Many enemies of the Christian church will make much of the fall of this man and this woman, but she is more sinned against than sinning, and whatever sin she committed was atoned for by the years of self-sacrifice that preceded it. All of us are weak, and she fell before temptation." The funeral and interment of Rabe will occur in Buffalo.

Rulers May Be Making a Deal

London, Nov. 10.—The Daily Mail and The Daily News throw doubt upon the reality of the reported settlement of the evacuation of Shanghai. The former paper hints that Germany has a secret understanding with China in the matter, while the latter journal declares that Emperor William's visit to King Edward is concerned with this question and with an endeavor on the part of Germany to secure a quid pro quo for German quiesence while Great Britain completes her arrangements with Portugal with reference to Delagoa bay.

Philippine Church Troubles

Manila, Nov. 10.—The dissenting native Catholics who last week took possession of the church at Pandacan have now surrendered the edifice to the Roman Catholic church authorities. Other native dissenters seized a church near Cavite and held services there yesterday. It is thought that the question of property rights involved in these seizures will be taken into court.

A Little Side Trip

Kansas City, Nov. 10.—The Crown Prince of Siam broke his western journey by a two hours' stop here yesterday, the time being spent in a drive through the city. The next stop of the party will be at Colorado Springs today, the best part of the day being allotted for sight-seeing.

Can't Work Burmah Oil Fields

London, Nov. 10.—A special dispatch from Calcutta says that the Indian government has refused the Standard Oil company permission to prospect in the oil fields of Burmah.

NEGRO AS A WITNESS

Against Suspect In "Jack the Slugger" Cases

CONFESSION IS INACCURATE

Criminal Charge May Be Brought Against Him Later If Evidence Warrants It—Case Has Assumed Developments Which Puzzle Police

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11.—There are two central figures now in the mystery surrounding the murder of Miss Clara A. Morton and Miss Agnes McPhee. One is Alan G. Mason, a member of a well known family of Boston, who is being held on the charge of murdering Miss Morton, and the other is George L. O. Perry, a negro, who accuses Mason of having given him the watches taken from both Miss Merton and Miss McPhee.

Contrary to plans, Perry was not arraigned yesterday on the charge of being accessory after the fact. The state police decided that the institution of such a charge against the negro would mean that he would not have to testify against himself, and therefore much that should be brought out to lift the mystery might be hidden. Perry was, therefore, held merely as a witness, with the understanding that a criminal charge will be made against him later should the evidence warrant such a move. Perry is now in jail with Mason, since he was unable to procure the $1000 bail placed by the court.

In arranging for the hearing on the Mason case in the Third district court here the state police yesterday discovered apparent inaccuracy in the Perry confession. They are devoting much time to investigating the negro's actual movements during the time of the various assaults upon women. Mrs. Carrie Maxwell, who was robbed by Perry about two years ago in Boston, and who was assaulted about a month ago by a white man at her home, called yesterday at the jail and positively declared that Mason was not the man who had attacked her. A strange woman figured conspicuously in the case yesterday, and it is expected that her testimony will be offered by the defense as helping to establish an alibi for Mason. Various electric car passengers still persist that Mason was in two cities at practically the same time. This is but one example of the many confusing developments which the case has assumed. The probability is that the government will ask for a further continuance of the case when Mason reappears in court.

A Spectacular Conflagration

New York, Nov. 11.—The new East river bridge, in process of construction between New York and Brooklyn, was damaged to the amount of at least $500,000 last night by a fire that for four hours raged 355 feet in the air on the summit of the great steel tower on the New York side. Three men who were at work on the top of the tower when the fire broke out are reported to have fallen into the river. The fire started in a tool shed and burned away the supports until nearly 1,000,000 feet of blazing lumber fell with a mighty splash and hiss into the stream.

Wu Seeks Information

Washington, Nov. 11.—Minister Wu called at the state department yesterday preparatory to taking his leave for China. He is availing himself of the kindness of the department officials to get together a mass of material bearing upon reciprocity treaties and commercial agreements generally to assist him in the heavy task that lies before him in connection with the framing of such treaties on his return to China.

Disappearance of Gibson Will

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 11.—The will of the late Cincinnati millionaire, John M. Gibson, drawn a few days before Gibson's death, is reported to be missing. Gibson was married here upon his death-bed to Miss Henriette Wolfe of Providence. It is said that the will bequeathed all the personal property of the deceased to his mother and all the real property to his newly-made wife.

Terrible Steamship Disaster

Melbourne, Nov. 11.—The British steamer Elingamite, bound from Sydney, N. S. W., for Auckland, has been wrecked on Three Kings islands. Forty-one of those on board the steamer were saved and 96 are missing.

Three Kings islands is a group of small islands 38 miles northwest of New Zealand.

Jail Sentence For Auto Speeder

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Paul Richards, a chauffeur who was arrested in this city on Sunday for running an automobile at a reckless rate of speed, was sentenced by city Judge Kellogg yesterday to 10 days in the Kings county penitentiary. The judge refused to impose any fine on the chauffeur.

MOLINEUX VERDICT TODAY

Prisoner's Counsel Endeavors to Fix Adams Murder Upon Cornish

New York, Nov. 11.—The fate of Roland B. Molineux will be determined today. When court adjourned last evening Justice Lambert announced that he would allow Assistant District Attorney Osborne but two hours and a half more to finish summing up, which means that the court will deliver its charge and the case will go to the jury during the afternoon.

The court room was crowded to suffocation when Mr. Black rose yesterday to sum up for the defense. After a general defense of Molineux, whom he declared the prosecution had utterly failed to connect in any way with the death of Mrs. Adams, Mr. Black passed to a scathing denunciation of Harry Cornish, to whose guilt, and not that of Molineux, he declared every circumstance in the case directly pointed. More than half of Mr. Black's address, which occupied nearly four hours, was devoted to an analysis of Cornish's conduct and testimony and of the testimony of other witnesses in a manner to support his contention that Cornish's actions were not consistent with his innocence of the crime of which Molineux stands accused.

Mr. Osborne based his argument for the prosecution largely on the testimony of the handwriting experts which, he said, conclusively showed Molineux to have been the writer of the poison package address and of the other disputed exhibits.

General Chaffee Home Again

San Francisco, Nov. 11.—The United States transport Sumner arrived in port last evening from the Philippines after a stormy and most perilous voyage. Shortly after leaving Yokohama the vessel encountered a typhoon. Boats were smashed and portions of the rigging carried away. On board the transport were General and Mrs. Chaffee, Vice Governor Wright of the Philippines and Mrs. Wright and other army officers. General Chaffee has been absent from this country for over three years. To General Chaffee's efforts were due the speedy and peaceful settlement of the Chinese difficulty and in recognition of his services in China he was detailed to go to the Philippines to bring about a more harmonious condition of affairs.

Hitch on Sugar and Tobacco

Washington, Nov. 11.—While the Cuban reciprocity treaty remains in Havana, President Palma has supplied Minister Quesada full instructions as to the representations to be made to the United States government respecting it. The main issue between the negotiators is the rate of rebate to be allowed upon Cuban sugar and tobacco entering the United States and it is probable that these will be a compromise between the 25 percent which the United States government is willing to allow and the 50 percent which the Cubans demand.

Supreme Court Decision on Oleo

Washington, Nov. 11.—The United States supreme court yesterday affirmed the decision of the supreme court of New Hampshire in the case of Clarence E. Collins vs. that state. The case involved the constitutionality of the New Hampshire state law requiring oleomargarine to be given a color different from the color of butter or to be labelled. The validity of the law was sustained by the court below, and the effect of the action of the federal supreme court is to validate that opinion.

To Popularize Emigration

London, Nov. 11—The Canadian emigration office in London, which was recently promoted to the dignity of a special bureau with a commissioner of its own, is preparing to branch out on an extensive scale. Commissioner Preston says: "We expect next year to place 100,000 emigrants in western Canada and we shall probably draw a third each from the United States, the united kingdom and the rest from Europe."

Prince In Mountain Region

Colorado Springs, Col., Nov. 11.—The Crown Prince of Siam and party arrived yesterday and in the Pike's Peak region visited Palmer Park, the Garden of the Gods and Manitou. The prince stood the altitude of 6000 feet well.

Spanish Cabinet Crisis

Madrid, Nov. 11.—Premier Sagasta yesterday tendered to King Alfonso the resignation of the entire cabinet. The cortes will suspend its sittings until it is solved.

President and Prince Meet

Washington, Nov. 11.—Count Quadt of the German embassy called at the White House yesterday to introduce to the president Prince Henry of Pless. The call lasted but a few moments, the visitors merely desiring to pay their respects.

What Higgins' Election Cost Him

Albany, Nov. 11.—Frank W. Higgins, who was elected lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket, spent $3,063.88 for election expenses, according to his certificate, filed with the secretary of state yesterday.

AGREEMENT REACHED

Former Employes of Markle Mines Returned to Work This Morning

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 11.—G. B. Markle & Co. and their 2500 men who refused to return to work because they were asked to make individual application for their positions came to an agreement yesterday and operations at the four Markle collieries were resumed today. The company offered to reinstate all the employes except the 13 recently evicted and not to discriminate against members of the union on condition that the men agree to abide by the decision of the arbitration commission and answer questions as to their age and other details before resuming their places. These terms were accepted.

The 13 evicted employes, who will not be taken back, according to the company officials, under any consideration, will be provided for by the United Mine Workers. Among this number are the president, the secretary and the treasurer of the Jeddo local union.

New Light on Goebel Murder

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 11.—That Henry Youtsey, convicted of complicity in the murder of the late Governor Goebel, and now serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary, has made a statement concerning that affair there seems to be no longer any doubt. The statement was made, it is said, to Judge Cantrill, who presided at the trial of the prisoner. What the statement contains is known only to prosecuting counsel in the Goebel conspiracy cases, and it will be kept from the public pending corroboration of its contents by the parties named in its detail.

Want Cock Fighting Legalized

Havana, Nov. 11.—Heavy rain interfered with the public demonstration which was held here yesterday in the interest of legalizing cock fighting in Cuba and rescinding the military order prohibiting it. There were five bands of music in the procession which marched through the streets of Havana. The demonstrators were refused an audience by President Palma, but presented their petition in favor of cock fighting to the senate.

Gypsy Shoots and Kills a Boy

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Last week a band of 75 gypsies took quarters near the driving park. Last night a crowd of boys gathered about the camp and an altercation started between the gypsies and the boys. In the darkness a gypsy fired a shot into the crowd, the bullet killing Raymond Banks. The police have one suspect but he denies the shooting. Every man in the camp has been put under arrest.

Combination of Interests Denied

Washington, Nov. 11.—The Illinois Central and the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railroads, two of the lines named as defendants in the complaint of the Kentucky state railroad commission, charging merger of interests of all the roads in the southern territory, yesterday filed answers with the interstate commerce commission, making a general denial of the allegations in the complaint.

Good Afternoon

If five per cent of the pledges made on the stump were fulfilled, when Congress convenes, the country would have much to be thankful for.

A Chicago concern has organized with a capital of $15,000,000 to exploit "tabloid milk." It claims that it has a process whereby milk can be reduced to tabloids which will become genuine, fresh milk with the addition of water.

With the establishment of the Fore River shipyard in this city there is a desire on the part of many young men for technical training, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Lawrence Scientific school of Harvard will have an increased number of students from Quincy. It would be a grand thing, however, if a technical school could be established in this city or a special course arranged at the High school. The Bath Iron Works have taken steps to establish a technical school in Bath, and Quincy should be up to date.

City Council Business.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight, at which time the official returns of the State election will be reported.

Other matters that will come up will be reports from the Ordinance Committee on the orders for $1,500 for abating nuisance at Quincy Point; laying out Newbury avenue, Edison street, Eaton street, and Hamilton street; gravel sidewalk on Brooks avenue, transferring receipts from pasturage to parks.

The following orders will come up for a second reading: Granting the Telephone company a location for poles on West street, transferring $400 in the Fire department, and the loan order of $4,350.

Large Casting.

The stern post for the battleship New Jersey is being finished in the Fore River shipyard machine shop preparatory to putting into position at once. It is in one casting weighing eleven tons. The protective decks of both the New Jersey and Rhode Island were about one-third laid last week and the hull plaiting of the forward section of the vessels has been well started since the stem was set up.

Democratic caucuses for the nomination of a candidate for Mayor, and school committee at large, and members of the school committee from Ward Four and Six, Councilmen from the ward, and the election of ward committees were held in all wards of the city Monday evening.

During that day there were many rumors about the city as to possible dark horses. Several names were mentioned, and it was currently rumored that Henry H. Faxon was the instigator of the movement. That gentleman, however, denied emphatically that he knew anything about it.

If such a move was seriously contemplated it became sidetracked, and not a sound was heard from it at any of the caucuses, George H. Wilson receiving the unanimous vote.

The caucuses were not largely attended except in Wards Two and Four.

There were but few changes in the nominations made from those published in the Ledger. In Ward Two an unsuccessful attempt was made to elect a ward committee by the use of stickers, but it failed.

In Ward Three but one name appeared on the ballot for ward councilmen but three were nominated.

In Ward Four there was a good natured contest over the election of ward committee.

In Ward Five hardly a corporals guard were present, and in Ward Six Stephen H. Edwards, Jr., who was named for a member of the ward committee was defeated.

Mr. Wilson's 167 votes was practically the attendance at the caucuses although there were a few blanks in some of the wards.

Of late years the Democratic caucuses have not been largely attended, for it is probably true that many avowed Democrates take part in the Republican caucuses.

Ward One.

Walter B. Wilson was chairman of the Ward One caucus and Luke J. Coyle secretary.

Only 9 votes were cast during the thirty minutes the polls were opened, all for George H. Wilson for Mayor.

The nominees for the Council are: Zenas S. Arnold, Lewis Bass, Jr., and Andrew M. Stewart.

For Ward Committee,—Walter B. Wilson, Philip D. Cook, Luke J. Coyle, Francis M. Hodges, Dennis Mcgee, Walter M. Packard, Thomas J. Dunphy, Thomas McDonald, John F. Walsh.

Ward Two.

The success in the use of stickers by the Republicans of Quincy Point last week, prompted the Democrats to try the same scheme at their caucuses, but it met with defeat. Stickers were freely used, but the highest vote any of the sticker list received was 19, which was not enough to elect.

A peculiar thing about the sticker if was that five of the names on the stickers also appeared in the list printed on the ballot. It was rumored that the particular man they were after was Timothy J. Carey.

As a whole it was the largest Democratic caucus held in this ward for years. James M. Cleverly was chairman and Henry P. Moynihan clerk. The tellers were Michael Walsh and Willian Callahan.

The Councilmen from the ward nominated, and the ward committee elected are as follows:

For ward committee,—Timothy J. Carey, Perry Green, Charles Mullane, Thomas J. Flaherty, Joseph D. Griffin, William F. Cain, Michael J. Devaney, Edward J. Perry, Jr., Timothy J. Sullivan.

Ward Three.

The South Quincy caucus was not largely attended, although there was fully as many present as anticipated.

William A. Kelley was chairman and George D. Cahill was clerk. The tellers were James F. Morrissey, Edward H. McGinty, Cornelius D. Austin and Thomas F. Shea.

There was practically no contest. But one name appeared on the ballot for Ward Councilmen, but other names were written in, so that three Councilmen were nominated. Michael Burns and William A. Kelley were tied for the third man, but Mr Kelley withdrew.

The vote in detail:

For Councilmen from Ward,—Henry McGrath, 29; William J. Sullivan, 20; Michael Burns, 10; William A. Kelley.

For Ward Committee,—Edward H. McGinty, 26; William A. McCabe, 23; James F. Morrissey, 22; Thomas F. Shea, 26; John P. Duffy, 24; Cornelius D. Austin, 26; James Dean, 23; James Sweeney, 20; Antony Mottla, 20; William J. Sullivan, 11; Andrew W. Howley, 1.

Ward Four.

The caucus in the West Quincy ward was quite largely attended, considering there was no contest, except for ward committee. This was however not considered as a contest as a double list is always presented to the caucus for the voters to select their committee.

Thomas B. Keating was chairman of the caucus and Martin A. King secretary. The tellers were John W. Burke, Philip Garrity, James Eagan and James Killey.

Seventy-two votes were cast and George H. Wilson, the candidate for mayor, received all of them.

The nominations made were as follows:

For Councilmen from Ward: John J. Reardon, William P. Hughes and Richard H. Walsh.

For School Committee from Ward, for three years: William J. Foley.

The Ward Committee elected was: Michael Kiley, John J. Reardon, James F. Burke, William T. Shea, James Dillon, Henry M. Hughes, Cornelius Crowley, Martin A. King, Richard H. Walsh.

Ward Five.

The Wollaston caucus was not largeiy attended for the reason that this ward is overwhelmingly Republican. There were no contests of any kind, the caucus being merely a matter of form.

But one candidate had been nominated for councilman from the ward, Joseph H. Vogel, Jr. He positively declined to be a candidate so that none were nominated.

The ward committee elected include: Edward Twitchell, Clinton Jones, William J. Collagan, Francis R. McCormick, Walter J. Anderson, Daniel O'Meara, Patrick Desmond, David J. Roche, Jeremiah Denneen.

Ward Six.

The caucus in the Atlantic ward was not largely attended as there was no contest of any kind. Michael A. Hayes was chairman and Bernard Cullen clerk, and they with Frank B. Granahan counted the votes.

The result was as follows:

For Councilmen for Ward,—Michael A. Hayes, Peter J. Collagan, John A. Duggan.

For School Committee from the ward,—Dr. F. J. Peirce.

Ward Committee,—Martin W. Cunniff Bernard Cullen, Michael A. Hayes, John J. Canty, Edmund A. Shea, Robert J. Clifford, Charles Duggan, Matthew Lyons, Stephen H. Edwards, Jr.

The contest which was unexpected was on the ward committee. Lawrence Cullen's name did not appear on the official ballot but his name was written in and when the votes were counted it was seen that he had defeated Stephen H. Edwards, Jr.

The Nominee.

Ex-Councilman George H. Wilson, whom the Democrats have unanimously nominated for Mayor, is one of Quincy's best known business men being at the head of the firm of George F. Wilson & Co., established by his father in 1843.

No one in Quincy took a greater interest in the soldier boys during the Spanish war than did Mr. Wilson, not only those from this city, but hundreds in the Philippines whom he never saw. They received from him newspapers, Christmas boxes, pipes, tobacco, etc.

In 1899 Mr Wilson was elected a Councilman from Ward One, a strong Republican ward. In 1901, he was a Democratic candidate for the Legislature. That year the Republican plurality for Governor was 982, but Mr. Wilson came within 200 of an election.

Mr. Wilson is in his 48th year, a Mason, a Knight Templar, a Shriner, an Odd Fellow, a member of the Granite City Club, and Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and an honorary member of the Grand Army, and Legion of Spanish War Veterans.

THE LORD RECITAL.

Over Fifty of Mr. Lord's Pupils Take Part, Assisted by Reader.

The fourth annual banjo, mandolin and guitar recital by the Lord Family and pupils eclipsed all its predecessors and was one of the most enjoyable concerts ever given in Quincy. Hancock hall was filled to overflowing, and applause attested the appreciation of each number.

The program, which was in two parts and included fifteen numbers, opened with orchestra selections in which over fifty banjos, mandolins mandolas, guitars, flutes and a piano took part. The success of Mr. Lord as an instructor was shown by the excellent time and expression.

Miss Mabel N. Simmons was a pleasing reader and in Part II responded to an encore.

The solos by Maud Alletzhausser, Harold Bean, Frank P. Lord, Roscoe Richer, Susie James, George Munroe and Charles Lord were musical gems which met with favor.

The selections by the club were popular, but The Lord Family in their trio were the favorites of the evening, being recalled three times on No. 2.

Prizes were offered by Mr. Lord for sales of tickets and Miss McLane who sold over 100 received first prize, a mandolin.

A PROBLEM SOLVED.

Another Gordian Knot is Now Cut.

A Discovery Invaluable to the Science of Medicine.

An Invention That Will Be of Benefit to Thousands of People.

There is no doubt about the value of Vinol, this new form of cod liver oil, concerning which so much has been said lately. It is just another one of those great inventions that is bound to revolutionize a certain branch of science. This time the science is that of saving lives. Hence the greater good that will be derived from this discovery.

Mr. Edward J. Murphy of this city, who so fortunately succeeded in associating himself with the prominent Boston firm, has indeed made his name one that will never be forgotten in our city. His foresight and shrewdness enable him to take advantage of what has proved to be a most wonderful blessing to all who are in need of medicine for the cure of throat, lung and bronichial troubles, as well as wasting diseases of every description.

This Vinol is simply cod liver oil in a new form, cod liver oil without any oil, paradoxical as the statement may sound. In other words, as Mr. Murphy explains it himself, Vinol is the concentrated essence containing all the active, medicinal principles found in the liver of the live cod, without any of the objectionable features that were formerly extracted at the same time, such as fatty matter. The extract which is the basis of Vinol becomes tasteless, administered as it is in a delicate table wine. The efficient manner in which it acts is really wonderful. Physicians are now able to prescribe for patients Vinol where it would have been impossible a short time ago to have recommended cod liver oil on account of the depleted condition of the patient's digestive organs.

This has always been a drawback that has prevented more cures being effected where cod liver oil has been indicated. Patients are now able to take this medicine without the slightest inconvenience. In fact, to take delicious Vinol is a pleasure. Its beneficial effect is most gratifying.

It is not often we believe it our duty to expatiate so fully on a subject, but this is one that will admit of careful investigation by all, for it is indeed of the gravest importance that every one should become conversant with a remedy that is so often needed in our bleak climate.

The taxes for 1885 were paid in September before the Faxon Park, 26 1-2 acres, was deeded to the city October 20, 1885.

If there is not a reform administration in the near future all the income from real estate will be absorbed in supporting office holders and political loafers whose selfish interests are paramount to the public welfare.

Henry H. Faxon.

Quincy, Nov. 11, 1902.

Vaudeville at Music Hall.

The second week of Capt. Eddy's vaudeville at Quincy Music hall opened with an entirely new bill, and the audience of 600 or more present pronounced it a very good show. Every act was clean and of merit, and the artists wore new and attractive costumes indicating success.

Reidy and Currier, the duetists, were singers of excellence and introduced an operatic sketch.

John Healy, in black face monologue, was wide awake, and should have been greeted with more applause.

The feats of one of Lutz Bros. were remarkable, as he is armless. He played a trombone in a duet with his brother, using his bare feet in place of hands. He also handled with skill a hammer, augur, and saw; played on the bells, and wound up with difficult shots.

The Golden gate Quartette includes five artists, four colored gentlemen and one colored lady. They appear in different costumes and are clever actors, singers and dancers.

The biograph views were the best ever given in the city. Because of the blowing out of a fuse all were not given, but are promised for tonight and at both performances on Wednesday. Matinees will hereafter be given only on Wednesdays.

The Quincy Branch of the Woman's Alliance had a pleasant Longfellow afternoon in the chapel of the First church yesterday. A finely arranged paper on the life and writings of the Poet was read, followed by some beautiful solo songs from his pen. Many poems of his were also read, and a sketch of the Preacher brother, Samuel Longfellow came on the program. The beautiful vesper hymn closed the exercises.

GAINS GENERAL.

But None for Mr. Sanberg, and Mr. McKnight Lost.

It was after 7 o'clock Monday night when the Registrars of Voters completed their recount of the votes cast for Representatives at the election last week. As was expected some changes were made but the vote was in no way changed. The only thing the recount did was to give an opportunity to look at the ballots. The changes by the recount, briefly were as follows:

Carlson gained 2.
Colligan gained 2.
DeNormandie gained 3.
Fallon gained 8.
Freeman gained 2.
McKnight lost 1.
Sandberg remained the same.
Turner gained 6.
Blanks gained 21.

Serious Accident.

W. J. Ross of 28 Phillips street Wollaston Park, met with a serious and probably fatal accident on Saturday at his place of employment at Sturtevant's at Harrison Square. He took a board to show someone how a lathe works, but by accident the board flew and struck him a savage blow in the abdomen and hip. He was conveyed to his home, and specialists have been called, but his case continues critical.

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited.

Few are entirely free from it.

Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it.

Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Eradicate it, positively and absolutely. This statement is based on the thousands of permanent cures these medicines have wrought.

THE TRUST QUESTION

Will Be a Leading Feature of the President's Message

EXPERTS FOR THE TARIFF

Whose General Conclusions May Not Be Reached For a Year or More—Hints From Trust Magnates Will Not Swerve Executive's Intention

Washington, Nov. 11.—The president's message will unquestionably deal with both the control of the trusts and revision of the tariff; but the tariff question will be subordinated in a most marked manner to that of the trusts. The line of argument, it is understood, will be that, until legislation can be obtained for the enforcement of publicity in trust operations, there is only one course to pursue—namely, to make use of such judicial weapons as existing statutes put into the hands of the government; inquire whether any of the industrial combinations are breaking the laws we already have, and, if there is reason to believe they are, to prosecute and punish them.

Bearing this in mind it will be plain that the idea of making revision of the tariff the basis of a campaign against the trust is not on the president's program now. On his familiar theory that one thing at a time is enough, he will push the trust issue to the front at once, the tariff issue taking for the present a secondary place, where it can be treated thoughtfully and with a scientific rather than a vindictive end in view.

That is the reason he would prefer to take the first consideration of the whole subject outside of congress and refer it to a commission of experts, whose general conclusions, reached perhaps not for another year or 18 months, would afford suggestions for legislation then, and a basis for a permanent national and non-partisan policy thereafter. This plan, it is needless to say, is not pleasing to some of the foremost trust magnates, and even more energetic efforts have been made this year than were made last year to head it off before the annual message goes to congress. There have been pretty broad hints thrown out in Washington that the disturbances in Wall street within the past week are at least in part the result of manipulation, with the design of warning the president that if he persists in his understood purposes he will have some terrible disasters charged up against his record.

No argument on this line and no events in apparent corroboration of it have moved him in the least. Their only effect has been to make him set his teeth tighter and answer all who have discussed the matter with him that if anything more than his own reason and moral promptings had been necessary to convince him that his course was right, he has the necessary proof now.

From the political point of view, the effect of the president's policy will be to solidify the northwest in support of the administration, though his partisan counsellors all admit that they may have to forego New York as a favorable factor. Some of the professional politicians are already figuring on a campaign cry for 1904, of which the burden will be "the transfer of the seat of government from Wall street to Washington." In this line of activities the president is taking no part, even to the extent of nodding his encouragement. He asserts that he has all he can attend to in doing the things that lie before him, without estimating their probable or possible results.

LABOR UNIONS DENOUNCED

Says Their Attitude Is Nothing More Than Constant Fight Against Development of Manly Instincts—Possession of Skill a Sufficient Weapon

Boston, Nov. 11.—It was to the great surprise of the members of the Economic club of Boston and the guests who had been speakers before him at the club's banquet last night to hear President Eliot of Harvard college denounce the labor unions of the country as opposed to education of the young men, and what he termed "their fight against the development of the manly instincts."

CHARLES W. ELIOT, HARVARD.

The Economic club, which is made up of representative business men of Boston and vicinity, was formed for the purpose of holding meetings for the discussion of current topics. The subject for last evening was "Industrial Battle and the Public." Among the speakers were John A. Hobson, the noted English political economist; Frank K. Foster, chairman of the state board of the American Federation of Labor; George E. McNeill, the labor leader; C. F. Adams and Professor Parsons, president of the National Public Ownership league; Samuel Cabot and E. H. Clement of the Boston Transcript, Osborne Howes and Conrad Reno. All spoke in favor of the incorporation of labor organizations.

President Eliot had not promised to speak, but had consented to say something if the spirit moved. When called upon he said present conditions indicated that many years must pass before the labor question is satisfactorily solved. Both sides must make concessions and adopt some plan—as, for instance, that in vogue in the great educational institutions of the country where the professors are engaged on trial, then on probation, and finally, when they have proven themselves competent and trustworthy, retained for life or as long as they are able to perform their duties. In case of disability they are pensioned. This plan, however, he said, is not feasible at the present time, because both the employers and the labor unions were in a way inhuman.

The principal objection to the labor unions, from the educator's point of view, he said, was their objection to young men becoming competent mechanics. That they do prevent this is evident from the fact that all unions attempt to limit the number of apprentices employed in any industry. The right to labor is considered the most sacred right of the American citizen.

President Eliot's objection to the labor unions was, he said, that the prime object of the union seemed to be to work as few hours as possible, produce as little as possible during that time, and to receive as much money as possible for the service given. This attitude was in effect nothing more than a constant fight against the development of manly instincts. He said he had a profound contempt for any man who didn't choose to labor every day just as long as his strength would permit.

He protested against violent measures by strikers to prevent non-union men filling the vacant places. For the skilled mechanics banded together the very fact that they possessed the skill was a sufficient weapon. With the unskilled workers, while the conditions are different, there is nothing to justify the use of violence.

President Eliot said in closing that his opinion now is the same as given years ago in a contribution to a journal, in which he characterized the strike breaker, or modern "scab," as "a good type of the American hero."

Teller Charged With Larceny

New York, Nov. 11.—J. S. Singer, up to two weeks ago paying teller of the Mutual Alliance Trust company, is under arrest, charged with the larceny of $2100 from the company. Singer, who is a Philadelphian, is a retired major of the Second regiment of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

Munich, Nov. 11.—Poultney Bigelow, the author, was thrown from his horse yesterday and broke his collarbone while hunting with the officers of the garrison.

Cannon Wants Speakership

Chicago, Nov. 11.—A majority of the Illinois delegation to congress gathered here yesterday and endorsed Congressman Cannon for speaker of the house of representatives to succeed Speaker Henderson. It was announced that assurances had been received from a majority of the congressmen in Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas and Michigan that they would support Cannon for the speakership.

Wireless Telegraphy Recommendation

Washington, Nov. 11.—Government control of all wireless telegraph stations along the coasts of the United States is recommended by Rear Admiral Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment, in his annual report. It is proposed to establish wireless stations for the purpose of instructing officers and men at Newport, New York, San Francisco and probably other naval stations.

Mitchell Receives Baer's Reply

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 11.—A copy of the statement sent by President Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading company to the arbitration commission in answer to the one filed with the committee by President Mitchell in behalf of the miners was received at miners' headquarters last night. Mr. Mitchell said he would go over the statement with his attorneys today.

Miners Threaten to Strike

Tamaqua, Pa., Nov. 11.—At a meeting of the employes of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company yesterday it was decided that unless the 218 officials of the various local unions in the Panther Creek valley, who, it is claimed, have been blacklisted, are reinstated in their old positions before the end of the week, a general strike will be ordered.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

MOLINEUX IS SET FREE

Verdict of Not Guilty In Noted Murder Trial

CHEERS FROM THOUSANDS

Greeted the Man Who Had Once Been Condemned to Death as He Left the Courtroom With His Father—Jury Out but Thirteen Minutes

New York, Nov. 12.—Roland B. Molineux was set at liberty yesterday after spending nearly four years in prison and being once condemned to death and twice placed on trial for his life for the murder of Mrs. Katharine J. Adams.

ROLAND B. MOLINEUX.

But 13 minutes sufficed for the jury to reach a verdict of acquittal at the close of a trial that has lasted four weeks, the first trial, which resulted in Molineux's conviction and sentence, having been prolonged for about three months.

General Molineux, when asked for an opinion on the verdict, wrote and signed for all his reporter friends the following:

"The struggle is o'er, the battle is done. And might has lost, but right has won."

The jury retired at 3:15. In 13 minutes after the jury retired word was brought to the court room that a verdict had been reached. It was 3:45 when Justice Lambert took his seat and he at once instructed the clerk to put the question to the jury.

"Not guilty," said the foreman, in reply to the formal inquiry, and Molineux, who had been standing to receive the verdict, sank back in his chair.

There was a burst of applause, but it was speedily quelled by the court officers. Justice Lambert ordered the court cleared and told the jurors to remain in their seats until it was cleared. Then after counsel for both sides had congratulated each other and the jury and had thanked the court Justice Lambert ordered the formal discharge of Molineux. A crowd of at least 1000 followed, cheering General Molineux and his son as they left the court room with Messrs. Olcott and Weeks. Former Governor Black, who reached the sidewalk some five minutes later, received an even greater ovation.

From the criminal court building Molineux went to the city prison to remove his effects. In making his way to his old cell, and thence to the front entrance, he traversed a considerable portion of both the old and new prison, and everywhere he went the news of his acquittal went too, and the prisoners cheered him. He even went through the women's department, where there were many who cheered him.

Molineux, accompanied by General Molineux and two of his attorneys, entered a carriage and was driven away. About 3000 persons, cheering and shouting, surrounded the carriage and greatly delayed its departure. The keepers of the Tombs prison came out and shook hands with Molineux and many people waved handkerchiefs from the windows in the street.

Cecil Molineux, after shaking hands with his brother, stood weeping on the steps of the Tombs. Molineux himself was smiling and jubilant. On reaching his father's home in Brooklyn he was again cheered by a large crowd.

Standard Oil Has a Grievance

Washington, Nov. 12.—The refusal of the Indian government to grant permission to the Standard Oil company to prospect in the Burmah oil fields with a view to the extension of its business in that part of the world has been brought to the attention of the state department by the persons interested. Ambassador Choate has been instructed by the department to use his good offices in making an inquiry into the reasons for this apparent discrimination.

Cuban Radicals Alarmed

Havana, Nov. 12.—The Planters' society is at present being severely attacked by the Radical press, which claims that a movement to organize branches of the society throughout the island is being carried on in the interests of annexation.

AN UNTIMELY DEATH.

Maj. W. E. Morrison of the Fifth Mass. Militia and Organizer of Co. K at Braintree.

Mr. Walter E. Morrison of Braintree, major of the Fifth Massachusetts regiment, M. V. M., died at the Polyclene hospital in New York Tuesday afternoon, about four o'clock. He was a member of the Dow Portable Electric Co. and was on a business trip south. Saturday he was taken ill and started for home but was obliged to go to the hospital, where he was operated on for appendicitis, which proved to be a cancer.

Major W. E. Morrison was born in Braintree, May 16, 1864; received his education at the public schools in Braintree and Chauncy Hall school, Boston, obtaining in the latter institution his first military instruction. Upon graduating from Chauncy Hall school he was lieutenant in one of the school companies.

In 1880 he organized a boys' company in Braintree which continued for seven years averaging about fifty young men on the rolls most of the time. In 1887 the company was accepted and mustered into service as Company K, Fifth Regiment of Infantry, Major Morrison being elected captain. He continued to serve as captain until 1897.

In August 1897 upon the promotion of Colonel Bancroft to Brigadier General Major Morrison was elected Major of the Fifth Regiment of Infantry. On the breaking out of the Spanish American War, the Fifth Regiment of Infantry U. S. Volunteers was organized and Major W. E. Morrison was appointed Sr. Major by Governor Wolcott and served with the regiment during the entire time it remained in U. S. service.

The Regiment left South Framingham, September 27, with 1337 men, the largest regiment that ever left the state, being recruited to the maximum number allowed by law, and was commanded by Major Morrison, the Colonel of the regiment being sick and the Lieutenant Colonel being detached to remain in Massachusetts.

Upon arriving at Camp Meade, Major Morrison was detached from the regiment and ordered to the quartermaster's depot with 450 men in charge of the handling of the quartermaster's supplies for the second army corps. He remained in charge there until the troops left Camp Meade for the south.

The Fifth Regiment was ordered from Camp Meade in November, 1898, to Greenville S. C., where they remained during the winter until March 31, 1899. Shortly after the regiment's arrival at Greenville, the First battalion of the Regiment at that time commanded by Major Morrison was ordered from Camp to the city of Greenville for provost duty and remained in the city for about three weeks.

The Regiment was mustered out on

FOR MAYOR

CHARLES M. BRYANT

Quincy People's Union.

It must have been gratifying to the signers of the call for a public meeting of the Quincy People's union to have had such a large attendance at Woodward hall. Tuesday evening. The object of the Union is organized effort to make Quincy a more attractive and desirable place in which to live and bring up children.

Mr. Fred B. Rice presided and Mr. George B. Dewson acted as secretary.

The by-laws were read, discussed and adopted with amendments. Papers were circulated for signatures of those who desired to join the Union and about fifty names were secured.

Owing to Mr. D. C. Heath being unable to be present Dr. E. A. Winship of Somerville was present and gave a very earnest talk on the progress of education. He hoped the Union would be progressive and look at the schools and education in a broad way. Not think the way they had been taught was the best and only correct way but to have each boy and girl taught what he as an individual needed. He said education has progressed as rapidly as surgery and medicine, and there was considerable to learn yet. It is impossible to give all the good ideas and facts presented by Mr. Winship, but his remarks were to the point and heartily endorsed at the conclusion by applause.

Dr. Gordon made a few remarks on the objects of the Union. He said Quincy was by nature a beautiful city, with its seacoast and hills, but man had for years been doing his best to spoil it. He spoke feelingly of the elm tree which was sacrificed last week. When the location of the fountain was talked of the place finally selected was because of the beautiful elm tree which has now been cut down, leaving the fountain bare and unattractive in a dust heap.

It was too late now but the Union could in the future remonstrate and perhaps save the remaining natural beauties. As organized with officers in each ward the Union should accomplish much and we look to a much improved city in years to come.

☞ For sick headache try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets; they will ward off the attack if taken in time. For sale by all druggists.

The order for $1,500 for abating the nuisance at the corner of Washington and Chubbuck streets was taken from the Committee on Ordinances and referred to the Committee on Sewers and Drains.

Adjourned at 8 o'clock.

A New Master.

At the annual meeting of Rural lodge, H. F. Pierce of West Newton was elected master, J. P. Prout of Quincy senior warden, H. L. White of Braintree junior warden, Frederick L. Jones of Quincy treasurer, and Walter E. Simmons of Wollaston secretary. The officers will be publicly installed.

☞ Josiah Quincy in his discussion of the growth of the Socialist party in Massachusetts this year, curiously ignores perhaps the most important cause of that vote. Col. Gaston was the best votemaker for the Socialists that there was in the field. He was very attractive to Republicans in Boston, no doubt, but, at the same time, his record and associations drove radical Democrats over to socialism by the thousands.—Springfield Republican.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Hancock street at the junction of Granite street is being resurfaced.

Mr. N. J. Teel of Hamilton street is confined to his home with a severe cold.

Mr. James Kenyon of Wollaston, with his family has moved to Crescent avenue.

Mrs. Mary H. Crane and Mrs. Isabelle Souther are spending the day at Ponkapoag, Canton, guests of Mrs. C. H. Winslow.

Mr. William P. Whitman, the father of Mrs. William Washburn of Arlington street, passed away Monday night at his home in Campello.

The registrars of voters met in Ward Three Tuesday night and added six new names and restored three to the voting lists.

The will of Mary L. Ruggles of Brookline admitted to probate at Quincy this morning gives $1000 to the American Unitarian Association of Boston.

The first entertainment in the Teachers' Association Course comes tomorrow evening. It is to be given by Mr. George Riddle, the celebrated reader.

Mrs. Horace M. Willard has issued at-home cards for Tuesday, Nov. 18. Mrs. Mary A. Livermore and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe will be present and address the friends in Livermore hall.

The next meeting of the Whatsoever Circle will be held with Mrs. Rhodes, Monday, Nov. 17, at 7.45 o'clock. It is intended to pack a barrel that night for the Old Folks Home at Pondville. Contributions of fruit, groceries or cereals solicited.

W. J. Ross of Wollaston who was seriously injured Saturday at the Sturtevant factory at Harrison Square passed away Tuesday evening. He was sixty-two years old. He leaves a wife and children who have the sympathy of many friends.

Nearly fifty ladies participated in the matinee whist Tuesday afternoon at the birthplace of President John Adams under the auspices of Adams chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. The prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. James Nightingale, a five o'clock creamer and sugar; Miss Bertha Thompson, a colonial plate; Mrs. Beale, a souvenir of the Adams house.

There ought to be a large audience to hear Mr. Riddle, in the Teachers' Association course, tomorrow evening. Since the death of Prof. Churchill, Mr. Riddle is probably the best reader in the country. He is sure to give an excellent program, and those who have not provided themselves with season tickets, will do well to attend this one entertainment.

The Quincy Mansion school always has the cream and is quite to be envied for the fine instruction, distinguished visitors and social functions which Dr. Willard provides. On Thursday evening in Livermore hall, Samuel Arthur King of London, the eminent Shakesperian scholar and reader who is at present engaged in lecturing at Bryn Mawr college, is to give a reading from Hamlet. Dr. Willard has issued cards for the reading.

Doing the City.

County Commissioner Marshall P. Wright is entertaining a party of about 50 gentlemen today from Brookline, Norwood, Milton, Holbrook and other parts of Norfolk county.

A special train took the party from Boston to West Quincy where a trip was made over the quarry railroad. The train then took the party to Quincy via Braintree.

Upon their arrival at Quincy dinner was served at the Greenleaf. At 1.30 a special car took the party to the works of the Fore River Ship and Engine Co.

THE STRENUOUS WEYLER

Will Probably Be Ignored In Formation of New Spanish Cabinet

Madrid, Nov. 12.—King Alfonso has entrusted Prime Minister Sagasta with the reconstruction of the cabinet and gives him a free hand in the matter. It is believed that General Weyler will not be retained in the war office. Sagasta is endeavoring to embody in the new cabinet a more democratic element than that which was found in the previous cabinet.

The resignations of the entire Spanish cabinet were handed to King Alfonso on Monday. The cortes was informed of the crisis and suspended its sittings until a new ministry is formed. There have been many reports of difficulties between King Alfonso and Weyler, and it was currently reported in Madrid last October that the minister of war would resign his portfolio in consequence of King Alfonso's refusal to sign certain military decrees which had been presented by Weyler.

In an interview yesterday General Weyler said: "I am at the disposition of Senor Sagasta. I shall not form an obstacle if any solution can be found."

Many Injured by Explosion

New York, Nov. 12.—An explosion of illuminating gas in the cellar of a seven-story tenement yesterday wrecked a store on the ground floor and injured 39 persons, several being severely hurt. The explosion followed a slight fire caused, it is said, by a plumber who was working in the cellar. The firemen found the cellar to be charged with gas from a melted lead connection and a moment later an explosion occurred, enveloping the men in flames and blowing out the front of the store overhead, hurling a shower of debris into the crowd watching the fire.

Treaty Stands as Arranged

St. Johns, Nov. 12.—It is understood here that the Bond-Hay treaty, providing for limited reciprocity between the United States and Newfoundland, which was signed in Washington last week by Secretary Hay and Ambassador Herbert, contained no modification of the terms which Premier Bond arranged with Secretary Hay before the former left Washington.

Germany's "Best Hated Man"

Berlin, Nov. 12.—Upon the occasion of a congress of the Bavarian Peasants league at Wurzburg, Herr Memminger declared Emperor William to be the best hated man in the empire, and said he could no longer reckon upon the support of the peasantry if he persisted in his anglophile policy. The speaker added: "We curse the day the emperor landed in England."

Woman Hustler For World's Fair

St. Louis, Nov. 12.—Miss Florence Hayward was yesterday appointed special commissioner of the Louisiana Purchase exposition to foreign countries. Her assignment will take her to England, France, Holland and Germany. Miss Hayward was born in New Mexico and has achieved distinction as a writer for magazines.

Closure to Education Bill

London, Nov. 12.—Premier Balfour's motion to apply automatic closure, by compartments, to the government's education bill, was agreed to in the house of commons yesterday. Following this method the bill must be passed Nov. 28. A vigorous amendment to the motion, which drew several fighting speeches, was defeated.

Walthour's Collarbone Broken

Atlanta, Nov. 12.—Bobby Walthour broke his collarbone last night in his race against Joe Nelson. Walthour was endeavoring to pass Nelson when the motors came together. Neither of the motormen was injured. Nelson dived 20 feet and arose uninjured, going out a few minutes later for a two-mile pace exhibition.

To Prevent Spread of Disease

Denver, Nov. 12.—The passenger agents of the Terminal Lines' association have voted unanimously for the adoption of a law requiring all invalid passengers to have certificates from physicians stating the kind of diseases they have before boarding trains.

Victim of Yellow Jack

Panama, Nov. 12.—P. B. Ladd, who was formerly a captain in a Missouri regiment of volunteers during the Spanish-American war, and who came to the isthmus to fight for the Colombian government, died here yesterday of yellow fever.

Ready For Wireless Tests

Halifax, Nov. 12.—The Marconi wireless station at Table Head, C. B., is about completed, and Marconi will commence his short distance tests today. It will probably be a week yet before he will attempt to communicate with Poldhu.

Shipwrecked People Saved

Wellington, N. Z., Nov. 12.—The steamer Zealandia has picked up one boat and two rafts from the British steamer Elingamite, carrying 70 persons. Three boats from the Elingamite are still missing. The Elingamite was wrecked last Sunday off the north coast of New Zealand.

A Would-Be Train Wrecker

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 12.—Powell Ratherwiski, charged with attempting to wreck a passenger train on the Delaware and Hudson railroad during the miners' strike, pleaded guilty in court yesterday and was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment.

Away Beyond a Mile a Minute

Paris, Nov. 12.—At Dourdan yesterday M. Augieres lowered the automobile record for one mile by covering the distance in 46 seconds. This rate of speed, if kept up, would carry the machine nearly 78 miles an hour.

SUPERIOR COURT. NORFOLK ss.

To the Honorable, the Justices of the Superior Court next to be holden at Dedham, within and for the County of Norfolk:

RESPECTFULLY libels and represents Maria Harvey, of Quincy, in said County, that she was lawfully married to James H. Harvey, late of Brockton, in the County of Plymouth, but now of parts unknown to your libellant, at Brockton, on the eighth day of January A. D. 1899, and thereafterwards your libellant and the said James H. Harvey lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth to wit: at said Quincy; that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said James H. Harvey being wholly regardless of the same at said Quincy, on the eighth day of April A. D. 1900, without just cause wilfully and utterly deserted your libellant which desertion has continued from said eighth day of April to the date hereof being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel. That the said James H. Harvey being of sufficient ability so to do grossly, wantonly and cruelly refuses and neglects to provide suitable maintenance and support for your libellant.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said James H. Harvey.

Dated the eighteenth day of July A. D. 1902.

MARIA HARVEY.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

SUPERIOR COURT. NORFOLK, ss.

ON the foregoing libel, it is ordered that the libellant give notice to the said JAMES H. HARVEY, the Libellee, to appear before the Justices of this Court, to be holden at Dedham, within and for said County, on the first MONDAY of December next, by causing an attested copy of said libel, and of this order thereon, to be published once in a week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper printed at Quincy in the County of Norfolk, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of December next, and further, by sending through the mail, as soon as may be, by a registered letter addressed to the last known residence of the said James H. Harvey an attested copy of said libel and of this order thereon that the said James H. Harvey may then and there show cause why the prayer of said libel should not be granted.

By the Court,

LOUIS A. COOK, Clerk.

October 27, A. D., 1902.

A true copy of said libel, and of the order thereon. Attest:

"CITIZENSHIP."

Theme of Speakers at Wollaston Unitarian Club.

Michael J. Murray and Rev. E. A. Horton.

Mayor Bryant and Others Take Up the Discussion.

A grand treat was offered the members and guests of the Wollaston Unitarian Club on Tuesday evening at the Unitarian vestry, Wollaston, when Michael J. Murray, Esq., and Rev. E. A. Horton spoke on "Citizenship."

First came a hot roast beef dinner served by men. It included well cooked beef, potatoes and macaroni, celery, rolls, fruits, crackers and cheese in variety, coffee, etc.

President Walter M. Hatch of the club presided, and was bright and witty in his introductions.

Mr. Murray the first speaker, spoke highly of the church, and said it was best advanced through organized effort. Our fathers had acted wisely in separating the State and the church years ago. Religion in older times played a more important part than now, but the government gave all creeds free religions thought and protection. Religion today is a great factor. It is the aider and abettor of all that is good and teaches love of country, and is the safegard of human life.

The speaker paid a high tribute to Ellery Channing, and spoke of the early prosecutor of Roger Williams, John Murray, the Unitarians, the Catholics, and the Hebrews. The public schools were the foundation of our country, and assimilated all nationalities. The church is the enemy of evil, and this club can exert great power for good in this city. I sometimes think those most to blame for bad government are those who do not find it convenient to give a little time to the city for good government.

We cannot have dishonest men in power and uphold good government. But the speaker thought that those in power usually worked for the best. He deprecated unjust attacks on President, Governor or Mayor.

The strength of the country is to be measured by the happiness of its people, their homes, etc. The great cure for all ills is education. Christianity is represented by one word—charity.

Rev. E. A. Horton was pleased at the tribute Mr. Murray paid Ellery Channing, and paid equally high tributes to Bishop Spaulding and Boyle O'Reily. He thought Mr Murray had touched the keynote of citizenship. He would like to take the word toleration out of the dictionary and insert appreciation and sympathy. Liberty, sympathy, charity and cooperation with others.

The three great questions in this country are the three "Es"—Education, Expansion and Equalization. He enlarged on each. The Ledger wishes it might report him at length, but space will not permit today.

A hearty rising vote of thanks was given each speaker, and the issues brought up were then discussed by President Hatch, Senator Sprague, F. H. Bishop, Mayor Bryant, Rev. F. W. Pratt, Walter E. Simmons and F. E. Parlin. It was nearly 10 o'clock when the club adjourned.

The members of the club follow and only six or eight were absent:

President Walter M. Hatch, Dr. C. S. Adams, Rev. E. C. Butler, F. H. Bishop, Howard E. Barnes, Mayor Charles M. Bryant, James H. Broughton, W. H. F. Browne, Charles T. Baker, George W. Bennett, Edward J. Cummings, W. C. Chase, George H. Collyer, W. G. H. Curtis, M. D., W. M. Chase, S. F. Copeland, P. L. Davidson, Eugene F. DeNormandie, Levi C. Ela, I. W. Faunce.

H. E. Fiske, Herbert J. Gurney, A. L. Goodrich, J. A. Hall, H. I. Hahn, Percy A. Hull, J. H. Johnson, Arthur E. Linnell, J. Q. Litchfield, C. P. Loring, A. R. Moulton, J. D. Mackay. Rev. Frank W. Pratt, F. W. Plummer, Walter O. Parker, Frank F. Prescott, Rufus W. Poole, Frank A. Page.

Frank E. Parlin, A. J. Preston, Herbert J. Polk, A. H Richards, Fred M. Rollins, Wellington Record, M. D., Hon. E. H. Sprague, Walter E. Simmons, Charles R. Sherman, W. Everett Simmons, Jr., E. W. Swift, Charles L. Seavy, Benjamin Sargent, Walter J. Wellington, Frank W. White, H. M. Willard, Frank P. Waterhouse, Frank P. Walker, G. H. York.

Among the invited guests beside the speakers were: Roger H. Wilde, H. W. Read, N. G. Nickerson, Eaton Pierce, William Chapman, C. E. Finch, Jr., Mr. Card, and Aylomer Hatch.

Much of the success of the dinner was due to the attention of the waiters: Francis A. Bishop, Wallace C. Bennett, Raymond W. Parlin, Roy C. Baker, Louis B. Weston and Ray F. Weston.

A large bunch of red raspberries was picked today at A. A. Lincoln's place at Wollaston.

A TRIAL WANTED.

Lawyer Mackay Will Endeavor to Secure it for John Soderquest.

Since John Soderquest began serving his sentence of eight years for assault with intent to kill a young woman at the Natural History rooms in Boston, a few months ago, he has urged his wife, who visits him in prison at every opportunity to do something to secure his freedom.

Says the Boston Journal, Rev. A. K. MacLennan, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church on Berkeley street, has known Mr. and Mrs. Soderquest as members of his parish, and he firmly believes that Soderquest is innocent of the crime.

D. A. J. McDonald, a trustee of the church, has shared this opinion, and three weeks ago, on his own responsibility, secured the services of John D. MacKay, an attorney of Quincy, to see what could be done for the prisoner.

It will be remembered that Soderquest pleaded guilty and that Miss Eva Crockett, the victim of the assault, testified that Soderquest was the assailant. Upon being sentenced Soderquest pleaded guilty under a misapprehension. He thought he was pleading guilty to a simple assault, which would involve a light penalty.

Lawyer Mackay this week visited Soderquest in his cell and obtained an affidavit which will submit to District Attorney Sughrue as preliminary to filing a motion for a trial of the case. Mr. Mackay said to a Boston Journal reporter that there had been no trial of the facts in the case on account of the plea of guilty. He believes that it will be possible to bring the matter into court again, and that the Government will be unable to prove Soderquest guilty. He claims that his client in pleading guilty to simple assault, as he supposed, stultified himself, believing that such a course was the most expedient.

Mr. Mackay thinks it desirable as a measure of justice that the evidence in the case, much of which has never been heard in court, should be reviewed. It is not his purpose to show that another person committed the crime for which Soderquest is serving sentence, but rather to establish the innocence of his client. He does not accuse the counsel who acted for Soderquest before the court of acting in bad faith in giving improper advice, but intimates that there were other influences which induced a plea of guilty.

The legal procedure in a case of this kind is somewhat obscure, but Mr. Mackay after careful study of precedents, thinks that a way is open to a trial of the case.

Foot Ball.

The Wollaston Foot Ball Team will play The Carrolton school team at the park on Saturday. Carrolton, although a school team has a very strong eleven, composed of experienced players. Several Boston college men play with this team. They have not been beaten this season and two weeks ago they defeated Hyde Park 18 to 0, and last Saturday they played a strong tie game with South Framingham.

Last week the Linwood team was unable to get here before 3.15 so that the game was late in getting under way. However a large crowd enjoyed the game.

Carrolton will arrive from Boston on the 2.28 train and the game will start punctually at 3.30.

THE INDUSTRIAL PROBLEM

Can Be Solved When Employer and Employed Show Not Merely Insistent Each Upon His Own Rights, but R gard For Public

New York, Nov. 12.—The dedicatory ceremonies of the magnificent new building of the Chamber of Commerce of New York were honored yesterday by the presence of the President of the United States, former President Cleveland, Prince Heinrich of Pless, the personal representative of the German emperor, ambassadors of foreign powers, delegates from all the great chambers of commerce in Europe and a host of other distinguished persons.

The oration of the day was delivered by former President Cleveland, after which a brief address of greeting to the guests of the chamber was made by President Roosevelt. The ceremonies of the day were brought to a conclusion by a brilliant banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria, at which the principal address was delivered by President Roosevelt. He said in part:

"This body stands for the triumphs of peace both abroad and at home. We have passed that stage of national development when depreciation of other peoples is felt as a tribute to our own. We watch the growth and prosperity of other nations, not with hatred or jealousy, but with sincere and friendly good will. With the great powers of the world we desire no rivalry that is not honorable to both parties. We wish them well. We believe that the trend of the modern spirit is ever stronger toward peace, not war; toward friendship, not hostility, as the normal international attitude.

"We are glad indeed that we are on good terms with all the other peoples of mankind, and no effort on our part shall be spared to secure a continuance of these relations. Important though it is that we should have peace abroad, it is even more important that we should have peace at home. The Chamber of Commerce, to whose efforts we owe so much of our industrial well-being, can, and I believe surely will, be influential in helping toward that industrial peace which can obtain in society only when in their various relations employer and employed alike show not merely insistence each upon his own rights, but also regard for the rights of others, and a full acknowledgement of the interests of the third party—the public. It is no easy matter to work out a system or rule of conduct which shall minimize that jarring and clashing of interests in the industrial world which causes so much individual irritation and suffering at the present day, and which at times threatens baleful consequences to large portions of the body politic. But the importance of the problem cannot be over-estimated, and it deserves to receive the careful thought of all men such as those whom I am addressing. There should be no yielding to wrong; but there should most certainly be not only desire to do right, but a willingness each to try to understand the viewpoint of his fellow, with whom, for weal or for woe, his own fortunes are indissolubly bound.

"No patent remedy can be devised for the solution of these grave problems in the industrial world, but we may rest assured that they can be solved at all only if we bring to the solution certain old-time virtues, and if we strive to keep out of the solution some of the most familiar and most undesirable of the traits to which mankind has owed untold degradation and suffering throughout the ages. Arrogance, suspicion, brutal envy of the well-to-do, brutal indifference toward those who are not well-to-do, the hard refusal to consider the rights of others, the foolish refusal to consider the limits of beneficent action, the base appeal to the spirit of selfish greed, whether it take the form of plunder of the fortunate or of oppression of the unfortunate—from those and from all kindred vices this nation must be kept free if it is to remain in its present position in the forefront of the people of mankind.

"On the other hand, good will come, even out of the present evils, if we face them armed with the old homely virtues; if we show that we are fearless of soul, cool of head, and kindly of heart; if, without betraying the weakness that cringes before wrongdoing, we yet show by deeds and words our knowledge that in such a government as ours each of us must be in very truth his brother's keeper.

"The first requisite of a good citizen in this republic of ours is that he shall be able and willing to pull his weight—that he shall not be a mere passenger, but shall do his share in the work that each generation of us finds ready to hand; and furthermore, that in doing his work he shall show not only the capacity for sturdy self help, but also self-respecting regard for the rights of others.

"The Chamber of Commerce stands in a pre-eminent degree for those qualities which make the successful merchant, the successful business man whose success is won in ways honorable to himself and beneficial to his fellows. It is therefore fitting that I should come on here as the chief executive of the nation to wish you well in your new home; for you belong not merely to the city, not merely to the state, but to all the country, and you stand high among the great factors in building up that marvelous prosperity which the entire country now enjoys.

"The continuance of this prosperity depends in no small measure upon your sanity and common sense, upon the way in which you combine energy in action with conservative refusal to take part in the reckless gambling which is so often bred by, and which so inevitably puts an end to prosperity. Great is your power, and great, therefore, your responsibility. Well and faithfully have you met this responsibility in the past. We look forward with confident hope to what you will do in the future, and it is therefore with sincerity that I bid you God speed and wish for you, in the name of the nation, a career of ever-increasing honor and usefulness."

Not a Tie.

Mr. Editor:

In regard to that recount for ward Councilman in Ward Two Friday night, I would like to say in the spirit of fair play, that Mr. Stone should be declared the nominee, for this reason: Mr. McGrath represented Mr. Thompson and I represented Mr. Stone. One ballot was questioned at once by Mr. McGrath as an improperly marked ballot, and although it was counted in favor of Mr. Thompson it seems to be illegal, for the law is very explicit on the question of any improperly marked ballot, that it shall be thrown out.

I think under the circumstances Mr. Thompson should give Mr. Stone the right to claim the nomination, thereby refuting the statement that the vote was a tie. Geo. P. Taylor.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

AN UNTIMELY DEATH.

March 31 and returned home under the command of their own officers, being the only regiment in the U. S. service who were able to do this as all of the others left their regiment as individuals and not as an organization.

Maj. Morrison was marshal of the Old Home Week parade at Braintree last July, and stood high among the people of Braintree and vicinity.

He leaves a widow and three sons, Ibraham F., Harold M., and Walter E.

MASON IS DISCHARGED

No Longer a Factor In the Morton Murder

NEGRO HELD FOR THE CRIME

A Week's Investigation of the "Slugger" Mystery Shows It to Be a Case of Startling Developments and Conflicting Evidence

Boston, Nov. 12.—Alan G. Mason was released from custody yesterday by Judge Almy of the Cambridge district court, on motion of District Attorney Sanderson, on the ground that there was not evidence enough to warrant his being further held on the charge of the murder of Clara A. Morton at Waverley.

George L. O. Perry, the negro, who pawned the watches taken from the body of Miss Morton and of Agnes McPhee of Somerville, was held without bail on a similar charge, a lower court warrant having been issued against him immediately after the release of Mason. After the warrant was issued, Perry's case was continued until Nov. 18, and he was committed to jail.

Perry has changed from the smiling, thoughtless young man of a day or two ago to the serious, worrying, fearful man who is resting under the grave charge of murder. The vast difference between being held as a witness and being sent to jail without bail on the serious allegation of murder shows itself markedly in Perry's demeanor.

Investigation by the state police has now led them to believe that Perry was in fact the real "Jack the Slugger." They still believe, however, that he had some kind of an accomplice, and for this man an extensive search has been instituted.

The accumulation of circumstantial evidence which manifested itself Monday seems to be materially strengthened, according to the police, as the result of information which has come to them after a closer scrutiny of Perry's history during the summer and autumn.

There has not been in the records of Massachusetts police investigation a case where developments have come with more startling suddenness, or where evidence has been more contradictory than in the "Jack the Slugger" investigation of the past week. The crime which led to the investigation was the murder of Miss Clara Morton on the grounds of the McLean asylum at Waverley, on the evening of Nov. 1, and the Belmont police at once called on the state detectives to help them—help which they were eager to give since their offices had been refused by the departments of the other municipalities where crimes of a similar nature had been committed during the summer.

The suspicions of the officers were directed against Alan G. Mason almost from the first, because of several people's testimony that they had seen him, in Waverley during the afternoon and in the evening at about the time of the murder, and because he was known to have been at various times under treatment at the asylum for insanity. They reached a point where they felt obliged to put him under arrest on the morning of Nov. 4 and on the following day they charged him in the Cambridge court with murder. His case was continued by Judge Almy; the prisoner taken to the East Cambridge jail, and the investigation continued. The most important of the state witnesses were a conductor, on whose car Mason was alleged to have been a passenger from the scene of the crime on Saturday night, and the superintendent of a park reservation near the asylum grounds, who declared he saw Mason just after the crime was committed. Against these witnesses the defense was ready to produce the prisoner's brother, mother, and two friends, to show that he did not leave his Newbury street house until 9:20 on the night when the girl was killed at 8:50, and a car conductor and another man to show that from the time he went out until midnight he rode on the cars to Somerville and back again.

Meanwhile a startling discovery had been made, on Tuesday afternoon, that a watch taken from the body of the murdered woman had been sold on Monday to a Cambridge street jeweler by a man described as a light mulatto. Search was at once made for this man, hampered however, by the jeweler's many conflicting tales as to how and when he came by the watch. Two days later an even more startling discovery was made in the same shop of a watch taken from the body of Agnes McPhee, murdered by "Jack the Slugger" in Somerville, on Oct. 3. Though the jeweler remembered positively that a white man had sold him the McPhee watch, the handwriting of the men who sold both timepieces were found to be the same, and through this means they were traced last Saturday to George L. O. Perry, the young negro held on a murder charge yesterday. The young man confessed to selling both watches, but declared they were given him by Mason, in a statement which has since proved to be a tissue of lies. According to the police investigation into his account of the intimacy with Mason, it is doubtful if the lad had ever seen the prisoner before he was confronted with him at the jail.

In the course of the week's detective work an astonishing number of clews, all with a seemingly intimate bearing on the case, have been run down and found to be utterly irrelevant.

CHILD'S MEDICINE—WHY?

Because Scott's Emulsion relieves such an extraordinary variety of children's diseases all the way from slight colds to the serious hip disease.

Because Scott's Emulsion is as harmless as milk. Well borne even by the delicate stomachs of babies.

Because children respond so quickly to its action. A medicine peculiarly suited to their sensitive nature. It is wonderful how rapidly delicate children improve in every way while taking Scott's Emulsion.

Because children like the taste. Most of them like Scott's Emulsion at once. The rest soon learn to like it. Little daily doses bring the results.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

MASCAGNI'S TROUBLES

Appear to Have Been Tided Over For the Present at Least

Boston, Nov. 12.—Pietro Mascagni, the composer, appeared in court again yesterday, this time in the poor debtors' session, to secure formal relief from obligation of those who provided $10,000 bonds for him at the time of his arrest on a mesne process Saturday night. The court ordered the composer's discharge and he is accordingly free to leave the state. His bondsmen also are relieved from liability. The only thing that compels Mascagni to return here is the $4000 given as surety to answer the suit of Mittenthal Bros., his late managers, in their action for alleged breach of contract.

Later in the day Mascagni was again arrested on a mesne process in connection with the suit brought against him by Joseph Smith, the impressario, who conducted the negotiations in Italy that resulted in the composer's contract for his American tour with the Mittenthals. Smith claims that he holds a contract by which Mascagni agreed to pay him a certain percent of the $60,000 he was to receive from the Mittenthals.

It is for this commission, or $1200, that Smith now sues. The writ in this case is returnable on the same day as the Mittenthal writ—Dec. 1. The arrest yesterday was made quietly, and a temporary settlement was quickly affected through the acceptance of a $1200 bond given by Samuel and Louis Kronberg.

Carving In a Street Fight

Chelsea, Mass., Nov. 12.—Benjamin F. Hall is accused of severely slashing James F. Burnham in a street fight in this city. Burnham was cut four times and 38 stitches were necessary to bind up his wounds. Hall is janitor of the St. Paul's Episcopal church in Malden, and was arrested as he was entering the church. He is 51 years old, unmarried, and has been a resident of Malden for 40 years. He is charged with an assault with intent to kill. Burnham's condition is reported as favorable.

Murderers Evidently Have Friends

White River Junction, Vt., Nov. 12.—Many of the jurymen who found Frank Shaw guilty of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Hoffman in 1900, and who is under sentence to be hanged, have signed a petition to the legislature to have Shaw's sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. A similar effort to have the death sentence commuted is being made in behalf of Doherty and Eastman, murderers, who are in the prison at Windsor.

Recount Elects a Democrat

Hingham, Mass., Nov. 12.—The recount of votes in the Third Plymouth representative district was finished last night and resulted in the election of Thomas H. Buttiner (Dem.), over William H. Litchfield (Rep). The returns on election night gave Litchfield the election by 64 votes, but in the recount Buttiner won by 49 votes. This is the first time in 10 years that this district has been represented by a Democrat.

Shot and Killed Intruder

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 12.—In the district court in Central Falls yesterday Walter Fiske, who shot and killed Jean B. Fournier as the latter was leaving Fiske's barn with a bag of stolen articles, waived examination on a charge of manslaughter and was bound over to the grand jury in $3000 bonds. Fournier was liberated from an insane asylum last Saturday.

CHARGE AGAINST PERRY

Strengthened by Finding of McPhee Watch Chain

BLOOD-STAINED GARMENTS

Belonging to Accused Man to Be Subjected to Chemical Analysis—Boston Police Searching For Negro Believed to Be an Accomplice

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13.—The web of circumstantial evidence against George Perry, charged with the murder of Clara Morton, is woven much stronger, it is believed, as the result of the later work of the police who have been detailed on the case. That the detective logic of deduction has been applied is seen in a bit of work accomplished yesterday by Lieutenant Carter of the Somerville police department. The officer considered it likely that if Perry is not telling the truth when he says he got the Morton and McPhee watches from Alan G. Mason, and if he will not confess he received them from some other person, then it is probable that the negro knows more about them and where they came from than he cares to admit. If Perry murdered Miss Morton and Miss McPhee, then he must have disposed of the chains which were attached to the watches.

Carter instituted a tireless search for people who know Perry intimately and devoted himself particularly to the young women who were acquainted with the negro. At last the officer was successful. He located Perry's sweetheart, and then he found that the chain which had been attached to the watch worn by Miss McPhee was in the possession of the sister of this sweetheart. The names of the young women were not divulged.

The identification of the chain was made positively by the private marks on the watch. When Lieutenant Carter visited New Jersey for the purpose of having the McPhee watch identified beyond a doubt by the jeweler who sold it, the latter told him that the letters "J. F. C." were on the chain. After Carter's return, Perry was asked where the chain was, and he replied: "Oh, that can be gotten at any time." Then Carter went on a hunt for the jewelry.

Shortly before Miss McPhee died, her aunt called on her at the hospital, and the first thing she asked was as to the whereabouts of the watch chain. The girl's neck bore the marks of the violence with which the chain had been removed.

The police, it is understood, have also in their possession a letter which Perry is alleged to have written to the girl who had the chain, telling her to keep quiet, and not "to say a word."

The circumstantial evidence is also held to be notably strengthened by the finding of stains upon Perry's clothing which the police believe, without waiting for the expert's report, are the stains made by human blood. The marks upon the boy's shirt are blood spots, according to his own admission, but there are also blood stains upon the sweater and the shoes which have not been yet explained as resulting from a toothache.

Perry's house in this city was researched by the police last night and all the clothing that he had worn for some time back was removed and sent to the office of Chief Wade of the Massachusetts state police. Large stains were found on some of the garments. This clothing will be submitted to Professor Wood of Harvard for analysis.

Boston Police Alert

Boston, Nov. 13.—Every possible means that would lead to the capture of the negro whom the Boston police believe was the accomplice of Perry has been adopted by the officers. There is a feeling that this negro may be hiding in the west end. It was in that district that he spent the great part of his time. Since the Sunday following the murder of Miss Morton, three special officers, disguised as laborers, have had rooms in the district and they are vigilant night and day. The negro has borne the name of Charles Wilson.

Blackmailer Convicted

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Harlow Cazar, charged with attempting to blackmail Ben Conger, a wealthy manufacturer, was yesterday found guilty with a recommendation for clemency. Conger received a letter written by Cazar threatening his life if he did not leave $12,000 in a secluded spot on a stated night. The court withheld sentence.

Procession Greeted Senators

Las Vegas, N. M., Nov. 13.—A large number of citizens, headed by a band, turned out yesterday to meet the senatorial committee which is on an official trip through the territories seeking admission into the union. The committee entered New Mexico early yesterday and made its first stop at Raton.

King Leopold's Successor

Brussels, Nov. 13.—The Etoile Belge says that the Count of Flanders, brother of King Leopold, has abdicated his claim to the Belgian throne in favor of his son, Prince Albert. The Count of Flanders was born in 1837. Prince Albert was born in 1875.

Navigation Closed on the Yukon

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 13.—Steamer Amur, from Skagway, reports that the Yukon has been frozen solid. Steamer La France was caught and held in the ice near Minto. She will remain there all winter.

Station Robbers Active

West Mansfield, Mass., Nov. 13.—The railroad station here was entered by robbers and the official stamp of the road, a quantity of tickets, and five express packages, one valued at $83, are missing. The stations and postoffice at East Norton, Plainville and West Wrentham were recently looted.

Kick In Stomach May Cause Death

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 13.—During a football game in Concord yesterday George Richardson, 18 years old, who was playing right end on the Rockbridge Hall school team, was kicked in the stomach and seriously ruptured internally. His condition is considered very critical.

Accidentally Killed by Brother

Proctor, Vt., Nov. 13.—Oscar Bergren was accidentally shot and killed by his elder brother, Gustave, who was cleaning a loaded gun, and forgetting that the weapon contained a charge, pulled the trigger. The charge went through Oscar's head.

Sleighing In Northern Maine

Houlton, Me., Nov. 13.—Residents of this vicinity have sleighing as a result of the first snowfall of the season yesterday. Several inches of snow fell.

Weyler Won't Be Frozen Out

Madrid, Nov. 13.—General Weyler will again receive the war portfolio, provided Senor Sagasta succeeds in forming a cabinet. That the general is to be included in the new ministry is due to the fact that Marshal Dominguez declined his support to Senor Sagasta. The reconstruction of the cabinet is progressing rapidly.

Good Afternoon

"I will not indorse for that responsible position any man who habitually deals in stocks" said the President recently, when asked to secure appointment for a bright young man who takes an "occasional flyer on the stock market."

Where no convention intervenes it seems entirely unnecessary and unwise to have held the city caucuses as early as Nov. 5. They could have been held this week or even as late as next Monday, and then nominations for the caucuses could have been kept open until Nov. 10 or later.

With Cleveland laid on the shelf by his own admission, with Bryan in the tall timber by his party's wish, and with Hill a political suicide by virtue of his socialistic coal plank, the Democrats still have Arthur Pue Gorman, the man who never hesitates at any method necessary to gain his ends.

Taxes for 1902 were due and payable Nov. 1, at which date interest commenced. The Oct. 31 statement of the City Treasurer shows receipts of only $63,977.09 on account of taxes of 1902, out of a total levy of $400,641.50. This is less than sixteen per cent., and shows that taxes come hard on the people generally.

An inspection of the Quincy industries by prominent gentlemen from other cities is of great benefit to our city in its struggle for prominence. Not until strangers have visited our great granite quarries, hammering sheds and polishing mills, and our $4,000,000 shipyard with $8,000,000 worth of government contracts, do they realize that Quincy, or even Massachusetts, has such important industries.

Many prominent members of the City Councils will be out of the city government next year. Among these are four chairmen of committees during 1902,—Messrs. Freeman of Finance, Newcomb of Streets, Elcock of Fire Department, and Faxon of Health. These four were also on Finance committee. Peter T. Falion who has been elected a Representative will also be missed. The City Council should in the future be a stepping stone to the Legislature, as it gives good training, and advancement is a fitting reward for good service. Both the Representatives elected this are members of the present City Council. Then Messrs. Stewart and Thompson failed to get renomination from Republicans, but the former has been picked up by the Democrats, and the latter will run on papers. If all present members, who are candidates, are re-elected, there will be 17 out of 23 with experience. Two "exs" have also been nominated, Mr. Cleverly in Ward Two, and Mr. McGrath in Ward Three, both good men.

MILITARY FUNERAL.

Batallion of Fifth Regiment as Escort to Major W. E. Morrison.

The body of Maj. W. E. Morrison arrived in Quincy from New York Wednesday night on the 9.49 train. The casket was covered with an American flag. It was taken to Hall's undertaking rooms.

In general orders issued from headquarters of the Fifth Regiment, by order of Lieutenant Colonel Clement, and signed by Henry L. Kincaide as captain and adjutant, the following arrangements are made for the funeral:

It is with profound sorrow that the death of Major Walter E. Morrison is recorded, he having died on Tuesday, Nov. 11, 1902.

The officers of the regiment except those on detail will report at the South Terminal Station, Boston, Friday, November 14,1902, at 1 o'clock P. M., and take the 1.43 P. M. train for Braintree to attend funeral.

Commanders of Companies H, C, I, and A with full companies, and the regimental band, will report to Major Stover at the same time and place to act as a military escort.

Drift of Opinion.

☞There is a disposition to decry obby riding as an occupation unworthy of a man with a full intellectual equipment. The man of one idea may be a bor eat times and is commonly so voted by people with no ideas and no paramount issues, but, after all he is the man who accomplishes most, and without his insistent purpose and continuous industry in the particular propaganda to which he devotes himself many of the influences which make for progress and from which the human race derives an immeasurable aggregate benefit would cease to be operative.—New York Times.

☞Paris is said to lead the world in the culture of city trees. The success of the French capital is due not so much to an admirable soil and climate as to a well-organized system of caring for the tree. In large nurseries young trees are grown and prepared for the Parisian streets. The culture of the soil is elaborate. From the very beginning the trees are pruned and staked to compel a straight growth. By frequent transplanting the roots become so hardened that they are enabled to withstand injury due to transportation, When a tree is sufficiently large, it is set out in the streets with the same care that was lavished upon it in the nursery. Often the cost of planting a single tree is $50. Whenever a storm destroys the city trees the nursery can be immediately drawn upon for another supply.—Scientific American.

OUR INDUSTRIES.

Viewed by Representative Men of Norfolk County.

The friends of County Commissioner Marshall P. Wright, who accepted his invitation for Wednesday were pleased with what they saw in the city of Quincy, as granite quarrying and the building of steel warships was new to most of the party. Commissioner Wright gave them an exceptional opportunity to see these industries.

A special train with one new car left Boston shortly after 10 A. M. and proceeded over the Granite branch to West Quincy. In the party were prominent gentlemen from all parts of Norfolk county, largely those who had assisted Mr. Wright in his canvass for reelection.

At West Quincy the train was run up the mountain over the Quarry Railroad. The principal stop was made at the quarry of the Granite Railway Company, one of the largest in the city, and a busy place. The process of quarrying and splitting granite was watched with interest and the excellent view enjoyed. An additional spur track is being built into this quarry and a new power plant is practically completed.

The train also went as far as the works of the Lyons Granite Co., and on the return the party alighted at the finishing sheds of the Granite Railway Co., and witnessed the work of hammering and polishing. Here also is a new power plant not yet in commission and the foundation for an extensive shed.

The special train then steamed to Quincy via of Braintree, and dinner at The Greenleaf came next on the program. The following menu served by Mrs. Abrams, the landlady, was pronounced all Wright.

Chow Chow Pickles
Vegetable Soup
Chicken Salad Celery
Baked Halibut, Egg Sauce
Maccaroni and Cheese Cold Sliced Ham
Loin of Beef Leg of Lamb
Mashed Potatoes String Beans
Candied Yams
Raisin Pudding, Lemon Sauce
Apple Pie with Cheese Assorted Fruit
Coffee Milk Tea

At 1.30 a special electric car was taken via Washington street for a visit to the Fore River shipyard. The magnitude of the works was a surprise to the out of-the-town guests and new to many of the Quincy gentlemen. The huge hammers in the forge shop were in operation. The large power plan was spic and span and the big air compressors, engines and boilers were of interest. The machine shop appeared mammoth, and the work of the lathes, the saws and other large machines were marvellous.

The new Quincy Point bridge is being put together in sections at the works, and being a Norfolk county job, all took an interest in it. Visits were also made to the cruiser Des Moines and the torpedo boat destroyers Lawrence and Macdonough at their docks.

Some at first thought the nearly completed car floats were battleships, but they more resemble the hulls of scow yachts like the Hostess. They are designed to be towed and will carry 28 cars.

Some were surprised to learn that the battleships New Jersey and Rhode Island, now fifteen per cent. completed, were to be of the largest type of U. S. battleships. Other departments were visited, under escort of Mr. Jones, and two hours were fully enjoyed.

The party also inspected to rebuilding of the Quincy Point bridge, the foundations for which are well advanced. The steel will be on the ground about the first of December and the bridge will be completed in February. A revolving draw will give two openings each 100 feet wide.

The special electric took the party back to Quincy, and the special train followed the 4.12 to Boston. Commissioner Wright was thanked heartily for the day's entertainment.

—The Pittsburg Steamship Co. has called for bids for twenty steel steamships to be 550 feet long, 58 feet beam and 30 feet deep.

PAPERS OUT.

One For Mayor and Two For Ward Two Councilmen.

The time for filing certificates of nomination for candidates for the municipal election expires Nov. 19 at 5 o'clock and nomination papers at the same hour Nov. 21. They should be filed before that time in order that the Registrars may look over the names. As far as known but three papers have been taken out. One by Henry H. Faxon who informed the City Clerk it was for mayor. He declined to inform the city clerk in whose interest the paper was to be circulated but said it was for a party who did not want to come for it personally. It is believed that the paper will bear the name of Elisha Packard or be a Republican endorsement of George H. Wilson, the Democratic candidate. The other two papers are for Alexander Thompson and Eugene R. Stone for the City Council in Ward Two.

Technical School.

Such is the scarcity of skilled mechanics in the metal shipbuilding trades says the Boston Transcript that the Bath Iron Works, Bath, Me., has decided to open a technical school, with classes in which both practical and theoretical shipbuilding will be taught.

The foreman of iron workers on the battleship Georgia, now being built at the works, will have charge of the classes, and Superintendent John McInnes of the hull department. Superintendent C. P. Wetherbee of the engine department, Chief Draughtsman Thomas B. Artie and Marine Architect Carl L. Holmer will each address the school at least twice during the course upon topics bearing upon the trade.

The school is intended primarily for the young employes of the Bath Iron Works who desire advancement in their trade, but it will open to any young men of the city. A nominal fee will be charged as a guaranty of good faith on part of the pupils, but the Bath Iron Works will provide the rooms, pay the bulk of the expenses and also offer five prizes for the best work, to be awarded after a competitive examination.

New Cruisers.

A Washington dispatch to the Herald says contracts will be awarded by the navy department early in January for the two most powerful armored cruisers designed in this country, and costing when complete not less than $6,000,000 each. This is the largest amount that any war vessel ever built for the navy has cost, and greater by several hundred thousand dollars than the cost of the heaviest battleships.

The navy department today sent to prospective bidders detailed plans of the ships with information relating to them, and bids are expected from the leading New England ship yards, the Fore River, Newport News, the Union iron works, and all yards where first-class war ships may be built. The yards receiving the contracts will receive from the government not less than $4,000,000 each for the construction of hull and machinery, while the steel and armor factories will secure practically the remainder.

Nearly two years have been devoted to perfecting the designs, and it will be at least three years before the ships are completed. These ships clear the docket of the designers with the exception of two small gunboats.

Dr. Emmons'
Monthly Regulator has brought happiness to hundreds of anxious women. There is positively no other remedy known to medical science that will so quickly and safely do the work. Longest and most obstinate irregularities from any cause relieved immediately. Success guaranteed at any stage. No pain, danger, or interference with work. Have relieved hundreds of cases where others have failed. The most difficult cases successfully treated by mail, and beneficial results guaranteed in every instance. No risk whatsoever. We treat hundreds of ladies whom we never see. Write for further particulars and free confidential advice. Do not put off too long. All letters truthfully answered. Remember, this remedy is absolutely safe under every possible condition and positively leaves no after ill effect upon the health. Sent by mail, securely sealed, $2.00. Money letters should be registered. DR. J. W. EMMONS CO., 170 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

MODERN PRESCRIBING

Doctors Methods Better Than They Were Years Ago.

The Patient's Lot Also much Improved.

Large Doses of Nauseating Medicine No Longer Necessary.

Our forefathers did not have such a delightful time, after all. Just think of the round-about way they were obliged to accomplish the many things that are done by us every day, almost without thought, by means of modern inventions. Then think of what happened to them when they were sick. Lucky was the man who was not pounced upon by a doctor and often literally bled to death.

That was only a starter of what was soon to follow. Long, deep draughts brewed from horrible-tasting herbs were continually administered. Remedies without number, each worse than the other, followed quickly. No wonder so many of our ancestors died young. No wonder life insurance statistics show that we come from a short-lived race.

It is in medicine like everything else. The day of barbarism in treatment is nearly over. No longer does the doctor deprive the patient of his very life's blood right at a time when he needs every particle of strength. No longer does he compel the poor sufferer to absorb untold amounts of barks, herbs and mineral solutions right at a time when Nature should be left to herself to strengthen out what might only be a slight trouble.

The modern physician knows that he can administer the vital principles of his remedies in a concentrated form. You do not find your doctor brewing a tea or asking you to chew huge quantities of Cinchona Bark where Quinine is necessary. No longer does he administer a bolus of Opium to deaden pain. Not much. A hypodermic syringe charged with the active principles of opium; morphine does the work better and does not do as much damage for Nature.

Right on this line comes news of a recent discovery that will undoubtedly prove to be the most valuable one yet made. It is that of Vinol, Wine of Cod Liver Oil, which is nothing more or less than a concentrated extract of the active medicinal principles found in the liver of the live cod.

The above explanation is about all that is necessary to give one, in order that he may understand the full value of this discovery. Every one knows the uses for which cod liver oil has been prescribed. Every one knows its objectionable features. Ever one realizes that there are many cases of wasting diseases that could have been cured by the use of cod liver oil, had it been possible to administer the obnoxious remedy; but every one does not know that when they were taking cod liver oil in its old form, they were absorbing into the system a vast amount of vile-smelling, obnoxious-tasting grease that was absolutely powerless of doing them any good, but were simply taking it because it was a vehicle that conveyed the peculiar medicinal principles that it was the intention of the doctor to give to them.

Here is where this new discovery will benefit the world. These principles, separated from the fat and all other unnecessary features, dissolved in delicious table wine, can now be administered even to the most delicate patient without its being apparent that cod liver oil or anything connected with it is being taken. The greater strength of the new preparation will also enable the patient to receive a greater amount of necessary medicine than was possible to administer before. The consequence will be that the good for which the medicine is desired will be accomplished in a much quicker time. The harm that was formerly caused to stomachs already weakened by disease will be entirely averted and the result will be that Vinol in but a few years will entirely supersede, as a medicine, cod liver oil in any other known form.

Coming to Thanksgiving.

Mr. Charles B. Harrington, manager of the Philadelphia office of The Dow Portable Electric Co., with his wife will visit friends in Wollaston and East Weymouth the coming Thanksgiving.

This will be their first visit east since their marriage in Philadelphia last June. Mrs. Harrington was one of our well-known Wollaston girls, Miss Mattie G. Corthell. On account of the extra pressure of business at this time of the year, Mr. Harrington will return to Philadelphia on the following Saturday, leaving his wife to visit her mother, Mrs. S. N. Corthell. At Christmas he will return for a few days on a visit to his relatives and friends in East Weymouth, after which Mrs. Harrington will return with him to their home at Philadelphia, where the young people are very pleasantly located with many newly made friends, in the Quaker City.

MARRIED.

CLARKE—CULLIVAN—In Weymouth, Nov. 5, by Rev. James W. Allison, Mr. John J. Clarke of Quincy, to Miss Mary A. Cullivan of Weymouth.

DIED.

ROSS—In Wollaston Park, Nov. 11, Mr. William J. Ross, aged 62 years, 6 months and 2 days.

MARR—In Quincy, Nov. 11, William, son of Mr. Albert C. and Mrs. Sarah E. Marr of 115 Summer street, aged 1 year and 3 months.

FAXON—At Morristown, N. J., suddenly, Nov. 7, Mrs. Lucy W. Faxon, widow of Charles A. Faxon, formerly of Quincy, aged 71 years.

BROOKS—In Milton, Nov. 12, Mrs. Lucy, wife of Mr. Edwin A. Brooks, aged 51 years, 4 months and 29 days.

CITY BREVITIES.

Miss Gertrude Hall of Billings street has been visiting friends in Hyde Park this week.

The double house on Hancock street near the car barn is well along toward completion.

Officer Johnson is now on duty daily at the Fore River shipyard, making a force of four.

Mrs. Charles Coe of Billings street met with an accident last week and is confined to the house.

Miss Alice Cleaves of Somerville is the guest of Miss Corinna Wilde of Billings street this week.

Mrs. Charles Safford of Botolph street went to a hospital in Boston Friday, Nov. 5, for surgical treatment.

Postmaster C. L. Hammond attended on Wednesday the annual convention of New England postmasters held in Boston.

Benjamin Johnson, Jr., and James H. Lally secured the prizes at the Granite City club whist tournament on Wednesday evening.

A meeting of the corporators of the Quincy hospital is to be held this evening at Colonial hall. A full attendance of members is hoped for.

Miss Isabel L. Albee of Wollaston was reelected secretary of the primary department at the East Norfolk Sunday School convention on Tuesday.

The New England Association of School Superintendents will hold its seventy-first meeting in Latin School Hall, Warren avenue, Boston, on Friday.

John G. Thomas, the roofer has commenced work on the foundation of an eight-room modern house, to be erected on Standish avenue for his own occupancy.

Friday evening, Nov. 21, Rev. W. T. Perrin, presiding elder will preach at the Atlantic Methodist Church. At the close of the service the second and third quarterly conferences will be held.

Why does the Grand Army post have a fair? It is for the purpose of replenishing their relief fund, from which they have paid this year over $600 for relief of their comrades and the widows of their late comrades.

An owner is wanted by a gentleman at Needham for a lady's bead purse, containing a small sum of money and some school tickets on the railroad in Quincy. The purse was found at Chestnut hill, Newton, several weeks ago.

The shipments of granite from the three railroad terminals during the month of October were: West Quincy, 11,079,750 pounds; Quarry railroad, 3,378,940 pounds; South Quincy, 5,579,205 pounds; total for the month 20,037,895 pounds, with teaming additional.

John R. Graham of Bangor, Maine, treasurer of the public works in that city was the guest and speaker of the evening at the banquet of the Massachusetts Street Railway Association at Young's Hotel, Boston, Wednesday evening. Quincy friends of Mr. Graham are pleased to note his recent successes.

Sunday evening at 7 Miss Suye Shibata of Japan will speak at the Atlantic Methodist Church dressed in native costume. She will tell her personal experience, and the public are cordially invited. Preceding the address the usual praise service will be held, led by chorus choir, cornet and solo.

E. L. Robbins Resigns.

Mr. E. L. Robbins of Wollaston, for the past four years the local representative of the advertising department of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at Boston, has resigned, his successor being H. E. Ellis, a clerk in the office.

Mr. Robbins' retirement is on account of impaired health, and he will seek rest and restoration at his old home in Plymouth. He became connected with the Boston Herald in 1875 as a district reporter, and was permanently attached to the paper's city force in 1876. Later he was placed in charge of the railroad department and in 1889 took service with the Old Colony railroad in a literary capacity, where he remained up to the time of his appointment to the position he has recently vacated.

Mr. Ellis is an enterprising young man who has profited by the experience of Mr. Robbins.

Another Victory.

The Quincy Bowling team defeated the Weymouth Landings Wednesday evening two games out of three on the Granite street alleys.

MILTON.

Plans for the new church of the Mission of Our Saviour have been made and work on the erection of the building will commence early in the spring.

A business meeting of the Thursday Evening club was held this week.

Rev. John McGau preached at the Mission of Our Saviour last Sunday evening.

J. E. Quimby, Patrick Maguire and Charles Copeland are on a visit to a slate quarry in Maine in which they are interested.

One of the horses attached to Hose 2 has been off duty this week, owing to an attack of plurisy.

The Fire department was called out on a still alarm Monday for a brush fire near Montclair. Wednesday morning they were called out at 8 o'clock by an alarm from Box 64 for a chimney fire in the house of N. T. Kidder on Adams street. Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 they were again called out by an alarm from Box 12 for a fire at Mattapan.

Sixteen persons will be baptised at the Mission of Our Saviour church Sunday evening. After the service Rev. Mr. Reese will give a talk on the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

A harvest supper, followed by an illustrated reading on the courtship of Myles Standish, was held under the auspices of the First Congregational church at the Town Hall, Wednesday evening.

The Arion Club.

Another excellent entertainment was given in the Bethany Brotherhood course Wednesday evening by the Arion Musical Club. The club of four appeared in selections on mandolins, xylophones and banjos, and there were also banjo and metalaphone solos. The favorite of the evening, however, was Miss Grace E. Sanborn, who was down for three numbers and was recalled on two.

Nearly 5000 Voters.

The Registrars of Voters were in session Wednesday from 12 o'clock noon until 10 o'clock in the evening, when registration for the Municipal election closed. During the day 27 names were added to the lists, and 8 restored, making a total of 122 since the close of registration for the State election. The total number now on the lists is 4,929.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

—Some person who signs her article "A Mother," sends us the following item: "It is time the mothers rebelled against so much of home study for their children. The number of studies should be less, and the hours for study should be in school where the teachers can help the pupils with what they do not understand. I think the present system a poor one."

CASE OF MASCAGNI

Brought to the Attention of Italy, Which Will Act In the Matter

Rome, Nov. 13.—According to The Tribuna, Italy purposes to make an international matter of the arrest in Boston of Mascagni. The Tribuna says: Mascagni has telegraphed Premier Zanardelli, requesting the intervention of the Italian government to protect him from the vexatious treatment of which, he says, he has been a victim in America. Signor Zanardelli replied to the musician, assuring him of the interest taken in his case by the government and informing him that he would request Prinetti, minister of foreign affairs, to take up the matter.

Signor Prinetti immediately took up Mascagni's case and is awaiting the receipt of a report from the Italian embassy at Washington before acting in the affair. United States Ambassador Meyer has not been asked for an explanation.

The charge of apathy brought by Mascagni against the Italian consul at Boston is regarded here as without justification and as an outcome of the musician's ignorance of the fact that an Italian citizen in the United States is entirely subject to American laws.

Cholera Reappears at Manila

Manila, Nov. 13.—Cholera made its appearance yesterday among the men of a detachment of the Fifth infantry, which is stationed here. Seven men have already died and a number of others are seriously ill. The soldiers in question had been placed on guard along the Maraquina river, whence Manila receives its water supply, as it was deemed necessary to protect the stream from possible pollution. The cholera developed while the men were on this duty. It was believed that cholera had entirely disappeared from Manila and its reappearance has created general feelings of apprehension.

Alleged Absconder Arrested

San Francisco, Nov. 13.—Benjamin F. Chadsey of New York was arrested here last night on a New York warrant charging him with grand larceny. Chadsey came to this city on the steamer Newport from Panama. Chadsey is a lawyer and was charged with failing to make an accounting of funds belonging to the estate, of which he was counsel, of Daniel Collins. He was also charged with failing to account for the proceeds of a suit for damages brought by him on behalf of a minor.

Foreigners' Lives Jeopardized

Gibraltar, Nov. 13.—Owing to the fact that serious disturbances have broken out at Tetuan, Morocco, a Spanish mail steamer has been dispatched from Ceuta to embark the European residents at Tetuan. There has been considerable political unrest in Morocco recently. The troubles were accompanied by a considerable recrudescence of anti-foreign feeling, and fears have been expressed for the safety of American missionaries at Mekinez.

Kaiser Got Biggest Bag

Sandringham, Eng., Nov. 13.—Emperor William yesterday proved his prowess as an excellent shot. He kept three loaders busier than they had ever been before in their lives. King Edward, the Prince of Wales and the other members of the shooting party who accompanied the emperor are all good shots, but twice as many pheasants fell to Emperor William's gun as to those of the others.

Miles Sympathizes With Sufferers

Manila, Nov. 13.—General Miles was given a reception and banquet at Iloilo, Island of Panay, yesterday. The general delivered a short address in which he expressed sympathy with the people in the afflictions which had come to them with the war and the cholera. He said he hoped for an early improvement in their affairs. From Iloilo General Miles proceeded for Jolo.

Part of Great Task Accomplished

Washington, Nov. 13.—A telegram to the bureau of construction and repair from Pensacola, Fla., tells of the safe arrival there of the first section of the dry dock which started from Havana more than a week ago. The other section will be brought over immediately and the work of rebuilding the dock will begin.

Will Fight For Back Pay

New York, Nov. 13.—By a decision handed down by the court of appeals in Albany, 58 firemen, members of the Long Isalnd City fire department, who were dismissed by Fire Commissioner Scannell shortly after the city consolidation, were reinstated yesterday and will claim back pay to the extent of $6000 each.

Christian Science Failed to Cure

Washington, Nov. 13.—Miss Louise Hoge of Evanston, Ills., who has been ill here with typhoid fever for almost a month, and who has been under treatment by a Christian Science healer, died last night. A autopsy on her body will be held.

Held as a Grave Robber

Indianapolis, Nov. 13.—William Moffitt, an alleged grave robber, was arrested at his home yesterday. Moffitt was implicated by Rufus Cantrell and others. He is 55, and has a family.

MINERS ARE WELL PAID

According to Contention of Individual Operators

WORK IS NOT DANGEROUS

As Shown by Figures From One Mine In Operation For Over Half a Century—Labor Unions Responsible For Deviation From Moral Rectitude

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 13.—The answer of the independent operators of the Lackawanna and Wyoming region to the statement of President Mitchell of the mine workers, was made public last night.

In response to the demand for an increase in wages they say that the present wages are such as to enable the diligent and skillful miner to earn more per hour than any class of labor, skilled or unskilled, in the towns in which their mines are located, and amply sufficient to allow him not only to maintain a good standard living and educate his children, but to lay aside something for his old age. That some miners' wages are small, it is stated, is because they choose to exercise their option to work only a few hours a day.

In answering the contention that mining is extremely dangerous and unhealthy and tends to shorten life, the operators set forth a petition recently circulated in the interests of a candidate for mine inspector which contained the names of 95 employes of one mine, 66 of whom had worked in the mine for 20 years or more, 20 for 40 years or more, and five for 50 years or more.

The demand for the weighing of coal and payment by the legal ton of 2240 pounds instead of by the fictitious ton of 2750 or 3000 pounds is characterized as a thinly disguised effort to secure a 40 percent increase in wages. The answer asserts that 2750 pounds of coal as it comes from the mine is barely sufficient to produce a 2240-pound ton of prepared coal.

Regarding the declaration of the miners that labor unions improve the morals and discipline of their members, this comment is made:

"This may be true when applied to some organizations, but when applied to the Miners' union we enter a most emphatic denial, and propose to introduce evidence showing that prior to the advent of the United Mine Workers of America it was considered bad form to kill or maim a citizen who attempted to exercise his constitutional right to sell his labor, and that the vast number of brutal murders and beatings during the past five months show that the teachings of the United Mine Workers have brought about such moral obliquity that its members believed themselves justified in these acts; also that officers of the union justified this course by furnishing bail and counsel for those who have been guilty of these atrocious acts.

"We believe we will be able to prove such tremendous losses of life and money as the direct results of the methods of this particular union as to convince your honorable commission that it is not expedient to do any act which may contribute to its continued exercise."

Carroll D. Wright and his assistant recorders of the mine strike commission, together with the official stenographers, arrived here last night to arrange the preliminaries for the sessions of the commission, which begin here tomorrow. The commissioners will arrive today and President Mitchell of the mine workers, with the district presidents, the miners' attorneys and stenographers, will arrive this evening.

To Testify Before Commission

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 13.—A number of practical miners from the Ninth United Mine Workers' district left here for Scranton last evening to appear before the anthracite coal strike commission. The party has considerable testimony to offer, principally concerning wages earned at the collieries the past year.

Baptisms Followed Fire

Pekin, Nov. 13.—Fire at Kweilin originated in a firecracker show where the men were testing the powder. Many Chinese were burned to death. The fire burned houses all around the Christian Alliance mission, which was unscathed. The result of this freak of the fire is that many Chinese have since come to the mission to be baptized.

Bad Effect of Fluctuating Money

Manila, Nov. 13.—The further decline in the price of silver has forced the government to raise the rate of exchange to $2.50 Mexican for $1 gold. The cheapening of silver has resulted in increasing the loss of the government and all other holders of silver. The instability of the present currency is seriously damaging business.

UNITARIANS' ERROR

Dr Hale Would Remedy It by Having Plain Religion For All Classes

Boston, Nov. 13.—As the first speaker last night before the Unitarian club, and replying to the question: "How Shall Unitarianism Reach the People?" Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale said that the fault was that the denomination started with the kid glove, patent shoe habit, and with tiptop doctors of divinity of the second degree in whose discourses no word less than three syllables long was admitted. He advocated that clergymen talk to the people just as men do when they go on the stump. He believed that a central church is needed, and he would have religion preached which would appeal alike to the scrubwoman and to the chief justice.

President Eliot of Harvard, following a number of city pastors, closed the discussion, saying that while he favored Dr. Hale's idea, he did not believe in untrained or uneducated men. He believed that the influence of the denomination will come through freedom and character.

Justice Tempered With Mercy

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13.—The next 21 months of Nina Danforth's life will be passed in the house of correction as a penalty for the killing of Andrew J. Emery at South Framingham on May 17 last. This is one of the lightest sentences ever given for the crime of manslaughter in Massachusetts. At 2:30 yesterday afternoon the tiny form of the crippled girl appeared in the court room. Pale, thin and worn from confinement, she looked a pitiful object. The proof of her crime was absolute, and she could only hope for sympathy. Miss Danforth admitted the crime. Later it developed that Emery had tricked the girl into a mock marriage, and she believed she was his wife, only to discover he was married and that her marriage was a trick. In revenge she shot him.

Headache

kills, not necessarily suddenly, but SURELY. It preys upon the intellectual powers more than we realize. It consumes the vitality faster than nature can replenish it, and we cannot tell just what moment a temporary or complete aberration of the mind will result. Headache and pain should be promptly removed—but properly. Many pain cures are more harmful than the pain. Beware. If you would be safe, take

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

"As a result of neuralgia I lost the sight of my right eye, and the pain I have suffered is incomprehensible, being obliged to take opiates almost continually. A friend gave me one of Dr. Miles' Pain Pills and it promptly relieved me. I then purchased a box and now my trouble is gone. They have also cured my daughter of nervous headache, and I heartily recommend them to others."—W. J. CORLEY. Bremond, Texas.

LET ME TELL YOU SOMETHING ABOUT

RHEUMATISM

RHEUMATISM IS AN ACCUMULATION OF POISONOUS FOREIGN MATTER IN THE SYSTEM, CAUSING INFLAMMATION, LAMENESS, ETC. WHERE THIS FOREIGN MATTER COMES FROM IS NOT CERTAIN—IT MAY BE URIC ACID WHICH THE KIDNEYS HAVE FAILED TO ELIMINATE; IT MAY BE THE STOMACH IS DIGESTING THE FOOD IMPROPERLY; OR IT MAY BE THAT SOME POISONOUS MATTER FROM OUTSIDE HAS CREPT INTO THE BODY. THE IMPORTANT THING IS THAT ROMOC WILL ABSOLUTELY AND PERMANENTLY CURE RHEUMATISM BY DRIVING OUT THESE IMPURITIES FROM THE SYSTEM. ROMOC IS NATURE'S PRESCRIPTION FOR RHEUMATISM, AND LIKE OTHER MAGNIFICENT WORKS OF NATURE, EXCELS ANYTHING POSSIBLE FOR MAN TO ACHIEVE. ASK FOR BOOKLET.

KILLED MISS M'PHEE

Charge Which Will Probably Be Brought Against Perry

CLEW FROM WATCH CHAIN

Considered a Stronger Basis For a Trial Than Events Connected With the Morton Murder—Police Have Letters From Suspect to Sweetheart

Boston, Nov. 14—It now seems probable that instead of the commonwealth proceeding ultimately against George L. O. Perry, the negro, on the charge of having murdered Clara A. Morton in Waverley, the government will prosecute the young man on a charge of killing Agnes McPhee in Somerville. This is the result of the evidence the police have succeeded in obtaining in the case of the death of Miss McPhee, and of the belief that the commonwealth's case against Perry for the murder of Miss Morton is not as strong as it at first appeared to be.

These two crimes have been connected from the first stages of the investigation, and both are unquestionably the work of the man known as "Jack the Slugger;" so it is merely a question of where the strong evidence is as to which case will be used as a basis for trial. In looking up Alan G. Mason's connection with the crimes, the work was naturally almost entirely concerned with the Waverley case, but it has so happened that since Perry's arrest developments have come much faster in the investigation of the earlier crime.

Of these developments the finding of the watch chain snatched from Miss McPhee's body is the most significant; is, in fact, the basis of them all. The chain was not recovered by Lieutenant Carter of the Somerville police alone, but was recovered by Lieutenant Carter and Captain Proctor of the state police force together, from clews furnished partly by the first-named officer. It was in line with the first clew, unconsciously offered by the prisoner himself after his arrest, in the shape of a letter which he entrusted to his jailers to deliver, as he phrased it, to "his girl."

The officers were then of the opinion that if this girl could be reached much of the mystery would be unravelled, and they were right. The girl was in the West End of Boston, and when the officers called on her last Monday she had already received a letter of warning from the suspect, written soon after the two murdered women's watches which he had sold had been identified. Phrased perhaps somewhat obscurely, it was meant to convey to the girl this meaning—that she must return a certain chain to Perry's mother. But the young negro's scheme failed of its purpose, for instead of going back to his mother, the chain, together with other letters and gifts from the writer, went into the hands of Captain Proctor. The chain was found by a jeweler's mark which identified it positively to be that worn by Miss McPhee, and the letters and trinkets are held to be of great value as evidence and keys to evidence on which the officers have been working.

This find, with its resultant clews, led to the final and conclusive decision on the part of the state officers and the district attorney that Mason should be discharged.

The watch chain torn from Miss Morton's neck, which was also found on Monday, but this time by the nurse chance, has much less significance in the case against Perry. The only fact which connects it with him is that it was found on the corner of Western avenue and Dodge street, Cambridge, not far from Perry's home. F. R. Murdock, in whose yard it was found, picked it up when cleaning out his yard on Monday, but did not turn it over to the police until some time later, not connecting it in any way with the "slugger" case. It is extremely probable that if he did throw it in Murdock's yard, he did so while on his way from his house with Birtwell and Lawrence, who took his "confession" just before his arrest.

Chinese Not Yet Satisfied

Shanghai, Nov. 14.—Unusually strong articles are appearing in the Chinese newspapers, declaring that by the withdrawal of the British troops from Shanghai to Wei-Hai, Wei and the withdrawal of the German forces from here to Tsing-Tau the independence of the Yangtse valley is still menaced. The Chinese want the British and the Germans to get out of China altogether. The papers add that a conflict between Germany and Great Britain is inevitable.

Unavailing Opposition

London, Nov. 14.—The government's "guillotine scheme" with regard to the education bill was put in operation in the house of commons last night. Five clauses of the bill were all closured and voted without discussion. Members of the opposition challenged every vote and 20 divisions were taken between 11 o'clock and 3 o'clock this morning, when the house adjourned.

Merchants Honor Chaffee

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—Several hundred representatives of the seven great commercial organiaztions of San Francisco met General Chaffee at a reception at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. Addresses were made by prominent citizens and General Chaffee also made a short speech. General Chaffee and his party left for Chicago last night.

Robertson Collieries Resume

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 14.—After an idleness of five months the Corbin colliery, operated by Robertson & Co., resumed work today. Three hundred men and boys were given employment. Four hundred more employes will find work next Monday by the Excelsior colliery, owned by the above company, resuming operation. The colliery was also idle since the strike.

Engineer Understood His Business

Frankfort, Ind., Nov. 14.—Four men attempted to hold up a Monon express at Cyclone yesterday. The train slackened speed on striking torpedoes, but when the engineer faced four revolvers he threw open the throttle. The four men fired rapidly and often, but all trainmen and passengers escaped. Sheriffs afterward caught the men.

Czarina's Doctors Worried

London, Nov. 14.—The Livadia correspondent of The Daily Mail says the czarina has fallen into a condition of deep melancholy which takes the form of preserving silence for long periods, even in the presence of guests. Her majesty's condition is causing her doctors considerable anxiety.

SMITH TELLS HIS STORY

As to How Gertie Smith Was Killed and He Received Bullet Wound

Portland, Me., Nov. 14.—Elmer A. Smith, who was shot by Gertie Welch in a lodging house in this city Wednesday evening, has made a statement as to how the affair occurred. Smith says that the woman was preparing to leave town on account of complaints that had been made against her. At her request he called at her room. They drank together several times during the evening and she pleaded with him to go with her. He repeatedly refused and finally she drew the revolver from under the mattress and fired at him, then turning it upon herself. After she had fired the second shot he seized the revolver and ran to the back hall to call for help. It was not until he got into the hall that he realized he was wounded. Then he dropped the revolver and returned to the room.

Miss Laura Welch, the sister of the dead woman, who lives at Lynn, Mass., arrived here last night to take charge of the body.

The police think the woman shot at Smith from a distance of at least five feet, then turned the revolver against her breast and fired. It has been learned that the revolver with which the shooting was done was purchased by the woman at a local firearms store.

Fireman Admits Incendiarism

Dedham, Mass., Nov. 14.—Aid Scott of the state fire marshal's office recently discovered that the destruction of a barn in Needham last September was the act of at least one member of the call force of the fire department of that town, who was anxious for the department to be called out that he might receive extra compensation. Yesterday Scott arrested J. H. Snow and C. A. Buchanan, and upon being arraigned here Snow pleaded guilty. Both men are members of the Nedham department.

Police Think They Have Robber

Bellows Falls, Vt., Nov. 14.—By the arrest yesterday in this city of Charles Bradley, the police believe they have the perpetrator of a number of rooberies in this vicinity. The store of Henry A. Lowell in Alstead, N. H., was entered Wednesday night and some of the missing clothing and jewelry were found on the prisoner. Bradley confesses to robbing the postoffice at Blandford, Mass., two months ago.

Baby Fatally Scalded

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 14.—Charles Frederick, Jr., 15 months old, was scalded last night, dying a few hours later. His mother was moving a boiler full of hot water and in so doing a broken leg of the stove gave way, precipitating the water all over the child, who was creeping about the floor.

Infant Thrown on the World

Portland, Me., Nov. 14.—A 3-days-old baby boy was deserted at the Union station yesterday, presumably by its mother, a young woman of fine appearance, who left the child with another passenger, saying she wished to look after her baggage. No trace of her was seen afterward.

Won't Please Prohibitionists

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 14.—For the first time in half a century, a majority of the temperance committee of the legislature is in favor of license, with the result that the local option high license bill was favorably reported to the general assembly yesterday.

Safe Opened With Dynamite

Hooksett, N. H., Nov. 14.—The safe in the store of Arthur Racine was blown open with dynamite, the charge sending the door through the side of the building. The burglars secured $135 and left no clew.

Roumanian Minister Snubbed

London, Nov. 14.—The Jewish Chronicle this morning asserts that the name of M. Catargi, Roumanian minister in London, was omitted from the list of diplomats invited to attend the lord mayor's inaugural banquet. This was done, according to the paper, as a mark of displeasure at the persecution of the Jews in Roumania.

Good Afternoon

The explanations of City Treasurer relative to payment of taxes, do not help the situation much, but still show that Quincy people find it difficult to pay their taxes.

Let us quote first from the printed statement of the City Treasurer just issued for Oct, 31, 1902. The statement shows the entire receipts of the city through the Tax Collector, for the year 1902, to that date, item by item, as follows :

Tax of 1896,	$3.48
Tax of 1897,	4.70
Tax of 1898,	42.55
Tax of 1899,	709.03
Tax of 1900,	59,529.32
Tax of 1901,	71,979.71
Tax of 1902,	63,977.09
Street sprinkling,	1,195.49
Sewer assessments,	19,093.56
Permanent sidewalks,	3,064.17
Excise tax,	0.00

The balances unpaid on Jan. 1, 1902, for the years 1895 to 1901 inclusive, and the levies for 1902 are given year by year as far as known below :

Tax of 1895,	$4,330,63
Tax of 1896,	3,696.01
Tax of 1897,	3,467.39
Tax of 1898,	4,204.19
Tax of 1899,	7,017.71
Tax of 1900,	71,994.02
Tax of 1901,	160,538.87
Tax of 1902,	400,641.50
Street sprinkling,	unknown
Sewer assessment,	unknown
Permanent sidewalks,	unknown
Excise tax,	unknown

It will be seen that on Oct. 31, according to the statement of the City Treasurer, $88,559.16 of the tax of 1901 was unpaid with a year's interest. In his communication today, the City Treasurer does not make it clear just how much has been collected on the levy of 1902, but he informs the Ledger that it is $113,353.46. This is out of a total of $400,641.50, the levy, to which should be added sewer assessments, street sprinkling assessments, sidewalk assessments, etc. It is less than 30 per cent. of the $400,641.50, so that interest must be paid by taxpayers on over 70 per cent. of the taxes of 1902, and many are paying on the years 1901 and 1900, and even further back.

We learn from the Tax Collector that up to the close of business Nov. 13, the amount of real estate taxes of 1902 collected was $180,468.52. This is about 46 per cent. of the total, but still leaves over 50 per cent. bearing interest.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Gen. Corbin's idea that young army officers should not marry, will not be accepted by the subalterns, and weddings among the Lieutenants will keep right on. We happen to know a junior officer who married a wife on the eve of his departure for the Philippines. A few months later she followed him to Manila, and "they lived happily ever afterward," as the old formula has it. Speaking with another Lieutenant of the regular army on this statement of Corbin's, we received this bit of wisdom:—"Better let them marry young than spend their time running after the girls." Yes, let the young fellows marry, the sooner after they get their commissions the better. Garrison life is greatly benefited by the presence of the wives of the officers, and Corbin ought to encourage matrimony.—Lynn Item.

The Teachers' Course.

While many were kept away from the opening number in the Teachers' course at the High School, Thursday evening, on account of the very unpleasant weather, a good audience greeted Mr. Riddle. The tragedy of the times of Lucretia Borgia by Victor Hugo, occupied the first hour, and the audience was carried back to those Mediaeval times when crime was accepted. A silence prevailed as he held the audience by his power.

The second part, comedy, was a refreshing contrast. "The Country Dressmaker" by Kate Douglas Wiggin, a child poem, and a comic scene in a western jury composed of women, were given, closing with L'Envoi by Kipling, which by its spirit and the refined touch given by Mr. Riddle, all showed that his success comes by nature as well as by careful training.

Red Men's Whist Party.

At a whist party given in I. O. O. F. hall, Wollaston, Thursday evening, under the auspices of Hodenosaunee Tribe of Red Men, twenty tables were in play and the following were awarded the souvenirs for the evening: Mrs. G. A. Burnie, large picture; Mrs. Christie Mavers, white enamel flower stand; Mrs. Bertha M. McLeod, cheese dish; Miss M. Lizzie Furnald, two towels and rack; Mrs. Mary Thomas, fancy dish; Mrs. George Wardwell, candelabra; Mr. Herbert S. Faircloth, hand painted plaque; Mr. Edward Hall, work basket; Mr. Shea, gilt picture frame; Fred Grignon, chocolate pot; Ben. Thomas, jardiniere stand; Mr. C. L. Bean, bamboo book case.

Thanksgiving Gifts.

Many people are glad to avail themselves of any charity that comes to hand, without realizing that there may be others more needy than themselves. Last Thanksgiving there were some turkeys given away where perhaps the recipient might otherwise have enjoyed the gifts of the season; while others who refrain from making their needs known and who are more sensitive to having charity, did pass Thanksgiving without the usual holiday fare.

It is suggested that especially now, when the coal famine has touched so many, greater care be given in the distribution of Thanksgiving charity than usual.

Charity.

The Heptasophs.

Granite Conclave, Independent Order of Heptasophs celebrated its second anniversary Thursday evening at Wilson's hall. Many not members of the order were present and a good time was enjoyed by all. The entertainment consisted of vocal music by M. S. Tutton, Thomas Raiche and David Morfett, phonograph selections by A. A. Linscott, and remarks by Deputy Cellman and visitors from Hub Conclave. At the conclusion of the exercises a collation was served.

Dates For Nominations.

The election law is amended so often that it is difficult to keep track of all amendments.

In 1901, there was an amendment relative to the filing of nomination papers which now provides: "In cities, except Boston, certificates of nomination for city offices shall be filed on or before the third Monday; and nomination papers on or before the second Wednesday preceding the day of election."

This requires all caucus nominations in Quincy to be filed on or before Monday Nov. 17, and all nominations by papers on or before Wednesday, Nov. 19, at 5 P. M.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Colonel Henry D. Beall, 65, for 28 years an editor of The Baltimore Sun, is dead. He was a native of Virginia and during the Civil war was a member of the Twelfth cavalry.

A freight engine struck an unknown man on a bridge near Duxbury, Vt., knocking him into the river. Every effort was made to recover the body, but the current had carried it down.

John F. Walker of Bangor, Me., a member of the Y. M. C. A., dropped dead on the gymnasium floor during a game of basket ball. Heart failure from over exertion is supposed to be the cause.

Cardinal Gibbons, in the presence of a large audience, broke ground on the site of the new apostolic mission house on the grounds of the Catholic university at Washington, leased to the Missionary union.

A convention of commercial telegraphers from all parts of the country has been called to meet at Pittsburg on Nov. 26. Delegates from about 50 cities are expected to be present. The object is to form a national organization.

Miss Jennie Read, while taking part in a church entertainment at Troy, N. Y., was seized with a fainting spell and fell, sustaining a broken neck. Death was instantaneous. Miss Read was a reciter and was about to respond to an encore.

H. O. Cullom, Jr., of Illinois has been appointed a special agent of the general land office. He is a nephew of Senator Cullom.

The bequest to Brown university of $500,000 from the will of G. L. Littlefield may be affected because of claims which have been filed against the estate in the probate court at Pawtucket, R. I.

The postoffice department has been notified that the new issue of 13-cent stamps bearing the portrait of the late President Harrison are ready for supply to postmasters.

General Hawkins, U. S. A., retired, has been detailed to duty as governor of the soldiers' home near Washington, relieving General Ruggles, retired.

Widow May Not Get Fortune

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 14.—Information received from Cincinnati is to the effect that the relatives of the late John Gibson, who died here last week, will contest the will by provision of which the widowed bride of a week will inherit $1,000,000. It has developed that another will or a copy is in the hands of a lawyer of Cincinnati and that it will be produced when the proper time comes to establish it in court.

Successful Aerial Navigation

Paris, Nov. 14.—The airship built for the brothers Pierre and Paul Lebaudy made a very successful trial near Nantes yesterday. Several free ascents and descents were effected, accompanied by evolutions in all directions over the fields and woods bordering the Seine. The flying machine returned each time to its point of departure at the rate of 25 miles an hour. There were four persons in the car.

TODAY'S COURT.

Walter Weaver was arraigned for assault at Quincy. Case continued until Nov. 19.

Jeremiah Crowley was fined $3 for drunkenness at Milton.

The several liquor cases against N. M. Merrick of Cohasset were called. He was fined $50 on one of the cases, and the others were placed on file, the condition being that he pay the costs amounting to $54.30. 3t8

Food Fair.

The Food Fair which has been held at the Park and Downs church the past week came up to the financial expectations of those who had it in charge. The uniqueness of the affair, in having only foods, made it a success. There were special entertainments for each evening, contributed mostly by local talent. Tuesday evening, Miss May Hastings, vocalist, and Miss Fannie Beckwith, reader, were enjoyed. Wednesday evening, Miss Bjorkman violinist and the Wollaston orchestra rendered musical selections; and Mr. John R. Anderson in his charming Scotch dialect was heard on Thursday evening and also Mrs. Perry of Boston who gave vocal selections. The Kaffee- Klatch was also a great attraction for that evening.

Those in charge of the different tables were as follows:

Candy table, Mrs. Dingwell, Miss Klingenhagen, Miss Gram.

Refreshments and supper room, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Malcolm.

Bread, Mrs. Cleaves.

Sponge cake, flour table, and Chase & Sanborn tea, Mrs. Addison Brown.

Kitchen, Mrs. Gram, Mrs. Sanford and Mrs. Milbury.

Preserves, jellies and Whitehouse Coffees, Mrs. Stuart.

Cereals, Miss Mary Tobey.

Flour, Mrs. Staples and Miss Marion Brown.

Fancy assorted cakes and crackers, Mrs. Coombs.

Extracts, spices, soups, dressing, Mrs. Frank Sass and Miss Musans.

Canned goods, Mrs. John G. McCloud.

Soap department, Miss Alice Baker and Miss Forbes.

Jell-O, Mrs. and Miss Shay.

Ink and blacking, Horace Titus, Carl Gram.

Combination table, fruit, Ruel Jefferson.

Social at Wollaston.

In spite of a rainy evening a goodly number were present at the monthly social at the Wollaston Congregational vestry, Thursday. Great credit is due the committee who provided an excellent supper for the hundred and more who sat down at 6.30. The ladies were assisted in serving by Misses Mary Chase, Elsie Patterson and Flora Wight. The tables looked well with chrysanthemum decorations, each table having a color scheme of its own. The entertainment was unique, consisting of questions and answers making a "Course Dinner," with musical charades later in the evening. Mrs. Loring, the chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Hathaway, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. Nickerson.

Republican Endorsement.

Henry H. Faxon states that he is not circulating the nomination papers for Mayor which he took out. He took them out for a party who did not have sand enough to go after them himself. He further said that the papers were being circulated to get a Republican endorsement of George H. Wilson the the Democratic nominee for Mayor.

Lutheran Fair.

A fair under the auspices of the Swedish Lutheran church was opened Thursday evening at Faxon hall. The attendance was very large and many sales were made at the tables of useful and fancy articles which were arraigned about the hall. The entertainment consisted of singing by the choir, and music by the orchestra.

HOSPITAL NEEDS.

Provisions for the Annual Collection.

Hospital Week, Nov. 19-26 Inclusive.

The Committee of 1901 is Reappointed for the Work.

Although the weather was rather inclement, nearly one hundred ladies and gentlemen gathered at Colonial hall Thursday evening at the meeting of the City Hospital corporation.

The object of the meeting was to arrange for the Hospital week collection.

President William B. Rice presided, and after the election of one new member he stated that $3,500 was needed to carry on the work for the year. It was desirable to raise more if possible so that the debt might be liquidated. It was desirable to enlarge the hospital and as soon as the present debt was wiped out and there was a reasonable assurance that the income will warrant enlarging, it will be done.

Dr. Johnson, Henry McGrath and others spoke of the matter of Hospital Sunday, and hoped that it would be held at some other time this year than on Hospital week, as collectors had found much trouble in collecting owing to this.

It was voted to omit Hospital Sunday this year and that all collections be made by the collectors.

It was then voted that the gentlemen who served as chairmen of the several ward committees last year be appointed this year and that they be empowered to fill any vacancies on the chairmanships and to appoint sub-committees.

The chairmen last year were Fred B. Rice, E. W. Newcomb, Dr. T. J. Dion, Dr. E. R. Johnson and Roger H. Wilde.

It was voted that the pastors of the several churches be requested to call attention to the fact that Hospital Sunday had been omitted.

Upon motion of Fred B. Rice it was voted that the week commencing Wednesday, Nov. 19, and ending Nov. 26 inclusive, be selected as "Hospital week."

Upon motion of Fred B. Rice, the local editors and newspaper reporters were made a committee on publicity.

Brief remarks were made by several of the gentlemen present.

Dr. J. A. Gorden spoke of the needs of the Hospital and its work. This year up to Nov. 13, there had been 216 patients, and the daily average had been twenty, so that at times it was necessary to place cots between the beds. Twenty-eight applications for private rooms had to be refused and if they could have been provided would have brought in from $1300 to $1400. He was convinced that people appreciated the Hospital and that there were very few who would not contribute.

Rev. C. P. Mills believed in the Hospital, not only for the work it does, but because it was a public and unifying work. It would be well if we had more of this bringing of people into a common relationship and unity and to wipe out the lines of division. He also believed in the hospital because it was a public educator on the proper care of the sick at home. People today are demanding that people at home shall have the best service. He wished it might wake up the sentiment that would sustain a district nurse in each ward to give a temporary relief.

Mr. Rice spoke of the gift of $500 from Mayor Bryant, who suggested a ward for contagious diseases. He would like to see such a ward, but the more passing need was a larger Hospital and a home for nurses. Give us a nurses' home and we will be able to supply all demands for nurses.

N. G. Nickerson spoke of his recent experience as a patient at the Hospital. He had been predjudiced agaiust going there, but he had received the kindest of treatment. He could not say too much of the management. He could not imagine a grander institution. If people thoroughly understood it they would feel different. He also spoke a good word for the physicians, and the tireless energy of the nurses, who so cheerfully administered to the patients.

Rev. E. C. Butler said he often visited the Hospital and as he turned and looked back upon it when leaving, he thought of the kind skill and devotion of our physicians, the patience and care of the nurses in alleviating pain. If we could only do a little more than we have done we would not feel it.

Mayor Bryant spoke briefly. No one who takes the position of executive of the city can realize the great work the Hospital is doing. We do not realize the amount of pain saved by an institution of this kind. If people could understand the value of an institution of this kind there would be no trouble raising money. He thought giving up of Hospital Sunday a good idea and that collection would be better. People do not realize how much suffering contagious diseases cause in families as well as loss of life, and he hoped it would be brought about that a ward would be built. In closing, he said if the trustees feel that the amount appropriated by the city is not sufficient they should ask the City Council for more.

The last speaker was Henry H. Faxon who spoke of the burden of taxpayers. He sympathized with all good work but it was wrong to burden the taxpayers by asking the Council for more money. He had given more than $10,000 besides his income during the past three years.

At this point Mr. Rice said that the meeting was not to discuss town affairs but to devise means to aid the Hospital.

Mr. Faxon refused to speak further and the meeting adjourned.

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

Tax Receipts.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

In your issue of Nov. 13, you state that the receipts on account of taxes of 1902 to the first of November amount to $63,977.09. This statement is somewhat misleading, as this amount only covers the first three weeks of October.

The books of the Treasurer closed October 31, and owing to the large amount collected by the Tax Collector which he is obliged to itemize into the following accounts:—Taxes of the different years, Sewer House connections, Sewer Assessments, permanent sidewalks, street sprinkling, interests for the different accounts and costs, it would be impossible, even with a larger force at his command, to do this in time to give to the Treasurer.

The actual receipts for the Tax department for the month of October were $114,452.20; in comparison with October, 1901, $93,541.98, showing an increase of $20,910.22.

Yours very truly,
H. Walter Gray,
Treasurer.

Quincy, Nov. 14, 1902.

Did He Know H. H. Faxon?

The following gem is published by request, by a gentleman who thinks it applies well to Henry H. Faxon:

(Denis A. McCarthy in New York Sun.)

The fellow who fights the fight alone,
With never a word of cheer,
With never a friend his help to lend,
With never a comrade near—
'Tis he has need of a stalwart hand
And a heart not given to moan—
He struggles for life, and more than life,
The fellow who fights alone!

The fellow who fights the world alone,
With never a father's smile,
With never a mother's kindly toge
His sorrowful hours to guile,
Who joins the fray at the dawn of day
And battles till light is down,
Must needs be strong, for the fight is long—
The fellow who fights alone!

Ah, bitter enough the combat is
With every help at hand,
With friends at need to bid godspeed,
With spirits that understand;
But fiercer far is the fight to one
Who struggles along unknown—
O, brave and grim is the heart of him,
The fellow who fights alone!

God bless the fellow who fights alone,
And arm his soul with strength,
Till safely out of the battle rout
He conquering comes at length,
Till far and near into every ear
The fame of his fight is blown,
Till friend and foe in the victor know
The fellow who fights alone!

Supt. Porter.

At a special meeting of the Lexington school committee Thursday evening, Henry W. Porter of Abington was elected principal of the high school, and superintendent of schools. Mr. Porter is a graduate of Harvard, class of '96. He was for three years submaster of the Quincy high school, and has just entered upon his fourth year as principal of the Abington high school. He is a son of ex-Mayor Charles H. Porter of this city.

New Trial Wanted.

Lawyer Mackay of this city has filed a petition in behalf of his client, J. C. L. Soderguest of Boston, for a new trial, in the case for assault on Miss Eva Crockett at the Natural History rooms, Boston. He pleaded guilty at the first trial, but supposed it was for a simple assault.

A 20 PERCENT REBATE

Held to Be Sufficient by the President of Cuba

TREATY DICKERING HALTS

Because the Real Situation Regarding Reciprocity Is Not Understood by Cubans—General Bliss Delegated to Clear Up Apprehensions

Washington, Nov. 13.—An important conference, bearing on the subject of the Cuban reciprocity treaty, was held at the war department yesterday, the participants being Secretary Hay, Secretary Root and General Tasker Bliss. The latter was called into the conference at Secretary Hay's suggestion, because of his expert knowledge of the existing Cuban tariff. Before the conference at the war department, Secretary Hay had talked on this subject with Senator Cullom, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, and also with Mr. Quesada, the Cuban minister here. Mr. Quesada was not able to submit to Secretary Hay the draft of the reciprocity treaty which has been under consideration so long by the authorities at Havana, as the document has not left that place.

Officially the United States government continues in ignorance of the extent and character of the changes, if any, which President Palma may desire to make in the treaty. From other than official source, however, has developed pretty clearly that the cardinal objection of President Palma to the treaty as it stands is the insufficient rebate of 20 percent proposed to be allowed on Cuban imports into the United States.

President Palma makes the point that conditions have changed in Cuba so that whereas the 20 percent rebate might have served when it was first proposed, it would at present afford so little relief as not to warrant the sacrifice of Cuban revenues that would be involved in its acceptance. Secretary Hay has determined to clear up that point, and to that end, after talking with Secretary Root yesterday, it was decided that General Bliss should be sent at once to Cuba to make a personal investigation of its industrial situation and its fiscal possibilities.

A high official of the government, who is well informed regarding our relations with Cuba, in discussing the proposed treaty, said to The Associated Press:

"The principal mission of General Bliss will be to clear up in the minds of the Cubans some apprehensions which they have regarding the effect of the concession offered by the United States and the various concessions which the United States demands from Cuba. It seems apparent that the situation is not understood in Cuba and the negotiation halts on that account.

"There is no disposition to offer a greater concession to Cuba than 20 percent, which will include all products of the islands, while the concessions demanded vary from 10 to 70 percent. This is explained by the fact that the concessions must be considered not so much upon percentages as upon existing tariffs. The tariff of the United States on all articles produced in Cuba is so high that a 20 percent reduction will mean much to the island. This relates especially to sugar and tobacco.

"A single illustration is given: The present duty on sugar is about 100 percent; a reduction of 20 percent will give a rebate to Cuba of $20 in every $100 worth of sugar sent to this country. On the other hand the duty imposed by Cuba on cotton manufactured goods is about 33 percent and the United States manufacturer shipping cottons to Cuba under a like 20 percent rebate would secure an advantage of only about $6.66 on each $100 worth of goods. To equalize this difference it was found necessary to fix the rate of concession on cotton goods going from the United States into Cuba at 60 percent. It is thought here that the Cubans have not considered the matter from this point of view and that it will be necessary to inform them of the basis of the demands of the United States.

"It is possible that demands of this country may be modified slightly on an investigation of trade conditions in Cuba, as the first draft of the treaty was the basis of an agreement. It is not likely, however, that any greater concession will be offered Cuba, as it is held that the high rate of duty on sugar and tobacco will, with 20 percent reduction, enable the Cubans to either undersell all other foreigners or secure greater profits on their products than people of other nations.

"The reciprocity treaty is likely to be a separate document from any general treaty provided for under the Platt amendment. It makes no difference whether or not a treaty is negotiated with Cuba save on the subject of the Isle of Pines. The Platt amendment being a part of our law and a part of the Cuban constitution, it is held that it operates as a binding proposition even if the provisions of the amendment are not embodied in a treaty. The United States will secure the coaling stations and Cuba is bound to carry out the provisions of her own constitution. That the embodiment of the terms of the Platt amendment in a treaty would be well is not denied, but such action is not necessary save to establish closer and more friendly relations between the two governments from a diplomatic point of view."

SHOT THROUGH HEART

Woman's Death at Portland Being Investigated by the Police

Portland, Me., Nov. 13.—Gertie Welch, aged 25 years, was found shot through the heart in a room in a boarding house on Forest avenue last night, but whether or not she died by her own hand is a matter for further inquiry. In the room with the body when the people in the house went in, was Elmer E. Smith. He had a bullet through the fleshy part of the right shoulder, and he, with his hands on his stomach, was groaning as if he were in pain. All he would say at the time was "I knew she would do it." The weapon with which the shooting was done, a 32-calibre revolver, was on the floor of the hall outside the bedroom.

The police are endeavoring to determine whether the woman shot herself after shooting at Smith, as he claims is the case. The weapon was discharged at close range, for the woman's nightrobe had been scorched by the powder flash. The police have detained Smith, pending a decision as to the circumstances.

A theory is that the woman had the revolver, and that, while in argument, the woman fired at Smith and then shot herself. Her death came instantly. The fact that the revolver was outside the room is not explained. Smith would not talk except to say that the woman did the shooting, and at the police station he held his tongue.

Smith is 38 years old, a barber by trade, and well known through lifelong residence here. Gertie Welch came here from Bath about eight years ago, but of her family connections there little is known here.

Marine Mishaps

St. Johns, Nov. 13.—The schooner Tasso, laden with fish, sank last night in Trinity bay. Her crew of nine men were rescued at great risk by the crew of the schooner Nellie.

Schooner St. Francis, from Labrador, has been burned at sea. Her crew of seven men escaped in the boats.

Schooner Harvest has been wrecked on the Island of Quirpon, at the entrance of Belle Isle strait. Her crew of seven men were saved by the coast folk.

The Czar's Courteous Action

St. Petersburg, Nov. 13.—Ambassador Tower, who was recently transferred to Berlin, and Mrs. Tower left here today on their way to Lividia, where the czar has invited Mr. Tower to call on him. This is a special distinction, as the rule was long since established forbidding formal receptions at Lividia. This action is generally construed as intended to be an expression of the czar's personal feelings towards the United States and its retiring ambassador.

Syndicate Buying Orange Groves

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—A corporation known as the Southern California Trust company, with a ready capital of $4,500,000, most of it eastern capital, has secured an option on 7000 acres of orange groves in this vicinity and proposes to absorb under trust mortgage a heavy portion of the Southern California citrus belt interests.

Popular at Banquets

Washington, Nov. 13.—Secretary Root has returned here from New York, where he attended the banquet of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night. He will go to New York again the latter part of the week to attend the dinner given by James H. Hyde in honor of Ambassador Cambon of France.

Soldiers to Suppress Raiders

Simla, India, Nov. 13.—Owing to a series of raids committed during the past two years by outlaws from across the border, in the Punjab, it has been decided to dispatch four flying surprise columns of 800 men each to coerce the Waziris who are harboring the raiders on British territory.

No Trace of Egan

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 13.—The hopes of finding Superintendent Egan of the Great Northern railroad are diminishing. All the larger searching parties have now come in without finding any traces of him. Experienced woodsmen are expected to keep up the search for about 10 days more.

Must Go Back to Montreal

Washington, Nov. 13.—The state department has issued a warrant for the surrender to the Canadian authorities of Stephen McMillan, charged with the theft of $1200 from his employer, a Montreal merchant. McMillan is now held at Jersey City.

Broker Goes to Penitentiary

Baltimore, Nov. 13.—John K. Messersmith, the cotton broker who was convicted last June of having fraudulently obtained $25,000 from the Merchants' National bank, was sentenced yesterday to two years in the penitentiary.

CUBA'S PROPOSED LOAN

May Be Blocked Until Commercial Treaty Is Arranged

SPEEDY ACTION UNLIKELY

Many Cubans Opposed to Concessions Demanded by United States—Foreign Governments Likely to Await a Settlement of Deadlock

Washington, Nov. 14.—General Tasker H. Bliss will sail for Cuba tomorrow if he can secure steamship accommodations. If not he will go early next week. It is the intention of those interested in the commercial treaty with Cuba to have it ready if possible in three weeks and General Bliss will endeavor to adjust the difficulties by that time. It is considered important to have the treaty sent to the senate before the holiday recess. It will require a two-thirds vote to ratify the treaty and a determined minority in the senate could postpone action on it for some time.

Those best informed regarding conditions existing in the island do not expect any speedy action. They believe that a large number of Cubans are very much opposed to granting the concessions the United States will demand. There is also talk that they may test the effectiveness of the Platt amendment by entering into negotiations with other countries regarding trade relations.

The position which our government holds in Cuba and our relations with the leading foreign nations at the present time is such that it is believed none of the governments would care to make any treaty with Cuba which was not sanctioned by the United States. There is even some talk that the negotiations with Cuba might be brought to satisfactory conclusion should it appear that the representatives of foreign governments at Havana had been instructed not to enter into negotiations until a treaty had been concluded with the United States. It is scarcely expected that such instructions can be obtained.

It is the desire of this government to leave the negotiations, should they fail, in such shape that it will not appear that an attempt had been made to extort from Cuba more than the United States was willing to give. It is said by an official dealing with the subject of Cuba that a commercial treaty will be necessary to establish Cuba on such a basis that she can float the proposed loan.

With all negotiations hung up and strained relations existing between the old and new republic it is believed that there would be difficulty in selling the bonds of Cuba. At the same time this government does not wish to appear in the attitude of holding this particular club over the Cuban government. It is therefore probable that, in case the negotiations fail, a statement of what was demanded by the United States and the reasons why the concessions were asked will be made.

Molineux Trials Cost $400,000

New York, Nov. 14.—The cost to General Molineux of the defense of his son will be just about $100,000, leaving him still a fortune of $200,000. The son, at the time of his arrest, had a salary of $75 a week and he had little or nothing put by. The total cost all around of the two trials will foot up very nearly $400,000. This amount includes the salaries of the assistant district attorneys who were engaged in the trial of the case.

Ready to Receive Evidence

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 14.—All the members of the anthracite strike commission are now here and in readiness to begin the hearing of the differences existing between the miners and their employers. The sessions of the commission will begin today. Most of the representatives of the contending parties are also on the ground. It is expected that at least two weeks will be taken up in hearing the witnesses on each side.

Sailors' Terrible Experience

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 14.—The crew of schooner S. B. Marts arrived last night on the schooner Arthur McArdle, which rescued them off Cape Hatteras, where the Marts went to pieces. The entire crew, for 36 hours before their rescue, were lashed to the after cabin of their dismantled vessel, without food or water and at the mercy of the sea and winds.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

COMMON SENSE AND CONSUMPTION

The treatment of consumption is every year becoming more successful. The majority of cases can be cured if taken in time. Not more medicine but more common sense is the cause of the improvement.

Fresh air, good climate, food, clothing, exercise, all these are important features of common sense treatment.

As a builder of flesh and restorer of strength Scott's Emulsion is still unequaled. The special action of Scott's Emulsion on the lungs is as much of a mystery as ever—but an undoubted fact.

Common sense and Scott's Emulsion is good treatment.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

CALLED GERMANS PIGS

Austrian Statesman Hammered and a General Fight Followed

Vienna, Nov. 14.—Yesterday's sitting of the lower house of the Austrian reichsrath was suspended on account of the German and Czen members coming to blows. The cause of the trouble was a debate on the advisability of the use of the two languages in the names of stations on the Bohemian railroads.

Herr Schnal started the disorder by shouting: "You Germans are a lot of pigs." Thereupon a number of German deputies cast themselves upon Herr Schnal, shouting, "smash him," "kick him," which they proceeded to do. Eventually Herr Schnal was thrown down the gangway to the bottom of the amphitheatre.

The fighting continued for a quarter of an hour after the suspension of the sitting. Throughout the disorder the combatants were encouraged by hearty plaudits from the strangers' gallery.

Dragged From Death's Jaws

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Miss Helen Costello was rescued from the brink of the American falls yesterday by employes of the state reservation. The woman was seen clinging to a submerged log at a point a few feet below the bridge which connects Green and Goat islands. A noose was fitted about the body of John Marshall and he was lowered into the rushing waters. He reached the woman's side and placed a rope about her waist. The two were hauled upon the bridge. It is thought Mrs. Costello attempted to take her life on account of domestic troubles.

Failed to Get the Bandit

Rome, Nov. 14.—The Sicilian police, who have been trying to capture a notorious brigand named Varsalone, yesterday raided the district of Cammarata and took as prisoners 60 persons, among whom were included a marquis, a mayor, doctors and lawyers. A wealthy landowner named Lino barricaded his house and shot one policeman dead and wounded another. The police failed to capture Varsalone, who is still at large.

Good News For Railroaders

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company announces an increase of 10 percent in the wages of all employes of the company east of Pittsburg and Erie and now earning less than $200 a month. The advance became operative Nov. 1. This increase affects about 59,000 employes. Estimating the average wage rate a month at $60 a man, the additional expense to the company would be about $4,250,000 a year.

England to Sell Old War Craft

London, Nov. 14.—As a result apparently of agitation by Vice Admiral Beresford and others regarding the lack of "up to dateness" in the British navy, the admiralty announces that three battleships, five turret ships, a torpedo ram, a frigate, two cruisers and some smaller vessels are all for sale. They will be dropped from the navy list immediately.

Vasquez Will Heed Request

San Domingo, Nov. 14.—Minister Powell has presented to President Vasquez a request for the annulment of the decree governing the shipping charges collected at Dominican ports. This decree has a strong detrimental effect on American commercial interests. President Vasquez has promised to attend to Mr. Powell's request.

General Matos Is Sick

Willemstad, Nov. 14.—General Matos, chief of the Venezuelan revolutionists, and his son arrived here yesterday. They came in a small boat in which they left Tucacas Wednesday evening. General Matos is very ill. His landing was witnessed by a considerable crowd.

Stegnor's Case Goes Over

Kansas City, Nov. 14.—Theodore Stegnor, indicted last Monday on a charge of using the mails to defraud in the sale of Arizona copper mines, was arraigned yesterday and pleaded not guilty. The case was continued to April to give him an opportunity to bring witnesses from Arizona. Stegnor, who is a mining broker, was charged in the indictment with misrepresenting mining property.

FROG'S DEATH AGONIES

Witnessed by a Jury to Illustrate Suffering Endured by Humans

Camden, N. J., Nov. 14.—A frog was poisoned in court yesterday to show a jury the agonies of a human being dying as a result of being poisoned with strychnine. Paul Woodward, who is alleged to have lured two boys, Brice Jennings and Paul Coffin, from this city into the woods, and having caused their death with strychnine, was on trial, and Professor Marshall of the University of Pennsylvania was testifying. He took some of the poison extracted from the liver of the Coffin boy and forced it into a live frog. The jury and all others in court became intensely interested and in a few minutes the frog went into convulsions. The professor explained the action of the drug as the frog, writhing, exhibited all the agonies the boy had suffered as he died. The experiment caused a sensation in the court room.

Warning to Labor Men

New Orleans, Nov. 14.—President Gompers yesterday delivered an impassioned warning to the members of the Federation of Labor that the immediate future of trade and labor assemblies was seriously endangered by the conflicting claims of jurisdiction made by different bodies. Unless such things were approached in calmness and handled with moderation, he declared, labor organizations soon would be involved in a conflict which by comparison would dwarf all the struggles in which labor organizations have been engaged thus far.

The President's Outing

Smedes, Miss., Nov. 14.—President Roosevelt and his party arrived here yesterday afternoon and in their bear hunting togs started soon afterward for the camp on the Little Sunflower river. As the distance is about 15 miles and the trail is rough and bad, it was after dark before they reached the camp. Smedes is a siding on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railway, where cotton is loaded from the big Smedes plantation.

Cuba Has One of Our Sloops

Washington, Nov. 14.—The disposition of the sloop Esperanza is a subject of correspondence between the United States and the government of Cuba. This sloop was the property of the quartermaster's department and was used in Cuba. When the island was turned over to the Cubans, by some mistake the sloop also was turned over. The United States government is endeavoring to have the sloop restored to this government.

Iron Workers' Terrible Fate

Lebanon, Pa., Nov. 14.—The explosion of a large boiler in a scrap-puddle furnace at the West works of the American Iron and Steel Manufacturing company's plant yesterday caused the death of four workmen and about 40 others were more or less seriously injured. Some of the maimed and scalded workmen have their eyes burned out, others their hands blown off. Many of them, it is believed, cannot live.

Won't Risk Losing Pensions

Cleveland, Nov. 14.—The five police captains whose resignations were demanded by Chief of Police Dunn have decided to comply with the directors' request. A voluntary resignation entitles the five men to a pension of $65 a month during their lifetime. Dismissal under charges, which was a possibility by trial, would deprive them of this income.

Editor Charged With Murder

Butte, Mont., Nov. 14.—James W. Kelly, late city editor of The Inter-Mountain, accused of the murder of Henry A. Caylor, was arraigned yesterday in court. A motion to quash the charge was taken under advisement and will be ruled upon Monday.

Mixed Cabinet For Spain

Madrid, Nov. 14.—All efforts to form a concentration cabinet have failed, and Senor Sagasta has now begun an attempt to form a homogenous liberal ministry.

The Social Realm.

Ambition, like a torrent, ne'er looks back,
And is a swelling, and the last affection
A high mind can put off; being both a rebel
Unto the soul and reason, and enforceth
All laws, all conscience, treads upon religion,
And offereth violence to nature's self.

Those who were present at Livermore Hall, Quincy Mansion school, Thursday evening, were given a rare treat, when Mr. Samuel Arthur King of London, England, the eminent Shakesperian scholar and reader, gave his interpretation of Hamlet. He followed the passages which related to the development of Hamlet's character, particularlarly the scene between Hamlet and Ophelia in act III, and between Hamlet and his mother. His impersonation of all the characters were distinguished by strength and versatile power. The character of old Polonias produced from the audience much merriment. There are many who feel that no reader before the public, can be classed as Mr. King's peer for eloquent, scholarly elocution and superior acting. Owing to the inclement weather, many guests from Boston were prevented from attending the reading.

LARGE MILITARY FUNERAL

Officers of Fifth Regiment and Companies A, C, H and I Pay Their Respects.

Maj. Walter E. Morrison, Who Was Efficient and Popular in Service.

The Floral Tributes Beautiful and Seldom Excelled in Number.-----Tribute to Dead.

The funeral services of Maj. Walter E. Morrison of Braintree, were held at the home of his father, Mr. Alva S. Morrison of Adams street, on Friday afternoon, Nov. 14. The regular service was conducted by Rev. Frederick R. Griffin of All Soul's church and consisted of selections from the scriptures, a prayer and poem. The poem was Edwin Arnold's "After Death in Arabra." The Knights of Pythias read their regular funeral service, led by Mr. John Barker. At the close of the service which was attended by several hundred people, the casket was borne out of the home to the hearse by six officers of the regiment in which Mr. Morrison was major.

THE MILITARY ESCORT.

The military escort consisted of four companies of the 5th Regt., under command of Maj. W. W. Stover. The companies were officered as follows:

Co. A., Capt. M. E. Smith; Lieut's W. W. Gray and W. H. Wilson.

Co. C., Capt. E. R. Springer; Lieut. G. F. Gillford.

Co. H., Capt. F. Merridith, Jr., Lieut's H. W. Gibson and E. T. Lattemere.

Co. I., Lieut's F. W. Northcutt and L. W. Cook.

The honorary escort included Gen. J. H. Whitney, Lieut. Col. E. E. Locke, Capt. C. T. Dukelow, Lieut. H. D. Warner, Capt. Francis Maguire, Maj. Harry P. Ballard, Maj. H. A. Clarke, all of the second brigade staff, Maj. F. B. Barnes, Maj. G. F. Mooney, Maj. J. J. Sullivan and Capt. W. J. Casey, regimental adjutant of the 9th Regt. and the following officers of the 5th Regt.: Lieut. Charles R. Gould, Maj. W. E. Butler, Capt. A. E. Lewis, Lieut. C. E. Newman, Lieut. R. D. Wooster, Lieut. J. E. Williams, Capt. J. P. Clare, Lieut. W. J. Leslie, Lieut. C. W. Knapp, Lieut. G. F. Cutler, Capt. A. E. Weir, Capt. F. F. Cutting, Lieut. C. E. Stevens, Capt. C. F. Spear, Capt. J. R. McGrath, Lieut. Col. M. B. Clement, Capt. Henry L. Kincaide, Lieut. F. C. Chamberlain, Lieut. C. A. Perkins, Capt. W. H. Whitney, Lieut. P. J. McNamara, Lieut. F. H. Marrion, Chaplain Rev. Francis Edwards; also Capt. F. C. Brownell and Capt. Fred McDonald of the 26th Regt., U. S. V.

Major Morrison's horse was led back of the hearse by Mr. Charles Dixon, the Major's body servant in the war.

There were also many of the Legion of Spanish War Veterans and former members of Co. K.

The honorary pallbearers were Lieut. Col. E. E. Locke, Maj. Harry P. Ballard, Maj. H. A. Clark, of the Second brigade staff, Maj. W. C. Butler, Fifth regiment, Maj. G. F. H. Murray and Maj. J. J. Sullivan of the Ninth regiment.

AT THE GRAVE.

The services at Mt. Wollaston cemetery was a most impressive one. It was nearly 5 o'clock when the funeral procession reached the cemetery. The deep red sun was slowly sinking in the west and the earth was slowly being ensbrouded in darkness. It seemed almost as through nature itself was also in mourning. The procession entered the main gate and slowly wended its way toward the open, and waiting grave, preceded by the band which played a dirge. Previous to the arrival of the funeral courtage, the flowers which had surrounded the casket at the house, had been arranged about the grave.

The four companies, formed in the avenues, on two sides of the grave. The military officers formed in a group on the north side, while the mourners stood near the head of the grave.

When all was in readiness the casket, shielded beneath the folds of the American flag, and having upon it the regalia of the Knights of Pythias, was borne from the hearse on the shoulders of six sergeants. Preceded by the chaplain in his robes of immaculate white, the body was slowly borne down the avenue, past the four companies, standing at present, and placed over the open grave, the band meanwhile playing a funeral march.

The services were brief and were conducted by the regimental chaplain Rev. Francis Edwards, the officers standing with bared heads. The casket was lowered into the grave and with solemn words committed to mother earth.

Company H then fired three volleys, and taps were sounded by the buglers.

As the last notes of the bugle died away in the distance, the red sun sank out of sight, leaving a ray of beautifully tinted sky, while in the east there appeared above the horizon the bright moon which glistened through the almost leafless trees and threw a ray of light over the scene which would otherwise have been enveloped in darkness.

The committal service over, the procession reformed and the regiment marched to the Quincy depot when they took the train for home.

THE FLOWERS.

The floral tributes included

Cartwright's Trustee

By EVERETT HOLBROOK

Copyright, 1902, by Charles B. Etherington

WHEN Cameron tilted back his chair against the rough and rugged wall of the log house, the light of the fire shone upon his abundant gray hair and ruddy face, but he had drawn out of the heat. The collar of his flannel shirt flared away upon each side, and I saw his rounded and strong throat, with a triangular bit of his bare chest below.

"Now for the interview," he said, pausing between the words to draw upon his newly lighted pipe with keen enjoyment. "Why am I here? That's the matter of interest, is it? Why do I live in this Adirondack wilderness after those tools over there," and he waved his hand toward a deal table littered with pens and paper, "have brought me that which you are pleased to call success?"

Upon this he told me the following story:

I visited this region the first time with a hunting party about ten years ago. The others were men whom I had come to know in one way or another, men of means, all of them, while I could hardly raise the amount of my fare.

In some way which is not important to this narrative I became separated from my friends one day when we were roaming the primeval forest together. It was a startling experience, for the chances were excellent that I might wander all night in the cold, and at that time I was not robust. However, just as it was growing dark I fell in with a man upon whose neck I could have wept for joy, though I had not the pleasure of a previous acquaintance with him.

He may have been forty years old, brown as an Indian, slender, tall and lithe. His voice had a cheery ring, his eyes were bright, his language had the way of the woods, but when we passed beyond the first quick questions and answers I perceived that he did not lack cultivation. His name was Robert Cartwright.

He led me to this house, and, though he tried to moderate his pace to mine, I had hard work to follow him.

When Cartwright set foot upon the slab of rock that makes the step outside there, the door was suddenly flung open, and a pleasant voice cried, "Why, Bobby, how late you are!"

The next moment "Bobby" was being kissed in a very simple, unaffected and altogether enviable fashion, and he was contributing liberally to the demonstration when he happened to remember me, which is more than I had a right to expect under the circumstances. Mrs. Cartwright had not yet become aware that her husband was not alone, for she had come out of the brightness into the dusk.

"There is some one with me," I heard Cartwright whisper. And then he presented me most agreeably.

Yet there was a touch of formalism in his words and manner. They savored of the city. And when Mrs. Cartwright greeted me she was not quite so fine a woman as she had been a minute before, with her arms around her husband's neck. I had introduced an element of artificiality. I had carried them back.

"I wish our boy were here," said Cartwright presently. "You'd then see our little home just right. But he's gone to a boarding school."

"We are sorry that we sent him," said Mrs. Cartwright. And then she showed me a photograph of a boy of ten years.

I was able to say without prevarication that Bobby junior was the image of his sire.

Well, we had a great supper, for which I had the better appetite because of waiting while the preparation of it was completed. In this task the husband assisted.

"LET ME TELL YOU HOW I CAME HERE."

I was a very formal fellow in those days. My manner was as stiff as a starched shirt collar (and he pulled his flannel garment open a little wider at these words). From the outset I could see that Mrs. Cartwright detected the flavor of my breeding and that her woman's nature would not let her admit any deficiency on her own part. Indeed, there was no need of it, for she was born and bred a lady and quite in the circle of my own family's acquaintance, as I learned presently, for she was a Wayne of the old Connecticut stock, and the Camerons were proud of an alliance with them two generations ago, when both were rich.

Some talk of this very distant relationship brought us nearer together and carried us farther from the woods. I answered many questions about the news of cities and heard some old stories which led me to know that Cartwright had not lived always in the wilderness by any means.

It was late in the evening, however, before I ventured to ask what had led them so far away from the centers of cultivation and refinement which would have been their natural habitat.

"You remember Holmes' line?" said Cartwright—"'Put not your trust in money, but your money in trust.' Well, my father put his money in trust for me, and this is the result. My trustee got away with it."

"God bless him!" said the lady, taking her husband's hand.

She was sitting on the arm of his chair at the time and looking very sweet in the firelight. I could not think of her as the mother of a ten-year-old boy, she looked so young and so light hearted and hopeful. Yet she was a beaten woman by all the rules. She was married to a man who was poor and would never be otherwise. Her real youth was gone, and even should Cartwright die—as is the duty of a poor man with a pretty wife—I couldn't fancy Mrs. Cartwright returning to fight the battle over again.

SHE WAS SITTING ON THE ARM OF HIS CHAIR.

It is true that I was puzzled by the fervency of her prayer for the dishonest trustee, though I judged it was a part of her fidelity to her husband, a part of her long resolve never to reproach him for their poverty.

He raised her hand to his lips before he answered the question which he had seen in my eyes.

"I suppose he saved my life," said Cartwright, "and that is why Marjory blesses him. May heaven bless her! I was a wild boy, Mr. Cameron. My father always gave me plenty of money, and I 'went the pace,' as the phrase is."

"He was not so bad, I guess," said Marjory, with a hand upon his head, where I observed that the dark brown hair was thin at the back of the crown.

"Let my bald spot be the witness to my crimes," said he, reading my eye again. "It was bigger at twenty-five years than it is now, and a fellow doesn't get such an ornament for nothing. Late hours, champagne, bad tobacco in stifling cafes under the glare of lights! Yes, yes; it is a blessing that my trustee became a thief before I had time to become anything worse myself.

"I was beginning to feel the strain. My pet doctor pointed out an open grave to me every time I went to see him, and finally he drove me up into the woods for a little rest. He did it by promising that the relaxation would give me life for a year and perhaps two of the fun that I was having."

"Fun!" echoed Mrs. Cartwright.

"Upon my soul," said her husband, "it was the emptiest, painfulest, most sodden, wretched and hopeless existence ever suffered by a mortal creature. But I didn't know it then. Well, I came up into the Adirondacks with half a dozen other profligates before whom the grave also yawned, and we endeavored to restore our health by sitting all day and night in the room of a little hotel a few miles from here drinking bad liquor and playing cards for money. I remember that the luck was dead against me all the time—the worst run I ever had. Indeed, about the third day I sent a hurry call to my trustee for funds. But, Mr. Cameron, at the very moment when I was writing to him he was a bankrupt and twenty-four hours later he was on his secret way to South America, or some say to China, with the wreck of his dishonesty. Heaven forgive and bless him! It was the beginning of a new life to me."

"You went back to town and started over again, I suppose?"

"I have never been out of these woods since then," said Cartwright, "except when I took my boy down to Albany to school at the beginning of this fall. In the old days when that thunderbolt hit me I went to bed, believing that the grave which my doctor had pointed out to me was my only refuge and wishing to encourage it to yawn as hard and fast as possible. Presently my cross and crabbed old uncle, William Cartwright, from Brooklyn, appeared upon the scene and favored me with the details of my ruin. He closed by offering me a small allowance on the bargain that I would live up here in the woods for a year or for longer unless my health should be fully restored.

"I was willing. There was no reason why I should go back. But dying isn't so easy up here. Strangely enough, I acquired an appetite for life. I began to go out hunting with a guide and surprised him—and myself far more—by developing into a first rate shot with a rifle. Before the end of that winter I had gained nearly twenty pounds, though you wouldn't call me fat as I stand, and I could eat bear meat right off the bear.

"Mr. Cameron, I liked the life. I was ripe for it. I had had enough of the other kind. I resolved to stay here, and here I am. My uncle gave me money enough to buy this house and a bit of land running down to the lake, and here I established a hermitage."

His voice changed, and his eyes began to glisten.

"In the long winter evenings," he continued, "I began to write to a little girl. She was only sixteen, and she was going to school. I wrote bear stories for her and lonesome tales of the woods. You must understand that just before my pecuniary disaster I had chanced to see her, and somehow her beauty"—at this point Mrs. Cartwright tried to cover his mouth with her hand—"her beauty," he persisted, "and her innocence had remained with me. And she had remembered me. Think of it—me, the profligate! What miracles doth heaven grant! Well, well, I wrote her stories of the woods, and finally I wrote her love stories, and so at last, being quite free in the world, though only nineteen when this happened, she came up into the wilderness to see me, and we were married at Pine Knot, five miles down the lake.

"Therefore," he went on, extending his left hand toward a pitcher of cider on the table, "I shall propose the health of all thieving, rascally trustees who steal the money of those foolish heirs who are not fit to have it. Ah, Mr. Cameron, think what he did for me! Think of this pure, healthy life among the fragrant trees! I am supremely happy. I bless him. I honor him. Here's to him—old Archibald Withington—may the saints receive him!"

I was about to raise my glass, but laid it down again.

"Archibald Withington!" said I. "Why, I know him. He has offices in the same building as myself."

"You're thinking of his son," said Cartwright, smiling.

"Pardon me," I rejoined. "The man I'm thinking of can't be the son of any one now living. He is more than a hundred years old, I should say, though he hasn't grown a day older in ten years. He is tall as a tree, straight as a gun barrel, and he bears a scar upon his left cheek that he says he got in the civil war, though I think it was more likely the Revolution."

"Archibald Withington in New York!" cried Cartwright. "He has made another fortune. Then"—

"He has always been rich," said I. "He was never ruined. He never fled."

We were all upon our feet by this time and very much excited.

"Cartwright," said I, "your uncle—tell me about him. You say that he was strict, severe. By heavens, he took this means to reform you, with Withington's connivance, of course. Was there any provision in your father's will which could give the color of honesty to"—

"Much; much was left to Withington's discretion," said Cartwright in a trembling voice. "And yet the money is undoubtedly mine. Did anybody ever hear of such scandalous, infamous robbery as this? Marjory, my poor girl! And I have kept you slaving in this wilderness, without a rag of clothes, without a jewel"—

I CALLED AT THEIR HOUSE LAST YEAR.

"We have been happy here," she said through hysterical tears. "But for our son's sake I think we ought to make some attempt to have our rights."

"Attempt!" cried Cartwright. "Well, you just watch me. I'll stand those two old villains on their venerable heads. I'll"—

Oh, dear! (Mr. Cameron continued). To think what I did to them, those kind and happy folks who welcomed me to their hospitable table that evening! They went back to the city, and they found the truth to be as I conjectured. It had been done for Cartwright's good.

So they got all their money (he rambled on), and a great sum it was. Cartwright gave me $1,000 and this cabin. He and his wife took a house on Fifth avenue, and they went much into society—for the sake of the child, they said, though what difference it could make to a boy I don't know. If it had been a girl—but why discuss it?

I called at their house when I was in the city last year, and Mrs. Cartwright had me to lunch. Her husband was too ill to come downstairs—too ill to see me, in fact. I don't wonder. They live very high, and when a man has been used to open air and good, wholesome food the change goes hard with him. A woman, of course, can stand anything—except worse clothes than her neighbors. And Mrs. Cartwright dresses wonderfully well, but she's beginning to look old. Poor woman! She was so pretty, so rosy, so happy and healthy here that night in the light of the fire! And it's not so long ago.

Cartwright sent down word to me that if there was anything I wanted I need only ask for it. He would set no limit upon his gratitude to the man who brought him into his fortune. I didn't take anything. As a man of heart, as a man from outdoors, by jingo, I couldn't do it!

FINANCIERS SURPRISED

At Central Bank Going Into Hands of Receiver

ASSISTANCE WAS REFUSED

Because Assets Were Not Considered Sufficient Guarantee of the $2,700,000 Deposits—Never Recovered From Blow of Twenty Years Ago

Boston, Nov. 15.—"Closed by order of the Comptroller of the Currency. W. E. Neal, Receiver."

This little notice written in ink on white paper, and pasted on the glass of the door of the Central National bank, 141 Devonshire stret, was the first intimation that a large number of its depositors had that the bank had gone into the hands of the receiver. The sign first drew two or three men, and the sight of them standing on the short flight of steps leading to the entrance of the bank soon attracted many others until there was quite a good-sized crowd around the entrance to the bank discussing the whys and wherefores of the bank's closing.

The action by Comptroller Ridgeley was taken upon application of Bank Examiner Neal, and he was appointed the receiver, for the present at least. Mr. Neal's action in notifying the comptroller of the currency was not taken until after the clearing-house committee had taken action refusing to extend aid to the bank.

To financial men as a rule the closing of the bank came as a big surprise because of the general knowledge that only recently an arrangement had been trade whereby the Eliot National bank was to liquidate the deposits of the Central National bank and the stockholders were to appoint a committee to liquidate the assets, a meeting of the stockholders having been called for Dec. 10, for the purpose of approving plans for the liquidation. The reason that the Eliot bank was unwilling to assume the liquidation of the deposits of the Central bank is said to have been due to the fact that President Burrage and his board of directors of the Eliot bank refused to accept the assets of the Central bank as security for any guarantee of the $2,700,000 deposits. Therefore this method of liquidation had to be abandoned.

As a result of this refusal by the Eliot bank the stock of the Central bank began to decline and on Wednesday last it sold by auction at $85 a share—a decline of 15 points. This fact resulted in an abnormal demand upon the bank by the depositors. Seeing that the bank needed assistance, the Eliot bank came to its rescue in a measure, by purchasing a substantial amount of the good notes of the Central bank. This purchase was made so as to allow the Central bank to protect itself in the large withdrawal of deposits that resulted from the decline of the stock.

The matter next came to the attention of the clearing house, and after a consultation with Bank Examiner Neal and the comptroller, it was decided to have the bank placed in the hands of a receiver and have him liquidate the assets. This turn of affairs will surprise nearly every one, as the Central had good commercial patronage and was supposed to be financially strong.

The condition of the bank is understood to be due to three causes. First, there is a considerable amount of excess loans. Second, a large amount of paper, which can be realized upon slowly, though it may be good ultimately. Third, the bank has never been able to overcome the blow it received at the time of the failure of the Pacific National bank in 1882—20 years ago. It was quite heavily involved with the Pacific bank in the failure of the Lebanon Springs railroad—now a part of the Rutland railroad—and when the Pacific bank failed the stockholders of the Central bank were assessed 100 percent ($500,000) and no dividends were paid until 1885.

The bank was involved in the Lebanon Springs company failure to the extent of about $350,000, and ever since it has been charging off its profits to reduce this bad debt. It is believed that the bank has more recently been over-zealous in the loaning of its funds. The book value of its stock, according to the last report to the comptroller, Sept. 15, figures $145.92 per share.

Director Richardson of the bank says that depositors probably will be paid in full, and while the stockholders may be called upon for a quick assessment, in the end they will lose nothing.

Anarchists Bagged In Spain

Jerez, Spain, Nov. 15.—The gendarmerie has arrested a number of anarchists on the charge of having been concerned in the recent outbreak in the Spanish lines, near Gibraltar.

GOT LIFE SENTENCE

Wife Murderer Declared Himself Ready to Die at Once

Boston, Nov. 15.—Charles Himmerman, who killed his wife, Mary E. Himmerman, on Bulfinch street on Sept. 5 last, pleaded guilty to murder yesterday before Judge Bond. Himmerman was expected to plead not guilty, but, to the surprise of everybody, he replied "guilty," and was remanded at once.

Because of the unusual character of his plea, which really is a confession of a deliberate murder, premeditated, he was later taken to the office of the district attorney and closeted with Mr. Stevens and one of the assistants.

After a two hours' hearing, a sentence of life imprisonment with three days' solitary confinement was imposed.

Himmerman told a story which had in it many pathetic incidents. He said he met his wife in a North End hotel, was hounded by her and finally induced to marry her through her entreaties and protestations of love and how she had duped him and lived a dissolute life, while he, almost to the end, believed her faithful, but found her false. He said the reason he fired the fatal shots was because she told him that the child she had borne was not his. The child subsequently died in the hospital.

Himmerman said he was suffering from tuberculosis and did not expect to live many years. For this reason he said he pleaded guilty, being ready to die at once.

There was some doubt about the legality of a plea of first degree from any man without trial or counsel, but the supreme court of this state some years ago ruled that such a plea could be taken. The case in point is celebrated in criminal annals and stands as good law in this state.

Drunken Men Their Victims

Boston, Nov. 15.—By the arrest yesterday of a man giving the name of George Brown, 27 years old, the police and postoffice officials believe that they have captured one of several persons who have recently been passing mutilated coins and counterfeit currency, their victims being principally intoxicated or ignorant persons who could not detect the deception. Brown was arraigned and held in $1000 for trial. The police say Brown is a physical wreck from smoking opium and that he has been associating with crooks.

The Mascagni Tangle

Boston, Nov. 15.—The case of Pietro Mascagni, the Italian composer and musician, who has been twice arrested here for alleged breach of contract, will be reported to the Italian government by Ambassador Planches. After considering the information thus received the Italian government will decide whether or not it will take official action on the case. The ambassador informed Mascagni and Samuel Kronberg, his present manager, that this course was the only one he could take under the circumstances.

Seventy-One Seamen Lost

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 15.—Yesterday ended the Gloucester fishing season, and yesterday was reckoned the loss of life and treasures among the men of Gloucester who follow the sea on the fishing banks for their living. For the past year 71 seamen were lost, these leaving behind 22 widows and 48 children. Eleven vessels in all have been lost the past year, a value of $87,700, with an insurance of $52,843.

Soldiers In Serious Row

Hull, Mass., Nov. 15.—Private Bowland of the coast artillery, garrisoned at Fort Revere, this town, was seriously stabbed four times by Private Murray during a row last night. It was pay day at the fort, and some of the soldiers went to a soloon, where Murray and Bowland soon engaged in a quarrel. Murray is confined in the guard house awaiting the result of Bowland's injuries.

Sighted Abandoned Schooner

Boston, Nov. 15.—A message from Baltimore states that Captain Crowley of the schooner Henry W. Cramp reports that Nov. 11 fell in with the four-masted schooner R. F. Pettigrew of Portland, flying distress signals. He sent three men aboard, and found she was abandoned. Her deckload was gone, and the main hatch off. She was full of water.

To Turn Prison Into Hotel

Havana, Nov. 15.—The cabinet have considered favorably the project of removing the state prison here to Principe Castle. The present building occupies a central location in the city. William Van Horne has made an offer to the government of $350,000 for the building and land, which he intends to utilize for hotel purposes.

Stromboli Volcano More Active

Rome, Nov. 15.—The eruption of the volcano on Stromboli island is increasing in violence and is accompanied by shocks of earthquake and alarming detonations. Ashes thrown out by the volcano are falling on boats out at sea.

POLICE SQUABBLING

Over Credit For Securing Chain Which Belonged to Miss McPhee

Boston, Nov. 15.—Some controversy has sprung up between members of the Somerville and the state police as to the credit due to the members of each force in running down evidence in the McPhee case, chiefly relating to the watch chain which was recovered from a sister of Perry's sweetheart.

Last night Chief Parkhurst of the Somerville police gave out a signed statement saying that Lieutenant Carter of his force obtained from Perry an admission that he knew where Miss McPhee's chain was, and that on the basis of the confession the lieutenant and Inspector McBride visited the girl last Sunday, but she denied having the chain. Later Perry gave State Officer Proctor a signed order to the girl to give up the chain at the suggestion of Lieutenant Carter. The two officers went to the girl's house, but Proctor went inside and got the chain. Chief Parkhurst says that the chain was recovered through Lieutenant Carter's efforts.

It is understood that Perry has been doing considerable talking and has made some important admissions. To bear this out is the statement of the Somerville police that they expect to try him for the McPhee murder and not the Morton murder.

Dirty Work Charged to Anarchists

St. Johns, Nov. 15.—The disastrous fire which broke out in St. Pierre Nov. 1 is now believed to have been the work of the local colony of anarchists. The cathedral was set on fire by incendiaries and last Sunday night an attempt was made to blow up the powder magazine which contains the entire stock of explosives for the islets. Had this attempt proved successful the town would have been destroyed. Two men have been arrested on a charge of complicity in the affair.

Knights of Labor at Loggerheads

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The old war within the ranks of the Knights of Labor broke out afresh yesterday and there is little hope of bringing the two factions together. John W. Hayes of Washington heads what appears to be the main body of the order and Henry A. Hickes of Brooklyn is in control of the other. Just was following either leader has is problematical. Both sides have announced the election of officers.

Hinsey to Be Expelled

Chicago, Nov. 15.—After a hearing that lasted nearly an entire week, the grand tribunal of Illinois, Knights of Pythias, has voted unanimously to expel John A. Hinsey, who was retired from the head of the board of control of the endowment rank last year. In the 16 months since the Hinsey administration was retired the endowment rank has paid up $500,000 of overdue death claims.

Delegate Wilcox Retired

Honolulu, Nov. 8, via San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Complete election returns show that Prince Cupid, the Republican candidate, has beaten Delegate Wilcox for congress by 1626. The prince carried all the districts. The Republicans have 20 representatives out of 30 and 9 senators out of 15. This is a complete reversal of the last election results.

"The Strenuous Life" Well Received

Rome, Nov. 15.—President Roosevelt's work, "The Strenuous Life," has found its way into Italy through the French translation. All the press comments on the book are of the most favorable character and they eulogize the president as a man, a citizen, a soldier, and a ruler.

Human Being Has Glanders

Boston, Nov. 15.—George Sears, aged 23, of Rockland, is at the Massachusetts general hospital being treated for glanders. Seldom does a man contract a disease from an animal, and in nearly every instance death follows. Although his condition is critical, the hospital physicians report that he is doing fairly well.

Charged With Robbing Woman

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 15.—Julius Nichols and Charles Cargle of Hudson were arrested at that town last night on a charge of highway robbery in Pepperell, Mass., Nov. 1. The victim was a young woman, Blanche E. O'Neil. The men were held pending a hearing for requisition papers.

Police Implicated In Crime

Chicago, Nov. 15.—A bench warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Patrolman Patrick J. Mahoney of the police department. The charge against Mahoney is complicity in the Barry and Curren diamond robbery, when over $7000 worth of diamonds were stolen. Tom Barry and Jim Clark were found guilty of the theft and given a year's sentence. Their terms have just expired, and it is intimated that some interesting developments in police circles are likely to result in consequence of charges they have made.

There is to be no Hospital Sunday this year but everybody is invited to contribute generously to the collector in their ward, Hospital week Nov. 19,-26. As this is the only call for money during the year for this worthy object it is hoped the response will be hearty.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The Delineator for December is an edition de luxe, a special number in celebration of the Christmas time and in commemoration of the thirtieth anniversary of the magazine. From cover to cover it is a notable issue in every regard: in fashions, in literary contributions from famous writers, in the beauty of its illustrations, in household information, and in the mechanical perfection in which the whole is presented.

Popular Officer.

There have been few more popular officers in the militia than Major W. E. Morrison of Braintree, whose sudden death in New York shocked his friends. As a boy he started the company which was the last private one to receive authority to carry arms in this state, and constantly increased its efficiency until it was merged in the 5th regt. While strict in discipline, neither officer nor man who served under him fail to express admiration for his fairness. He was perhaps the only one-eyed man to be mustered into the U. S. service at the time of the Spanish war, an early accident having deprived him of one. He could and did see more with his remaining one than most officers with two.—Boston Advertiser.

The Lawson Off.

Having completed the improvements and necessary repairs says the Journal, the seven-masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson, Capt. Arthur Crowley, will leave this port for Baltimore today, in tow of the steamer Hector, which will take her out to the Capes of the Delaware. At Baltimore she will load her cargo of 8000 tons of coal for the return trip to this port.

The Lawson has a rival in the six masted schooner Eleanor A. Percy now at Baltimore. Her length is 323 feet; capacity 5,500 tons.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hunt Observe 25th Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hunt, a well known Atlantic couple, celebrated their twenty-fifth marriage anniversary last evening, at their home No. 59 Squantum street.

The house was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and potted plants, and the rooms were thronged with guests who came to pay their respects and extend congratulations.

Among those present were friends from Boston, Chelsea, Malden, Somerville, Taunton and a delegation from the Pittsburg Glass Co. where Mr. Hunt has long been employed as a police officer. Also Chief of Police Joseph W. Hayden, Inspector Daniel R. McKay and others of the Quincy police department.

The reception was from 8 to 10 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt being assisted in receiving by Mr. Herbert C. Hunt, Miss Gertrude Hunt, Mr. James Beaton and Miss Lena Dutton.

During the evening there were violin solos by Messrs. Gilmore and Hume; piano solos by Mrs. Mattie Dutton, Miss Lena Dutton and Miss Mattie Dorma; vocal solos by George Gilmore; mandolin solos, Miss Maud Alletzhaussa, and phonographic selections by Mr. Hunt.

Refreshments were served during the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt received many handsome and valuable gifts from their friends.

Library Improvements.

The French house has been moved off this week preparatory to grading the land and adding it to the library grounds. This great improvement was brought about by the generosity of Mr. Albert Crane of Stamford, Conn., who takes great interest in the library; the gift of his family and a memorial to his father.

By the addition of the French lot and a judicious thinning out of the trees, the library can be seen to much better advantage. It will also help to make the prospective government building more attractive by adding to the open space in the vicinity. Maple place should now be extended and open up a direct way from the centre to the library and government building. In days to come Maple place will probably be a busy thoroughfare with business blocks.

Some generous townspeople should follow Mr. Crane's example and buy enough of the Hospital property to continue the French lot through to Spear and Coddington streets, thus opening the library to three streets and ornamenting each as the building is well worth looking at from any point of view.

If there are others who feel like giving, it is suggested that the city is in sore need of a reading room in connection with the library and a building to the south of the present building would be much appreciated. A block of land similar to the library lot could doubtless be purchased and a building erected which could be connected by a subway with the library. The need of a reading and reference room is more urgent than many of the citizens realize.

Ward Three Leads.

A comparison of the number of names on the voting lists for the municipal election this year with that of a year ago shows that there are 294 more names this year. The following table tells the story:

	1902.	1901.	Increase.
Ward One, Prec. One,	431	410	21
Ward One, Prec. Two,	500	492	8

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Yale vs. Princeton today at Princeton.

In 1836 sleighing began in Quincy Nov. 23 and continued until the last of March.

It is time to put by your annual contribution for the Hospital ready for the collector.

George B. Dexheimer, recently with A. A. Linscott, has accepted a position in Haverhill.

The First United Presbyterian church will hold Thanksgiving services this year in its own church.

The report that the Raycroft property on Chubbuck street has been sold to a syndicate is denied by the owners, who know of no foundation for the report.

Several of the comrades of our local G. A. R. Post were forty years ago to day tramping through the red mud of Virginia. Help them now in making their Fair a success.

The Massachusetts Highway Commission will hold a public hearing for Norfolk county, for open discussion of questions relating to the public roads, in accordance with chapter 47 of the revised laws, in the court house, Dedham, Wednesday Nov. 19 at 10 A. M.

A very pretty baptismal service was observed at the Baptist church in Wollaston on Sunday, at the close of the morning service, when Miss Ruth Marceau and Miss Isabel Fenton were baptized by Rev. Mr. Webber, and Miss Gertrude Barbour by her father, Dr. Barbour.

The four deer that have been hung up in front of Boynton & Russell's this week, were brought from Maine by Postmaster Burns and party. Mr. Burns says the deer east of Bangor are plentiful, and he got all the law allows. He has some me photographs which he will shortly show to his friends.

There was a very large attendance last night at the fair in Faxon hall, under the auspices of the Swedish Lutheran church, and the ladies in charge of the several tables report having made many sales. The entertainment consisted of singing by the children of the Sunday School and music by the orchestra.

It is reported that an unknown man has been prowling about the house on Hancock street occupied by Mrs. J. N. Page and Dexter Pierce. Mrs. Page saw a man peeking in at her window one night and Mr. Pierce discovered next morning that someone had stolen a pair of pants from his cellar and had evidently made a change of clothing in the back yard.

Rev. G. H. Adalian will speak at Bethany church Sunday evening on "Turkey—yesterday, today and tomorrow." Recent Turkish outbreaks, the Macedonian trouble and the arming of the Turks are events which center attention again on the Eastern question. Mr. Adalian is an Armenian and thoroughly competent to discuss intelligently this great question. Mrs. Adalian dressed in Turkish costume will sing Armenian hymns.

Frost Carnival Attractions.

The Frost Carnival at Bethany Chapel Nov. 18-19-20, promises to be a great success, as it well deserves after the untiring efforts of the ladies connected with that church for the past few weeks.

There will be a special entertainment for the Childen Tuesday afternoon given by F. O. Harrell, who knows how to entertain little folks.

Entertainment Tuesday evening by F. O. Harrell in mirth, magic and music.

Wednesday evening the entertainment will be given by the Bethany Church Quartette assisted by Mrs. Davis reader.

Thursday evening a select musical program will be given the entertainment alone being worth price of tickets. Perhaps the most prominent feature of the carnival will be the restaurant. Lunch will be served in ladies parlor from 4 to 10 each day and supper will be served in basement from 5 to 8 o'clock. Be sure and take supper at the church during this carnival and enjoy eating the food served by the best cooks in Quincy.

There will be eight or ten fancy booths where will be displayed for sale between 700 and 800 useful and fancy articles at reasonable price. Everything fancy but the price. The King's Daughters have the Candy-booth where home-made candies will be for sale. The Brotherhood have a booth where home-made preserves and canned fruit will be for sale and the other booths which space forbids us to speak of, but which will offer attractive goods for Christmas presents.

HIGHLY ENDORSED.

Lady Who Has Known Geo. H. Wilson for Life

Predicts His Election As Mayor.

Has Word of Tribute Also for Henry H. Faxon.

The following signed editorial from the Hull Beacon is published by request:

The Democratic candidate for mayor of Quincy, whose picture we give, is a life-long friend of the editor of this paper. He is one of the most splendid young men anywhere to be found. Although Quincy is strong Republican, Mr. Wilson will be elected there this year.

He was born in Quincy, has been in the grocery and provision business all his life, inheriting the business from his father. Quincy people know every day of his life and there does not live the man that can put his finger upon a wrong deed; honest and honorable, why should he not be elected as he is well suited to the office.

The Unitarian church will be a great help. He and his have given liberally for years and years. Now is the time in return favors. I have no opinion of those people who do not support their friend and co-worker. Let the people of Quincy show to the world that they support the man that was born, bred and educated in their very midst. This young man polled the largest Democratic vote ever given in the city for representative last year, and is today the most popular Democrat in the city. and to elect him, he must have the support of 500 Republicans.

Mr. Wilson should draw from the Republicans, the dissatisfied element who are against the present administration. That there are many sore ones is well known, now let them show their hand by voting for a man, one who will divide the positions evenly. That seems to be what men are looking for, and if I were a man, I would be ashamed to be in a position that was not mine only for a time and then wander around, again seeking, seeking something and take crumbs that fall by the wayside.

Mr. Wilson has for a wife a very high-minded and well educated woman. Her father was one of the very first to build a grand house on the Back Bay, and there she lived until her parents died, when she came to Quincy to live as Mr. Wilson's business was there. Mrs. Wilson has three brothers, all living the lives of gentlemen, no need of business, and they are well educated and their associations are among Boston's best.

I resent the treatment accorded my fellow townsmen, Henry H. Faxon, by the present administration. I have lived twenty years or more of my life in Quincy, and I know whereof I speak. Mr. Faxon supports more liberally, everything, than any twenty men combined in that city. He has given freely of his bounty to all causes and creeds. His age and good deeds demand the respect of the people, and the administration that refuses his requests, which are justified, does very wrong, and the lookers-on that pay a portion of the bills, do not approve of the position taken.

Why he cannot do as he wishes with his own properey and in his own way is beyond my comprehension. His name will live long years, when such as condemn him are forgotten. Those in authority take occasion to make his last days miserable, may they have it returned to them in their old age with interest. In a city where there is no demand for property, where real estate cannot bring its assessed value, where there is not the slightest police protection, where your property is stolen, no attention is paid to your requests, really anyone who condescends to own property and pay taxes, is not of the slightest account. Papers on Sanitation, Surgery and Medicine.

"The Lengthening of Human Life" was the topic discussed by experts at the Unity club, Friday evening. This vital subject, together with "Our Vaudeville—Act. 1," was sufficient to attract a crowd that occupied every available seat in the Unitarian vestry.

President Parlin introduced Dr. E. R. Johnson as the director for the evening, and he in turn gave way to Dr. Thompson who read an interesting paper on "Sanitation."

It is only, the speaker said, in late years that medical men have turned their attention to sanitary conditions. After the civil war, in 1869, a board of health was first established, and with the help of the people, better conditions are found in every city in the United States.

A very graphic picture was drawn of the work done by our goverument in Cuba, at El Caney, at Santiago and at Havana, towards purifying those cities of yellow fever and cholera.

It was Col. Warren who first showed the people of New York that the streets could be kept clean, and he gave up his life in Havana in the cause of cleanliness. The disease germs are carried by insects, particularly the mosquito, which breed in swamps near infected localities.

Much good is being done in our cities by improving the water supply, condemning unsanitary dwellings, and allowing the children of the poorer classes an opportunity to play in clean parks.

Dr. Johnson showed in a clean talk on "Surgery" how lives today are saved which formerly would have perished. He gave a picture of the old style operating table on which the patient was bound with ropes. Today the use of anæsthethics has dispelled much of the dread of the operating room.

From 1842 when nixtrous oxide was first used, and 1846 when either was discovered, until the present day, surgery has made wonderful advances.

After a recess, the audience were permitted to enjoy "Il Jacobi," an operetta in three scenes. The artists were Mrs. H. Y. Follett, Mrs. C. T. Baker and Mr. Follett.

The performance was highly successful from the spectator's standpoint. The plot is too intricate to be criticised, but special mention might be made of the realistic denouement.

The next meeting is Nov. 28; subject, "Count Tolstoi."

Now that the germ theory of disease has been well developed, the use of antiseptic solutions and more recently aseptic treatment have enabled surgeons to attempt operations hitherto thought impossible.

Dr. Johnson closed with a plea for generous gifts by the people to the Quincy Hospital, which is doing a grand work in lengthening human life.

"Medicine" was treated by Dr. Curtis in an able manner. Tracing the growth of medicine from the early days when Hippocrates lived down the present time, he showed how medicine has grown more efficacious in preventing disease. He spoke of vaccination and the use of anti-toxin in keeping down disease.

The Central National bank of Boston closed its doors yesterday and is in the ands of a receiver.

W. R. C. Burlesque at Braintree.

A burlesque on Woman's Relief Corps for the benefit of No. 94 W. R. C. was held in the Town hall, Wednesday evening, a fair-sized audience being present.

The first part of the evening was devoted to a mock initiation, the following ladies in the cast: Miss Colbert, president; Mrs. Chas. F. Mellen, senior vice-president; Mrs. Thomas Downey, junior vice-president; Mrs. Bangs, secretary; Mrs. Beal, treasurer; Mrs. Berry of Boston, chaplain; Mrs. Turpel conductor; Mrs. Martina L. Hamblett of Medford, colored guard; Mrs. Moses Dyer, color bearer No. 1; Mrs. C. Allen, color bearer No. 2; Mrs. Mary Brett, color bearer No. 3; Mrs. Mabel Goodnow, color bearer No. 4; Mrs. Howe, national president, and Mrs. Tenny, who represented Helen Gould, the candidate for initiation.

As the martial strains from popular and well-remembered airs belonging to the time of the rebellion were brought from the piano by the practiced hands of Master Georgie Abell, who was masked, the girls of '61 came marching in from the rear of the hall. It was well these girls carried a placard announcing their age. It was easy to imagine they belonged to pre-historic times so quaintly were they attired in the costumes of all ages.

During the process of initiation the national president was presented with a bouquet by Master Abel. This bouquet consisted of a single cauliflower with its own leaves the base arrayed with streamers representing the national colors. The apt acknowledgement by the national president was "Sisters of the 94th Corpse I express more than I feel. The freshness and greenness of this offering will ever remind me of you."

Later, when the remains of Post 1000, which was in reality a post, were brought tenderly forward by the guard and conductor, the president, Miss Colbert, recited a parody on Hood's poem "Take her up tenderly etc.," the last verse of which was "Old and so spare."

Helen Gould, who appeared very rosy and gay, captured the audience. This part of the entertainment closed with the Virginia reel with music by Tirrell's orchestra.

The large quaker shaker, or poke bonnet worn by Mrs. Howe was resurrected from the old treasures of a prominent Randolph family; while that worn by Miss Colbert was a calash formerly owned by the late Mrs. Storrs wife of Dr. Storrs. All the members of the cast wore masks. The color-bearers were dressed in red, white and blue and wore Sons of Veterans' caps.

The second part of the entertainment was exceptionally fine. The several selections by Tirrell's orchestra were finely rendered and were heartily appreciated. Recitations by Miss Guietta Gardner of Medford showed careful training. The tambourine dance by little Miss Powers of West Quincy was all that could be desired. The hoop dance and songs by Miss Kitty Follins of East Milton brought forth encores. This young lady has a rich powerful voice, and it was a pleasure to listen to her singing.

The work by our own young town's people is worthy of especial mention. A richer, more melodious and more thrilling voice than Miss Lottie Packard's in her "Dream of Paradise," will be hard to find. Miss Packard was also her own accompanist.

Miss Marguerite Packard pleased the audience with her fine rendering of "A reverie in church." It had but one fault. It was not long enough.

Master Louis and Miss Ethel Monaghan performed their part late in the evening. Their mandolin and guitar duet was well done. Their quiet confidence and perfect time give promise of rare work in the future.

The W. R. C. are to be congratulated in securing such excellent talent for the second part of their evening's entertainment.

WRIGHTS WENT WRONG

In Their Capacity of Office Holders In Hawaii

TREASURER $17,950 SHORT

Has Not Been Heard From Since He Stowed Away on a Steamer—Chief Clerk of Public Works Department Charged With Embezzlement

Washington, Nov. 15.—Official reports on defalcations by two prominent officials of the Hawaiian government were received by the secretary of the interior yesterday from Governor Dole. William H. Wright, the treasurer of the territory, admitted he was $17,950 short, and B. H. Wright, chief clerk of the department of public works of Hawaii, is charged with embezzlement of $8272. The former escaped on the steamer Alameda, which sailed from Honolulu Sept 24 for San Francisco, and he has not been found, but the latter was arrested and held for trial, this month.

Governor Dole says that Secretary Cooper, who is now acting treasurer, heard through confidential sources that the treasurer was short in his accounts, and when the latter was confronted with the statement he denied it, but subsequently admitted a shortage of about $18,000, giving assurances at the same time that he would make it good. Mr. Cooper, on taking charge of the treasury, made an investigation at which the treasurer failed to make good a promise to appear. The Alameda was searched, but Wright had stowed himself away successfully.

The cash in the general treasury was found to be correct, but the governor reports that the Chinese fund under special deposit in the vaults was $17,950 short. This fund originated in deposits made by Chinese entering Hawaii to secure their passage money on leaving the country, the deposits being first made in the postal savings banks.

When the federal treasury paid the $4,000,000 on account of the indebtedness of the territory, the accounts were paid and the money placed in the First National bank of Honolulu as a government depository and part was placed in the treasury as a special deposit. On Sept. 8 last, according to Governor Dole, Treasurer Wright, who was then also acting superintendent of public works, reported to Deputy Auditor Meyers that B. H. Wright had been suspended for misconduct, and on Sept. 9 the treasurer had had the safe opened in the presence of the attorney general, the deputy auditors and B. H. Wright and his counsel. Wright was permitted to take out an envelope he claimed to be private property. His accounts were found $5252 short and there was no entry on the books of a check cashed a short time before and endorsed by Wright for $3290 and he was charged with this amount of embezzlement. Later another charge was made of the embezzlement of $4982.

Millionaire Sent to Prison

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 15.—Colonel Edward Butler, millionaire and politician of St. Louis, on trial, charged with attempting to bribe Dr. Chapman of the St. Louis board of health, in order to influence his vote on the endorsement of a garbage contract with the city, has been found guilty by the jury, which fixed the punishment at three years in the penitentiary. The verdict was reached on the first ballot.

Czarewitch In Feeble Health

Paris, Nov. 15.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that Grand Duke Michael, the czarewitch, is in a very weak condition. He has had to give up the course of physical exercise which he had been pursuing under the guidance of an American athlete. Physicians pronounce the grand duke's condition to be helpless unless the climate of the Crimea should work a miracle.

Hero's Remains Reinterred

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 15.—With military and civic honors the remains of General Nathaniel Greene were reinterred yesterday at the base of the monument erected to his memory in Johnson square. At the same time and in the same vault were laid away the bones of George W. Greene, the son of the distinguished revolutionary general.

Schooner In Bad Shape

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 15.—Schooner Scotia of Belfast, Me., from Frankfort, Me., to Havana with a cargo of paving stone, put in at Southport last night in distress. Her sails are carried away, rigging damaged, boat smashed and davits bent, quarter rail carried away and foregaff broken.

OUR SOLDIERS HUMANE

Superior to Any Other Nation In That Respect

WAR A DANGEROUS GAME

General Young Says Rules of Conduct Should Be Left to Those Experienced In It—Strong Defense of Those Engaged In Fighting In Philippines

Washington, Nov. 14.—A banquet was given at the Arlington Hotel last night in honor of the representatives of foreign commercial bodies who came to America to attend the dedication of the New York Chamber of Commerce building. In addition to the foreigners there were present Secretary Shaw and Postmaster General Payne, Admiral Dewey, Generals Corbin, Young and Wood, members of the diplomatic corps and local business men.

General Young, in speaking on "Our Soldiers in the Philippines," said that much comment on the army in the Philippines had passed beyond the limits of criticism and descended to absolute villification. He said that the statements came from unreliable persons and from comparatively few individuals. The complaints did not come from the Filipino people or from the foreign press, but originated with our own people and were against our own soldiers. He continued:

"No one was more anxious to have the soldiers behave properly than were our generals in the field. These defamers of our patriotic soldiers were never numerous, but for a time were very noisy and some of our good people believed there was some truth in their statements. All of the army's defamers were densely ignorant of what constitutes the laws of war, the nature of the warfare waged by the Filipino and the conditions that prevailed in any war, civilized or otherwise.

"Taking into consideration the circumstance surrounding them, our soldiers in the Philippines behaved better than any other nation expected or than we had any reasonable hope to expect. War is a game, and a very dangerous one, and the rules of conduct should be left to those who are experienced in the game.

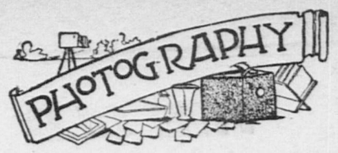

"If every accusation that was brought against these soldiers were true, these stay-at-homes, these befoulers of their own nest, these seekers after notoriety, these active disturbers of the peace of mind of the brave patriotic wives and mothers should have the decency to present their wild fancies to the proper authorities instead of trying to convince the whole world that our own brothers and kindred were barbarians. I say that the American army is the most humane army that ever waged war and I could bear out my assertions by the Filipinos and Chinese and even the Spanish prisoners.

"To carry on war," said General Young, "disguise it as we may, is cruel; it is to kill and burn, burn and kill, and again kill and burn.

"If it had not been for the intense desire of the American people to carry on an easy, persuasive war with the Filipinos and the good faith in which the American officers acted to carry out that desire, the Filipino war would have ended in much less time. You feel confident that our little Japanese friends would have stopped the pattering of the barefoot little brown brothers through the jungles in a very short time, and that the aggressive army of our German friends would not have viewed with equanimity the burying alive of their friends, as did our soldiers in obedience to the home sentiment. I am satisfied that the coming census of the Philippine islands will have on the list a great many more people and houses than there would be if the German army had had control the past four years.

"I am not an advocate of war, either for conquest or revenge, nor as a means of making either good Indians or Filipinos, but when war has been decided on by our nation I agree with the German emperor's sentiments and believe that the American army should leave such an impression that future generations would know we had been there."

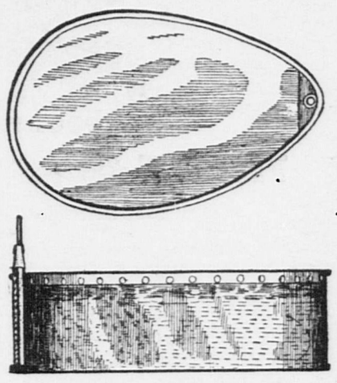

General Young said that the Filipino generals did not know anything about the laws of war, but that the American soldiers in good faith tried to carry out such laws as recognized by civilized nations with a half-civilized foe. There were isolated cases where officers exceeded their authority and where laws of war were violated, but violations of the law were committed all over the United States every day. He referred to "the barbarity" inflicted upon the soldiers by the Filipinos and said he thought it was a point for wonder that there were so few violations of war by the volunteer troops. He defended the soldiers for making use of churches for hospitals and quarters and said that in many towns churches afforded the only shelter for footsore and weary troops. He claimed that the burning of houses and supplies was one of the oldest weapons and was used in all wars, civilized or uncivilized. He said that up to the time of the massacre of the American soldiers in Samar he believed that the Filipinos had burned about 10 times as much as the Americans. He declared there had been few cases of looting.

H. B. Brockett, Jr., of Pittsburg writes as follows in Progressive American concerning a photographic device invented by him:

My invention relates to an improvement in tanks or trays for washing photographic and other prints. The device in use is usually set in an ordinary sink, the supply pipe being connected to the water supply by a hose and the water flowing away through the overflow openings into the ordinary waste discharge passage of the sink.

The operation of the device is as follows: The photographic or other prints being placed in the water in tank, the water is turned on at the supply pipe and, flowing through the narrow slit, creates a current in the tank, which keeps the water and the prints therein continually in circulation until the same are thoroughly washed. The function of the water discharge orifice in the pipe is to create a current to carry away any prints that may tend to collect in the neighborhood of the pipe, and that of the inclined pipe is to give a downward direction to the water coming therefrom, so as to drive the prints away from the upper surface of the water and down into the current flowing through the slit.

With this improved device the prints may be carelessly thrown into the tank, and by reason of the different currents created by the different discharge orifices from the pipe they are kept separated and continually in motion under the water and thoroughly washed.

PLOWING AS A LUXURY.

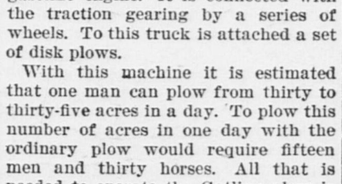

Dr. Gatling's Invention Will Please Agriculturists.

From plowing to automobiling seems a far cry, yet those two extremes are combined in the latest invention of Dr. R. J. Gatling, originator of the famous rapid firing gun which bears his name. At the age of seventy Dr. Gatling has conceived the idea of replacing farm horses with gasoline and changing the adornment of farmers' hands from callouses to chauffeurs' gloves. In other words, says a writer in the St. Louis Republic, plowing is to be revolutionized, as was modern warfare.

It has remained for Dr. Gatling to invent a motor plow, driven by a gasoline engine of sufficient power to propel the plows at any desired depth between one and twelve inches. The truck is built similar to those trucks used with traction engines, except that the steam boiler is replaced by a strong platform, on which is placed the gasoline engine. It is connected with the traction gearing by a series of wheels. To this truck is attached a set of disk plows.

With this machine it is estimated that one man can plow from thirty to thirty-five acres in a day. To plow this number of acres in one day with the ordinary plow would require fifteen men and thirty horses. All that is needed to operate the Gatling plow is for the farmer to sit upon the cushioned seat of the truck and work the controller, which is not unlike those attached to automobiles. If he happens to be indisposed, his wife can take his place.

It is generally estimated that the cost of plowing under ordinary conditions is $1.50 per acre, and then the further preparation of the ground by harrowing and rolling it costs another 50 cents per acre. By the process of plowing with the Gatling machine the ground becomes thoroughly pulverized, and the rolling is not required. Dr. Gatling is having his plow made in St. Louis and is going to form a St. Louis company to carry on its manufacture and distribution when it is ready for the market. As yet his plans in this latter respect have not assumed definite shape. The sample plow is now nearing completion and will soon be ready for inspection.

The planet Mars has a diameter of about 4,000 miles, or half that of the earth, and seven globes as large as Mars would have to be rolled into one to equal our earth in bulk, says a writer in the Chicago News. This difference in bulk causes a corresponding difference in the force of attraction, bringing about a great reduction in the weight of bodies on the surface of Mars.

A mass of iron turning the scale here at 200 pounds would fail to turn the scale there at 100 pounds. And not only solid bodies, but water must also be lighter. And if there are oceans waves must be flung to greater heights with less wind. Again, the atmosphere must be far thinner in make than ours, due to lessened attraction.

MITCHELL'S TESTIMONY

Sets the Ball Rolling In Coal Strike Investigation

HEAVY FIRE OF QUESTIONS

From Counsel of One of Leading Mining Companies—Union and Non-Union Men the Recipients of $1,500,000 From Relief Fund

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 15.—The anthracite coal strike commission appointed by President Roosevelt to arbitrate the differences existing between the mine workers of the hard coal fields of Pennsylvania and their employes yesterday began the hearing of testimony by which it will determine whether or not the workmen are receiving fair and just wages for their labor and whether their conditions can be improved.

The star witness for the miners—President John Mitchell—took the stand in the forenoon and when the commission adjourned at 4 o'clock in the afternoon he was still under the fire of cross-examination by David W. Willcox, general counsel of the Delaware and Hudson company. It was a trying day for the miners' leader, but he seemed to stand the test well. The heaviest fire of cross-questions was aimed at him late in the afternoon session and when the hour of adjournment was reached Mr. Willcox was still propounding questions and testing Mr. Mitchell's memory.

The commission's sessions are being held in the room of the Pennsylvania superior court, which is now sitting in Philadelphia. Ranged around three tables in front of the seven commissioners who occupied the judge's bench, were no less than 30 lawyers, 24 of whom were looking after the interests of the mine owners.

The court room at both sessions was packed almost to suffocation and scores were unable to gain admittance. Among the spectators were quite a large number of general superintendents, all of whom took a deep interest in the proceedings and some of them frequently made notes.

Grouped about Mr. Mitchell were District Presidents Nicholls, Duffy and Fahy, the three district secretaries, the three national board members, the members of the three district executive boards of the anthracite field. Scattered through the spectators were many practical miners, who will be called upon to take the stand in behalf of the miners' claims.

The attitude of the commissioners was closely followed by everyone in the court room. They appeared to be greatly interested in the cross-examination of Mr. Mitchell, but at times seemed to grow restless under the ceaseless fire of questions aimed at the mine workers' leader. Judge Gray, as chairman of the commission, being versed in court proceedings and in the law, was the only spokesman for the commission. At the close of the session he asked Mr. Mitchell whether his organization approved the act of withdrawing from or denying the necessaries of life to those who had offended the organization. Mr. Mitchell replied:

"I should say, emphatically, no."

During the day Mr. Willcox asked Mr. Mitchell many questions as to the policies of the union, the method of calling strikes, the ability of the union to maintain discipline and prevent the members of the union from violating the law and also as to the liability of the union in breaking contracts. It was apparent to many of those present that Mr. Willcox's object was to attempt to prove by Mr. Mitchell's own testimony that the contention of the companies that the Miners' union was an irresponsible organization and that trade agreements, therefore, could not be safely entered into, was well founded.

During the hearing the statement was brought out for the first time since the late strike was inaugurated that the union had disbursed $1,500,000 among the union and non-union men who were on strike.

Mr. Mitchell, before taking the witness stand, presented the miners' side of the case in a 6000-word statement. It took him 40 minutes to read his address and he was listened to by the commissioners and the operators with the closest attention.

It is not unlikely that Mr. Mitchell will be on the stand all day today and probably longer. It is the intention of the miners to next call on Rev. Peter Roberts of Mahanoy City, who has an intimate knowledge of anthracite mining and is the author of a book on the subject. During the hearing all the attorneys took copious notes and it looks as if the investigation will be long drawn out unless some arrangement for curtailing the cross-examination of witnesses is agreed upon.

Busy With Committee Reports

New Orleans, Nov. 15.—Another day was devoted by the American Federation of Labor to work preparatory for the actual duties of the convention. Reports of committees and the introduction of resolutions occupied all the sessions. No action was taken on any of the resolutions.

Albany, Nov. 15.—As the result of an appeal for funds to construct a church for the use of a congregation in Manila, $3300 was raised by voluntary subscription in 13 minutes at the Methodist missionary conference last night.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Heavy Consumption and Bright Prospects For Continued Activity

New York, Nov. 15.— R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Lower prices for railway stocks than at any time since last March do not necessarily indicate loss of traffic nor a setback in business. On the contrary there are numerous evidences that manufacturing and transporting interests have not sufficient facilities to meet demands. Distribution of merchandise is fully maintained, preparations being made for a heavy holiday trade, and frequent complaints of tardy deliveries testify to the heavy consumption. Prospects for continued activity are bright because of unprecedented harvests, prosperity in the agricultural sections assuring a good demand for other products. Threatened labor controversies have been averted, in some cases wages being advanced, while a number of increases were voluntarily given. Railway earnings continue to advance. Full returns for October show a gain of 50 percent over earnings in the same month four years ago.

Eastern manufacturers of footwear are offering no inducements to buyers, and, while no actual advances in prices have occurred, the market is decidedly strong. Western shops are also busy.

Limited supplies in first hands and with jobbers have sustained cotton goods, despite the sharp decline in the raw material. The inclination to delay purchases has become more pronounced and there is general expectation of early concessions.

Considerable irregularity occurred in quotations of the leading staples. Winter wheat conditions are unusually favorable and movement of the current crop maintains high figures.

Sagasta Completes a Cabinet

Madrid, Nov. 15.—Senor Sagasta convened a meeting of all the members of the late cabinet and the liberal leaders yesterday. Those present at the assembly numbered 22 and a cabinet was formed as follows: Duke of Almodovar, foreign minister; Puigserver, minister of justice; Equilior, minister of finance; Moret, minister of the interior; Weyler, war minister; Duke of Veragua, minister of marine; Romanones, minister of public instruction; Salvador, minister of public works. It is expected that the king will approve the ministry today.

Says Lawyer Absconded

Havana, Nov. 15.—Michael J. Dady of Brooklyn has filed charges before the court here against his attorney, Joseph de Wycoff, who, he alleges, has absconded with a sum of $10,000 which Dady forwarded here to be used in securing an option for the construction of the water works at Cienfuegos. Dady has a letter from the latter in which de Wycoff intimates that he has taken the money in payment for his legal services and he threatens to attach Dady's property here if he is prosecuted.

Submarine Boats Tested

Greenport, L. I., Nov. 15.—The tests of the Holland boats were continued yesterday. The Moccasin made eight runs to standardize her screws and her performance gave promise of excellent results in the later trials. This was followed by the torpedo test of the Adder. She ran a mile submerged, turning while under water and on the return trip fired her missile. She rose but twice and was exposed but 35 and 40 seconds at each rise. The trials will be continued today.

Said He Was a Murderer

New York, Nov. 15.—The real name of the man who recently surrendered himself to the police of Brooklyn as the murderer of Albert C. Latimer proves to be Ralph E. Doughty. The prisoner made this confession yesterday and declared that he was the son of wealthy parents in Cape May. He says that he was recently employed in Derby, Conn., and is unable to explain why he accused himself as the Latimer murderer.

New Shamrock Plans

Glasgow, Nov. 15.—William Fife has decided that the deck of the Shamrock III will be constructed of aluminum, while adhering to mild steel for all the essential parts of the hull where the strain is severe. Experiments are being made with a patent woven wood fibre for covering the aluminum of the deck, as it promises lightness and durability and to give the crew a secure foothold.

Canadian Paper's Accusation

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 15.—The Province says: In the quietest possible manner and with every precaution to secrecy, United States surveyors have encroached upon Canadian territory to the northeast of Cape Fox and appropriated to itself thousands of square miles of land lying within the boundaries of British Columbia to the westward of Portland canal.

President Didn't Get Bear

Smedes, Miss., Nov. 15.—A lean black bear, which weighs 235 pounds, is hanging up at the president's camp on the Little Sunflower, but the first trophy of the hunt did not fall to the president's winchester, it being brought down by Holt Collier, an old guide and bear hunter.

AFRICA'S MAD MOLLAH

Influence Wielded by England's Foe In Somaliland.

CHIEF OF FANATIC MOSLEM HORDES

How He Utilized a Warship's Searchlights to Give His Followers Some Evidence of His So Called Miraculous Power—Difficulties of Campaigning Against the Somalis.

The Mad Mollah, against whom another punitive expedition of British troops is about to be started in Somaliland, in northeast Africa, has long been an object of suspicion by the war office, says the London correspondent of the New York World. He and his followers have opposed the development of the interior of Somaliland and have constantly stirred up strife by raiding and looting tribes which were under British protection. Early last spring he raided tribes within eighteen miles of Burao, and this despite the presence of a British garrison, which was powerless to effect anything against the mollah's rapidly moving force.

General Manning arrived at Aden a few days ago and at once began to rush trained troops to Somaliland. It is believed that Mad Mollah has a force of from 12,000 to 15,000 men, many of whom are well armed and mounted. The British cannot promptly put anything like as large a force as that in the field, but expect to send there a brigade (3,000 or 4,000 men) of troops from India.

The mollah has been preaching the jehad or holy war and has thus gained a considerable following of Moslems crazed with religious fervor. By his preaching he has gained such an influence over the tribesmen that he was proclaimed mahdi by the Mussulmans and immediately started a Mohammedan uprising.

Numerous "mad" mollahs have been heard from in the last decade, the most prominent one hitherto being a warrior in Afghanistan. A mollah is a Mohammedan priest or prophet, and a particularly fanatical one easily acquires the title of "mad" mollah. The Mad Mollah operating in Somaliland is known to his followers as Haji Muhammad Abdullah and belongs to the Habr Sueliman Ogaden tribe. He married into the Dolbahanta Ali Gheri, among whom he now lives at Kob Fardod, a village inhabited by mollahs, a day's march east of Kerritt and about 170 miles from Berbera, Somaliland. He is a man in the prime of life, dark colored, tall and thin, and has a small goat's beard. He has made several pilgrimages to Mecca, and while there attached himself to the sect of Muhammad Salih, whose deputy he claims to be in Somaliland.

This mollah is of humble origin, but gifted with considerable intelligence and cunning. He claims to have been commanded to preach the Jehad through a divine inspiration. During the time he was inciting his followers to rebellion against the British authority they demanded of him some evidence of his miraculous power. Having the night before seen a warship flashing its searchlights, he summoned his followers to the beach at night, and, fortunately for him, the warship flashed its searchlights over the shore, illuminating the country for a great distance. The mollah at once proclaimed it as testimony sent direct by Mohammed from Mecca.

This so impressed the tribesmen that they will follow the mollah blindly anywhere. He has distributed among his followers pink colored rice, which he has assured them so long as they fight in the holy war will render their persons and horses invulnerable against the bullets of the infidels. He is a past master in intrigue, and by promises and gifts and by arranging marriages between his followers and other tribes he has gained a considerable following.

The difficulties which will confront any large force organized by General Manning will be by no means inconsiderable. There is no definite objective. The mollah and his followers have no fixed place of abode, but usually live in the villages of tribes they have raided. Much of the mollah's wealth consists of herds of camels and flocks of sheep and goats, and it is the idea of striking and destroying these that the expedition will have in mind. Army officers believe the mollah and his followers will always be found near the grazing grounds of these herds.

Before any effective work can be done the force must cross a strip of waterless desert known as the Haud, 200 miles in breadth. Except at the coast, no food supplies other than meat can be obtained. The only method of transportation for supplies, ammunition, military stores, etc., is by camel, involving a climb from the coast to a vast inland plateau some 6,000 feet above the sea level.

The Somali is endowed with wonderful powers of endurance, resembling in some respects a camel. He can make forced marches of thirty or forty miles a day, carrying his pack, without fear of breaking down, and this after being deprived two days of water. The Somali pony resembles his master in this respect. He can go forty or fifty miles a day, requires only to be grazed at night on what he can pick up and can do without water for three or four days. The Somali natives on the march of seventy miles start with but four pounds of dates per man and a quart of water. That is their ration. On a longer march they take two pounds of dates and a pint of water for each day.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 16—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—For me.—Isa. liii, 6; Luke xxii, 19, 20; Rom. v, 6-8; I John iii, 16.

The doctrine of the atonement, or that Christ died "for me," is the most precious doctrine of the word of God. The expression "for me" as used in the New Testament in connection with this doctrine means "in my stead." Christ did not die simply for an object lesson on sacrifice or to set forth God's hatred of sin, but He died for us—died instead of us. Had He not died we in ourselves would have been compelled to bear the penalty of our sins. But since He died as our substitute we are free from the penalty of sin if we accept His sacrifice for us. Christ's atonement for our sins is accepted of God, and we escape eternal death and receive eternal life.

No one can believe the Bible and doubt or deny the atonement. It is purely a doctrine of revelation. Nature and even history give us some suggestions that look toward vicarious suffering, but they fall far short of revealing God's great sacrifice of Himself, and this fact forms the crowning revelation of God's word. And here this doctrine is writ large. To reject the atonement is to reject the Bible or at least any reasonable and sensible interpretation of it. The testimony of sacred writers upon this subject is very complete, and it is unanimously upon one side. And when a doctrine is purely a matter of revelation we must accept the conclusions of the holy men who spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.

1. The testimony of Isaiah. Isa. liii teaches clearly the vicarious character of Christ's death. The seer of God speaks of no human deliverer, for none ever appeared in Israel. Nor does he personify Israel herself, for she has not died for others. He speaks of the promised Messiah, and he says, "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; * * * the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Could language be plainer? Can any one deny that they refer to a substitution? And since they can be applied to Christ alone must His death not have been vicarious?

2. The testimony of Christ. In connection with the institution of the Lord's supper, which was to commemorate His death, Jesus said, "This cup is the New Testament in My blood, which is shed for you." What can "shed for you" mean but substitution? Would God have sacrificed Christ simply to have taught mankind a lesson? Never. Christ's death was necessary to save mankind or He never would have died.

3. The testimony of Paul. God commended His love toward us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us (Rom. v, 8).

4. The testimony of Peter. "Who His own self bare our sins in His own body on the tree." Thus Peter speaks of the character of Christ's death. Our sins were placed upon Him, and he bare them. "The Lord laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Could this mean anything else than substitution?

5. The testimony of John. "Hereby we perceive the love of God because He laid down His life for us." John's opinion is seen to be in accord with other inspired writers upon this subject. God in Christ laid down His life for us—for me.

Since Christ died for us we should live for Him. He has substituted His life for ours, and we should also substitute His life for us. "It is no longer I that live; Christ liveth in me."

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. liii, 1-12; Matt. xxvi, 26-28; John i, 29; Gal. ii, 20; iii, 13, 14; Eph. ii, 4-7; II Peter ii, 21-25.

Christian Endeavor In Wartimes.

There were twelve "floating Endeavorers" (the name given to sailors who belong to the society) on the Olympia the morning Admiral Dewey sailed into Manila harbor. A crew made up entirely of Christian Endeavor men was put in charge of one of the captured Spanish gunboats. There was a floating society of Christian Endeavor on board the Oregon when she made that magnificent run around Cape Horn. A Christian Endeavorer was among those killed at Cardenas, Cuba, where the first American blood was spilled.

Pennsylvania's Fame.

This epigram, which has been going the rounds, is from the lips of Rev. Dr. George B. Stewart, president of Auburn Theological seminary, a former president of the Pennsylvania State Christian Endeavor union: "Pennsylvania is famous for pig iron and Christian Endeavor."

President McKinley's Interest.

Every year that Mr. McKinley was in the White House he sent a telegram of greeting to the international Christian Endeavor convention, and as governor of Ohio he delivered the address of welcome at the Cleveland convention.

Pledged Endeavor.

We are pledged to do but what is right
And bound to do it with our might.
Our pledges we must seek to fill
According to the Master's will.
The world, the flesh, we follow never;
To follow Christ is our endeavor.

MILITARY FUNERAL.

A flat bouquet of chrysanthemums from Mrs. Ibrahim Morrison and Mrs. R. E. Morrison.

A bunch of blue violets and violet leaves from Dr. and Mrs. Henry L. Dearing.

A bouquet of chrysanthemums and ferns from Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hobart.

A wreath of roses, pinks and ferns from Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Graves of Boston.

A bank of chrysanthemums and roses from Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Boyce of Boston.

A spray of white carnations from Mr. and Mrs. James D. Ellsworth.

A spray of carnations from Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Ellsworth.

While Major Morrison was an enthusiastic military man and one honored, respected and beloved by his officers and men, he was also a business man of rare promise. His early business training was with his father and uncles of the Morrison Mills.

When these mills closed, Major Morrison organized with Mr. Williard Dow of Braintree the "Dow Portable Electric Co." Major Morrison was elected president and had charge of the Boston office of the company together with a general oversight of the offices at New York, Philadelphia and Chicago Major Morrison had been connected with this corporation since its organization in the fall of 1898. At the time of his death he was on a business trip for the concern.

Major Morrison was a member of Rural lodge of Masons of Quincy, Monatiquot lodge, Knights of Pythias, Old Guard of Mass., and a member of the naval and military order of the Spanish-American war. He was a member of All Souls' Church, Braintree, and of the Cochato Club of Braintree.

Major Morrison was married to Edith A. Follingsbee, June 14. 1887, who survives him. He is also survived by three sons, Ibrahim, Harold and Walter. Also by his father Mr. Alva S. Morrison of Adams street, by his sister Mrs. Aubrey Hilliard of Middle street, by his sister Miss Alice Morrison a teacher at Attleboro and by a third sister Mrs. A. E. Kingsbury of Tewksbury, Mass.

In the death of this man a severe loss is sustained. In his home, and as brother and son the loss is keenest and can never be made good. His office in the State Militia will never be filled by a worthier and more honorable man.

To Mr. Dow of the "Dow Portable Electric Co." the loss is very great for Mr. Morrison was a wise and cautious partner and a sympathetic and devoted friend.

The community of his friends mourns him for he was sincere, conscientious and straightforward in all his dealings. He was unselfish in his support of others—loyal to his work—his friends and his home.

USE FOR EVERYTHING

Nothing Yet Ever Created Without a Purpose.

Theory Difficult to be Believed in Some Instance.

Many Think Nature Might Have Been Improved.

We all wonder why certain things were ever made, why certain animals or insects were allowed to live. And yet there is no doubt but that everything was intended for some purpose, and as civilization advances, such purposes are discovered.

Cod liver oil is something that everybody knows to have been a wise provision of Providence, to be used as a medicine in all wasting diseases. Why Nature should have appended to this valuable remedy its horrible odor and most terrible taste is also something that many have wondered at. But that was Nature's way. She gave to man the crude material, and has left it to his intelligence to overcome many of its objectionable features.

This is exactly what has happened in regard to cod liver oil. Everybody knows its value. Everybody knows how necessary it is for physicians to prescribe it in many instances. Everybody also knows that it is one of the most terrible medicines to take that can be imagined. There is no longer need of taking it; that is, in the form in which we have been accustomed to know it.

Mr. Edward J. Murphy, of this city, has associated himself with a Boston house which is producing a preparation known as Vinol—Wine of Cod Liver Oil. This is not a patent medicine. Any one may see, on the label of each bottle, or Mr. Murphy will tell any one who calls on him, exactly what Vinol contains. As he explained yesterday: "We have simply found out how to extract the active medicinal principlas from cod's liver that has made cod liver oil valuable. This we may obtain in the form of a concentrated extract. The grease, with all its vile odor, is left behind. That, too, has its purposes. It is valuable for dressing leather, but as for its being in any way good for man as a medicine, it is absolutely worthless.

"Now we take the medicine that we have obtained, or the concentrated medicinal properties of the cod's liver, and place just the right quantity of this extract in a delicious, mild table wine, and there you have the whole story. Anybody can learn in a minute that Vinol is tasteless. Any one who is compelled to take cod liver oil can find out in a few days how much more benefit can be derived from Vinol than could ever have been obtained from cod liver oil in its crude form."

Mr. Murphy's enthusiasm in regard to Vinol is indeed well founded. The preparation which he is handling will be in a short time one of the best known in the world.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

PARK THEATRE.

A sterling melodrama which has delighted thousands of audiences all over the country, but which has never before been given in Boston, will be the production at the Park Theatre next week, beginning Monday, November 18. Its title is "Only a Farmer's Daughter," and it tells a plain story of life in the country with a brief picturing of excitement among city scenes. The heroine is an attractive girl who is beset by a scheming adventuress, but she eventually comes out on top and she disconcerts her enemies. A current of comedy runs through the play and serves to enliven the stirring emotional scenes. The cast will include Una Abell Brinker and all the members of Mr. Payton's stock company who have become great favorites with Boston theatre-goers. The subscription patrons of the Park Theatre are rapidly growing in number,and regular patrons should secure good seats by buying them in advance. Mr. Payton does everything possible for the comfort and pleasure of his patrons. His orchestral concerts before each performance and between the acts are throughly enjoyable, and the Tuesday afternoon receptions are every week becoming more and more popular.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

There is a newness that is even new to the stage about the Great Lafayette show which comes next Monday for the entire week to the Boston Music Hall. The Great Lafayette needs no introduction to the theatre-going public for he is known across the continent of America as well as Europe as the world's greatest protean artist. It is his quickness that so quickly brought him to the front as a vaudevillian. He is here, there and somewhere else in the same breath, and always someone else. He is a lightning change artist without an imitator. He is so rapid in his changes that he makes them while entertaining his audience, right on the stage, but the changes are never seen, so quickly are they done, until after it is all over and then the audience wonders. How? When? All in a second. The Five Nosses, in a Venetian Serenade produce a picturesque musica act, which is considered to be the leading novelty of its character in America. The Two Pucks in a juvenile sketch; Miss Sallie Stembler, comedienne; Miles and Raymond, comedy duo; Mr. Lynn Welcher, monologue entertainer. and the justly famous "Lion's Bride" completes this well balanced aggregation.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

At the Castle Square Theatre next week the attraction will be the comedy of English socia life "Lord and Lady Algy," originally produced about four seasons ago. The performances of the play in this city, given at the Hollis Street Theatre, were immensely successful and the presentations by the Castle Square company will be the first at popular prices, The plot deals with the experiences of the couple giving the name to the play, a couple loving and devoted, yet living apart, and although given to the slang of the race-track, having characteristics which eventually reunite them in the most satisfactory fashion. The author has shown up the tendency to sporting life in English society in an amusing way and has written some of his most brilliant dialogue for the leading characters. Polite humor and easy sentiment are the winning features of the play. The principal characters in this production are: Duke of Droneborough, James L. Seeley; Marquis of Quarmby, John Sainpolis; Lord Algernon Chetland, John Craig; Lieut. Standidge, Thomas MacLarnie; Hon. Crosby Jethro, Edward Wade; Brabazon Tudway, John T. Craven; Lady Algernon Chetland, Lillian Lawrence; Mrs. Brabazon Tudway, Mary Sanders; Mrs. Vokins, Leonora Bradley. The usual distribution of boxes of chocolate bonbons will be made at the Monday matinee.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The present engagement of Papinta at Keith's is proving one of the most successful that this beautiful dancer has ever had at this house, and she will be seen next week in dances that will enable her to introduce spectacular effects never before attempted. Miss Eva Williams and Jac Tucker who appeared last week in "Driftwood" will be seen in the slang classic which made them famous, and there are many who declare that "Skinny's Finish" is their best offering A European attraction that is expected to cause as big a sensation in Boston as it has in other cities, is called the Mong Toon Troupe of Burmese football players, who introduce some wonderful juggling. Other features are Les Troupe Fantastique, with dancing version of "Faust;" Gorman and Lawson, in comedy; Mr. and Mrs. Darrow, with smoke pictures, and a number of other strong acts.

TREMONT THEATRE.

The remarkable success which Mr. Willard has gained in impersonating Tom Pinch, one of the most lovable of Charles Dickens' characters, renders especially interesting the announcement that on Monday and Wednesday evenings and Saturday afternoon next he will present at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, an admirable dramatization of "Martin Chuzzlewit." The comedy borrows from the novel the episodes in which poor Tom figures most prominently, and the dramatist has made from them a very symmetrical work. Pecksniff, the elder and younger Chuzzlewits, Mark Tapley, May Graham and others of the familiar characters are introduced, and the play never fails to give rare enjoyment to all lovers of the great novelist's stories. On Tuesday evening and Wednesday afternoon Mr. Willard will present "The Rogue's Comedy," one of the cleverest of Henry Arthur Jones' works. Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings will be devoted to "The Middleman," another play by Henry Arthur Jones, which treats of the contest between capital and labor. The fourth and final week of Mr. Willard's very successful engagement at the Tremont will be given up to an elaborate production of "All for Her," a powerful drama by Palgrave Simpson and Herman Merrivale, in which he will for the first time undertake the role of Hugh Trevor.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

Three wards of the city are neck and neck in the race for voters. Ward Three has 939, Ward Four has 934, and Ward One has 931, Ward Five is by itself with 810, while the consolation prize is close between the other two wards, Ward Two having 677 voters and Ward Six 634.

WILL CONSUME A WEEK

To Present Miners' Side to Strike Arbitrators

QUESTIONING OF MITCHELL

May Be Undertaken by Attorneys For Several More Mining Companies—Lehigh Officials Declare That Demands of Employes Are Unjust

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 17.—The members of the arbitration commission refrained from doing any work whatever yesterday. Most of them, as is their rule, attended services at churches of their denomination in the forenoon and in the afternoon they took either long walks or drives through the valley. Last night they heard Bishop Spalding deliver a lecture on the subject of "Success" at the Lyceum theatre, for the benefit of the House of the Good Shepherd of Scranton.

The commissioners have not decided upon any future arrangements. It is likely, however, the entire case of the miners, which is now being presented to them, will be heard in this city, and it depends largely upon the wishes of the coal companies where they will hear the operators' side of the question at issue. The commissioners are satisfied to hear both sides at Scranton.

President Mitchell of the Miners' union, the first witness for the miners, who was on the stand Friday and Saturday, will again be in the witness box today. So far the attorneys of only one company, David Willcox, general counsel of the Delaware and Hudson, has cross-examined him. Wayne MacVeagh, who is representing the Pennsylvania Coal company and the Hillsdale Coal and Iron company, is still engaged in carrying on his examination. It is not definitely known how many of the other companies desire to have their attorneys question the miners' president. It is probable the witnesses for the mine workers will take up all of this week in giving their testimony. Next to Mr. Mitchell, the most important witness for the miners will probably be Thomas D. Nicholls, president of District No. 1 of the Miners' union, which takes in all of the mining territory around Scranton and Wilkesbarre.

Lehigh Company's Statement

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—The statement of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, submitted to the anthracite coal strike commission, now in session at Scranton, in answer to the demands of the miners, was made public here yesterday. The answer recites the development of the company from the date of its charter in 1822, refers to the expense of operation and to the comparatively small profits, and declares the demands of the employes for an increase of 20 percent is unjustifiable, the reasons given in support of the demand not being founded on fact.

Accompanying the statement are two exhibits. One shows the earnings of the employes of the company for one year, based on the time worked during 1901, the number of the several classes of workmen and the rates paid acording to the pay roll for the first half of May, 1902. The other is a catalogue of overt acts charged to the striking employes of the company during the recent contest, the riots, assauits and disturbances of various kinds being numbered at upwards of 60.

The answer states: "The Lehigh Coal and Navigation company is the oldest corporation engaged in the mining of coal in the anthracite region.

"It owns and controls about 14,000 acres of coal lands in Carbon and Schuylkill counties, which are estimated to contain over 500,000,000 tons of available coal. Its employes number about 6000 and its capacity of production is over 200,000 tons a month. The dividends upon its capital stock to date only average 4.02 percent. The profit on coal mined by the company during the 10 years ending Dec. 31, 1901, has averaged 11.09 cents per ton."

Referring to the claims of the miners that better wages are paid in the bituminous fields, the answer states: "In 1901 for a day of 10 hours contract miners earned an average of $3.14 per day; skilled laborers, $2.31, unskilled laborers, $1.83, boys $1 for work under ground. The rates for outside labor averaged as follows: Skilled laborers $1.96, unskilled labor, $1.28, boys 77 cents. The average annual earnings of adults were $475.25."

Denial is made of the claim of the miners that their earnings are insufficient to maintain the American standard of living and, concerning the employes of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, these figures are given:

"Out of 3043 families 870 own their own houses. Pianos will be found in 146 and house organs in 337. The company owns and rents to its employes 671 houses at an average rental of $4.75 a month. The character of these houses is fully up to average in any part of the country occupied by any other class of workmen.

"It has been the policy of the company to sell surface rights to those of its employes who desired to put up their own houses, and for many years there has been a steady demand on this account. The town of Summit Hill has a population of about 3000, and almost the entire surface, with the dwellings, is now owned and occupied by employes of the company."

Railroad Men's Pay Raised

New York, Nov. 17.—The New York Central railroad has increased the wages of some 15,000 men in its employ by from 8 to 3 percent. The increase adds nearly $1,000,000 a year to the payroll of the company. The reasons given for the policy of the road are the increased cost of living, the wish of the management to equalize the wages in all parts of the system, and the company's desire to recognize faithful and efficient service.

Searching For Missing Boy

Ware, Mass., Nov. 17.—William Madigan, 7 years old, is missing, and notwithstanding a search by the fire department and citizens no trace of him can be found. The lad, with two companions, was playing near the Ware river yesterday morning, and later all started in different directions for their homes. This was the last seen of the boy.

Pretender to Throne Run Down

Tangier, Nov. 17.—According to a report from Fez, the imperial troops have succeeded in capturing the pretender to the throne. The pretender began his mission among the most ignorant and superstitious of the Berber tribes. He at first confined himself to a few conjuring tricks, but his success encouraged him to attempt bigger things.

Ready For Boodle Trial

St. Louis, Nov. 17.—Circuit Attorney Polk is preparing for the trial of other alleged boodlers this week. The cases against Gutke, Albright, Madera, Denny, Hartmann, Sheridan and Lehmann, former delegates, on the charge of bribery in connection with the Suburban Street railway franchise deal, are docketed for trial today.

Lake Shore Falls In Line

Cleveland, Nov. 17.—The Lake Shore road posted notices today announcing an average increase of 10 percent in the wages of switchmen along the entire system. It will affect about 1000 men. Officials refuse to give out any details, but it is stated authoritatively that a sweeping increase may be made before the end of the week.

Cholera Spreading at Manila

Manila, Nov. 17.—The number of cholera cases is increasing in this city, and the spread of the disease is causing some alarm. There are on an average 30 cases daily. Should the water supply become infected a general epidemic is considered to be inevitable.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The new Roman Catholic church at Revere, Mass., the construction of which was begun nine months ago, was dedicated with the usual ceremonies.

In a collision between his wagon and an electric car at Boston, Patrick Lyman, 52 years old, driver of a coal team, was thrown to the ground and instantly killed. There is no blame attached to the motorman.

Mrs. Grace Hathorne, 21 years old, committed suicide at Marblehead, Mass., by taking rat poison. Despondency over the separation from her husband is supposed to have caused the deed.

At the naval training station at Newport, R. I., there are reported to be 50 cases of pneumonia prevailing among the apprentice boys. An investigation is being held to ascertain the cause of the sickness.

John M. Shaw, the oldest man in Windsor county, Vt., who was 100 years and 10 months old, died at Bethel. He was born in Stockbridge, Vt., and his life was spent in that section.

THE TRUE EDUCATORS

Mayor Schmitz Declares Them to Be Labor Unions

COLLEGE HEAD CRITICISED

For Expressing Admiration For Strike Breakers—Says Hope For Future Prosperity of Our Country Lies In Peaceful Labor Organizations

Boston, Nov. 17.—Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco, who was elected to office on a straight labor union ticket, closed his visit to Boston last evening, after a brief address to a representative gathering of the labor unionists of Boston at the Quincy House, and left later for Niagara Falls. It had been intended that he should address the Twentieth Century club yesterday, but he was prevented from doing so by his other engagements.

In the course of his remarks to the labor men, Mayor Schmitz said: "I read the other day that the president of one of our greatest colleges expressed his contempt and disgust for the man who would not work every day as long as his strength holds out. He didn't say how much compensation should be paid for that work. In California we have a state law that makes eight hours a day's work, and provides that $2 shall be the minimum pay for that work.

"Now this gentleman says he has a profound disgust for the man who will not work as long as his strength holds out. I have a profound disgust for the man with the full stomach, the man with a princely salary that allows him to procure not only the necessities, but also the luxuries of life, who will say that the strike-breaker, the scab, as we call him, is the future hero of this country. If this is true, the future of this country is very dark indeed. But I do not think that for a moment it is true; I believe that it is simply the opinion of one misguided man.

"It used to be understood that unless a man has passed through college or university, he could not lay claim to education. I hold that the trades unions are the true educators, and that these professors ought to take course in brotherly love. I say that these professors are not educated, and that in the peaceful labor union lies the hope for the future prosperity of this country."

For Canadians to Think Over

Toronto, Nov. 17.—The Canadian lumbermen who are in touch with what is going on at Washington and in Canadian government circles are alarmed over the rumor that a duty of $4 per 1000 feet will be levied on Canadian sawn lumber entering the United States. It is said that the measure is intended as a reprisal for the action of the provincial governments of Ontario and Quebec in placing an embargo on the export of pulp wood.

Seeking Wife For Crown Prince

Berlin, Nov. 17.—One of the objects of Emperor William's visit to King Edward was to discuss the betrothal of Crown Prince Frederick William and Princess Alice of Albany. Princess Alice and the crown prince are second cousins. A dynastic alliance such as that, on the political side, is regarded as bringing Great Britain and Germany closer together and would from that standpoint be unpopular in Germany.

Prince Passes Away

London, Nov. 17.—Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimer died here yesterday. He was attacked by appendicitis Thursday and succumbed to congestion of the kidneys, with which the original malady became complicated. Prince Edward was born in 1823 and was married morganatically in 1851 to Lady Augusta Gordon-Lennox.

Senator Vickery Dead

Augusta, Me., Nov. 17.—P. O. Vickery, one of the leading and most influential citizens of Augusta, died last night, after an illness of several weeks, aged 66. He was the head of the publishing house of Vickery & Hill. He had been mayor of the city, representative to the legislature and was a member of the present state senate.

THE SLUGGER MURDERS

Police Hold Two Girls as Witnesses Against Suspect Perry

Boston, Nov. 17.—A new move was made in the "slugger" case Saturday by the issuance of a warrant charging George L. O. Perry with the murder of Agnes McPhee in Somerville on the night of Oct. 5. Perry was held at the Cambridge jail for a hearing tomorrow on the charge of the murder of Miss Morton in Waverley. Saturday's warrant was issued to the Somerville police by Judge Wentworth and is sworn to by Chief Parkhurst of the police force of that city. Immediately after the warrant was issued notice of the same was served upon Sheriff Fairbairn, who is keeper of the Cambridge jail, and he is ordered to produce Perry in court in Somerville today. The case will not be heard today, but will be continued at the request of the government.

At the same time that the warrant was issued Lieutenant Carter of the Somerville police and Inspector McBride of Cambridge placed under arrest as witnesses against Perry, Ethel Carter, 18 years old, and a cousin, Elizabeth Carter, 19 years old. The latter is Perry's sweetheart, while the former is said to have had in her possession the chain taken from Miss McPhee's neck. Both girls were found at their home in Cambridge and they were locked up in Somerville. Both refused to talk to the officers. The state police have the chain and to get possession of it for use at the trial is likely to produce a contest between the two police forces.

A Notable Demonstration

Boston, Nov. 17.—Mascagni was given an enthusiastic reception last night in Symphony hall during the concert by the composer and his company. Men and women crowded about the platform, and hats were thrown in the air and handkerchiefs waved. The bolder of the spectators held out their hands which Mascagni grasped, and at one time barely escaped being pulled into the auditorium. Finally it was necessary to darken the house to disperse the excited spectators, and then a grand rush was made for the stage entrance. As Mascagni came out he was once more besieged and the corridors rang with cheers.

Slugged Herself With Flatiron

Boston, Nov. 17.—In her lodgings on Hancock street Miss Catherine McDonald, 51 years old, was found lying unconscious upon her bed in a pool of blood with her skull crushed yesterday. By her side was a large flatiron, covered with blood. The woman recovered consciousness sufficiently to say that she had inflicted the injuries upon herself. She then became unconscious again and was taken to a hospital. It is supposed that the woman was suffering from mental depression.

Two Fishermen Lost

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 17.—Schooner Mabel D. Hines arrived from a bank trip yesterday with her flag at half mast. Captain Hines reports that Charles Bungy and James Bird were lost. A shark had bitten off a trawl and after the two men had carried part of it to the schooner, they returned for the remainder of the trawl. They were never heard of again. It is supposed that they overloaded their dory with fish, and that it sank in the rought seas.

No Clew to Waif's Parents

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 17.—Although the police have made a thorough investigation with regard to the 2-months-old boy who was abandoned Saturday night in St. Anne's church, no clue has been found to the persons who left him there. The child was dressed in the finest of clothes, but there are no marks upon them.

Hunter and Dog Missing

Southington, Conn., Nov. 17.—Searching parties have been scouring the woods west of this town in search of William Hall, 19 years old. Hall left home Thursday with a gun and dog and his failure to return led to fears that he had met with an accident. The searching parties have found no trace of him.

Student Accidentally Killed

New Haven, Nov. 17.—F J. Carnell, aged 21, a Yale student, was getting out of a boat at Umbrella island, in Long Island sound, when his gun was accidentally discharged, the shot entering his right arm. He was brought to a hospital, where the arm was amputated. He died in a short time.

Smallpox Reappears

Providence, Nov. 17.—A case of smallpox, the first for several months, was found in the city yesterday. The victim is John Elsby, who has been living at the Salvation Army lodging house. It is said he came from Boston 10 days ago.

John Wanamaker's chef says of Presto

Presto is very good, most excellent. It is much quicker than any other method too. It is the best I have ever tried. The biscuits are delicious.

Supt. Daniells Dead.

Albert F. Daniells of Dedham, for 20 years in charge of the Court House at Dedham, died suddenly on Sunday. While riding in a carriage with Dr. Francis L. Babcock and Mrs. Daniells, on his way to visit a physician at Jamaica Plain, he was taken suddenly ill. He was removed to the carriage house on the estate of Henry Rueter, the brewer, at Pond street and Jamaicaway, Jamaica Plain, and died soon after. He had been under a physician's care for some time, and his death was due to heart trouble.

Mr. Daniells was the son of Capt. George N. and Phoebe Daniells, and was born in Wareham, Dec. 31. 1847. In early life he followed railroading, but for 20 years he had had charge of the court house at Dedham, and some five years ago was made superintendent of Norfolk county buildings. He was also court officer of the district court of Northern Norfolk.

He was a member of Constellation lodge, F. and A. M. of the Dedham, Cyprus commandery, Knights Templar, president of the board of trustees of the East Dedham Methodist church and one of the stewards. He leaves a widow and daughter.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from his residence, Myrtle street, East Dedham.

The Republic's Deadly Foe.

The first gun of the no-license campaign in Quincy was fired Sunday evening in the Water Street Presbyterian church, by the pastor, Dr. Todd. The sermon was one of a series on the general subject "Our Country;" its opportunities and dangers" and the particular subject for this evening was "The Saloon, the Republic's deadly foe." Dr. Todd at first treated the liquor traffic from an economic point of view and showed that it could not possibly be profitable to society as a whole, but only to those directly interested in the manufacture and sale of it. He discussed its influence on the health and morality of a people, and emphasized the fact that rum is the bane of both, and that there was every conceivable reason for good citizens combatting it.

The above church is pledged to more active work than ever before for No-license in Quincy, and expects to make the "No" record in Ward Three this year exceed that of any previous one.

WOLLASTONS WIN.

Defeat Carrolton Eleven Thirty to Five.

The football game at Merrymount Park Saturday attracted a big crowd, about six hundred in number, which came expecting a close game. In this they were disappointed, Wollaston winning from Carrolton 30 to 5, but he game was full of good plays, though one sided.

Carrolton showed no offensive work whatsoever, being unable to gain with their loose formations back of the line. In the whole game they gained about 25 yds. by rushing and fifteen of this was made on one end play toward the close of play.

In the second half with Wollaston playing a kicking game Carrolton blocked two of Miller's kicks, thereby securing two chances for field goals. In the second attempt Stephenson sent the ball squarely over the bar from the 35 yd line.

Wollaston clinched the game in the first play, securing the ball on a fumble Welch made the touchdown and Taylor kicked the goal. The local boys played good football during this half and scored two more touchdowns, each by Fowler. Carrolton could not stop the fierce rushes of Welsh and Fowler. Score—Wollaston, 18; Carrolton, 0.

At the beginning of the second half occurred the spectacular event of the game. Taylor secured the ball on the kick-off and ran 85 yds. for a touchdown.

After this Wollaston played the kicking game, losing by it, as Carrolton secured a field goal. Otis ran 30 yds. for a touchdown just before the call of ttme, leaving the score 30 to 5.

Sullivan and Stephenson did the best work for Carrolton; Taylor, Fowles and Welsh excelled for Wollaston.

GIGANTIC BOYCOTT

Tie-Up of Dan McLane's Lines in Schenectady.

Street Railway of Eighty Miles.

A Quincy Man in Charge of the Emergency Department.

During a recent visit to Schenectady, N. Y., the editor became cognizant of the desire of labor unions to control the city. Some public spiried gentlemen who live on the outskirts of the town and desire fire protection were unable to get an appropriation from the city, and therefore combined to purchase land and erect a hose house to cost about $4,000 in which the city might install apparatus. Labor unions stepped in and wanted it built by union labor which would be prohibitive.

Now comes word of a boycott of the Schenectady street railway and plans are made publicly and boldly. This may mean hot times for former Quincy men, but the work of "Dan" McLane may be better appreciated. When "Dan" went to Schenectady less than a year ago he found all the street railway lines of the city in one circuit, and if a break occurred near Albany (17 miles distant) the whole service was tied up for hours during repairs.

"Dan" was given a free rein, and he at once divided the lines into six curcuits and has since subdivided them. Then he established an emergency department and his "hurry-up wagon" is a great improvement on the one he had in Quincy. Then it is drawn by two handsome greys, and driven by George Faircloth, formerly of the Quincy Fire Department. The quickness with which breaks have been repaired, and the absence of tie ups which before were numerous became very apparent to the people generally, and the work of "Dan" has attracted the attention of New York city papers. The lines of the Schenectady street railway are being rapidly extended and lines are completed to Albany and Troy, and soon will be to Saratoga; over 70 miles have been installed by Mr. McLane.

Now to the news of today. A Sunday dispatch from Schenectady reads:

"The Executive Committee of the Trades Assembly has been in session all day, arranging details of the boycott against the Schenectady Railway Company. The boycott officially goes into effect at midnight, but will actually be enforced at 6 A. M. Monday. Seventy-one men, one from each union, will watch the cars and will be aided by others if necessary. Every union man found riding on the cars will lose his union card; every business man will be warned not to ride again and will be boycotted if the warning is disregarded. If any employe continues to ride after being warned, his employer will be notified to discharge him. There are, it is estimated, 2,800 persons who live at such a distance from the General Electric Locomotive Works that they are dependent upon the cars.

"It has also been decided to extend the boycott to the use of gas and electric light, both of which are manufactured and controlled by the Schenectady Railway Company. Members of unions, business men and the general public will be asked not to use gas or electric light, and the Trades Assembly is considering petitioning the Common Council to cancel the contract which the company has for lighting the streets with arc lights.

"The Trades Assembly has arranged for the importation of 70 carryalls to carry men to and from work. The Trades Assembly officers state positively that it will not tolerate violence of any sort. There are about 250 motormen and canductors employed by the Schenectady Railway Company at $2.60 a day, and the refusal of the company to compel these men to join a union is the cause of the boycott. The majority of the men express themselves as perfectly satisfied and say that they do not want to be unionized."

William Potter of Schenectady was recently expelled from a union in that city because he served in the militia during a strike. State authorities are investigating.

CITY BREVITIES.

Thanksgiving next week.

It was almost warm enough Sunday for open cars.

Miss Henrietta Bates of Cohasset is visiting Miss Gertrude Hall of Billings street.

Miss Kate C. Bryant of Malden was a guest of friends at 33 Bigelow street over Sunday.

A missionary box will be packed in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Raycroft of Chubbuck street has been the guest of friends at Littleton, and on Saturday evening a husking was given in her honor.

Luther S. Anderson entertained a party of children from the North Bennett Street Industrial school Saturday, and took them over the Quarry railroad.

There is to be a Mothers' meeting at the Park and Downs church on Thursday, Nov. 20, at 3 o'clock. Dr. Johnson and Dr. Jameson will address the meeting.

The Memorial Church fair given in Music Hall, Atlantic, on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week netted the largest results of any fair for the past three years.

A. L. Baker, Collector of Taxes of the city in 1899, 1900 and 1901, has written a letter to the Ledger relative to the collection of taxes which will appear in Tuesday's Ledger.

The police signal box on President's bridge was pulled for the first time Saturday evening by Officer Murray, who captured a drunk on Hancock street and wanted the patrol wagon.

A temporary bridge is being built at Quincy Point to connect Washington street with the railroad structure on the east side of the draw. This will enable the street cars to cross over to the Weymouth side.

Mr. Clifford Snow of Faxon road, entertained nineteen of his friends Saturday evening. There were five tables of whist. Prizes were taken by Miss Louise Hinkley and Mr. Walter Nichols, Miss Ethel Hill and Mr. Clifford Snow. It was the first meeting of the club this season. Refreshments were served.

Owing to the date for the next regular meeting of the Wollaston Alliance, coming the day before Thanksgiving, there will be a special meeting this week, Wednesday, Nov. 19, at 2.30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Adelaide Armstrong, Newport avenue.

The granite tower on Third hill was crowded all day Sunday with visitors. It was a holiday crowd in which white waists and thin clothes were more prevalent than furs or coats. The view from the tower was well worth the climb, though the haze prevented a clear sight of the State House dome and other distant objects.

The vesper service at the Wollaston Baptist church, Sunday, was much enjoyed by the audience. The musical program was well given. Miss Hastings sang in the best manner "The Lord is my light" by Marsh, and Mr. Boyd sang a tenor solo from "Seedtime and harvest" by Foster. Rev. Mr. Webber's talk was on the topic "Spiritual fruit-bearing."

Killed by Bumping Into Tree

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 17.—While on the state highway at Magnolia yesterday, Fred Weaver of Lynn ran into a tree and was instantly killed. It is supposed his wheel suddenly ran into some loose gravel and that he was thrown headlong against the tree. Weaver was 25 years old.

Convicted Murderer Lynched

Elizabethtown, Ky., Nov. 17.—Harlan Buckles, who was on Saturday sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Deputy Marshal Reid, was hanged by a mob early Sunday morning. He was taken to the court house yard and hanged to a tree, after which the mob dispersed.

Was Mayor For Five Terms

Newton, Mass., Nov. 17.—J. W. Kimball, a former mayor of this city, died suddenly last night from heart disease. He was born in Grafton, Mass., 67 years ago. He was elected mayor in 1884, and served five consecutive years.

Philippine Treasury's Big Loss

Manila, Nov. 17.—Auditor Lawshe figures up the losses to the Philippine treasury on account of the depreciation of silver since January, including the last decline, at $1,054,060 gold.

Mackerel Catch of 1902

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 17.—The mackerel season has practically closed. The large school of mackerel met in southern waters last spring did not come east. Generally speaking, the season has been fair. The market for the season's catch has been good, prices reaching the highest ever paid for uninspected mackerel. The number of barrels of mackerel caught and sold fresh this season is about 17,000 greater than last year.

Opposition to Lorimer

Boston, Nov. 17.—A letter was read at the morning service in Tremont Temple yesterday from Rev. Dr. Lorimer of New York, in which he positively announced that he is not, and must not be, a candidate for the vacant pastorate of Tremont Temple. Recent developments have disclosed the presence of a considerable element in the congregation hostile to Dr. Lorimer's candidacy.

Yates Shows Improvement

Springfield, Ills., Nov. 17.—Physicians attending Governor Yates state that they believe a turn for the better has developed. For five hours yesterday his temperature was only one degree above normal.

HATRED FOR MONARCHS

Rubino's Reason For Attempt to Kill King Leopold

HOLDS ANARCHIST BELIEFS

Hopes That Others Will Be "More Successful Than Himself"—Says All Monarchs Are Tyrants, and He Would Kill Any One of Them

Brussels, Nov. 17.—That Rubino, who fired three shots at the King of the Belgians as his majesty was proceeding to the cathedral on Saturday to attend a "Te Deum" in memory of the late Queen Marie Henriette, intended to assassinate King Leopold seems fully established by the prisoner's confession to the police. The latter at first denied reports to the effect that the revolver contained ball cartridges or that Rubino was connected with anarchists, but they finally admitted that the prisoner had confessed that he intended to shoot King Leopold and that he held anarchist beliefs.

KING LEOPOLD II.

The self-confessed would-be regicide is a small, baldheaded man, with a heavy black moustache. He informed the police that he came from London, where he had been assisted by the Italian embassy and was temporarily engaged to watch anarchists. He was dismissed, however, as the embassy officials discovered that he sympathized with anarchists. It was then that he bought a revolver and 50 cartridges and came to Brussels.

Failing to find work here Rubino said he "determined to act" and went to the cathedral with the intention of shooting the king, but he did not fire at his majesty for fear of hitting intervening soldiers. Then Rubino proceeded to the Rue Royal, where he awaited the cortege. The king's carriage passed before Rubino was able to draw his revolver, hence the shots only hit the carriage following. No one was hurt. Rubino was immediately arrested and the police had some difficulty in rescuing him from the hands of the crowd.

In Rubino's pockets were found post cards bearing portraits of King Leopold, Prince Albert and the Princess Elizabeth. The prisoner said he procured the cards so as to be able to recognize the members of the royal family and expressed the hope that others would be more successful than himself. He also said he did not regret his act and would have fired at any monarch, "at the King of Italy as readily as at the King of the Belgians, because monarchs are tyrants who cause the misery of their people." Finally Rubino declared he hated Socialists because they were friends of the police and asserted that he had no accomplice.

According to some reports Rubino, in the course of his examination before the magistrate, declared that he selected King Leopold for his attack on account of his majesty's inhuman conduct towards his daughter, Princess Stephanie, at the time of her mother's death, and he also wished to show to the anarchists in London who suspected his loyalty that, while they only talked, he acted. He would have killed King Edward, he added, but for the strong feeling of the English people in favor of the monarchy.

Found to Be a Bad Man

Rome, Nov. 17.—The ministry of the interior has established the identity of the assailant of King Leopold. His name is Gennero Rubino and he is described in their records as an advanced Socialist. He has a criminal record. Some years ago he was accused of treachery by his anarchist friends and expelled from their ranks.

The pope, King Victor Emanuel and Premier Zanardelli have sent telegrams of congratulations to the king on his escape from assassination.

It appears that Rubino has a brother who is also an anarchist. His father fought with distinction in the Italian war for independence.

Congratulations From Hay

Washington, Nov. 17.—Secretary Hay called at the Belgian legation yesterday to express to the officials there his regret over the attempt on the life of the King of Belgium and to extend the congratulations of the people of this country over the king's escape from harm.

Big Packing Plant Burned

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 17.—The big plant of Armour & Co. was totally destroyed by a fire which started yesterday morning in the fertilizer building. The loss is estimated at $900,000. The insurance is $721,500. The cause of the fire is said to have been either spontaneous combustion or an imperfect dryer. Six hundred men will be thrown out of employment all winter by the fire.

ALWAYS IN SIGHT

Crowded street. People passing by. Old and young. All eager about their own affairs and always somebody in plain sight who needs Scott's Emulsion.

Now it's that white-haired old man; weak digestion and cold body. He needs Scott's Emulsion to warm him, feed him, and strengthen his stomach.

See that pale girl? She has thin blood. Scott's Emulsion will bring new roses to her face.

There goes a young man with narrow chest. Consumption is his trouble. Scott's Emulsion soothes ragged lungs and increases flesh and strength.

And here's a poor, sickly little child. Scott's Emulsion makes children grow—makes children happy.

BULLET WOUND IN HEAD

Woman Admits Shooting Which May Cause Husband's Death

Newton, Mass., Nov. 17.—Nicholas Alpanise, an Italian employed in the silk mills, is in a dangerous condition, resulting from a bullet wound in the head. Early Sunday morning a police ambulance was called to the house of Dr. Clough, where Alpanise had gone to have his wounds dressed. To the officers who accompanied the ambulance Alpanise stated that late Saturday night he was crossing the Echo Bridge reservation in company with his wife, when he heard a shot fired and was struck by a bullet, which fractured his jaw and penetrated his neck, lodging at the base of the skull.

When search was made for his wife to obtain her statement, she could not be found. Chief Tarbox finally located her in Needham yesterday and arrested her. Patrolman Fuller found evidence that the shooting was done in a house on Boylston street, where Alpanise and his wife spent Saturday evening drinking and playing cards with several other Italians. The walls of one of the rooms were splashed with blood and a 32-calibre revolver was found buried in the cellar. Donato Stranero is held as a witness.

Last night the woman admitted that she had fired the shot, but said it was accidental. The revolver belongs to Stranero, who said he laid it on the table and left the room and that when he returned Alpanise was writhing on the floor. Other witnesses say there was a quarrel and that Mrs. Alpanise deliberately shot her husband.

Message to Laboring Men

New Orleans, Nov. 17.—"Resolved," that we declare our unfaltering fealty to the trade labor movement of our country, devoting our best efforts to the uplifting of the wage-earners of our country, giving them hope and encouragement and appealing to them to unite with organized workers so that the fraternity of man, of the world, may be achieved at the earliest possible date." This is the message sent out by the American Federation of Labor on the 21st anniversary of its birth.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

The Weather Forecast

The temperature is still above the seasonal average east of the Mississippi. There will be rain in New England.

THIRST AND HUNGER

Endured For Many Days by Survivors of Disaster to Elingamite

Wellington, N. Z., Nov. 17.—The eight survivors from the wreck of the British schooner Elingamite were rescued on a raft by the steamer Penguin. The raft from which they were taken measured only 12 feet long by 7 feet wide and had 16 persons on it when it left the wreck. The only food on board was two apples. The first apple was consumed on Tuesday and the second on Wednesday, each being divided into 16 portions.

From Sunday, the day they were wrecked, until Thursday, when they were rescued, the survivors drifted 66 miles on the half-submerged raft. Three men died on Monday night through drinking salt water. All of the survivors suffered the tortures of thirst, and four other men and the stewardess died of exhaustion before they were picked up by the Penguin.

They had a cruel disappointment on Tuesday night. A steamer was sighted in the distance and frantic shouts were raised by those on the raft to attract attention. The steamer lowered a boat, which passed within 50 yards of them, but the boat's crew apparently did not see the raft and returned to their vessel.

When the Penguin was sighted only one of the survivors was able to stand and all were terribly emaciated.

President Enjoying His Outing

Smedes, Miss., Nov. 17.—Sunday was a quiet day at the president's camp on the Little Sunflower. There was no bear hunt. Dinner was the chief event of the day. The menu included roast bear paws, possum and sweet potatoes. Dinner was served in camp style on a rough pine board table set up in the open air. Tin plates and tin cups were used. There were not enough knives and forks to go around and the colored cook announced that on account of the scarcity of the articles, he had distributed them only to the "colonel" and the "foreign gentlemen." The president has not had three days of such complete freedom and rest since he entered the White House.

Want to Hear Commission's Report

New York, Nov. 17.—After a thorough discussion of the kidnapping of 14 leaders of the union cigarmakers' strike in Tampa about a year ago, and the more recent abduction of the mayor of that city because of his alleged sympathies with the strikers, the Central Federation of Labor yesterday voted to lay the matter before President Roosevelt and request him to call for a report of the commission which he some time ago appointed to investigate the matter first mentioned.

Possible Charges of Treason

Albany, Nov. 17.—Officers of the National Guard have conferred with Governor Odell regarding the advisability of bringing treason charges against the officers of the Schenectady labor union, which expelled from its membership a man who had served with the Second regiment during its recent service in preserving order during the strike on the Hudson Valley railroad. Governor Odell says he has the matter under advisement.

What Modern Fire Engines Can Do

New York, Nov. 17.—A spectacular and interesting test was made yesterday by the fire department of the metal standpipes in a lofty new building for purpose of determining the feasibility of forcing streams of water to the top floors of the tallest buildings. The two most powerful engines in the department were used and no difficulty was found in projecting efficient streams to the roof, 304 feet above the street level.

She Was Very Sensative

New York, Nov. 17.—Dread of being summoned to answer a charge of roughly treating one of the children of her class is supposed to have been the cause of the suicide of Miss Celia Ettleson, a public school teacher, who died yesterday after drinking carbolic acid. Miss Ettleson, who was 22 years of age, was the daughter of a Chicago merchant.

Cabinet Officer Laid Up

Washington, Nov. 17.—Secretary Wilson is confined to his home by a severe neuralgia cold which has developed since the recent political campaign in which the secretary took an active part. It will be some days before he is able to resume his duties in the agricultural department.

Flagman's Error Caused Disaster

Chicago, Nov. 17.—One man was killed and a dozen persons were more or less seriously injured in a collision last night between an electric street motor and a trailer and a freight train at a crossing. A mistake of the flagman at the crossing was responsible for the accident.

A Change For the Worse

London, Nov. 17.—A bulletin issued by his physicians says the condition of Dr. Joseph Parker, pastor of the City Temple, who has been lying seriously ill for some months, has now become very critical.

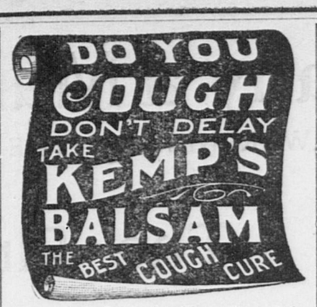

Best for Children.

WHAT

Will a policy in the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. do?

"It may create wealth; save your estate; pay off the mortgage; protect your children; be the bread winner for your loved ones; support you in your old age; a promoter of thrift; a true friend when adversity comes."

Can you afford to be without this safeguard to you and yours.

Information as to rates and policies cheerfully given.

AN UNEXPECTED MOVE

Evidence Put In Against Perry, the Slugger Suspect

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Witnesses Testify That He Confessed to Having Sold Watch Belonging to Miss McPhee—Counsel's Request For Ruling Out Confession Is Denied

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 18.—Another of the many surprises in the "Jack the Slugger" investigation of the past two weeks took place yesterday in the Somerville police court, where George L. O. Perry was charged with the murder of Agnes McPhee on Oct. 3 and given a hearing on that charge. It was not intended by the state police, who arrested Perry a week ago and caused him to be held on the charge of murdering Clara Morton at Waverley on Nov. 1, to bring the McPhee charge against him at this time. Yesterday's hearing, in fact, is commonly understood to be the result of a squabble between the Somerville and state police, the local officers claiming that the credit for work on the McPhee case is theirs, and feeling hurt at what their chief has termed "discourteous" interference on the part of the state force in what he calls "distinctively a Somerville case."

Chief Parkhurst, accordingly, without consulting the state police (who are busy investigating both crimes, but are preparing especially for a hearing on the Morton murder charge in Cambridge today), arrested Perry Saturday in the East Cambridge jail on a writ of habeas corpus. The hearing yesterday was the result.

Sheriff Fairbairn led in the small, slender negro who stands under accusation of being "Jack the Slugger"—the man who has held the women of Boston's suburbs in terror for a whole summer. Clerk Chapin presently stood up in his place and called out: "George prisoners' pen. "The complaint charges you," read the clerk, in his rapid, professional sing-song, "with the murder of Agnes McPhee in Somerville on the third day of October last past. What say you to this complaint; guilty or not guilty?" The boy answered "not guilty;" and then his counsel, P. B. Kiernan, went over to the cage for a short whispered counsel.

The McPhee murder was committed in Somerville on Oct. 3 last. Perry was brought into court from the Cambridge jail on a writ of habeas corpus. It was supposed that he would merely be arraigned and the case continued, but at the last moment, the defense giving assent, the government decided to put in evidence. Some 28 witnesses were summoned.

After the fact of the crime had been established by various witnesses, Charles E. Birtwell and Samuel S. Lawrence, who represent the Boston Children's Aid society, told of the confession which Perry had made to them to the effect that he had sold a silver watch, later identified as that owned by Miss McPhee, to Joseph Nemser, the Boston jeweler. Other witnesses, including Ethel Carter, to whom the article was given, testified that Perry had in his possession a watch chain, later shown to have belonged to Miss McPhee, and to have been attached to her watch.

Nemser, the jeweler, identified Perry as the person who had sold him the watch. In addition, other circumstantial evidence was offered by the prosecution.

P. B. Kiernan, representing the defendant, asked the court to discharge Perry on the ground of insufficient evidence. He contended that the main evidence offered—that of Mr. Birtwell's story of the defendant's confession—should be ruled out on the ground that the confession was obtained under misrepresentation and inducement. The court declined so to rule, and ordered the defendant held without bail for the action of the grand jury.

Forger Gets Four Years

Boston, Nov. 18.—By forging his brother's name to a check, Harry Aronson yesterday was sent to the house of correction for four years. He had been sentenced for a like offense once before.

LABOR LEADERS AT ODDS

Mitchell and Sargent Dragged Into the Gompers-Shaffer Dispute

New Orleans, Nov. 18.—Either Theodore Shaffer, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workers, or Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is destined to pass under a cloud. It is a fight to the finish, and present conditions favor Gompers. The trouble which so suddenly came to a point in the convention of the American Federation of Labor yesterday is an echo of the great strike against the United States Steel company, which was fought and lost last year by the Amalgamated association under the leadership of Shaffer.

After his association had been defeated, President Shaffer did not hesitate to utter charges of a serious nature against President Gompers, as well as against President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers and President Sargent of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. He asserted that the organization over which these men presided had, while listening to the advice of their leaders, refused to lend a helping hand to the Amalgamated association, and had even fought against it in the dark.

The charges were levelled against Mr. Gompers in particular and the extracts from the secret circular issued by President Shaffer show specifically their scope and nature.

Delegate Sheridan of the Amalgamated association, a colleague of President Shaffer in the convention, threw the bomb by asking unanimous consent to introduce a resolution calling for an investigation of the charges. Both parties announced that they courted the investigation, and it will be referred to a special committee of five, two to be selected by President Gompers, two by President Shaffer, and the four to choose the fifth.

Spring Charged With Arsenic

San Bernandino, Cal., Nov. 18.—A party of mining prospectors arrived Lere yesterday bringing word of the discovery in Timber mountains, Nevada, of the remains of several people supposed to have been a party of prospectors. The skeletons were lying close to a little spring and the cause of their death was soon revealed. No sooner had the members of the party drank from the spring than they were seized with cramps. Samples of the water brought to this city have been found to be heavily charged with arsenic.

Elkton, Md., Nov. 18.—Everett S. Cole, who said his home was in Worcester, Mass., was found buried in a pile of leaves in a wood near here yesterday. He is about 50 years old and was in a half-starved condition. A check for $1000, together with a gold chain and valuable papers were found in his pockets. He stated that he had walked 400 miles and had been resting in the woods since last Wednesday without anything to eat. The authorities believe the man is demented.

No Bears For President

Smedes, Miss., Nov. 18.—The bears in the swamp country around the president's camp seem to have effected a successful campaign to prevent the president from a single shot at any one of them. The only thing the dogs started yesterday fled at the first cry of alarm and did not stop running until nine miles away from the camp. There he was overtaken by Mr. McDougal, who killed him at 70 paces. The bear killed yesterday weighed 225 pounds.

Sentiment Favors Selling Land

London, Nov. 18.—A poll of the Irish landlords, which was undertaken by a committee composed of men interested in the Irish agrarian question, on the proposal to call a conference of landlords and tenants with a view to the sale of the land to the latter, has resulted in a vote of 1128 to 578 in favor of holding the conference. A circular announcing the result of the poll has been sent to 4000 Irish landowners who possess 500 acres and upwards.

CONFLICTING STORIES

Regarding the Shooting of Nicholas Aldanise by His Wife

Newton, Mass., Nov. 18.—While Nicholas Aldanise lies dying in the Newton hospital, his wife is in jail in Cambridge, held to await the outcome of the case.

There is a mystery in the shooting, which may never be solved. The woman, after telling one story, that the shooting was accidental, has now confessed to the police that she shot her husband in the bed chamber of an Italian boarding house, kept by Donato Strainero.

Meantime, the husband in the hospital steadfastly maintains that this is not so, and says he was on his way home from this same house, and was passing through the dark and lonely grove, near Echo bridge, when a stray bullet came whistling through the air, making a big hole in his chin and knocking out some of his teeth, and imbedded itself so deeply that it has not yet been found.

The woman's case comes up Nov. 24. Bail was yesterday fixed at $1000, the charge being assault with a dangerous weapon. If Aldanise dies in the meantime, which seems probable, it will be changed.

Charged With Murder

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 18.—John M. Boudion was held without bail yesterday on the charge of murdering Michael Brennan Sunday evening. Brennan and John Ramsey were conversing in the street when Boudion, who had been drinking, it is said, approached and had some words with Ramsey. Boudion drew a revolver and in attempting to wrest it from him, Brennan, who had but one hand, was shot in the temple. Ramsey received a bullet in the arm.

Had Wide Field of Labor

Bristol, R. I., Nov. 18.—Samuel Norris, once a prominent figure in international commerce, chiefly in the way of supplying firearms to European governments during wars, died at his home here yesterday, aged 75. During the Carlist war in Spain, Mr. Norris was decorated with the Order of Isabella. He introduced wood paving in London, Budapest, Paris and other cities. He was a native of Boston.

Insane Woman Killed

Boston, Nov. 18.—Margaret Spratt, who had escaped from the Austin Farm insane hospital yesterday, threw herself in front of a train at Forest Hills. The wheels passed over her left leg and right arm. She was taken Miss Spratt had been an inmate of the hospital for the past eight months and her complaint was brought on by a railroad accident two years ago.

Alleged Robbers In Custody

Attleboro, Mass., Nov. 18.—Bayles Stanhope and a young man named Gilligan were arrested yesterday on suspicion of having broken into and robbed the railroad station at West Mansfield. Stanhope was arrested in Boston. After he was brought here his statements led to Gilligan's arrest. At Stanhope's home a quantity of goods were found, the presence of which he will be called upon to explain.

Business Dull at Navy Yard

Boston, Nov. 18.—Discharges are being made in the departments of steam engineering and construction at the navy yard here, owing to the lack of work. In the first-named department 50 men were dropped last night, and 75 left the other department. By the end of this week the force of both departments will be still further reduced.

Plenty of Coal at Taunton

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 18.—Hard coal dropped $1.50 and Cumberland coal 50 cents a ton yesterday, making the former $7.25 a ton. The price is not much higher than last year at this time.

Veto on Log-Rolling

Boston, Nov. 18.—Mayor Collins' veto of 22 items in the city's loan bill, which items called for an expenditure of $973,000, was sustained yesterday by the city government.

Havoc Wrought by Volcano

Panama, Nov. 18.—Passengers from Central America report the complete destruction of the territory surrounding the volcano of Santa Maria, Guatemala, in consequence of the recent eruption. Adjacent villages, rich coffee plantations, with over $300,000 worth of coffee stored in bags, were destroyed, and hundreds of lives were lost.

Proposals for furnishing Turkeys.
Wanted—Position in office.

Good Afternoon.

Henty is dead, but his works will continue for years to entertain young people.

Considerable news, both local and telegraphic, is crowded out today, including a communication from A. L. Baker on tax collection.

Not for years has there been as quiet a municipal election as this year. Everybody feels almost certain that Mayor Bryant will be elected to succeed himself.

Before beginning his sermon Sunday Rev. E. C. Butler announced that it had been decided not to have a collection in the churches this year and that he hoped his parish would hand to those making the amount as they could spare for so worthy an object. He thought if the people of the city were as familiar with the Hospital as he was and saw the good work being done they could not help but contribute something. A well known philanthropist has said a city is judged by the condition of its churches, schools, library and hospital. The first three are all right in Quincy but the hospital needs just a little more support.

The Best Remedy for Croup.
From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

His Honor Helps Out.

The distribution of turkeys purchased with the income of the Cotton Center Johnson Fund will be made early next week. Every year the demands, requests, etc., for turkeys have been more than could be supplied from this source. The Overseer of the Poor called the attention of the Mayor to the matter a few days ago, with the result that His Honor immediately donated fifty dollars to be used in connection with the Johnson Fund.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called "Lane's Tea" or

CITY COUNCIL.

The Chubbuck Street Nuisance or Drain.

Referred to City Solicitor on Damages.

Mayor Authorized to Ask for New Schoolhouse Bids.

Councilman Elcock and Nichols were absent from Monday night's meeting of the City Council.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Chief of Police asking for a transfer of $175 from permanent police to special police. An order was later offered and referred to Finance Committee.

A communication was received from the Overseer of the Poor stating that bills for 1901 had been received amounting to $940.35 and there was no appropriation from which to pay them. To Finance Committee.

The Mayor announced the appointment of Gene M. McCormick as clerk of Precinct 1, Ward 4, in place of Arthur W. Loud, who could not serve as he was a candidate for office. Confirmed.

A communication was received from the Commissioner of Public Works, stating he had received a bill for half the cost of permanent sidewalk and edgestones on Granite street, in front of the Swedish Lutheran church, for which there was no appropriation. To Committee on Streets.

PETITIONS.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for location of poles on Quincy avenue, Sea street, Beale street, and for a relocation on Coddington street. To Committee on Streets.

ROGERS STREET DRAIN.

The Committee on Sewers and Drains reported an order for $150 to extend the drain on Rogers street through the land of J. C. Ballou. To Finance Committee.

CHUBBUCK STREET NUISANCE.

The Committee on Sewers and Drains reported ought to pass on the order for $1500 for abating the nuisance at the corner of Washington and Chubbuck streets.

Councilman Bass thought it appeared a question of a storm sewer, running through land where damages could be claimed against the city, rather than a nuisance. If built, it was possible a claim would be made.

Councilman Adams—If it provides for a storm sewer in addition it should be more reason for supporting it. People have been trying to have the nuisance abated since early last spring. Besides abating the nuisance it will carry off surface water from the streets and will save city from damages.

Councilman Nickerson asked if the gentleman from Ward One knew of any objections to drain.

Councilman Bass was not prepared to say although he understood there might be. The parties would not sign off.

Councilman Whiton—All agree it is needed. He had found from old residents there was a water way and there could be no damages if a pipe was put under the brook.

Councilman Bass—The city have no right to put a pipe in a water way without paying damages.

Councilman Adams—The bulk of the evidence before the committee was that there would be no damage. If any they would be merely nominal. It would benefit the land.

Councilman Whiton—If there was any damage it would be slight. To drain other than the way proposed would cost $5000.

Councilman Adams, replying to a question, said as far as he knew no one had been asked to sign a release.

Councilman Bass understood objection came from owners of Raycroft property. Had any effort been made to have them sign release?

Councilman Adams—No effort had been made as far as he knew to have party sign off. The proposed drain crossed corner of their land and they would be benefited.

Councilman Bass moved reference to City Solicitor.

Councilman Adams opposed. The order should go through tonight. The rights taken are an easement. There could be no claim, and if there was it would be a small matter.

In reply to a question from Councilman Langelier, Commissioner Knowlton stated that the situation there was an open water way. He considered the best solution was to put in a pipe. He should not consider there would be any damages. He thought Quincy had a special act to fix the brook as they thought best.

Councilman Thompson—The commissioner is a better authority than the Councilman from Ward One, and he had stated the case clearly. There was a nuisance there which should be abated. The land would be improved and no damage could result.

Councilman Bass—There is no question but what nuisance should be abated. A drain could be put under Chubbuck street and accomplish it.

Councilman Whiton—There was no danger from possible suits. If not abated the people would carry it to the courts.

Councilman Fallon had looked the matter over and he felt the remarks a little weak. He believed the chairman of the committee would be the first to ask damages if drain went through his land. It only goes to show how slack they are to allow a dead muskrat to keep them awake. If it had been him he would have gone out and buried the rat.

The matter was then referred to the City Solicitor by a vote of 12 in favor to 7 against.

GOFFE STREET.

A public hearing was given on the widening of Goffe street between Dimmock and Adams streets.

Hon. John Shaw spoke in favor. He knew of no remonstrance. This was a new part of Quincy and a beautiful part. Often the street was impassable to foot passengers and the public generally would be benefited by the widening.

In reply to a question if the whole length should not be widened, Mr. Shaw said he would not object but the petitioners did not like to ask for too much.

There was no opposition and the hearing was closed.

LOAN ORDER.

The Committee on Ordinances reported favorable upon the following orders which were passed:

$4000 for water extensions.

$200 for laying out of Edison street.

Transfering receipts from pasturage up to $100 to parks.

Transfering $400 from the Fire department appropriations.

$50 for the laying out of Eaton street.

$1000 for the laying out of Newbury avenue extension.

$500 for the laying out of Hamilton street.

$300 for a gravel sidewalk on south side of Brooks avenue.

The loan order of $4,350 was amended by striking out Chubbuck street nuisance so as to make the amount $2,850 and then passed.

BRIDGE RAIL.

The petition of the Old Colony street [illegible] on the Quincy Point bridge was taken from the table, and Councilman Newcomb offered an order amending the original order, so that the railway may use a grooved girder rail of lighter weight.

Councilman Whiton asked the reason.

Councilman Newcomb—The railroad petitioned to use a T rail, but the Committee on Streets decided not to change kind of rail. All the order contemplated was a lighter rail of the same kind. With a nine inch rail it would have to be bolted to a block with the nut under the bridge. With a lighter rail it will be spiked to continuous plank.

Councilman Freeman moved to amend so as to read grooved grider rail 4 1-2 inches deep as the construction does not allow a nine-inch rail.

Mayor Bryant asked where he got his information, and Councilman Freeman replied from the Commissioner.

Councilman Newcomb said the new plan of the railroad was for safety and would cost double what the original plan would cost.

The order was recommitted on motion of Councilman Thompson.

Councilman Newcomb offered an order granting the street railway a location for a single track on Hancock street between Washington and Saville streets. To Committee on Streets.

SCHOOLHOUSE PLANS.

Mayor Bryant addressed the Council and said new plans had been made for the Quincy Point school building which were now before the sub-committee of the school board. The question is whether the Council desired him to go ahead and advertise for bids, if the School Board approved, or wait two weeks until the approval could be brought to the Council. If the Council desired and would take a brief recess he would send for the plans.

Councilman Whiton moved the Mayor be requested to go ahead and advertise for bids.

Councilman Fallon wanted privilege of looking over the plans.

The motion of Councilman Whiton prevailed.

Adjourned at 9.58.

The Hospital Collection Committees in each ward will meet tonight to make final arrangements for the canvass which begins tomorrow the 19th, the first day of Hospital week.

The Hospital collectors start on their rounds tomorrow and are anticipating generous contributions during Hospital Week. There will be no collection for the Hospital in the churches, this year

Councilman Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., has been appointed chairman of the Ward Two committee on collections for Hospital week, in place of Arthur W. Newcomb who declined. He has appointed as assistants, Rubie M. Caldwell, Alice Caldwell, Harriet M. Phillips, Franklin Jacobs, Bessie Moody, John S. Gay, E. W. Newcomb, Albert Keating, T. B. Pollard, Fred A. Thayer and Mrs M. W. Carter.

Nominations.

Up to this morning three nomination papers had been filed with the City Clerk. All were for Ward Councilmen. The papers were as follows: Alexander W. Thompson, Republican Citizen; Eugene R. Stone, Republican Independent from Ward Two and Andrew Stewart, Republican Independent from Ward One. Time is up at 5 P. M. Wednesday.

Enterprises Encouraged.

Hon. William B. Rice of this city attended the special town meeting at Braintree Monday evening, and explained the improvement Rice and Hutchins had under way in that town. For the safety of the 500 or more employes, he advocated the abolishment of the Pearl street grade crossing. The town voted unanimously in favor of abolishment.

—Notwithstanding the much earlier discovery of the principle of the pendulum, the principle was not applied to clock-making, in England at least, till the 17th century. Hence the long cases did not come into use till comparatively late in the history of the evolution of the clock.

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin and all other persons interested in the estate of LOUISA H. L. TRAIP, late of Burlington, in the County of Chittenden and State of Vermont, deceased:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Robert Roberts of Burlington, Vermont with certain papers purporting to be copies of the last will and testament of said deceased, and of the probate thereof in said State of Vermont duly authenticated, representing that at the time of her death, said deceased had estate in said County of Norfolk, on which said will may operate, and praying that the copy of said will may be filed and recorded in the Registry of Probate of said County of Norfolk, and letters testamentary thereon granted to him without giving sureties on his bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline, in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-fourth day of December, A. D. 1902, at ten o'clock in the forenoon to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the first publication to be thirty days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this seventeenth day of November, in the year one thousand nine hundred and two.

GRAND ARMY FAIR.

The People Enthusiastic to Help the Veterans.

The annual fair of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., was successfully opened Monday evening at Hancock hall.

There was an unusually large attendance, at times being a perfect jam.

The hall looked very pretty. Gaily decorated booths occupied both sides and end of the hall, and the platform was decorated to represent a camp scene.

The opening exercises were brief and took place at eight o'clock.

Commander John W. Hersey made a brief address of welcome, and introduced Past Commander J. M. Wood of Cambridge, who spoke briefly of the work of the Grand Army, and what it had done in the way of relief of comrades.

The next speaker was Mayor Bryant, who was received with an outburst of applause that shook the roof. He spoke of the Grand Army and the noble work the comrades had done in '61, in preserving the Union. The Grand Army was one of the grandest charity institutions in the world and as such it demands and should receive the hearty and generous support of the public at large. By the money raised by these annual fairs it takes care of and administers to the wants of aged and infirm comrades, thus preventing them from becoming charges for public charity. It was a grand work. Here are tables loaded with things pleasing to the eye as well as useful, and he hoped that they would be liberally patronized. He then declared the fair to be formally opened.

The ladies in charge of the several tables were as follows:

Pop Corn,—Miss Mary Gardner, Miss Hattie B. Pierce, Mrs. A. W. Gardner.

Candy,—Mrs. L. A. Holt, Miss M. Lizzie Furnald, Mrs. Lizzie Farrell, Mrs. Lydia Farrell.

Apron,—Mrs. Ann Wright, Mrs. W. A. Field, Mrs. Edith Wolf.

Verdict Reached for Damage at Fensmere Beach.

The jury in what is known as the Meyer's case returned their verdict this morning. This case was a suit for damages, caused by the building of the breakwater across the Veale or Fensmere property at Houghs Neck for the Metropolitan sewer.

The case was first heard last summer before a commission of auditors, who after having a volume of testimony as to the value of the property returned a finding for $77,000.

The State refused to accept the award, and the case was heard las week before a jury in the Superior court at Dedham. The case went to the jury Monday afternoon. Tbis morning they returned a verdict for $36,000; or less than half the award made by the commission.

Old Sailors Entertained.

The concert given by members of St. Chrysostom's church parish at the Sailor's Haven, Charlestown, Monday evening, was a great success. The party, about seventy-five in number, was in charge of Rev. C. P. Mills and Mr. Page.

The concert began at 8 o'clock with Mr. King of the Haven as leader of the merry-making. His rendering of "Old King Cole" and "How d'ye do" proved a great treat.

The Wollaston talent was of the best. Mr. Bradford opened the program with a piano solo; Mr. Briggs sang coon songs with contagious humor; Master Findlay pleased all with soprano solos; Miss Beckwick's recitations were received with tumultuous applause. The sailors enjoyed the choir boys' "Caddy Song" in costume, and the little fellows showed they had profited by Mr. Snyder's careful instruction.

Mrs. Follett sang the "Creole Love Song" with a spirit; Mr. Follett gave "Danny Deever" with great dramatic force and expression, and together they sang "Angels of Jesus."

The numbers were all well received, encores were frequent and the audience declared the concert to be particularly good. At 10.45 coffee and rolls were served by the ladies of the church.

The committee in charge of the program was: Mrs. Mills, Miss Bates, Mr. Page and Mr. Snyder.

The Daily Ledger is now sold at East Milton by Harold Bassett who will deliver the paper to customers.

A PITHY STATEMENT.

Mr. Edward J. Murphy Gives An Apt Illustration.

His Views on Vinol Worth Learning.

This is the Preparation That is Being Much Talked About.

A reporter asked Mr. Edward J. Murphy the same question that hundreds have asked him in the last few days. "Just tell me precisely, please, why Vinol is better than cod liver oil?"

Mr. Murphy replied in his genial way. "You have give given me a rather difficult task. I can explain to you in a few minutes the advantages of Vinol, but to do it in a half dozen words would hardly be possible. Perhaps I can illustrate its value, however, in a brief manner. Suppose you had never seen a hen's egg. A man who knew of them should tell you to eat three every day. I do not say that you would, mind you, but I am inclined to believe at the start you would make an heroic effort to get away with the whole thing, shell and all. The meat of the egg would be what you needed, the shell rather superfluous. In fact, as a matter of nourishment not quite the thing for your stomach.

"There you are with the cod liver oil. In it you have a medicine, or rather in the liver of a live cod there is a medicine known to be valuable for certain forms of wasting disease, a great reconstructor. Doctors have administered it for years. They were like the man who had never seen an egg before. They gave it to their patients just as they found it, shell and all. Yes, that is exactly it. The grease was useless and as bad for the stomach, almost, as would have been the shell of the egg. The kernel, or the meat of the remedy, the vital principles that they were after, were contained in it. Science has stepped in and done exactly what the man with the egg might have done—found a way to separate the healthful interior from the worthless husk.

"Now we have the active medical principles of the cod's liver. We have thrown away the useless encumbrances that formerly encloaked it, namely, the objectionable fat. We have taken this extract, placed it in a delicious table wine, and there you are. Patients who have needed cod liver oil and could not take it have no trouble in taking Vinol. Why, you would enjoy drinking it yourself, so pleasant is it, if I did not tell you it was anything but a mild table wine. If you needed it, however, for a medicine, you would soon find it to be something different. The medicinal properties of the cod's liver heal damage done by diseases that are of a wasting nature, and the same principles give strength to the weakened digestion and enable the poor sufferer's worn out stomach to digest and obtain nutriment from everyday food. These same principles are also active disease germ annihilators.

"Yes, I am glad to have you come any time that you care to learn anything more about Vinol. It has already proved itself to be a winner."

MINERS' ABLE WITNESS

Operators' Counsel Finds Mitchell a Worthy Foeman

ALLEGED REIGN OF TERROR

Not Wholly Due to Overt Acts by Strikers, According to Mitchell—MacVeigh Uses the Word Anarchy—Threatens a "Foretaste of Hell"

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 18.—In the presence of as many persons as could be jammed into the superior court room yesterday, Wayne MacVeagh, for the Erie company, and John Mitchell, for the miners, continued their brilliant battle of cross-examination before the anthracite coal commission. The two men were followed with intense interest throughout the day and the contest will be resumed today.

The fourth demand of the union, which calls for a yearly trade agreement and which means a straight out recognition of the union, was the bone of contention, and although four hours were taken up in a discussion of the question, not much material progress was made. Wayne MacVeagh, skilled in the art of cross-examination, attempted to show the utter irresponsibility of the union and its unfitness to make contracts which it could not live up to. His principal argument was the alleged boycott and he often pressed the miners' president hard for an answer. The latter, however, slowly and deliberately gave some reply, but they did not always satisfy his inquisitor. Mr. MacVeagh, in the presence of the assemblage, expressed his admiration of the ability of the witness.

Mr. MacVeagh weighed heavily on what he said was a reign of terror in the anthracite region during the period of the strike. He read a list of 14 names of men who were killed during that time and also submitted in evidence about 75 printed pages of acts of alleged violence, boycott and intimidation, and with the assistance of stacks of other documents maintained that it would be utterly impossible for the coal companies he represents to enter into agreements with an organization that could not control its own men.

Mr. Mitchell stoutly maintained that the discipline in the organization is as good as it possibly could be where 147,000 men were involved. He claimed that the strikers were not entirely responsible for the acts of lawlessness that were committed. He regretted that members of the union had, in some instances, violated the laws, even after they had been warned to refrain from doing so, but made the excuse that in times of great excitement there was always more or less disorder.

In answer to questions he said that where there was a reign of terror, and he had no information that such was the case during the late strike, conditions arise that are "intolerable" or "unfortunate." Replying to specific instances pointed out to him by Mr. MacVeagh, where men had been deterred from going to work through fear of personal harm or social ostracism for themselves and families, Mr. Mitchell said that in some instances men may have been deterred, but denied the assertion that such alleged acts prevented the mines from being operated.

The miners' president, no matter how skilfully he was questioned, could not be dragged into a flat admission that he, as president of the union, approved of the boycotts complained of by the companies. He had his personal opinion of some phases of the boycott, but would not express them as being the sentiment or policy of his organization.

During the cross-examination the commissioners often interrupted with questions in order to stop a long colloquy over some disputed point. While the examination was at times quite spirited, the best of good feeling prevailed.

In the course of the session, Mr. MacVeagh examined Mr. Mitchell regarding the eight-hour demand and referred to the fact that Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley worked more than eight hours a day and were thus enabled to climb the ladder to the presidency. Mr. MacVeagh grew eloquent in the course of putting one of his questions to Mr. Mitchell regarding the martyred presidents, and added: "I only mention these because they are the three victims of the spirit of anarchy, which is the curse of this country today and the only serious curse afflicting it."

The miners' president, quick as a flash, came back with the inquiry, "Trade unions are not held responsible for it, are they?" to which Mr. MacVeagh quickly responded that they were not and supplemented this with the remark that labor unions are most admirable. The bringing of the word anarchy into the examination caused a distinct murmur of disapproval from the many mine workers in the court room.

At another point Mr. MacVeagh, raising his voice to a high pitch and speaking with great fervor, asked the witness: "Don't you know as well as you know your name is John Mitchell that in spite of the authorities of this city, of this country and of this state, this whole region has been treated for five months to a veritable foretaste of hell?"

Mr. Mitchell calmly replied: "I don't know anything of the kind." "Well, you will before we are through with you," was Mr. MacVeagh's retort.

Healy Heads New Irish Faction

London, Nov. 18.—The revolt of the Irish member, Jasper Tully, from the parliamentary leadership of William O'Brien, has led to the formation of a new Irish party under the leadership of Timothy Healy, whose policy is announced as that of common sense and moderation. Only nine members so far have joined the new section, but 18 others are reported to be ready to adhere to it.

Portuguese King In England

London, Nov. 18.—The King of Portugal arrived at Windsor last night to pay a visit to the King and Queen of England. A great banquet was given at Windsor castle in honor of the royal guest. The German emperor had good shooting yesterday on the estate of the Earl of Lonsdale, whose guest he has been since Saturday.

New Move For Patrick

New York, Nov. 18.—Recorder Goff signed an order yesterday calling on the district attorney to show cause why a motion should not prevail granting a new trial to Albert T. Patrick, who was convicted of the murder of William M. Rice. The motion is based on what is declared to be new evidence.

CHAMBERLAIN HONORED

On the Eve of His Departure For South Africa

London, Nov. 18.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain received a great ovation last night at Birmingham, where a farewell banquet on the occasion of his departure for South Africa was given in his honor. Members of all parties joined in the demonstration, as the affair was of a non-political character.

Responding to a tremendously enthusiastic welcome, the colonial secretary paid an affectionate tribute to his American wife who, he declared, had sustained him by her courage, and cheered him by her sympathy. He had found in her his best and truest counsellor.

Referring to his approaching trip, he said there was a possibility of failure. The government's desire was to make South Africa one united nation—united in heart as well as in name. He hoped to see the representatives of every political section in South Africa. He could then learn more in three days than in a month's study of dispatches in the blue books. He believed that he would be met half way and that he would gain the friendship of the king's new Boer subjects. He took a very optimistic view regarding the future of South Africa.

On the conclusion of Mr. Chamberlain's speech a torchlight procession and a fireworks display were held. The streets were packed with thousands of people.

BOYCOTT IS STILL ON

Because of Forgotten Clause In Union Constitution

A HOT TRADES ASSEMBLY

Conservatives and Radicals Were Divided In Opinion as to Dealing With Railway—A Large Majority Wanted Boycott Declared Off

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The boycott against the Schenectady Railway company will continue. The trades assembly held a long and stormy meeting last night at which a resolution was offered to reconsider the resolution ordering the boycott, but a forgotten clause in the constitution to the effect that any action taken at a regular meeting could not be reconsidered at a special meeting was produced and so no action whatever was taken. At the conclusion of the meeting the press committee absolutely refused to give out any information whatever, declaring that newspapers of this city and the entire country were opposed to them in their fight.

From individual members, however, it was learned that the meeting was almost a riot. When it was called to order, with 270 members present, a resolution was offered that the resolution ordering the boycott be reconsidered. Instantly the representatives of the Metal Polishers' union yelled that if the boycott were declared off the entire metal polishers' body would withdraw from the trades assembly.

Hardly were the words out of their mouths when the delegates from the Moulders' union, one of the most powerful bodies affiliated with the assembly, announced that they would withdraw if the boycott were continued. The representatives of the Machinists' unions, which have a membership of several hundred and are especially conservative, announced that they would side with the moulders and withdraw if the trades assembly did not rescind its action.

The result of the meeting was practically a riot. It was evident that a large majority favored calling the boycott off, but any attempt at argument was met with hisses and yells of disapproval from the radical element. Cries of "Traitor" and "Scab" greeted every conservative speech, while the advocates of continuance drowned each others' voices in their efforts to be heard.

Finally it was proposed to take a vote and then the leaders of the boycott produced a clause in the constitution that no action taken at a regular meeting could be reconsidered at any but a subsequent regular meeting and President Jackson declared the resolution to reconsider out of order. Some one moved to adjourn and in the tumult it was declared carried. The next regular meeting will be held Nov. 25.

A crowd of 300 or 400 workingmen was standing outside the hall waiting for the decision. When the delegates came out and told what had been done the crowd hissed and groaned, indicating unmistakably the general feeling of the men toward the boycott.

The leaders say they know organized labor is not in sympathy with the boycott, and that it is necessary to form a new body to rid themselves of the leaders who have put them into this position.

The typographical and other unions state that they will denounce the boycott at their next meeting.

Schooner Turned Turtle

Philadelphia, Nov. 19.—Steamer Newlands reports passed an unknown three-masted wrecked schooner on Nov. 16 about 600 miles east of Delaware capes, bottom up. She is about 180 feet long, sheathed with dark metal, five broken spars attached, all freshly broken.

Old Fellow Was Jealous

Middlesboro, Ky., Nov. 19.—In a fit of jealousy, Thomas Mitchell, aged 58, a cripple, yesterday shot and instantly killed Elkins Weatherby, aged 25. Weatherby was to have been married to Lavina Morris, with whom it is said Mitchell was in love.

THE NEXT SPEAKER

Practically Certain to Be "Uncle Joe" Cannon of Illinois

Washington, Nov. 19.—The anti-Cannon forces are surrendering, and although Mr. Dalzell's friends promise to keep up a show of contest for some time yet, Washington regards the battle as over. One great source of Mr. Cannon's general strength has been his representation of a rural constituency so that he was not identified so distinctly with the great interests as any man from a city would almost necessarily be. Many members, west and east, who have had disagreements with Cannon, are feeling anything but happy over the outcome, but they are acknowledging that it is settled, and that Mr. Cannon will be the next speaker of the house. Interest now centres in the reassignment of committee places which the campaign resulting in his selection may suggest. Every new speaker makes some departures from the strict seniority idea, in his modification of the committee lists.

Tribute to the American Soldier

Chicago, Nov. 19.—In a speech at last night's banquet of the Union League club General Chaffee said: "As a soldier who has served many years I know how honors such as those that have been bestowed upon me come. They come through the loyal devotion and service of other officers and soldiers—that great mass of men who compose the army of the United States. They have helped me to my honors and they helped my loyal friend, Wheaton, to his honor, and no man is more free to acknowledge it than that prince of soldiers." General Wheaton was also present. In his speech General Chaffee referred often to the loyalty of his former subordinate, giving him his share in the honors of the occasion.

Strange Affection of the Liver

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 19.—Professor Kelsey, head of the Latin department of the University of Michigan, and author of many Latin text books, lies at the point of death. An operation which has just been performed may save his life. Kelsey's liver was found to be full of cysts infected with germs. The operation consisted in the removal of these cysts, but many could not be removed. The case is the 18th of the sort known in the world.

Guidi Reaches Field of Duty

Manila, Nov. 19.—Archbishop Guidi, apostolic delegate in the Philippine islands, arrived here yesterday. Archbishop Guidi proceeded from the wharf to the cathedral, where solemn services were held. He will make a formal call on Governor Taft today, and it is expected that the plans for the negotiations looking to the settlement of the friars' lands question will be informally discussed on that occasion.

Scare In New York Theatre

New York, Nov. 19.—A sudden flash of flame lit up the gallery at Tony Pastor's theatre last night and sent the gallery occupants in a headlong rush for the stairs with shouts of "fire." Before a panic could be precipitated the audience was reassured by the continuation of the performance. A fuse in the vitagraph machine located in front of the gallery had burned out, causing the sudden flame.

A Profit Sharing Proposition

Paris, Nov. 19.—Deputy Roche introduced in the chamber yesterday a bill to compel those companies holding mining concessions from the government to admit their employes and workmen to a share of the profits within six months of the passing of his bill. The bill was referred to the committee on mines.

Departure of Minister Wu

Washington, Nov. 19.—Minister Wu, who for more than five years has represented the Chinese government in diplomatic capacity at Washington, left here yesterday afternoon for San Francisco. Mr. Wu will arrive at the coast Sunday next and from there will sail for China on Nov. 25.

Bankers Relieved of $165,000

Lisbon, Nov. 19.—Thieves broke into the underground strong rooms of the banking firm of Pelurinho and have stolen the sum of $165,000. One of the clerks of the bank has been arrested in connection with the robbery.

AN OLD BOVINE MALADY

Prevalent Thirty Years Ago Is Again In Evidence

IT IS HIGHLY INFECTIOUS

Sheep and Swine Are Also Subject to the Disease—Experts From Washington to Investigate In Massachusetts and Rhode Island

Boston, Nov. 19.—An infectious bovine malady, which is thought to be the "foot and mouth disease" that spread widely among the cattle in Massachusetts 30 years ago, has appeared in this state and Rhode Island. An investigation will be started this week to find out how extensive it is, and to obtain an exact diagnosis. A herd of 30 cows in Dedham is quarantined and placed under the care of a veterinarian, and a smaller herd has been quarantined in North Attleboro.

Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry in Washington, was notified yesterday by Dr. Austin Peters of Boston, chief of the cattle bureau of the state board of agriculture, and a telegram was received from him yesterday stating that he will send two experts to Boston to make an investigation. Today Dr. Peters detailed two veterinarians to the stock yards in Brighton to examine the cattle there, in order that the disease may be traced if it has appeared in any of the places whence the cattle come. C. A. Denning, who is the agent of the cattle bureau in this state and has charge of the quarantine service in Brighton and Watertown, went to Dedham yesterday afternoon to make a second examination of the herd under quarantine there, and today he will meet Cattle Commissioner Turner from Rhode Island at the Brighton stock yard.

Thus far the disease has been discovered with a certainty in only two places in Massachusetts, though it has spread more exclusively in Rhode Island. But Dr. Peters has placed himself in communication with the inspectors of animals in every town and city of the state advising them of the appearance of the disease, and giving them directions concerning its detection and treatment. He sent out letters from the state house yesterday afternoon, in which he says:

"The disease may be communicated to sheep and swine. I wish, if you meet any cases of this kind, you would quarantine the cattle, sheep or swine that have the disease or that have been exposed to it; forbidding the owner to take them off his premises or to drive them across or on the public highway. If his fields have not any public highway between the barn and the lots he wishes to turn them into, he can turn them out if he wishes, provided they do not come in contact with his neighbors' cattle. Otherwise, they are to be kept in the stable. When you quarantine any such animals, you can call the disease on your quarantine notice, 'foot and mouth disease,' giving the owner the original copy of quarantine notice and sending duplicate here.

"As this trouble may prove to be serious and important, I wish you to give it your careful attention and carry out any orders directed to you in connection with it faithfully. It may also be conveyed by the shoes and sometimes by the clothing. I think if you have any herds where the trouble exists to deal with you better wear rubbers and an old waterproof coat that can afterward be sponged off with some disinfectant solution before going among other cattle."

California Invades British Market

London, Nov. 19.—California is pushing its fruit in the English market. The shops here are full of excellent fresh figs, plums and grapes at low prices, and during October California successfully flooded this market with thousands of tons of choice black plums, while the farmers of Kent left their plums to rot on the trees, alleging that it was not worth while to pluck them.

Quarry Eluded President

Smedes, Miss., Nov. 19.—President Roosevelt's bear hunt in Mississippi is ended and he has not had even a shot at a bear. The last day of the chase was simply a repetition of the three preceding days. Try as the hunters would, they could not get a bear within range of the president's rifle. The president left for Memphis last evening.

Predicts St Vincent's Doom

London, Nov. 19.—The governor of the Windward islands reports that the prospects of the inhabitants of the island of St. Vincent are blacker than they have ever been. He believes that Georgetown will have to be abandoned, while it is doubtful if any part of the island is out of the range of danger of La Soufriere.

Every year the old question arises as to who owns the Quincy Hospital and why Mr. Rice does not present it to the city. If it was given to the city outright what would it mean? The city would have to support it at a cost of some ten thousand dollars a year and the burden would come on the taxpayer who already feels he is doing more than his share toward supporting the city. Politics would enter in; the matron might be changed with each administration, likewise the assistants, nurses, etc. The doctors would not give of their time so freely as the Hospital under city control would not appeal to them as it does now. It would cost the city more to run it than under the present administration of the board of trustees and with no better results.

How much better to have it as it is, owned by the people of Quincy. Every one in Quincy, man or woman, can join the Hospital corporation, attend the meetings, elect the trustees. etc., without paying annual dues, the corporation being open to everyone. By courtesy, Mr. William B. Rice is elected president of the board of trustees each year, which is the least the people can do in appreciation of his gift. One would hardly expect a man to give a hospital and then pay its running expenses each year as some people seem to think Mr. Rice should. There is no more reason why he should support the Hospital, than the Crane family should the library; both benefit the people.

The Hospital belongs to the people, and if the management of it does not suit them, all they have to do is to join the corporation, attend the meetings and vote. Be broad, be liberal, look at the matter in the right light and when the collector calls on you, give as generously as you can afford to, and then you won't be doing any more than your share.

It looks as if Boston was becoming alarmed because the Quincy Point bridge is to have a revolving draw with two openings, each 100 feet wide. Merchants complain that all the Boston draws are too narrow, and it would seem as if they were. The Congress street draw is but 43 feet, the Summer street draw but 50, and the Mt. Washington avenue draw about 43.

One point which seems to have been overlooked in reference to the pipe to drain the pond at the corner of Washington and Chubbuck streets, and that is the place it will empty. If the polluted water is a nuisance where it now is, it may also be a nuisance on the marsh at the foot of Cleverly Court. The plans do not provide for a pipe to extend to Bent's creek.

The class of 1902 of the High School have taken the initiative in the movement to make Quincy beautiful. This week they have caused eight maple trees to be set along the Hancock street sidewalk in front of the High school, and arrangements are being made for a large shrubbery at the corner of Hancock street and Butler road. If the city should grade the rear of the High school lot, which is now a disgrace, the whole improvement would be great.

Quincy enterprise seems to be developing street railways in many places. Today favorable reports come from John R. Graham, manager of the Public Works Co., at Bangor, Maine; yesterday it was from Danel McLane, superintendent of construction at Schenectady, New York; the other day it was from Benj. J. Weeks, now at Tacoma, Washington. Munroe Perry has done good work as superintendent at Milton, and John A. Duggan has developed a system at Cottage City.

While there are a few who are not willing to accept the verdict of the Republican caucuses, it is surprising how philosophically and good naturedly the party generally has come to the support of Mayor Bryant. With more hearty cooperation on the part of the people, his administration in 1903 should be more successful.

WHO IS BEST MAN?

Lots of Fun in Quincy Court This Morning Over Boy's Play.

Who is the best man, Walter S. Weaver or Conrad C. Spear still remained undecided when court adjourned this morning. Spear, however, told the court in a very dramatic manner that he was, and punctuated that remark by the statement that he was not afraid of Weaver and he could lick him as the latter was a coward.

On the stand Spear asked the court if he thought it reasonable that he with a lunch box in his hand and an overcoat on would attempt to lick Weaver who was twice as large. As Spear, however was much larger than Weaver the remark caused a broad smile to run around the room.

The trouble arose over the alleged use of a jack o'lantern by Weaver's heir. Spear then wrote Weaver a long letter in which he said among other things that if he did not keep his son at home he would have no need of a glass to see the damage.

A few mornings later Spear met Weaver at the depot and some fighting words passed between them. Each it is alleged claimed to be the best man. Weaver says that Spear raised his arm as though to strike him, and then Spear got a poke under the nose which caused the red blood to flow freely.

Spear still contended he was the best man and could prove it. He, however, got a warrant against Weaver for assault. The court after hearing the evidence discharged Weaver, but said each should give personal bonds to keep the peace for three months. Altogether it was the funniest thing that ever happened in court.

Surprise Party.

Last Saturday evening a very pleasant surprise was tendered Miss Mabel Wilson Richards of Weymouth, at the residence of her uncle, Mr. C. H. Kidder, 26 Copeland street, West Quincy. Much of the evening was spent in listening to a zonophone entertainment, while games and music were enjoyed at intervals.

After refreshments were served, Mr. H. T. Prario in an appropriate speech presented Miss Richards, on behalf of those present, with a handsome opal ring. The party broke up at a late hour leaving behind them evidences of a very good time.

Among those invited were: Gertrude Gilbert, Etta Bealieu, Clara Keith, Alice W. Jones, Bessie Moody, Flossie Nightingale, Eva G. Prario, Mabel E. Prario, Edna S. Staniford, Maggie K. Shirley, Jessie Smith, Jennie Walters, James Burke, Herbert Curtis, Everett Hayden, George S. Johnson, Charles E. Mathaurs, Daniel Martell, George Nelson, Henry T. Prario, William Robie, Robert Smith, Napoleon Garando, Clifford M. Snow, Howard Tirrell, Harold Q. Walsh.

A Lively Blaze.

The alarm from Box 72 at 2.55 this morning was for a lively blaze in a double house on Chubbuck street, owned by George L. Phillips and occupied by Charles Lang and C. L. Pease. The fire evidently started in the L and worked up through the roof to the main building.

The fire, however, was under control before the main building had been more than scorched. The exact cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have been due to rats in the part occupied by Mr. Lang. The loss will not exceed $250. The fire was discovered by Officer Larkin who gave the alarm promptly, and B. H. Kinsman is entitled to credit for arousing the families.

No-License Campaign.

The last meeting before election of the No-License League was held Tuesday evening in the offices of Dr. Sherman, and plans were completed for rousing work during the remaining two weeks. As usual a paper will be issued by the League this year, containing a presentation of its case from every point of view. The speechmaking at Quincy Music Hall on the Sunday evening preceding election day, is expected to prove a strong card, the best public speakers that the city affords having been secured for the occasion.

Excursion tickets for the Harvard-Yale football game, New Haven, Nov. 22d, on sale by the Boston & Albany R. R. at $8 for the round-trip, via. Springfield line, including seat in parlor car in each direction. Early applications for tickets are desirable in order to secure the best accommodations, and to avoid the rush for seats.

FROST CARNIVAL.

Very Attractive Fair Under Auspices of Bethany Ladies.

The three days' Frost Carnival by the Bethany church opened Tuesday afternoon. The chapel where the carnival was held had been completely transformed for the occasion. When lit up at night it presented a very inviting as well as a beautiful scene.

Entrance to the carnival was from the basement door on Chestnut street. Once inside the first thing that met the eye was the sign "restaurant" Inquiry brought out the fact that lunch was served here at all hours, and supper from 5 to 8 P. M. Mrs. A. H. Gilson was the lady in charge and she was assisted by Mrs. W. G Shaw, Mrs. A. G. Coffin, Mrs. H. A. Feltis, Mrs. W. A. Pratt, Mrs. Charles Hayden, Mrs. William Field, Mrs. Alice Cobb, Mrs. A. L. Melcher, Mrs. V. E. Miller and Mrs. Warren Arnold. Besides these there was a group of young people who attended to the wants of those at the tables. They were: Avah Gilson, Lorenzo Gilson, Dulah Miller, Harry Drake, Carl Sheppard, Charlotte Kingman, Edna Wood, Wendell Luce, Alice Webb, Lois Williams.

Going up stairs to the chapel the first thing noticable was that all the ladies in attendance were dressed in white. The chapel itself was in holiday array. Broad streamers of white were festooned from the center of the ceiling to the sides, while around the top of the room was a broad streamer of red, caught up at stated intervals with white bows. Numerous lanterns of the Japanese pattern also added to the effect.

The first booth on the left was the candy basket. This was a large booth prettily trimmed and displayed a large assortment of sweets. The Devotional Ten of King's Daughters were in charge of this. Miss Alice Sampson, Mrs. Jennie Hunt Miss Mabel McKenzie, Miss Nettie Tanner and Miss Ethelyn Jameson.

Adjoining this were the order and domestic tables, where a full line of goods used in every household were on sale by Mrs. George Macfarlane, Mrs. R. R. Smith, Mrs. L. M. Jillson and Mrs. George Hatch.

Then came two Mystery trees between which was the children's table. The mystery trees were prettily decorated Christmas trees, loaded with mysterious looking packages which were sold by young ladies whose identity was hidden behind white masks. It was learned however that they were: Miss Elizabeth Merrill, Miss Corinne Hayward, Miss Carrie Parker, Miss Helen Kingman, Miss Edna Wood and Miss Marjorie Melcher.

The children's table displayed a line of goods for childrens wear. Mrs. H. H. Hill was in charge and she was assisted by Mrs. Hugh McPhail and Mrs. A. S. Greer.

The next booth was a farmer's shack made of straw. It was called the Brotherhood booth. It displayed numerous signs which told the public that not only were the goods not made by a trust but that no trust was given. Green trading stamps were also included among the things not given, and smoking was strickly prohibited. The articles offered for sale were probably not made by the brotherhood but were somehow obtained from the sisterhood as they consisted of fruits and preserves. Those in charge were: F. W. Crane, E. D. Gourd, A. L. Melcher, Henry Hayward and H. L. Bates, who appeared as typical farmers.

At the left of the platform was a lemonade booth. It was so situated that after running the gauntlet of eager saleslades if you had any money left a drink of cool lemonade would not only refresh you but give you courage to complete the circuit of the room. The young ladies whose pleadings to purchase could not be resisted were: Miss Annie Johnson, Miss Ida Kingman, Miss Black, Miss Grace Perry, Miss Lucy Newcomb, Miss Annie Mitchell and Miss Ethel Rinn.

The two class rooms on the Chestnut street side were occupied as a doll booth and Japanese Den. In the former were dolls of all sizes and kinds with prices prices to suit the purse. Miss Mabel Tanner was in charge and she was assisted by Miss Lillian Taber, Mrs. E. W. Branch, Mrs. G. D. Langley, Mrs. Bessie Rounds, Mrs. Gertrude Wrisley and Miss Addie Parks.

The Japanese den was one of the most attractive booths. From the centre there hung a large Japanese umbrella from which were hung lanterns of the same make. Around the room were many sofa pillows and pieces of Japanese ware. Many things suitable for Christmas gifts. Mrs. John McKnight gowned as a Japanese lady was in charge, and she was assisted by Mrs. Herbert W. Beattie and Mrs. O. A. Hayward.

In the centre of the room were two booths trimmed with bunting and profusely decorated with evergreen and pine boughs. One was a booth for the sale of fancy articles and the other for flowers. The fancy booth was in charge of Mrs. George Badger, assisted by Mrs. E. W. Sheppard, Mrs. Frank L. Merrill, Mrs. Frank F. Prescott, Mrs. Charles F. Harper and Miss Annie Bailey.

At the flower booth were Mrs. George Taylor, Miss J. M. Little, Miss Geason, Miss Annie Williams, Mrs. Rowland Hughes and Mrs. Lewis Tupper.

A plentiful supply of stage snow was used about the booths and on the hair of the ladies, the whole presenting a pretty winter scene.

Tuesday was children's day and Prof. F. O. Harrell entertained both afternoon and evening with clever sleight of hand tricks, music on glasses, etc., to the delight of all.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Mrs. Charles L. Leavey of Prospect avenue, is visiting friends in New York.

Fred Harlow, of Colorado, a brother of City Clerk Harlow, is in Quincy on a visit.

The rain which has been threatening for the past few days, arrived this morning.

A new house with store on the street floor is being built on Arthur street by Adolph Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Estabrooks of Payne street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

A store front is being put onto a house on Hancock street, near Myrtle street, and the house improved.

Joseph Walker of the Aberdeen Granite works has built a new office building at his plant on Arthur street.

W. R. Lofgren has the foundation nearly in for the new fire station at Houghs Neck, and the lumber is on the ground ready to rush the work.

The funeral of Miss Maria Gearin was held from St. John's church this morning. Rev. J. P. Cuffe officiated and the burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Caroline Whitcomb was held Tuesday from her home on Clive street. Rev. A. J. Cardell officiated. The burial was at New Bedford.

Miss Helen L. Coe of Portland, Maine, founder of the Portland school of gymnastics, has been the guest of her brother, Charles L. Coe, the past week.

Mr. Harry Fairbanks, who has been confined to his home for the past two weeks with a severe strain, is convalescing so that he is able to get out of doors.

Atlantic people say, why not run the Houghs Neck line of electries through Atlantic, via Faxon road, and make it a belt route. It would pay and be popular.

Cape Ann granite company, doing business at Gloucester and Boston, is petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy at the instance of two creditors, whose claims amount to $21,031.40.

The Edward Hewitson's Associates gave a peddler's parade and magic mirror entertainment in Wollaston hall formerly Brasee's hall Tuesday evening. There was a good deal of merriment for those who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rogers of Cross street, were tendered a surprise party Monday evening by their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were presented a handsome Morris chair. The evening was pleasantly spent and refreshments were served throughout the evening.

Mrs. Harry Taber of East Weymouth entertained the Entre Nous Whist club of this city Tuesday afternoon. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Dr. Henderson, a china bon bon dish; to Mrs. Miller of Wollaston, a pair linen hemmed stitched shams; and to Mrs. George F. Phillips a shopping bag.

Those who attended the ping pong tournament at the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church passed a very enjoyable evening. Prizes were won by Miss Marion Hatch and Mr. Whittemore, Jr. The few who were not experts at ping pong tried their skill at other games. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The bay in front of Atlantic and Wollaston, which presented such an animated appearance during the summer months, looks decidedly lonesome and deserted now. Most all the boats have been put into winter quarters, the floats have been hauled out only a few small boats with the patient fishermen are to be seen on the surface of this beautiful sheet of water.

Mrs. George Nash, who has put her laundry out, sending it by one of the drivers for a store in the centre, has from time to time missed articles until finally about half the wash failed to to come back. By prompt action she discovered her wash had been distributed around by the man and not wishing them back under the circumstances she forced him to pay a money equivalent. He got off easy at that.

—A matinee whist party will be the attraction at the Grand Army fair tomorrow afternoon at 2. Tickets 15 cents and valuable presents given.

The Dally Ledger is now sold at East Milton by Harold Bassett who will deliver the paper to customers.

DEFENDS RECORD.

Tax Collector Not Yet Up to His Predecessor.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The controversy that has been going on between the local press and City Hall with reference to the collection of taxes amounts to nothing as far as the credit or censure of the Collection department is concerned.

The amount paid in before Jan. 1, on the tax levy for the current year, is entirely at the discretion of the tax payers, no pressure whatever being brought to bear by any Collector before January, when a summons is issued.

In submitting the table of figures below I do it with no malice toward the department, but in justice to my past record which the public are given to understand has been excelled.

The only tax for which the department should receive credit for collecting, are delinquent taxes. All others can be cared for by a clerical force. But to collect back taxes requires a persistent strenuous effort on the part of the head of the department and it is right here that the city saves or loses, as the matter may be, on the collection or non-collection.

When I took the office in 1898 an aggressive movement was at once made on the tax of 1897 and kept up during my three years of service as Collector.

The result may be seen in my report of last January and copied in last week's paper, that the amount of uncollected tax on the 1897 levy last January was $3,467.39 or less than one per cent. of the tax levy; other back years were also collected down to near one per cent.

In order for the department to make a report Jan. 1, 1903, that will compare favorably with my report last year, the figures below will show that he must collect before that time about $26,000 delinquent taxes.

1897 tax uncollected Jan. 1, 1902—$3,467.39.

TAX OF 1898.

Uncollected Jan. 1, 1902,	$4,204.19
Should collect this year,	736.80
Had collected Oct. 1,	82.55
Short,	654.25

TAX OF 1899.

Uncollected Jan. 1, 1902,	$7,017.71
Should collect this year,	3,813.52
Had collected Oct. 1,	709.03
Short,	3,104.49

TAX OF 1900.

Uncollected Jan. 1, 1902,	$71,994.02
Should collect this year,	64,976.31
Had collected Oct. 1,	59,529.32
Short,	5,446.89

TAX OF 1901.

Uncollected Jan. 1, 1902,	$160,538.87
Should collect this year,	88,544.85
Had collected Oct. 1,	71,994.02
Short,	16,565.14
Total shortage for the four years	$25,770.77

It will thus be seen that the amounts marked "short" against the various years must be collected before Jan. 1, in order that this year's report can compare favorably with last. On all the above years except 1901, the real estate taxes have been collected, so the balance is poll and personal and whoever collects these taxes in keeping with his oath and bond, will find no boys' play or bed of roses. Much of the uncollected taxes for preceding years is due to improper assessments, but with the present system of assessing, and proper abatements made, every dollar of 1902 tax levy should be eventually collected.

"Save the Trees."

Editors of the Quincy Ledger:

A few days ago there was formed in this city an organization whose purpose it is "to make Quincy a more attractive and desirable place in which to live and bring up children." Surely this is "a consummation devoutly to be wished."

It is with the hope that the newly organized Quincy People's Union may become interested, that these few lines are written. At the meeting held in Woodward hall, the night the new society was formed, Dr. Gordon gave a most timely talk on the destruction of the shade trees of our city, citing as an example of our modern, destructive methods, the cutting down of that gigantic elm tree in City Square. What a pity that some powerful protest could not have been made before that one of the few, remaining monarchs of the old "Training Field" had been sacrificed.

Within a week past that grand old piece of property on South street, called Bigelow Park, has been staked out for house lots and streets. I have been told that the long row of elm trees on the South street side, between Scammell street and the Bigelow barn, are to be cut down because they stand in the way of what some of our modern-made men are pleased to call "Progress." For years, some of them for hundreds of years, these elm trees have made of South street in the summer time "a thing of beauty and (let us hope) a joy forever." Will not the Quincy People's Union interest itself in the matter and try to have the old trees spared? Let us hope that some action will be taken toward staying the fate that seems at present to await these noble trees. E. V. D.

Administration Conviviality.

Editors of the Daily Ledger;

There are frequent rumors that at the social, political functions of the present city administration, lager beer and other intoxicating liquors, cigars, pipes and tobacco are the principal features of the bill of fare. It is the duty of some of the prominent Republican party officials to enlighten the public whether there is any foundation of fact in these continuous rumors.

In view of the large majority against license at our last city election, which is supposed to represent the local sentiment on the liquor question, such convivial gatherings as have been alluded to should receive public condemnation by all who have the reputation of our municipality at heart.

MRS. LIVERMORE.

The Guest of Honor at Quincy Mansion Reception.

Those receiving invitations to social times at the Quincy Mansion school always avail themselves of the opportunity to visit this delightful house and meet Dr. and Mrs. Willard, and Tuesday afternoon was no exception. Mrs. Willard had issued cards for the afternoon from two until five o'clock, to meet Mrs. Mary A. Livermore and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, two of God's noblest women. From two until three Mrs. Willard received in the parlor of the Quincy Mansion and the guests assembled at Livermore hall, in the Canterbury building where Mrs. Livermore and Mrs. Howe were to give a talk from three to four. Some two hundred were present.

Many were disappointed when Dr. Willard announced that Mrs. Howe was unable to be present on account of illness. He said Mr. and Mrs. Josiah P. Quincy formerly of Quincy and for whose home the school was named were present, and asked Mr. Quincy to make a few remarks.

Mr. Quincy was very interesting, giving anecdotes of his Quincy days, his meeting Mrs. Livermore, and how proud he was to know such such a fine old woman.

Mrs. Willard read a few letters of regret from those unable to be present, after which Mrs. Livermore held the attention for over half an hour. Mrs. Livermore spoke of her life and its limitations and said she wondered if the young women of today realized what a future there is before them.

A wonderful world has been prepared for them. There has been great advancement in the matter of a higher education for women. "When I started in life," said Mrs. Livermore, "there was but little opportunity for a woman to obtain more than a limited education. There was no high school for young women. In 1826 a girls' high school was started in Boston, but it was abandoned at the expiration of a year, on account of the expense. It was the general feeling at that time that the only training a young woman needed was that for wifehood and motherhood. No effort was made to start a high school in Boston again until 1846. Another advantage which the young women of today have is in the matter of remunerative occupation.

"Again, there has been an advance for woman in the matter of holding property. At one time she had no claim on property which she had helped earn, but this has been changed through the justice of men. This has been done without any effort on the part of woman. It can be truly said that the men of America in their relations to women are the noblest in the world.

Mr. Nathan Haskell Dole spoke a few words to the students, after which Mrs. Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung with much feeling by the audience.

From four until five Mrs. Livermore and Mrs. Willard received at the Mansion.

The ushers were Miss Florence Seligman, Miss Helen Hewitt, Miss Cordelia Shearn, Miss Margarette Buist, Miss Amy Dunlap, Miss Meda Handy, Miss Phebe Achinson, Miss Johanna Wooten, Miss Jennie Belmore, Miss Bertha Batchelder, Miss Ethel Smith, Miss Emily Dewey, members of the senior class.

Refreshments were served in the dining room, and in the library, tea was served near a most cheerful fire on the hearth. The students showed the guests every attention, and looked lovely in dainty light gowns.

Guests were present from Quincy, Boston, and the suburbs, and all were charmed with the school and its environments.

HEARING GIVEN.

On Petition for Removal of Officer Bradley from Force.

Some few days ago a petition signed by 57 Swedish citizens was presented to Mayor Bryant, couched in somewhat threatening terms, demanding the removal of Officer Patrick J. Bradley. The reason they want him removed wae because, as they claim, the unwarranted shooting of John Bjorkson by the officer some months ago.

This was the case where the officer was escorting one McLaughlin to his home when he was set upon by two men one of whom was Bjorkson. When the case was tried before the district court, the evidence was that the rocks began to fly. That the officer shouted to them to stop or he would shoot. The reply was a blow on the head with a rock tied in a handkerchief which cut a deep gash in the officer's head and caused him to lose his hold on his night stick. Then it was that the officer drew his revolver and fired, one of the shots taken effect in Bjorkson's breast.

It was also testified that Bjorkman said that he did not know who it was he struck, and would not have struck him if he had known. The court imposed a fine of $100, which was paid

Now the claim of Bjorkson and his friends is that the assault was unwarranted.

Mayor Bryant gave the petitioners a hearing Tuesday night at City Hall. They were represented by counsel, and Officer Bradley was also present.

At this hearing it is said that Bjorkman claimed that the officer shot him without provocation, and that he did not strike him with the rock until after he was shot.

Bjorbson had several witnesses present and the hearing was private. Mayor Bryant will give his finding later.

Officer Bradley is without doubt one of the most efficient officers of the department. His beat is in a locality where some of the toughest characters congregate, and he has had frequent trouble with them. He performes his duty faithfully, and is much feared by the unlawful element who are said to be at the bottom of the plan to get him removed. More officers of his stamp would result in less lawlessness.

It is said that an article under the head of Quincy appeared in a recent issue of a Swedish paper, which is characterized as being red hot. That Officer Bradley was the subject of the article, which demanded to know how long Quincy was to be ruled by Irish and Micks.

Appreciated.

The street railway system of Bangor and vicinity is being rapidly extended and improved since John R. Graham, recently of Quincy, became general manager. Saturday afternoon there was a reception in one of the newly developed suburbs attended by the city governments of Bangor and Brewer and others. Mayor Engel, Mayor Higgins, Mr. Graham and others spoke. The prophecies of Manager Graham were pleasing and heartily received, and they realized great improvements would come shortly.

Grand Army Fair.

There was another large attendance at the Grand Army fair in Hancock hall Tuesday evening, and the indications thus far are that the fair will continue to be largely attended and be a greater financial success than ever before. The object for which the fair is held is a worthy one, and it gives people an opportunity to show their appreciation for the work done by these comrades in the days of '61, in maintaining the privileges which all enjoy today. The articles offered for sale are such that should command a ready sale, inasmuch as reasonable prices only are charged.

A pleasing entertainment was given Tuesday evening. The attraction this afternoon is a baby show, and large numbers of fond mothers with their babies are in attenance.

RECOGNITION OF UNION

The Most Important Question Before Strike Commission

COMPANIES WILL FIGHT IT

Mitchell Begins to Show Effects of Severe Strain He Has Undergone In Cross Examination—Arbitrators Are Also Growing Restless

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 19.—President Mitchell, for the fourth successive day, occupied the witness stand during the two sessions of the strike commission and was cross-examined by three attorneys for as many coal companies. While a considerable amount of information for the enlightenment of the commissioners was brought out, the day was a rather quiet one, compared with those which have preceded it. The arbitrators are growing restless in consequence of the long cross-examination, which apparently does not bring out the fatcs as quickly as the commission would like to have them presented. Several times during the course of yesterday's session Chairman Gray reminded the attorneys of the value of time and suggested that cross-examination be limited to new features of those questions that have already been gone over. The lawyers assured the commission that they, too, were anxious to expedite matters, and would do everything possible to avoid losing time.

Mr. Mitchell is showing signs of weariness from the strain of the cross-examination, which has lasted since Friday. Thus far his attorney, C. S. Darrow, and David Willcox for the Delaware and Hudson, Wayne MacVeagh for the Erie, Francis I. Gowen for the Lehigh Valley and W. W. Ross for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, have examined the miners' president. The commissioners yesterday for the first time entered into the discussion with the lawyers and the witness over disputed points which arose from time to time.

Mr. MacVeagh, who began his cross-examination of Mr. Mitchell on Saturday, concluded at 11 o'clock yesterday. The distinguished attorney centered most of his energies in trying to break down the miners' reasons for asking for a yearly agreement with the companies on hours of labor, wages and other conditions, which, if made, would be recognition of the union. Mr. MacVeagh's principal aim throughout his questioning of Mr. Mitchell was to show that the Mine Workers' union, because of alleged acts of intimidation, violence and the use of the boycott by its members, proved itself unfit to be a party to a contract. Mr. Mitchell would not admit, nor even assume for the sake of illustrating points, that a reign of terror existed in the anthracite fields during the last six months. The recognition of the union is looked upon as the most important question before the commission and it is quite evident from the trend of the proceedings thus far that the companies will oppose it to their utmost ability.

Mr. Gowan and Mr. Ross questioned Mr. Mitchell principally regarding conditions existing at the collieries of the companies they represent. These questions were more or less technical. Mr. Mitchell's answers, as a rule, differed very little from the reasons given in his preliminary statement to the commission for improved conditions for the mine workers.

Interest in the proceedings is not waning, and the large crowds which have been wedged in the court room on the preceding days of the hearing were in evidence again yesterday. Neither is there a falling off in the attendance of attorneys, of whom there are almost two score present at each session.

Reading Company's Denial

Washington, Nov. 19.—The answer of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company to the complaint of W. R. Hearst of New York against the anthracite coal carrying roads was filed with the interstate commerce commission yesterday. It enters a general and specific denial to all the charges, statements and inferences that the Reading is in any way violating the interstate commerce law, and denies as false and untrue all the allegations of unlawful combination, confederation or agreement.

Hearty Welcome Home

Memphis, Nov. 19.—The home-coming of General Wright after a three years' absence in the Philippines was made memorable last night by the citizens of Memphis. Cannon boomed a salute of 17 guns, bonfires were lighted on the principal thoroughfares and the streets were lined with people who shouted an enthusiastic welcome to the vice governor.

Anti-American at the Head

Havana, Nov. 19.—The house of representatives has elected Senator Portuondo president of the chamber. Portuondo is a Nationalist with leanings toward radicalism. He is anti-American in his feelings and was strongly opposed to accepting the Platt amendment in the constitutional convention.

Mysterious Assaults on Soldiers

San Francisco, Nov. 19.—Corporal Perrin and Private Milan were mysteriously assaulted at the presidio Monday night. So serious were the injuries received by the men that Perrin died yesterday and Milan is not expected to live. The authorities have no trace of the assailants.

TO "REMOVE" ROOSEVELT

Woman Tells of Alleged Plots Which Failed to Materialize

New York, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Lena Doxheimer, who asserts that until she became a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Hoboken two years ago she was associated with an anarchistic society of that place, is reported to have related to the Mothers' club and the pastor of her church in a moment of religious fervor and excitement a story of alleged anarchist plottings against the life of President Roosevelt.

According to Mrs. Doxheimer, three persons have been assigned in the last 14 months to the task of "removing" the president. Of these, a Frenchman named Meloy, she says, she persuaded to return to Paris, where he was killed by a street car. Next, according to Mrs. Doxheimer, the assassin's task was assigned to a man named Mueller, living in this city, who a few days later died of poison, self-administered. The last of the three designated for the murderous work, Mrs. Doxheimer alleges, was a Mrs. Schroeder of Harlem, who also ended her life by means of poison.

Rev. Charles L. Meade, Mrs. Doxheimer's pastor, will make no statement regarding the so-called confession.

Morgan Gave What Was Asked For

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 19.—The Women's league of the Congregational church of Flint had an experience social Sunday night, at which various members told how they had earned $1 to be used in the work of the society. A certain member had earned 99 cents by her own efforts, and in her dire extremity she wrote to J. Pierpont Morgan for the other cent to make up her contribution, and received from the great financier a courteous note enclosing a cent and containing the assurance that if the league ever needed to be helped out of a tight place again he could be counted on to come to the rescue.

Says Cuba Is Prospering

Havana, Nov. 19.—Lionel Carden, the British minister, in a report on the situation in Cuba, says none of the evils so confidently predicted by the advocates of reciprocity has come to pass. No sugar estate of any importance has been compelled to stop and the recent crisis has really been of immense service to Cuba in teaching the planters to be economical in the management of their plantations.

Labor Officials' Salaries Raised

New Orleans, Nov. 19.—The salary of the president of the American Federation of Labor was yesterday increased from $2100 per annum to $3000 and the salary of the secretary from $1800 to $2500. The special committee having before it the dispute between President Gompers and President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association finally organized. It spent the entire afternoon in taking testimony.

Jealousy Leads to Murder

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Lulu M. Youngs, 28 years old, who killed Florence J. MacFarlane, 22 years old, yesterday, is on the verge of collapse. All of the facts brought out point to jealousy as a motive. It has been found that Mr. Youngs had known Miss MacFarlane before he married Miss Miller, and that he continued to be intimate with her afterward.

Of Interest to Fishermen

St. Johns, Nov. 19.—It is understood here that the Bond-Hay treaty includes green, or partly cured, codfish, as well as dry, or fully cured, cod. American fishermen are granted equal privileges in the colonial waters with the resident fishers.

Glad to Leave Isthmus

Colon, Nov. 19.—The United States marines from Panama embarked on the U. S. S. Panther yesterday. They and the crew of that vessel are happy at their release from duty on the isthmus.

Another Commoner Sentenced

Dublin, Nov. 19.—William Duffy, M. P. (Nationalist), was sentenced yesterday at Galway to three months' imprisonment for conspiracy and incitement to commit crime.

MOTHER AND BABE

Sick mother—sick child
That's the way it works when a mother is nursing her infant

Scott's Emulsion is an ideal medicine for nursing mothers. It has a direct effect on the milk. Sometimes the mother is weak; her thin milk does not make the baby grow. Scott's Emulsion changes all that. The rich cod-liver oil in Scott's Emulsion feeds the mother and gives a flow of rich, nourishing milk for the baby.

The medicine in Scott's Emulsion not only strengthens the mother but goes naturally through the milk and strengthens the child.

Nothing to harm—all for good—Scott's Emulsion.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

A CARELESS JEWELER

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 19.—One of the most daring and successful robberies ever perpetrated in this city took place early last evening in the jewelry store of Alexander Weed, and as a result that merchant has lost diamonds valued at about $4000.

Shortly before 7 o'clock a stranger entered the jewelry store and requested Weed to show him some diamond rings. At this juncture Frederick Sackett, a New York messenger, entered and retired to the further end of the store. Weed left his customer for a moment to converse with Sackett and the stranger made a hasty exit, saying as he went out the door: "I have got what I wanted."

Weed perceived in a moment that the man had purloined every ring in the two trays. He and Sackett immediately gave chase and they were joined by several other persons. The robber ran half a block up Atlantic avenue, where he disappeared behind the opera house. From here he made his way through several back streets and eluded his pursuers.

No Testimony In Morton Case

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 19.—The case of George L. O. Perry, charged with the murder of Clara A. Morton in Waverley, was yesterday continued to Feb. 15, the defendant being remanded to jail without bail. No evidence was presented. This means that there will be no preliminary hearing in the Morton case, the government's evidence being given to the February grand jury, which considers the McPhee case on which Perry was held Monday. The witnesses against Perry were all in court, but none of them was put on the stand.

Boom For "Deserted Village"

North Brookfield, Mass., Nov. 19.—The manufacture of shoes at the Big Batchelder plant, the closing of which, many months since, made of this place New England's deserted village, will probably be resumed soon. Hundreds of families and scores of store-keepers are already rejoicing at the good news which they have heard. According to present information a deal is being worked up for the reopening of the Batchelder shop by Theodore C. Bates of Worcester and Mr. Batchelder.

Receiver For Safe and Iron Works

Boston, Nov. 19.—One result of the Central National bank failure is the appointment of a receiver for the Damon Safe and Iron Works company of Cambridge. The bank, it was stated by counsel at yesterday's hearing, held the Damon company's paper to the extent of $150,000. In its bill of complaint the Chrome steel works of New York sets forth that the Damon Safe and Iron Works company is indebted to a large number of creditors to the aggregate sum of about $300,000.

Got Money From Solons

Woodsville, N. H., Nov. 19.—Charles F. George of New York was arrested here yesterday on a charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. It is claimed that George obtained $3 each from 150 members of the Vermont legislature in payment for placing their pictures in a legislative album. The album has not appeared. George was held under $1000 bail for the February term of the grand jury.

Must Pay For Water Plant

Boston, Nov. 19.—The suit brought by the Holyoke Water Power company against the city of Holyoke to recover damages for its gas and electric plants taken by the city, came before Judge Loring in the supreme court yesterday. By agreement of counsel the court entered a decree for the plaintiff, awarding it $707,000 for the plant and $18,600 a year rent for power in maintaining the plant.

Was Once Prosperous

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 19.—Everett S. Cole, who, apparently demented, was found lying in the woods near Elkton, Md., by gunners, formerly was a prosperous bicycle manufacturer in East Brookfield. Business reverses came a few years ago and he brooded over his losses and subsequent lack of success in placing an invention upon the market until, it is believed, his mind gave way.

Arrest In Osgood Case

Revere, Mass., Nov. 19.—Harry Goldburg was arrested yesterday in connection with the Osgood assault case. Goldberg is 21 years old, unmarried and employed by a street railway as a conductor. This is the case in which Miss Mattie Osgood claims to have been dragged from the doorway of her home last Saturday night by two men, who attempted to assault her in a nearby lot.

Won't Tell Where Money Is

Boston, Nov. 19—A sentence of from three to five years in state prison was given James A. Warner, a former janitor at the City Trust company, yesterday, he having been found guilty of stealing $2250 from a drawer in the rooms of the company. Warner refuses to tell where the money is and restore it to its owner.

Smallpox In Lumber Camps

Portland, Me., Nov. 19.—Reports from the lumber camps of northern Maine show the commencement of the smallpox epidemic despite the efforts of the officers to keep out the disease. A quarantined camp at Holeb is watched by an armed guard.

Alleged Flat Worker Held

Boston, Nov. 19.—Martin Nally, said to be a notorious flat worker who is wanted in New York for stealing $1400 worth of clothing from an apartment in that city, was arraigned here yesterday as a fugitive from justice and held in $1200 for a hearing Nov. 20.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

A REST FOR MITCHELL

Examination of Miners' President Is Ended.

OPPOSES SEPARATE UNIONS

For the Purpose of Parting Bituminous Miners From Anthracite Workers—Non-Union Men Made a Party to Arbitration Plan

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 20.—After being on the stand for four and a half days President Mitchell of the Miners' union completed his testimony at noon yesterday before the anthracite strike commission. During his ordeal he was examined by his own attorney, and those of the Erie company, the Delaware and Hudson, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the Lehigh Valley, and the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, and also by the attorneys of the independent operators.

JOHN MITCHELL.
[President United Mine Workers of America.]

He was followed on the witness stand by Rev. Peter Roberts, D. D., of Mahanoy City, a Congregational minister, who has studied the anthracite coal industry and has written a book on the subject. He was still on the stand when the commission adjourned for the day.

One of the most important things brought out during the cross-examination of President Mitchell yesterday was his emphatic declaration that the miners were opposed to separating the bituminous miners from the anthracite workers, thus creating two organizations. He made this reply to a question of Mr. Wolverton, counsel for the Reading company. Mr. Mitchell's answer was that "it would not be possible or desirable. The anthracite mine workers have had independent organizations in the past. They have had several. They have gone. They are not here now, and the men do not want any more of their organizations to go the same way."

Commissioner Wright, in his report to President Roosevelt on the coal strike dated June 20, suggested among other things as "reasonable and just" to prevent industrial conflict in the anthracite fields that the "anthracite employes should organize an anthracite coal miners' union, in its autonomy to be independent of the United Mine Workers of America," but might be affiliated with it. There has been some gossip among the small army of attorneys at the hearings that the commission may possibly suggest such a separate union and the fact that Mr. Wolverton touched on the matter shows that it is being seriously thought of in some quarters.

The non-union men, that is those who remained at work during the strike, were made a party to the arbitration plan yesterday by their counsel agreeing to make public the names of the men who petitioned the commission. When the attorneys for the "non-striking" workmen, as Chairman Gray designated them, and who number about 2000, made a demand to the commission for a 20 percent increase in wages with no reduction in hours, their attorneys desired to withhold the names of the persons they represented. The commission, however, decided they could not be a party to such a plan of secrecy.

In connection with the non-union feature of the investigation Mr. Mitchell announced that he is also representing thousands of non-union men who struck with the unionists and that all the workmen would abide by the award of the arbitrators "or get out of the union."

The commissioners, while regretting they have to do so, are still reminding both sides that they would like to have the submission of testimony expedited. Chairman Gray, several times during the day, interrupted and showed that ground then being gone over had already been covered. It has been suggested that counsel for both sides agree to rules for the submission of evidence, but nothing has yet been done looking toward that end.

Severe Weather Off Labrador

St. Johns, Nov. 20.—Belated vessels from Labrador report that winter is setting in with exceptional severity in those latitudes and that seaboard ice is making towards the Belle Isle straits, navigation of which will soon close.

Trading In City Jobs

New York, Nov. 20.—Discoveries that certified laborers in the street cleaning department were being impersonated by outsiders caused the municipal civil service commission yesterday to adopt the Bertillon system of measurements to ascertain the identity of any man employed by the city. Twenty cases have been found where men were working under assumed names, using cards given them by the original employe. It was the plan of the original employe to get other work and then sell his card to a man who assumed his name.

President and Directors Disagreed

Philadelphia, Nov. 20.—President Walter of the Lehigh Valley railroad yesterday tendered his resignation to the board of directors, to take effect Nov. 30. The resignation was accepted. The only explanation of President Walter's action that could be obtained from the directors was that differences of opinion existed between the president and the directors regarding the management of the company's affairs.

Making British Metropolis Secure

London, Nov. 20.—Efforts of a far reaching character have been set on foot to fortify the metropolis against a possible attack in case of war. An announcement to the effect that extensive buildings have been completed 11 miles south of London for use as a mobilizing centre in the scheme for the defense of London reveals for the first time the existence of important war office operations.

A Wolf In Sheep's Clothing

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 20.—A. G. Glasgow of Millersville, who cloaked his extensive horse stealing operations under the guise of a Bible agent, an energetic worker in church work and the organization of Sunday schools, was yesterday found guilty on 15 indictments. He was sentenced to five years and nine months in jail and to pay a fine of $1400 and costs.

Shaffer Charges Fall Flat

New Orleans, Nov. 20.—The special committee appointed to consider the charges made by President Shaffer against President Gompers will report today. It will probably exonerate Gompers. Shaffer has not only failed to substantiate his charges, but it is said he did not even formulate them before the committee.

Testing Jim Crow Car Law

New Orleans, Nov. 20.—President Pearson of the New Orleans Railway company and his officials, charged with violating the separate car law, were discharged yesterday in the criminal court. Counsel for the company claimed that the law is unconstitutional. The case will probably go to the state supreme court.

Egan Given Up For Lost

St. Paul, Nov. 20.—The Great Northern Railway company accepts as a fact that Benjamin F. Egan, the missing superintendent of the Kalispell division, has perished, and appoints A. F. Long as his successor. Egan disappeared in the mountains two weeks ago and search since then has failed to find traces of him.

Nebraska Buys From Bay State

Lincoln, Nob., Nov. 20.—The supreme court rendered an opinion last night declaring legal the transaction whereby the state of Nebraska will buy $300,000 in gold bonds from the commonwealth of Massachusetts. The money is an unexpended accumulation of the surplus school fund of the state.

A BURNING WILDERNESS

Large District of Guatemala Is Thus Described

AWFUL HAVOC BY VOLCANO

Several Craters Spout Debris Over Plantations, Leaving Them In Ruins—Stories of Refugees Who Have Just Reached San Francisco

San Francsco, Nov. 20.—The first of the refugees from the devastated lands of Guatemala arrived yesterday on the Pacific mail steamer City of Para. They came from inland districts and traveled over a country laid waste by sand, ashes and pumice before reaching a railway station. From the railroad they traveled to Champerico and there took the steamer to San Francisco.

They sailed on Nov. 7, when the volcano was still smoking and rumbling of thunder and flashes of lightning gave evidence of more eruptions to come. They fled from their plantations in fear for their lives. They escaped to the seaside with little more than the clothing they wore, transportation being so difficult as to preclude carrying of baggage.

The refugees confirm stories of the loss of life. They say that the victims, for the most part, are Indians. Thousands of Indians were asphyxiated or buried in the sand. Miles of plantations are under ashes and absolute ruin is the lot of many planters whose all was invested in agriculture.

The refugees say that it is not the crater of Santa Maria that is in action but a smaller mountain rising from one of the western slopes of Santa Maria, called El Fosaio.

Bands of robbers are now swarming the desolated sections robbing and murdering refugees on the road and looting the abandoned and desolate plantations.

The people left behind on the plantations, it is said, are in danger of death from starvation, for the food supply has been cut off and there is no way to send them supplies.

The steamer City of Para met evidences of the volcanic eruption soon after leaving Odos. Great quantities of pumice were found floating on the water. When the vessel came off the coast of Guatemala the shore was seen to be covered with ashes. At Champerico there was about half an inch of ashes over the roofs of the houses and the ground was covered as with snow. Ashes were then falling, although it was 16 days after the first eruption of the mountain.

Word has been received from Mazatenango that on Oct. 25 Santa Maria opened a crater on the west side, near its base, and all that night it belched forth volumes of ashes and lava over Tolhu. It was noted on Saturday morning that several more craters in the neighborhood of the mountain had opened up and all were spouting volcanic debris over the plantations of the district.

These new craters were further to the west and for more than 24 hours they were in constant eruption. The earth was in continual commotion, shaking down buildings and causing much destruction. All the territory about Palmer, San Felipe, Puebo Uuevo and Retalquies were buried under ashes. Many of the plantations were buried from five to seven feet of debris and all hope of ever reclaiming them has been given up. The entire neighborhood for miles was a burning wilderness.

Berlin Statues Mutilated

Berlin, Nov. 20.—Vandals have again broken off parts of five of the statues on the Sieges Allee, the historical series erected by Emperor William at his personal expense. A previous mutilation occurred in 1899, but the culprit was never caught. The perpetrator of the present outrage has not been traced.

Cleveland Ends Hunting Trip

Norfolk, Nov. 20.—Ex-President Cleveland and party returned to Norfolk yesterday from the preserves of the Back Bay Gunning club, where they have been ducking. Mr. Cleveland's return was unexpected. The party left for New York.

Danny Maher's Big Winnings

London, Nov. 20.—The American jockey, Danny Maher, who sailed on the Celtic yesterday for New York, has the record for the highest average of wins in an English turf season. He secured $300,000 for his employers during the season.

Owing to lack of accommodation, a great many patients have had to be refused admission to the Hospital the past year, and they were patients who wished private rooms. This means a loss of income of from one thousand to fifteen hundred dollars. It has been publicly stated that when the people of the city show that they can pay the running expenses of the present Hospital a large addition will be added. Now is a good time for the people to open their purse and show that they want better accommodations.

NEW MASONIC HALL.

Rural Lodge Votes to Lease More Up-to-date Quarters.

Rural lodge of Masons took an important step at a special meeting on Wednesday evening, in voting to lease new quarters in the new block which the Quincy Real Estate Trust is building on Washington street at the junction with Hancock street.

Preliminary plans were presented showing how the floor area could be divided, together with elevations, etc.

The Masons will have the entire third floor which will be 100x60 and it will be planned so as to be available for chapter, commanders and other Masonic orders.

There will be a lodge room larger than the present hall in the Hotel Greenleaf block, a smaller or sodality hall, a good sized banquet room, a ladies' parlor with toilet rooms and toilet rooms for members, also several ante rooms, and everything up-to-date. The present quarters are superior to anything in Quincy, but the new ones will far eclipse them.

The lodge voted to lease the new quarters for a term of ten years, and expects a large increase in membership.

Within a year, probably, a commandery of Knights Templar will be organized in Quincy. There are in the city of Quincy today a hundred or more Knights and the prospects are bright.

Fifth Out of Eight.

Quincy High School won its last game of the season Tuesday afternoon, defeating Revere High School 11—0.

The game was by no means the best that has been played this fall. High was minus the services of Forest and Morrison, and though the substitutes did well the work of the eleven was ragged.

R. Saunders secured the first touchdown in the second half, after a long run by Miller, and the latter made the second towards the close of the game. The second try for goal struck the post and bounded back. Quincy High School has won five games and lost three.

GRAND BABY SHOW.

One Five Weeks Old at the Grand Army Fair.

The baby show under the auspices of Woman's Relief Corps at the Grand Army fair Wednesday afternoon was a great success in attendance of little ones. There were present 75 mothers and babies, the names and ages of the infants being:

Myrtle May Maxwell, 23 months.
Celia Lowde, 14 months.
Charles Henry Punam, 9 months.
Gladys Irene Boyle, 20 months.
Dorothy Gould, 6 months.
Meriam L. Gould, 18 months.
Madeleine Parsons, 18 months.
Anglet Holland, 15 months.
Prudence Smith, 12 months.
Florence C. McCinnon, 22 months.
Richard Albert Stephenson, 18 months.
Jennie Morrison, 20 months.
Alexander Smart, 10 months.
William Franklin Irving, 17 months.
Joseph Warren Shackley, 9 months.
Marion Revere Hewson, 4 months.
Floyd Perkins McDonald, 5 weeks.
Earl Appleton Prairo, 10 months.
Muriel Maud Green, 20 months.
Evelyn Cahill, 19 months.
Edwin Johnson, 9 months.
Leonard Ferguson, 13 months.
Alice Gertrude Tucker, 8 months.
John W. Prichard.

Only four prizes, a large doll in each case, were awarded as follows:

For darkest hair, Madeline Parsons.

For lighest hair, Richard Stephenson.

For darkest eyes, Marion Revere Hewson.

For lightest eyes, Jennie Morrison.

Smaller dolls were also presented to all babies entered.

The judges were Mrs. Calvin Fletcher, Mrs. Alva Fisher and Mrs. Luella Nutting.

Mrs. Kate A. Hayden was chairman of the committee, and her assistants were Mrs. Elizabeth Farrell, Mrs. Emma Newcomb and Mrs. Adelaide F. McGrath.

Yachts Hauled Up.

Sunday was a day not often seen at this season. Balmy and delightful as a day in May—one could scarcely realize that Thanksgiving was so near.

One had only to visit the vicinity of the Yacht clubs, however, to have this idea of spring dispelled. There, the boys were reluctantly covering or housing their yachts for the winter. Only the Curtis yawl, of the Wollaston fleet, now remains in the water.

Capt. James Smith is confined to his bed with a fever; willing fellow yachtsmen knowing 'twas the captain's intention to "haul," saw that his wishes were carried out, and the Rover was added to the beached fleet, now comprising the Sheila, Neptune, Uno, Wasp, Enigma, Premier, Ino, West Wind, Ruth, Winona and others.

Several yachtsmen have taken their yachts to their back yards for convenience for fitting out in the spring. Among these are the "Ziska," Capt. Teel; "Shamrock," Capt. Given, and the "Careless Horse," Capt. Hall.

The latter handled his alone, having acquired considerable knowledge in pulling out and launching boats on the Rocky River, Ohio, where much larger boats have to be taken up a perpendicular embankment of several hundred feet to their winter quarters.

At the Squantum mooring all but two boats are in out of the wet. Many tenders at both clubs are yet in commission—evidently on account of the smelt fishing.

Rehearsal.

The second rehearsal of the Wollaston Choral Union, Wednesday evening, at the Unitarian vestry, went off with good spirit and enthusiasm. The "Rose Maiden," a beautiful cantata by F. H. Cowen, was taken up and some of the choruses were rehearsed under the magnetic leadership of Mr. Charles Stevens of Boston. At the business meeting Miss Clara E. G. Thayer was elected a member of the executive committee, and Mr. J. G. Osborne was chosen second vice president of the union. About sixty were present, many new members coming in from Norfolk Downs Atlantic and East Milton. The membership roll is growing rapidly and the officers expect soon to have it reach the century mark. The next rehearsal is Wednesday Dec. 3.

Compass Whist Club.

The annual meeting of the Compass Whist club of Atlantic was held last week with Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Coe, Billings street. The election of officers for the coming season resulted as follows: President, James H. Churchill; Vice President, Charles L. Coe; Treasurer, Elijah G. Hall; Secretary, Mrs. James H. Churchill. It was voted to play on Tuesday evenings, the first meeting to be with President and Mrs. James H. Churchill on the evening of Dec. 2. This is the twelfth season of this social organization which has for its members many of the best known citizens of Ward Six.

AN EXPLANATION.

Writer Takes Exception to Report of the Bradley Hearing.

Editors of Quincy Daily Ledger:

In reading your paper published Wednesday I notice an insult to the Swedish people of Quincy, which we all consider as such, when your report states "the unlawful element who are said to be at the bottom of the plan to get him (Bradley) removed from the police force." Have you, Mr. Editor, seen the petition, and those who signed the same, to have a hearing given Mr. Bradley for shooting Mr. John Bjornson? Are there any of them, or how many of them, who have ever committed a crime? I don't think there are many of them who have ever been in court more than once, and that was when they took out the citizens' paper.

I personally think that Mr. Bradley is a good police officer, but in the case of the shooting of Mr. Bjornson there is some doubt. By a hearing, probably facts could be brought to light. Therefore 57 citizens of Quincy asked his honor, the Mayor of Quincy, for a hearing on the case which was granted. The verdict we will hear later from his honor.

We, as citizens of Quincy, ask for justice and equal rights as citizens. I did not sign the petition, nor have I taken any part in the proceedings of the same, but by request of counsel for Mr. Bjornson I was present at the hearing Tuesday night at City Hall.

I, further see by your paper that a certain article under the head of Quincy, had appeared in a Swedish paper, which was characterized as a red hot one. I will acknowledge that I was the author but the subject of the same did not demand to know "how long Quincy was to be ruled by Irish or Micks." It was a fair statement of the case and of the trial of the court. No nationality was mentioned in the same, no demand was made whatsoever, and the one who translated the same made a big mistake if he has translated it in substance as in your paper.

For the satisfaction of Mr. Bradley, if he will come to me, I will translate the same to him word for word. Then there will be no misunderstanding. I have written these humble lines not to criticise any body, but as a believer that all citizens should be treated right and alike.

Theodore H. Hermanson.

Frost Carnival Attractions.

Although Wednesday's weather was not as favorable for the Frost Carnival, it was even a more successful day than Tuesday, and the financial returns already exceed the fondest hopes. Mrs. John F. Welch, the chairman, has secured the cooperation of all the members of the church, and members of many churches are giving substantial encouragement.

The entertainment Wednesday evening was by the church choir in quartette selections and solos, and readings by Mrs. Davis. Few had previously had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Davis before, and were surprised that Quincy had so accomplished and pleasing a reader. She was down for two numbers, but was recalled and gave five in all, and the audience would have liked more. The solos were by Mrs. Holbrook and Mr. Murphy and all the musical numbers were pleasing. Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt accompanied.

The supper room on the restaurant plan, under Dr. Gilson, is very popular.

Farmers from Littleton, Braintree and Weymouth assisted the Brotherhood in their great hit.

The carnival closes this evening.

Farnham—McDonald.

A beautiful wedding took place on Wednesday evening at Quincy, at the home of Mr. Angus McDonald, 41 Smith street. His eldest daughter, Miss Jessie Sarah McDonald, was united in marriage to Mr. George Washington Farnham of West Quincy at 7.30, by the Rev. W. B. Barr of the United Presbyterian church. A large company of relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony. The young couple have their house furnished in West Quincy and will go to housekeeping at once. A great many beautiful presents were given by friends outside and inside the city. This young couple start out with the good wishes of all who know them.

G. A. R. Fair.

Another large crowd was present at the Grand Army Fair Wednesday night, and best of all it was a crowd that spent their money. At times there was a perfect jam and before the week is out it may be necessary to do away with the line of tables on one side of the hall. The entertainment consisted of a series of beautiful tableaux, which were presented by Norfolk Downs people. Tonight the entertainment will be under the direction of the Ladies' Aid, which means that it will be all right.

George H. Wilson Receives Two More Nominations.

Two papers were filed with the City Clerk Wednesday evening in the interest of George H. Wilson for Mayor.

One of these papers was taken out by N. B. Furnald and nominates Mr. Wilson as a "Citizens" candidate. This paper has seventy signatures.

The second paper has been taken out by Henry H. Faxon, and nominates Mr. Wilson as a "Republican Independent." This paper has 63 signatures. Some Democrats have signed the papers as well as Republicans. Possibly the best known Republican to sign the papers was Warren W. Adams.

County Well Represented.

The funeral of Albert F. Daniels, superintendent of County buildings, was held at Dedham, Wednesday and was very largely attended. Among those present were County Commissioner Marshall P. Wright, Court Officer William M. Marden of Quincy, Sheriff Capen, Charles H. Smith, County treasurer; Louis A. Cook, clerk of courts; County Commissioner James Hewins and ex-Commissioner Watts H. Bowker, Deputy Sheriff Wentworth of Cohasset, Judge Grover and Edward L. Burdakin, assistant register of deeds.

Rev. Raymond P. Walker officiated, assisted by Rev. Edward W. Virgin, and the Franklin quartette sang. There were many floral tributes, including one from the district court in Quincy. The burial was at Brookdale.

The Youth's Companion in 1903.

During 1903 The Youth's Companion will publish in 52 weekly issues.

6 serial stories, each a book in itself, reflecting American life in home, camp and field.

50 special articles contributed by famous men and women—travellers, essayists, soldiers, sailors, statesmen and men of affairs.

200 thoughtful and timely editorial articles on important public and domestic questions.

250 short stories by the best of living story-writers—stories of character, stories of achievement, stories of humor.

1000 short notes on current events, and discoveries in the field of science and industry.

2000 bright and amusing anecdotes, items of strange and curious knowledge, poems and sketches.

This is what The Youth's Companion offers its readers during 1903. And the quality of it is fully equal to the quantity. It is edited for the entire family. The busiest people read it because it is condensed, accurate and helpful.

Its weekly summary of important news is complete and trustworthy. Its editorial comment on political and domestic questions is non-partizan; it aims to state facts in such a way that the reader can use them as the basis of an intelligent opinion. Its weekly article on hygiene is of the utmost value for preserving the health of the household. It reflects on every page the wholesome, industrious, home-loving, home-making side of American life—the life of noble aims and honorable ambitions.

A full Announcement of the new volume will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address on request. The new subscriber for 1903 who sends $1.75 for the new volume at once will receive free all the remaining issues for 1902, including the Double Holiday Numbers; also The Companion Calendar for 1903, lithographed in twelve colors and gold. Rhode Islanders Surprised

Cumberland, R. I., Nov. 20.—The action taken yesterday by the Massachusetts authorities in ordering an embargo on cattle, sheep and swine because of the prevalence of a foot and mouth disease caused surprise to stock breeders and dealers in this state. The order will cause inconvenience and financial loss to breeders whose chief source of revenue is derived from their trade with nearby cities and towns in Massachusetts.

Mexicans Deal Justice

City of Mexico, Nov. 20.—Three Mexican robbers who murdered Robert Remmet, an Englishman, in 1901, were legally shot yesterday upon the spot where the tragedy occurred. Others who were concerned in the murder were sent to prison for long terms. The Mexican authorities spent over a year in tracing the robbers, all of whom were captured.

Revenue Receipts Decreasing

Washington, Nov. 20.—For the month of October, 1902, the total internal revenue receipts were $20,640,499, a decrease of $3,719,408 as compared with October, 1901. For the Four months of the present year the total receipts were $80,465,569, a decrease as compared with the corresponding period in 1901 of $17,009,876.

Peddler's Parade.

The Pedder's Parade and entertainment given by the Edward Hewitson association in Wollaston hall, Tuesday evening was certainly novel and unique. The boys and their assistants were greeted by an audience that completely packed the hall and all entered heartily into the spirit of jollity that reigned supreme for two hours.

The first part of the entertainment was the production of the "Magic Mirror" under the supervision of Mrs. N. G. Nickerson and Mrs. Arthur Jewell. The club members taking part were, Mr. Linda Fowler, Mr. Gorham Nickerson and Mr. Ray Weston, and they were supported by the following young ladies: Misses Bessie Drew, Winifred White, Grace Patterson, Carrie Bates, Louise Bates, Gertrude Ward, Mary Chase, Ruby Andrews, Blanche Rhodes, Lois Metherell, Marion Bates, Sara Litch and Eva Sheldon.

All acquitted themselves admirably, Mr. Fowler giving evidence of being no amateur in affairs of the heart, adapting himself finely to a most difficult part.

Following immediately came the parade, headed by the marshal, Mr. Fowler, escorting the gypsy queen, Miss Gertrude King. Robert Sibley followed, bearing aloft a transparency suitably inscribed. These peddlers came next calling their wares, during the proccession and from the platform, as follows:

Mr. Fred White, flower girl.
Mr. Whittier, peanut vender.
Mr. Stebbins, hair bows.
Mr. Pinkham and Mr. Jewell, hokey pokey.
Mr. Percival, bananas.
Mr. George, suspenders.
Mr. Bailey and Mr. Bennett, bootblacks.
Mr. Tenney, soaps.
Mr. Penniman, holders.
Mr. Carr, shoe strings.
Mr. Miller, marguerites.
Mr. White, chocolate.
Mr. Albee, chocolate candies.
Mr. Thomas, fans.
Mr. Baker, chestnuts.
Mr. Simmons, whirligigs.
Mr. Gannett, health department.

The young men netted a handsome sum. The entire affair under the direction of Mrs. Tenney was in charge of a committee consisting of Mr. Fowler, chairman; Messrs. Gannett, Tenney, F. White and Nickerson.

—Harvard college recently received an unique gift, Mr. G. F. Peabody of New York giving $5000 to be expended on shrubbery within the college yard. Mr. Peabody evidently has an eye for the beautiful and a practical way of showing it. As soon as weather permits in the spring the work of improving will be begun and the college yard should be much more attractive than at present.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

Nature's Ways Often Hard To Understand.

Man's Best Gifts Disguised by Disagreeable Exterior.

It Takes Science to Reveal Nature at Her Best.

In many ways Nature is all right just as she is and when the hand of man attempts to improve upon her works, a botchy job, to say the least, often results.

There are, however, a great many instances where by a little human help Nature's best gifts are doubly enhanced in value and brought forth from obscurity in a manner that is causing this century to be known as one of progress.

There is nothing in the way of a discovery that will prove of greater benefit to man in general, and to the inhabitants of this part o America in particular, than Vinol, which represents an old and valuable remedy introduced in a new and practical form. Vinol is being hailed by physicians and patients alike as a glorious intervention of Providence for annihilating certain diseases of a wasting nature and prolonging life, and its discovery is a fitting climax, coming as it does at the end of a century that will go down into history as remarkable for its advancement.

Vinol, as it is sold today, is fast becoming what all other great inventions soon become, a positive necessity that makes the world wonder how it ever existed without it.

Cod liver oil, on account of the peculiar medicinal properties which it contains, has been known to science for years as the most efficient ot all specifics for throat, lung and bronichial troubles, and all wasting diseases. The layman, however, has appreciated the fact as forcibly as the professional, that this same remedy was often rendered practically useless on account of its disagreeable odor and taste, until it began to appear as though cod liver oil might eventually be omitted from the Pharmacopœia.

The invention of Vinol has saved this wonderful medicine, not as we have known it, to be sure, but in its new form, which is nothing more or less than the identical, potent, remedial factors that have made the cod's liver famous. This new discovery consists only in finding a way ot extracting the curative principles of the cod liver, which once obtained are dissolved in a mild, delicious and delicate table wine

And so to us is given this old remedy in its new form, doubly efficient, absolutely tasteless, and denuded of its greatest and most serious objection, the fatty matter itself, which has always precluded the use of cod liver oil in cases where the digestive apparatus had become weakened. Vinol is with us to stay, and to do good as yet is in alcuable.

PRESIDENT'S TRIBUTE

To Soldiers Who Served In the Philippines

PERFORMED GREAT TASKS

While Their Misdeeds Were Exceptional—Civil Administration Has Brought About Prosperity Never Before Known In the Islands

Memphis, Nov. 20.—Although the festivities yesterday celebated the home-coming of General Wright, vice governor of the Philippines, it is no reflection upon the warmth of the welcome extended to him to say that President Roosevelt's presence was the overshadowing feature of the day.

Excursion trains were run into the city and a number of distinguished people were present to participate in the celebration. In the afternoon the president attended and spoke at two receptions given in honor of General Wright, one at the auditorium by white citizens, the other at a hall by the negroes. Later there was a Colonial Dames tea and the festivities closed last night with an elaborate banquet, at which the president delivered a speech. Including some brief remarks at the breakfast the president spoke four times during the day. Altogether it was a splendid tribute to the affection and esteem in which General Wright is held at home.

Mayor Williams and Governor McMillan made addresses of welcome and the audience was very enthusiastic when General Wright delivered his response. He was greatly touched by the compliments paid him by the president's presence and with the demonstration in his honor.

General Wright did not go deeply into the situation in the Philippines in his remarks, but he emphasized the fact that the administration of the islands had been of an absolutely non-partisan character.

The reception tendered by the colored people was remarkable. General Wright, in addressing them, talked chiefly of their future, telling them of the difficult problems before them. He said that it would perhaps have been better for both races had the change from slavery to citizenship not come so suddenly.

The president's reception beggars description. The colored people became almost frantic, jumping up and down in their enthusiasm and welling themselves hoarse. At the conclusion of the president's remarks the entire audence unted n snging "God be with you until we meet again."

In beginning his address President Roosevelt paid a warm tribute to Tennesseeans and the part they had played in the nation's history. He said Gen-Wright fought with distinguished gallantry in the army of the Confederacy during the Civil war, and cited as a proof of the unity of our interests that the ex-Confederate had ably served as acting governor of the Philippine islands. Discussing the Philippine question, he said:

General Wright's work has been as difficult as it was important. The events of the last four years have definitely decided that whether we wish to or not we must hereafter play a great part in the world. We can not escape facing the duties. We may shirk them if we are built of poor stuff, or we may take hold and do them if we are fit sons of our sires—but face them we must, whether we will or not. Our duty in the Philippine islands has simply been one of the duties thatthus have come upon us. We are there, and we can no more haul down our flag and abandon the islands than we could now abandon Alaska. Whether we are glad or sorry that events forced us to go there is aside from the question; the point is that, as the inevitable result of the war with Spain, we found ourselves in the Philippines and that we could not leave the islands without discredit. The islanders were wholly unfit to govern themselves, and if we had left there would have been a brief period of bloody chaos, and then some other nation would have stepped in to do the work which we had shirked. It can not be too often repeated that there was no question that the work had to be done. All the question was whether we would do it well or ill; and, thanks to the choice of men like Governor Wright, it has been done well.

The first and absolutely indispensable requisite was order—peace. The reign of lawless violence, of resistance to legitimate authority, the reign of anarchy, could no more be tolerated abroad than it could be tolerated here in our own land.

The American flag stands for orderly liberty, and it stands for it abroad as it stands for it at home. The task of our soldiers was to restore and maintain order in the islands. The army had the task to do, and it did it well and thoroughly. The fullest and heartiest praise belongs to our soldiers who in the Philippines brought to a triumphant conclusion a war, small indeed compared to the gigantic struggle in which the older men whom I am addressing took part in the early 60s, but inconceivably harassing and difficult, because it was waged amid the pathless jungles of great tropic islands and against a foe very elusive, very treacherous, and often inconceivably cruel both toward our men and toward the great numbers of peace-loving Filipinos who gladly welcome our advent.

Cruelties were committed here and there. The fact that they were committed under well-nigh intolerable provocation affords no excuse for such cruelties, nor can we admit as justification that they were retaliatory in kind. Every effort has been made to detect and punish the wrongdoers and the wrongdoing itself has been completely stopped. But these misdeeds were exceptional, and their occurrence in no wise alters the fact that the American army in the Philippines showed as a whole not only splendid soldiery qualities but a high order of humanity in dealing with their foes.

A hundred thousand of our troops went to the Philippines. Among them were some who offended against the right. Well, are we altogether immaculate at home? I think not. I ask for no special consideration to be shown our friends and kinsmen, our sons and brothers, who during three years so well upheld the national honor in the Philippines. I ask merely that we do the same equal justice to the soldier who went abroad and faced death and lived hard as we show to his fellow who stayed at home and lived easily and in comfort; and if we show that equal justice we will doff our hats to the man who has put the whole country under obligations by the victory he helped to win in the Philippines.

But the soldier's work as a soldier was not the larger part of what he did. When once the outbreak was over in any place, then began the work of establishing civil administration. Here, too, the soldier did his part, for the work of preparing for the civil authority was often done by the officers and men of the regular army, and well done, too. Then the real work of building up a system of self-government for the people who had become our wards was begun, under auspices of the Philippine commission, Judge Taft being made governor, and I having had the honor myself to appoint General Wright as vice governor. During the critical period when the insurrection was ending and the time was one of transition between a state of war and a state of peace, at the time that I issued a proclamation declaring that the state of war was over and that the civil government was now in complete command, General Wright served as governor of the archipelago. The progress of the islands both in material well-being and as regards order and justice under the administration of Governor Wright and his colleagues has been astounding.

There is no question as to our not having gone far enough and fast enough in granting self-government to the Filipinos; the only possible danger has been lest we should go faster and farther than was in the interest of the Filipinos themselves. Each Filipino at the present day is guaranteed his life, his liberty, and the chance to pursue happiness as he wishes, so long as he does not harm his fellows, in a way which the islands have never known before during all their recorded history. There are bands of ladrones, of brigands, still in existence. Now and then they may show sporadic increase. This will be due occasionally to disaffection with some of the things that our government does which are best. But the islands have never been as orderly, as peaceful, or as prosperous as now; and in no other Oriental country, whether ruled by Asiatics or Europeans, is there anything approaching to the amount of individual liberty and of self-government which our rule has brought to the Filipinos. The nation owes a great debt to the people through whom this splendid work for civilization has been achieved, and therefore on behalf of the nation I have come here tonight to thank in your presence your fellow-townsman, because he has helped us materially to add a new page to the honor roll of American history. General Wright, I greet you, I thank you, and I wish you well.

The Best Remedy for Croup.
From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

DRASTIC PROPOSALS

For Civilization of Gypsies In Hungary by Force

Vienna, Nov. 20.—The Hungarian government proposes to civilize the gypsies by force. From the time of the great immigration in the 15th century, if not before, the "Egyptians" have always been exceedingly numerous in southeastern Europe. It is not easy to take a census of a nomadic people, but if any dependence may be placed upon official estimates, Hungary may almost claim to be the "Promised Land" of the race. If, as is believed, its gypsy population reaches 160,000, it possesses more than a quarter of the total for all Europe. Governments, especially of the paternal continental pattern, have generally looked upon these Bohemian wanderers as a nuisance, and have sometimes taken very strong measures for their suppression, though in most cases with slight success.

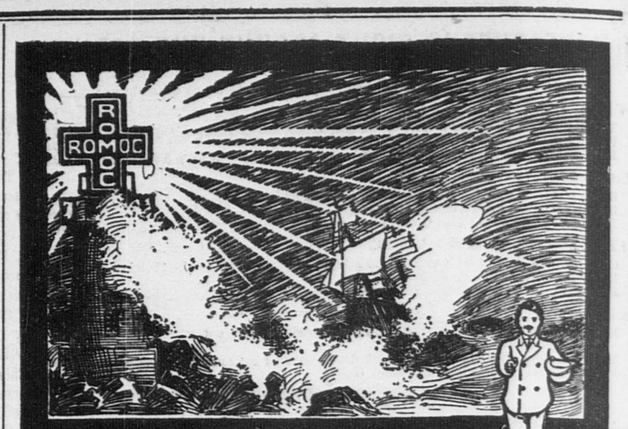

For the matter of that, the proposals now being considered at Buda Pesth are sufficiently drastic. A commission of experts has recommended that every town and village in Hungary shall have a number of gypsies allotted to it, whether they like it or not. They are to be trained to handicrafts or to agricultural labor, and such of them as refuse to bend their necks to the yoke are to be gathered into two great reformatories holding 1000 recalcitrants each.

There is a touch of the grotesque in the notion that a people who have been ceaselessly on the move for many centuries will at once reconcile themselves to regular hours and to sleeping under a roof, for all the world like the stationary Gentiles for whom they often feel so much contempt. But perhaps the contemplated measures are intended less for actual enforcement than to frighten away the Romany, who might prefer to cross the Transylvania frontier into Roumania.

Heart Beats
that are too fast or too slow, too strong or too weak, are not the kind that come from a healthy heart. Remember, every heart that pains, flutters, palpitates, skips beats, and every heart that causes fainting spells, shortness of breath or smothering, is weak or diseased, and cannot keep the blood circulating at its normal rate.
"My heart was very weak and kept skipping beats until it missed from one to three beats a minute. Well knowing what the result would be if this trouble was not stopped, I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and two bottles brought the heart action to its normal condition."

Discussed Before Anthracite Arbitration Commission

TESTIMONY OF PHYSICIANS

Miners' Lungs as Black as Anthracite Itself—Coal Dust Coughed Up by a Man Nine Years After He Left the Mines—Effort to Hurry Hearing

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 21.—The economic and sociological features of the anthracite coal industry and the effect employment in and about the mines has upon the health of the mine workers were the principal subjects brought before the arbitration commission yesterday by the attorneys of each side to the controversy. While there was an entire absence of oratory and brilliant examination which marked the proceedings during the last four days, the cross-examination nevertheless closely held the attention of the commissioners and they gained much information on the several features touched upon by witnesses.

The afternoon session was particularly interesting because it brought out much expert testimony on the question of the health of the mine workers. Three physicians who have practiced in Scranton or Wilkesbarre took the stand for the miners and in substance testified that the occupation of a mine worker was "very unhealthful" and shortened his life. One physician, Dr. Frank P. Lennahan of Wilkesbarre, who says he has had a long experience among mine workers, testified that fully 99 percent of the men who work in the mines are anaemic. Their health is impoverished and their general condition is below par, thus decreasing their earning powers. The principal ills suffered by the miners, the physicians said, were miners' asthma, rheumatism, lumbago and sciatica. Miners' asthma comes from coal dust, powder smoke and vitiated air.

Dr. John O'Malley of Scranton said that at post mortems he had seen miners lungs as black as anthracite itself, and Dr. Lennahan testified he had personal knowledge of a man coughing up coal dust nine years after he left the mines. He said he had information that a man had coughed up coal dust 15 years after he had left the mines. It was also stated that 90 percent of miners who reach the age of 50 years are afflicted with some form of rheumatism.

The cross-examination of Rev. Dr. Peter Roberts, D. D., of Mahanoy City, who has studied the anthracite coal industry and written a book on the subject, ended yesterday shortly after the noon recess. Copious extracts from his book were read and placed on record. In explaining his articles Dr. Roberts said that he did not wish to infer that the union was responsible for all the lawlessness committed.

The interest in the commissioners and their investigation has not decreased. Each day hundreds of men line the streets and watch the arbitrators walk from the hotel to the court room. Most of them are idle mine workers and they give the commissioners a somewhat critical look as they pass by.

The commissioners were in conference last night until almost midnight. Among the matters discussed was that of having both sides present evidence more rapidly than is now being done. The attorneys for the miners and operators have promised documentary evidence on the various questions before the arbitrators, but they are not quite ready to submit it. The commission has been sitting one week and they have heard little on the questions of wages and hours that will assist them in reaching a conclusion and they last night considered the question of adjourning the hearing until such evidence is ready for filing.

Charged With Setting Mines Afire

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 21.—Six men have been arrested and placed in jail at Pocahontas, charged with setting fire to the mines of the Pocahontas Collieries company on the night of Aug. 31 last. The fire raged in the mines for several weeks.

CASEY IS PRAISED

For His Efforts Toward Establishment of Peace In Colombia

Panama, Nov. 21.—The whole republic was expecting the result of the conference on board Admiral Casey's flagship; the Wisconsin, between General Herrera and the government commissioners yesterday, but the preliminaries of the negotiations for the revolutionary general's capitulation were alone discussed. They are still on board the warship, and the length of the conference leads to the belief that an arrangement may be possible. Undoubtedly General Herrera, considering that he has a strong army and navy, will demand a number of concessions, but General Perdomo, though anxious to end the war, will not grant any better conditions than those specified in the amnesty decree.

Admiral Casey's active share in the peace negotiations is highly appreciated in all circles and his conduct is greatly praised.

Terrible Charges Against a Mother

London, Nov. 21.—Extraordinary charges of cruelty on the part of a mother to her child are now being heard at the Old Bailey. Mrs. Annie Penruddocke, wife of a magistrate and a large landed proprietor, is charged with cruelties to her 7-year-old daughter for two years. They included beating the child with nettles, systematic neglect, ill-treatment, assault and partial starvation. One form of punishment was to make the child stand on the bough of a tree in inclement weather for hours at a time.

Opposition to Boycott

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The machinery builders' section of the trades assembly, representing at least two-thirds of the local trades union men, last night voted that the assembly at its next meeting should raise the boycott against the Schenectady Railway company. The machinery builders' section includes 31 unions. There are 61 unions in the trades assembly and this action by a majority practically guarantees that the boycott will be declared off next Wednesday.

Preservation of Plumage Birds

Washington, Nov. 21.—Active efforts are to be continued by the Audubon societies of the United States to assist the state authorities in enforcing the law against the killing of plumage birds and their use by milliners. To this end a committee of four persons has been appointed to visit seven of the principal states in which birds are slaughtered and give practical assistance to the authorities in the prosecution of persons who may be found shooting them.

Four-Year College Term Favored

Boston, Nov. 21.—President Tucker of Dartmouth college, speaking before the Commercial club last night, said that he favored the four-year college term rather than a shorter period. He said the aim of collegiate education is to build upon the community a body of trained and informed men, and to fit men in this particular way for citizenship. To accomplish this, ample time is needed.

Acquitted of Beddall Murder

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 21.—Joseph Palewicz was last night acquitted of the murder of Joseph Beddall, who was fatally beaten during a riot incident to the coal miners' strike at Shenandoah, July 30. The riot in which Beddall was killed occurred in the business section of Shenandoah and resulted in the ordering out of state troops. Beddall was a merchant.

Progress In Wireless Telegraphy

Sydney, C. B., Nov. 21.—In an interview here yesterday Marconi said that the message received by the Carlo Alberto while at anchor in Sydney harbor is the longest ever successfully transmitted by wireless telegraphy. He says that the improvements made at Table Head station will enable him to send or receive messages of 40 words a minute.

First Stories Exaggerated

Washington, Nov. 21.—Mr. Arriaga, Guatemalan minister to the United States, has received word from his government that while it is true that a part of the present coffee crop is lost by the eruption of Santa Maria volcano, it is expected that most of the plantations of the affected district will recuperate. The loss of life was very small.

Carrie Stirred Up Horse Show

New York, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Carrie Nation broke loose at the horse show yesterday afternoon. She harangued the multitude on the evils of overdress, attempted to break a bottle of champagne and finally was ejected from the building by the police.

SPECULATORS HELD UP

Yale Men Put Veto on Exorbitant Prices For Football Tickets

New Haven, Nov. 21.—Yale students made an attack last night on every ticket speculator who could be found in the city and relieved them of every ticket in their possession. The speculators were given the regulation price, $2, for every ticket taken. In several instances when the ticket dealers remonstrated they were roughly handled.

The exorbitant prices demanded by speculators for tickets in their possession has aroused the student body and they decided to take the matter into their own hands. Early in the evening a speculator was called inside the campus, where he was immediately surrounded by a crowd of students. A bunch of tickets which he carried in his hand was taken away from him and after they had been carefully counted he was reimbursed at the rate of $2 each and told to make himself scarce.

Several stores in the vicinity of the campus, which have been turned into temporary headquarters for the speculators, were then visited and the incident on the campus was repeated in each case. Men on the streets who were endeavoring to sell tickets at increased prices were held up and compelled to surrender their tickets.

The speculators, after a consultation, decided to approach the police authorities with complaints alleging that the students had been guilty of highway robbery. Several of the men are badly bruised as a result of their encounter with the college men.

It developed that all of the speculators did not receive immediate reimbursement for the tickets taken from them. Instead they were given a slip of paper on which was marked the number of tickets taken away. The men were told to apply to the football management for their money. The management, it is said, have made an announcement that they will redeem all such receipts given by the students who participated in the attack upon the speculators.

Survives Remarkable Accident

New London, Conn., Nov. 21.—John Leonard of Groton, an employe of the Eastern Shipbuilding company, was speared through the neck by a 10-foot strip of wood that flew from a circular saw yesterday. The lance-like missile struck him in the throat, passed entirely through his neck, and 18 inches of the wood projected out behind his right ear. Companions sawed off the greater part of the stick and Leonard walked to a building in the yard. It was impossible to withdraw the stick without fatal results and all the muscles on one side of the neck had to be cut and the spear removed from the side. Leonard is not considered to be in any danger.

For the Public Good

Boston, Nov. 21.—In view of the order of the state cattle commissioners prohibiting the importing of cattle from Rhode Island into this state because of the prevalence there of the foot and mouth disease, the Boston board of health yesterday ordered cattle owners and milk producers to buy no more cattle for their use until the danger is passed, and to safeguard their own herds and take precautions to prevent contagion if any afflicted animals are found.

Not Annexation, but Reciprocity

Boston, Nov. 21.—A speech by Duncan C. Fraser, member of the Canadian parliament, upon annexation and reciprocity was made here last night. He said: "There is no thought in the people of Canada that we want to be annexed to the United States. Only a very few ever thought that way, and there are none who think so now. This America is big enough for two mighty nations. Canada, however, would like reciprocity."

Foster's Head Washed Ashore

Salem, Mass., Nov. 21.—A human head was washed ashore at Collins' Cove yesterday. The head was later identified as that of John Foster of Beverley, who, with Frank W. Wilson of this city, was drowned Oct. 18, while canoeing. The identification was made by means of the teeth.

Vermont Liquor Question

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 21.—By a vote of 26 to 4 the senate yesterday afternoon ordered to a third reading the high license and local option bill, submitted by the majority of the temperance committee, and the bill will come up on the question of its passage today.

PROBABLY FATAL.

Young Man Caught by a Shafting This Morning.

James Orr, Jr., aged about 15 years, employed in the blacksmith shop at the yards of Long & Saunders, was probably fatally injured this morning by being caught in the shafting at the polishing mill at Milne & Chalmers' yard.

The plants of Long & Saunders and of Milne & Chalmers adjoin each other. At the polishing mill of the latter firm the shafting protrudes some eighteen inches beyond the outside of the building.

From some unexplainable reason the young man climbed up to this shafting and presumably put his arm about it. Unable to let go he was whirled around by it. His agonizing cries soon brought aid, but before the machinery could be stopped and the young man released, he had suffered terrible injuries.

His right arm was torn completely from its socket. His left arm crushed, and he was badly bruised about the legs and body.

He was removed to the City Hospital in the police ambulance. He was so badly injured that the physicians have but little hope of recovery.

He is a son of James Orr and resided with his parents on Liberty street.

Messrs. Long & Saunders say that there was nothing to call the young man anywhere near the shafting, and there was no reason why he should have gone there.

At the City Hospital at 1.30 P. M. it was said the young man was resting well.

Foot Ball Tomorrow.

The Quincy association foot ball club has reorganized and intends to show that their spirit has not fallen. The officers elected follow: President, L. C. Smith; Captain, James M. Leod; Vice Captain, John Gould; Secretary and Treasurer, Robert Robertson; Match Committee, L. C. Smith, John Wedderburn, John Sutherland. The Quincys have taken a mighty brace and the foot ball eleven seems to realize that they have a hard task before them for Saturday when they play the Roxburys on the Ward 3 playgrounds at 3 P. M.

The Quincys will line up as follows: Alex Black, goal; Joe Brown and F. C. Smith, backs; Capt. James McLeod, James Smith and John Gould, half backs; John Bisset, McAlester, Robert Robertson, Thomas Robertson and Alex Russell, forwards; William Marshall and Charles Smith, substitutes.

Party at Atlantic.

A very pleasant surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shanks Atlantic, one evening this week it being the fourteenth anniversary of their marriage. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cave who were best man and bridesmaid at their wedding. After a collation a musical evening was spent.

Those present were Messrs. Harry Mills, Garfield McDonald, Alonzo Gardner, Edward Luce, William Lambert, Roy Smith, Lawrence Lawton, Harry Rowe, Chas. Fawn, Frank Elliot, Frank Blaisdell, Horace Greeley, Jed Prouty, Stanley Eaton, Mr. Huggad, Harry Hall, Samuel Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Cave, Mr. Ryder, Mr. Rice, Mr. Fifield, Henry Decker, Mr. Lord and H. C. Childs.

A Diamond Case.

The Post reports a Boston court case of local interest. It says: J. E. McGann of Quincy wanted a diamond ring for his wife, so he called on Charles Haley, a Court street dealer. McGann selected a diamond worth $85, and asked Haley to let him take it home and show it to his wife, and if satisfactory he would purchase it. Haley claimed McGann must have thought it highly satisfactory, because he did not return it. Neither did he send a check to pay for it. Consequently McGann was arrested by Inspector Cronin on a charge of larceny of the ring. In court McGann was fined $5, restitution having been made.

PROBLEMS IN FORESTRY

Being Worked Out by Government Field Parties

PLANS FOR REPRODUCTION

Of White Pine and Hardwood Growth Receiving Special Attention—Successful Planting According to Plans From the Bureau of Forestry

Washington, Nov. 20.—The division of forest extension, which was organized in the bureau of forestry in July to supersede the section of tree planting, will have charge of all work which deals with the creation of forests where at present there are none. Several important lines of forest work which have only recently been taken up by the bureau have been placed under this division. The field work of the division is now being carried on with a force of 32 men. Field parties are working in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Arizona, Washington and Oregon. In addition, planting plans are being prepared by representatives of the bureau, working individually in a number of other states.

The system of co-operation with private land owners in forest planting, begun by the bureau of forestry three years ago, has done much to encourage tree planting and to bring about the introduction of safe and reliable methods.

In co-operation with the Fort Worth and Denver City railway the bureau is now making an examination of land in northern Texas for the purpose of drawing up simple directions for the development of woodlots on the farms in that region. After the examination has been completed planting plans will be prepared for those who desire them, and later printed instructions in regard to the development of forest plantations will be issued.

The Metropolitan water board of Massachusetts began planting this year according to plans prepared by the bureau of forestry on the watershed of their large reservoir situated near Clinton. This reservoir when completed will furnish the water supply for Boston and a number of nearby cities and towns. The planting has been completed on 175 acres, and a large quantity of nursery stock is now on hand for the continuation of planting later on.

A planting plan is in course of preparation for the water department of the city of Woonsocket, R. I., for the protection of certain portions of the watershed of their large storage reservoir six miles south of Woonsocket.

North Dakota has made application through Governor White for planting plans for woodlots on the grounds of a number of state institutions.

The secretary of the interior has granted to the department of agriculture the privilege of establishing nurseries and planting on the two forest reserves recently established by President Roosevelt in the sandhill region of Nebraska.

A line of work recently taken up by the bureau of forestry and for the first time receiving adequate attention in the United States is the study of the tendency of natural forests to extend over the land devoid of forest growth. This tendency has been noticed in many parts of the country, but has never been studied with a view of controlling it for practical use or assisting it where desirable.

A field party from the bureau is now investigating the reproduction of white pine on pastures and abandoned lands in Massachusetts and New Hampshire to learn the conditions under which reproduction takes place. The bureau is making this investigation in order to be able to give owners of such lands directions as to the best methods of handling them, with a view of securing a stand of pine by natural seeding.

A field party of six men is studying the same problem in Oklahoma in connection with the hardwood growth, which composes the timber belts of that region. It has been found in certain places in the middle west that natural forest belts have extended up streams as much as two miles in the last 25 years.

A similar study is being made on the Prescott forest reserve in Arizona, where the stand of timber consists almost entirely of western yellow pine. For several years only a scant reproduction has taken place on this reserve, and one of the objects of the present investigation is to devise means of increasing the stand of young timber.

The protection of valuable property from the encroachment of shifting sand dunes is becoming an important problem in some portions of the country.

Two field parties from the bureau of forestry are at work on this problem. One will investigate the worst dune districts along the Atlantic coast, and will study carefully the grasses, shrubs and trees that can be used either for temporary or permanent retention of the sand dunes, and will also inquire into other methods of holding active dunes, or changing their direction. Very successful work in holding the sand by grass and shrub planting has already been done by the state of Massachusetts on a portion of Cape Cod known as the "Province Lands."

The problem along the Columbia river is somewhat different from that along the Atlantic coast, owing to the different origin and character of the sand. It is expected, however, that the control of the sand there, like that of the coast sand, can be effected by means of grass or shrub planting, and afterwards by forestation.

Davy—Dobson Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dobson, Howard street, East Braintree, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, when their daughter, Lilla Dale Dobson, became the wife of Joseph Winsor Davy, of Quincy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manning Davy.

Pink and green was the color scheme in the floral decorations; chrysanthemums and potted plants being used profusely.

Only the immediate families, and friends were present at the ceremony, which was solemnized at half after seven by Rev. Robert Cochran, of the Union Congregational church, East Braintree. The order of the bridal procession was, the groom and his brother, Clinton Davy, who acted as best man; the maid of honor, Miss Vesta May Dobson, sister of the bride, the bride and her father, and the ushers Charles Hunt of Dorchester and Arthur Lovett of Cambridge.

After the ceremony the happy pair, assisted by the bride's parents, received the congratulations of their friends from eight until ten.

The bride's gown was a beautiful white peau de cygne, cut en train. She carried a bouquet of lilies, and the tulle veil was caught up with the same flowers. Her only ornament was a gold chain and locket, a gift from her sister. The maid of honor wore a white organdie over pink and carried white pinks.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Davy are to live on Johnson avenue, Quincy, where they will be at home to friends after January first.

Publicity Optional.

Editors of the Ledger:

Will you kindly correct or amend a slightly misleading statement in Thursday's Ledger. In column of City Brevities appears the following: "It was voted at the annual meeting of the Hospital corporation that the names of those contributing should be published.

As I remember the vote, or the substance of it, it read—"Names of contributors ands amount subscribed will be published in the local press unless otherwise requested." This statement is printed in italics at the bottom of the circular distributed by collectors.

While the sentiment of the meeting was strongly in favor of the Trustees acknowledging subscriptions in the most public manner possible, i. e., through the press, yet it was also realized that some would not wish this done in their case.

Any persons feeling this way have only to express their wishes to the collectors to have their names omitted from the published list. Silence on the subject is supposed to give consent to the publication.

Frost Carnival Successful.

The most successful fair ever held by the ladies of the Bethany Congregational church came to a close Thursday evening. The net proceeds were about $600 and will be applied to the reduction of the chapel debt, amounting to $3,700. The extinction of the debt will not stop here, for already large pledges have been made, and it is expected to wipe out the entire debt in 1903.

The entertainment Thursday evening included pleasing solos by Mrs. J. D. Buckingham, banjo selections by Carl Sheppard, Thorpe Babcock and Cecil Blanchard, and a cute dialect song by Blanche and Beebe Morrison.

The auction of the unsold articles was a feature of the evening. Messrs E. W. Branch, Frank W. Crane and Theophilus King alternated as auctioneers and there was sport as well as business. The attendance was large.

Smallpox Items.

The little girl who has been sick at the smallpox hospital is rapidly recovering, and the Board of Health hope that she may be discharged so as to spend Thanksgiving at her home.

The house at Norfolk Downs occupied by the woman who was taken sick with the disease in Weymouth has been thoroughly fumigated, and it is not believed that any cases will arise from that source.

Work building the cellar for the new smallpox hospital near the almshouse is well along, and as soon as it is completed the building which has been moved near by will be placed upon it and fitted up. The building should be ready for use early in December, if needed.

Norfolk County Streets.

County Commissioner Marshall P. Wright, attended the meeting of the Massachusetts Highway Commission at Dedham, on Wednesday, to consider street needs of the county. Among those who took part in the discussion were Selectmen Warren B. Keith of Braintree, ex-Selectmen J. T. Southworth of Holbrook, Selectman Cornelius Murphy of Stoughton, Horace W. Mann and Michael Driscoll, superintendents of streets of Stoughton and Brookline, respectively.

—Plants have been rendered artificially alpine by keeping in an ice box at night and fully exposed to the sun by day. The leaves grow smaller and thicker, frequently with reddish coloration, and the flowers become relatively larger and more highly colored.

MILTON.

Stanley H. King of the Sailors' Haven addressed the Thursday Evening Club this week. He brought two sailors with him who told some of their stories.

There were fifteen persons baptized last Sunday evening at the Mission of Our Saviour church.

There is some talk of a new depot being built at East Milton.

J. H. Pearce has left Gallagher's store and has accepted a position at Tinker's grocery.

John Hancock's Estate.

The illustrious John Hancock did not live long after the revolution, says the Herald, and he has been dead 109 years, yet his estate has not been fully administered, in that a war claim, presumably of the spoliation sort, has been in the embryotic stage for a century and more, until now it is about to ripen into legal significance. Hence a further need for judicial recourse to have it legally taken in hand and properly distributed. So it has come to pass that a new administrator is wanted, and a petition for his appointment was yesterday filed in the Suffolk probate court.

The application is made by George G. King, a lawyer, representing that the revolutionary leader died on Oct. 22, 1793, and that Dorothy Hancock, his widow, was appointed administratrix of his estate, but she did not fully administer it, and there remains some property, a remnant, so to speak, yet to be administered. He asks that he be appointed administrator of the unadministered estate, having been requested by the next of kin of the decedent to take the trust. Elizabeth L. H. Wood, apparently the only interested person, gives her written consent to the petition which is to be considered later by the court.

John Hancock was born in Quincy Jan. 2, 1737 and died in 1793.

Grand Army Fair.

The attendance Thursday evening was fully as large as any night this week. The entertainment was given by the Ladies' Aid and was of a pleasing nature. It consisted of vocal and instrumental music and fancy dancing. Those who took part were: Piano solo, Mrs. Nellie Parmenter; vocal solos, Mrs. Laura Tirrell and Miss Beatrice Hollingshead; fancy dancing, Miss Bessie Powers.

In the afternoon there was a whist party at which fourteen tables were in play. Prizes for the best scores were captured by Mrs. W. C. Hart, Mrs. Ella Holmes, Mrs. Annie Pratt, Mrs. Samuel Oxford and Mrs. Mary A. Fox.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

A LITTLE BY ALL.

Would Be Sufficient to Meet All Needs of Hospital.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Before 1890, it was a serious problem with physicians of Quincy, what to do with accidents and injuries, cases requiring surgical operation, and sick people in the crowded boarding houses. To treat them at home involved great risk, and in many cases great inconvenience. It was difficult to get them admitted to the overcrowded Boston hospital, and when admitted it was painful and often dangerous to have them moved ten miles over rough roads and pavements.

The establishment of the City Hospital in 1890 marked a new era in the experience of the physicians of that time; an event the value of which can scarcely be appreciated by people of the present day.

Since its establishment in 1890, the hospital has taken care of more than twenty-five hundred patients. Nearly fifteen hundred of these were surgical cases, generally of a serious character, that required prompt and skilful surgical treatment—treatment that would be difficult and expensive to carry out in the home or boarding house. The medical cases consisted largely of the severer forms of illness, such as typhoid fever, pneumonia, pleurisy and rheumatism.

The results of treatment have been most gratifying. The per cent. of recoveries will compare favorably with that of any hospital in the country. The fine location of the hospital, pure air, good hygienic conditions, excellent management and efficient and sympathetic nursing, contributing largely to these results.

Every year since it was opened, the hospital through the sickly seasons, has been crowded largely beyond its normal capacity. The population of the city has about doubled in that time, and the new and increasing industries cause more accidents and more sick people to be taken care of, and now it is impossible in the winter and summer months to care for all those who apply.

It is pitiful to turn away a sick person from the hospital. It is a hardship to many who have no place to go. It is unfair to those who have to be discriminated against. But what can we do? The city has doubled its population but the capacity of the hospital remains the same. More than that the hospital has developed a debt because we have failed to contribute enough from year to year to meet the current expenses. The accommodations for nurses are entirely insufficient. It is found necessary to take rooms in a house on Cranch Hill for two of the nurses.

What we need to do now to bring the the hospital up to the requirements of the time, is first to pay off the debt; then to build a new ward with more private rooms; a contagious ward for cases of measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria; and a nurses home where we can accommodate more nurses for the hospital and the people.

The new ward is promised, there is quite a nucleus for a contagious ward, and I feel assured that a nurses home will be built just as soon as there is sufficient evidence that these improvements can be maintained. It would be useless to make these additions while the means of supporting them are lacking.

To ensure these improvements there must be larger annual contributions from the people. A very little from every one would be sufficient to meet all the needs of the hospital from year to year. Fifty cents a year from every one would give us abundance. Let this be a test year and let every one show by his contribution that he is determined that we shall have all the improvements that the hospital needs.

Good Word for Hospital.

Editors of the Ledger:

I wish to say a few words in regard to the Quincy City Hospital. I think every citizen should be interested in this work and help support it.

We should feel grateful that we have such an institution in our midst where the sick and unfortunate can be cared for.

Having been a patient at the Hospital this fall it gives me pleasure to state that it is managed in a first class manner notwithstanding its limited means. In cleanliness, good food and service, it is all that could be desired, and no one who requires the use of a hospital need fear to take advantage of our own City Hospital. N. G. Nickerson.

Bequests of E. A. Harlow.

The will of Edwin A. W. Harlow late of Quincy probated this week at Dedham left $2,000 each to Harvard and Brown; $2,000 are also left to the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and one hundred shares each of Phoenix Furniture Company of Grand Rapids, Mich., to the American Baptist Home Mission Society and the American Baptist Missionary Union. The residue and remainder of his estate is left in equal shares to Harvard and Brown Universities. William I. Bowditch of Brookline is named as executor of the will, which was drawn Sept. 6, 1899.

—Brockton has just put up 515 enameled street signs. They cover all streets from end to end of Main and Montello streets and Warren avenue, and for one mile in radius from the City Hall.

RUPTURE OF RELATIONS

Between Venezuela and European Nations Imminent

STRONG STAND BY CASTRO

Thinks Great Britain Will Not Invite Complications With United States by Resorting to Force—Blockade of Orinoco River Causes Row

Caracas, Nov. 21.—An effort is being made by the European diplomats to persuade the American minister, Mr. Bowen, to join in a declaration that the blockade of the Orinoco river ports declared by the Venezuelan government is ineffective, which is the position taken up by Germany, France and Italy, as well as Great Britain. Mr. Bowen has given a discreet refusal and is avoiding the question with a view not to jeopardize American interests and to leave the hands of the Washington government free. Secretary of Legation Russell, in his report on the recent trip of the United States gunboat Marietta up the Orinoco, holds that the blockade of Ciudad Bolivar is effective, which is a partial support of the Venezuelan contention.

The government organ, in a statement inspired by the foreign office, renews its attack on British Minister Haggard, who, according to the decree issued by the Trinidad government, furnished evidence on the illegality of the Orinoco blockade and asserts that the British minister is seeking to make an effect on the eve of his departure. The paper criticises the action of Great Britain in occupying the island of Patos in addition to her attitude toward the blockade and continues:

"It is time that Venezuela should take into serious consideration these attempts against her sovereignty by a power, which, while ostensibly friendly, is really hostile. Small peoples have their strength of army and navy and can make it felt. Let not these attempts put President Castro under the necessity of acting and proceeding energetically because Great Britain might suffer by it."

The strong stand made by President Castro is based on a confidence that Great Britain will not invite complications with the United States by having to resort to force. The belief is entertained by shrewd and impartial diplomats that the ultimate object of Great Britain's action in making the issue a serious one is to bring about arbitration on all the questions under dispute.

Minister Bowen has counselled President Castro to be patient, as the new British minister, Mr. Ironsides, will shortly relieve Mr. Haggard, and an amicable agreement will be reached with him.

The German gunboat Panther has arrived at Maracaibo to protect German interests there. This port was recently inspected by a German officer, which leads to the belief that Maracaibo may be one of the ports seized when Germany presses her claims.

Willemstad, Nov. 21.—The strain in the relations between Great Britain and Venezuela has been intensified by the refusal of the British government to give satisfaction in the Ban Righ affair and by the publication by the government of Trinidad of the decree announcing that the blockade of the Orinoco river ports is null and of no effect. The Trinidad government has also failed to recognize the presidential proclamation made the day following the flight of General Matos, and President Castro regards this omission as further evidence that the British are encouraging the revolution. Mr. Haggard, the British minister at Caracas, reiterated a few days ago to the Venezuelan government that Great Britain did not hold herself liable for the action of the Ban Righ and that she continues perfectly neutral. This statement is not acceptable to President Castro, who insists on having satisfaction.

The organ of the Venezuelan government publishes the aforementioned decree of the Trinidad government and bitterly attacks Great Britain on that score. It declares that the blockade is effective and that British vessels will be seized if they violate it.

Minister Haggard declines to make any statement, but in diplomatic circles it is understood that Great Britain would release her ships by force and that this was one of the purposes of the recently reported entrance of one of her warships into the Orinoco.

Germany is upholding Great Britain and is threatening a rupture of relations with Venezuela, but no action has yet been taken.

Moonshiners Got Away

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 21.—A record-breaking raid was made last night by a party of revenue officers and state constables in this county. They destroyed six large illicit distilleries, 75 fermenters, 8000 gallons of beer and mash and 60 gallons of low wines. Three of the stills were found in operation, but the moonshiners in charge escaped.

Liquor Licenses Declared Void

Camden, N. J., Nov. 21.—Mayor Nowrey yesterday, in obedience to a writ of ouster issued by the state supreme court, ordered the closing of all liquor saloons in the city. The court recently declared unconstitutional the act of the legislature creating the city excise board and consequently all licenses granted by that body are void.

Suspected of Poisoning Wife

Cassopolis, Mich., Nov. 21.—David Weir was arrested yesterday on the charge of having caused the death of his wife on Nov. 7. An examination of Mrs. Weir's stomach revealed the presence of arsenic, and yesterday Mrs. Dora Poulson of Buchanan testified that Weir had promised to make her his wife.

Foster Convicted of Murder

Greenwood, S. C., Nov. 21.—Julian Foster, the negro who was brought back from Clinton, Mass., to stand trial for killing Louis White, another negro, was yesterday found guilty of murder, with a recommendation to the mercy of the court. Foster's attorneys gave notice of a motion for a new trial.

Soldiers Will Guard Treasure

Washington, Nov. 21.—By direction of the Philippine commission all vessels engaged in the Philippine coastwise trade carrying treasure hereafter will be provided with a guard of constabulary soldiers. The expenses of the guard are to be paid by the shippers of money.

Picquart Gets $6000 Damages

Paris, Nov. 21.—The civil tribunal yesterday condemned the newspaper Le Jour to pay Colonel Picquart $6000 damages for libeling him in an article on the Dreyfus case.

The Granite Industry.

Work in the granite sheds is getting a little quiet, but not more so than could be expected at this season of the year. From the latter part of April up to the first of November there were no idle stone cutters, and at times it was impossible to obtain all the help desired.

It was generally admitted that the Barre exchange did not injure Quincy, but if anything was a help to it. In Barre while the exchange was in force it was impossible to get a monument cheaper of one firm than another, so that the middle men came to Quincy, where they had no difficulty in finding firms that were willing to take the job at a little lower price than it could be obtained at Barre.

The outlook for next year seems to be bright. The cutters will undoubtedly ask for some minor changes in the existing bill of prices, but under the agreement existing between the manufacturers and union there will be no strike, lockout or suspension of business during the settlement of the differences.

—At 4 o'clock this afternoon Judge Bond, sitting in the Superior Criminal Court, will hear the motion for a trial filed last week by J. D. Mackay of Quincy, counsel in behalf of John L. C. Soderquest, who, while janitor of the Natural History rooms, murderously assaulted a young woman.

—Capt. John Stephenson of Hingham observed on Thursday his 93d birthday. He was born in Hingham.

A SQUEEZING PROCESS

Being Resorted to by the Colombian Government

AMERICA AND FRANCE

Would Be Losers by Position Assumed, Much to the Disgust of the Administration—Secretary Hay Is Firm Against Blackmailing Tactics

Washington, Nov. 21.—In administration circles the greatest disgust is felt at the attitude of Colombia toward the canal treaty. It is evidently the plan of the powers that are in nominal control there to squeeze the United States government for the last cent, under any pretext that can be devised, in return for what they know this government wants. It is hinted that they may also be privately squeezing the French company, which has $40,000,000 at stake in the negotiation. There is some dispute between the state of Panama and the Colombian republic as to the distribution of the spoils, which the United States is asked to make large enough to cover the wants of both claimants.

Secretary Hay is standing firm against these tactics, for he realizes that it will be very difficult to get any Panama canal treaty ratified by the senate, to say nothing of one which bore the marks of being a surrender to blackmailers. The canal would be of the utmost value to Colombia, more in proportion than to the people of the United States, and the senate will be in no mood to tolerate outrageous bills.

The Colombian government has been notified that the Spooner act is mandatory, and that if the terms cannot be made with Colombia, the president must go ahead by the other route. With Nicaragua and Costa Rica we already have a reasonably satisfactory provisional treaty, so that no diplomatic complications would prevent the execution of that enterprise. The Colombians laugh at this, saying that no nation of any common sense would build by Nicaragua when the Panama route was in existence.

In this they are measurably correct. It would be a serious mistake to construct that waterway by Nicaragua, and many of our public men before consenting to have the government do so would favor taking a more aggressive policy toward Colombia. While the Spooner act does not authorize or demand anything until a treaty has been negotiated, the same men who passed it might in the coming short session amend its terms so as to provide for the construction of a canal first and negotiations with Colombia afterwards. In fact, such a program would have large elements of popularity both in congress and with the people. It might be easier to get for it a majority vote in both houses than to get a two-thirds vote in the senate for any treaty that Colombia now seems willing to grant.

A Sensational Development

Chicago, Nov. 21.—In the tax fixing conspiracy trial yesterday, Luke Wheeler, himself a convicted tax fixer, took the witness stand and swore that President Gormley of the Masonic Fraternity Temple association knew every move in the tax fixing scheme and sanctioned it. "Once Gormley upbraided me," declared the witness, "and said: 'How is this that you once came to me with a proposition to settle for $14,000 and then you want $20,000?'"

Government Asked to Protest

Rome, Nov. 21.—The Tribuna, commenting on the proposed new law of the United States to stop the immigration of illiterates, says this measure is a new, cruel offense, and urges the government to make a protest to the United States government, inasmuch as the proposed measure will strike especially at Italy, whose emigration comprises 50 percent of illiterates.

Great Time Saving Device

Springfield, O., Nov. 21.—A test of a new automatic mail bag catcher and deliverer was made yesterday before the committee appointed by the postmaster general. The last transfer was made at a speed of 76 miles an hour with full, maximum weight mailbags of 50 pounds, the device delivering the bag to the post and receiving another. The test was a complete success.

Railroad Is Hampered

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 21.—The effect of the freight congestion which the Pennsylvania railroad is experiencing on account of a shortage of locomotives and cars was first felt here yesterday when a number of collieries were shut down because of a lack of cars. Several train crews were suspended.

Steamer Sunk In Collision

London, Nov. 21.—The Danish steamer Knud II, Captain Hanssen, from Copenhagen, and the British steamer Swaledale, from Hamburg, collided last night at the mouth of the Tyne. The Knud II foundered immediately and the master and seven of her crew were drowned.

Contract Won't Be Renewed

Halifax, Nov. 21.—The coal contract between the New England Gas and Coke company of Everett, Mass., and the Dominion Coal company expired today and it will not likely be renewed. The last shipment of coal from Louisburg to the Everett works will be made this week.

PURE FOOD EXPERIMENTS

Twelve Young Men Will Serve as Subjects In Practical Tests

Washington, Nov. 21.—Chief Wiley of the bureau of chemistry of the agricultural department next Monday will begin a series of experiments on 12 young men for the purpose of testing the physiological effects of the use of the meat preserved with borax and other chemicals. The experiments will be made with a view to deciding what basis there is for the objection of the German government to American meats on the ground that the borax and other chemicals used in their preservation are injurious to public health. The men he has selected are young and vigorous. Each has pledged himself during the period the tests are to last to abstain from food and drink except as it may be permitted by Professor Wiley. Six of them will be fed on "pure" foods, untreated meats and vegetables, while the other six will partake of the same fare submitted to chemical treatment. This arrangement will continue for about two weeks and then the government boarders will change their diet, those not eating chemically treated food adopting such a regime while the others get untreated rations, and at the end of two weeks reversing their diet again. The men will be weighed before each meal and careful notes will be taken of their appearance each day.

Professor Wiley, in speaking of the experiments, said: "The best food obtainable will be given to the boys. The fare will not be lavish, but will be above that of the average boarding house and will include all the vegetables and meats of the season. The young men will get their food without cost for a year or more."

Fight Over Carnegie Library

Halifax, Nov. 21.—A sensation was created at the meeting of the Halifax city council last night when a writ of injunction was served on Mayor Crosby as the representative of the city restraining him from carrying into effect the order of the council in rescinding the resolution of the acceptance of $75,000 from Andrew Carnegie for a public library and also from notifying Mr. Carnegie of the council's action. The injunction was issued at the instance of a banker of this city. The aldermen who supported the resolution have retained counsel to defend the suit.

Desperate Man Tried Suicide

Jersey City, Nov. 21.—After Bartho Strobel, imprisoned on a charge of writing threatening letters to prominent men, was left alone in a room at headquarters yesterday, he attempted suicide with a handkerchief. He was led back to a cell by a patrolman and, reaching through the bars, seized the officer's revolver. The officer caught Strobel's arm before it could be withdrawn and threatened to break it, thereby causing the man to drop the weapon.

Mayor and Police Chief Clash

Havana, Nov. 21.—The mayor of Havana has dismissed Chief of Police Cardenas because the latter ordered the police to disperse the striking cigar workers against the mayor's orders. The strikers had become a menace to public order and it is feared that the mayor's action will cause an outbreak of lawlessness.

Wages Voluntarily Raised

Bloomington, Ills., Nov. 21.—The Chicago and Alton railroad announces an increase averaging 10 percent in wages of all enginemen, trainmen and switchmen, to take effect Dec. 1. The advance is granted voluntarily.

Bad Negro Lynched

Sullivan, Ind., Nov. 21.—James Moore, the negro who criminally assaulted Mrs. Mary Davis and Mrs. John Lemon on Tuesday last, was hanged to a telegraph pole near John Lemon's farm last night by a mob.

Hundred and Fifty Lives Lost

Vienna, Nov. 21.—A Bucharest newspaper reports that the steamer Kosula, loaded with cereals, has foundered in a gale in the Black sea. One hundred and fifty persons are reported to have perished.

IT'S THE TRUTH

Tell a man it's a food and he doesn't want to pay for it. Tell him it's a medicine and he says it doesn't look like it. Then tell him it's both a food and a medicine and he thinks you're playing some game on him.

Yet these are the facts about Scott's Emulsion of pure cod-liver oil. It is the cream of cod-liver oil, the richest and most digestible of foods. The food for weak stomachs. The food for thin bodies and thin blood.

But that's only half the story. Scott's Emulsion is also a good medicine. It gives new life and vigor to the whole system and especially to the lungs.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

Mutiny on Naval Vessel

Washington, Nov. 21.—The Isla de Luzon, one of the Spanish gunboats captured at Manila by Admiral Dewey, is en route to New York from Manila, via Singapore. On the trip to Singapore some of the machinery on the boat shipped badly, creating a panic among the crew and causing a substantial mutiny. After her capture the Luzon was repaired at Hong Kong and it is said that the repairs were not properly made.

Claim Injunction Was Violated

Boston, Nov. 21.—A petition has been filed in the superior court by Lynch & Woodward, steam fitters, asking that those mebmers of the Steam Fitters' union who were recently enjoined be adjudged in contempt of court for interfering with the petitioners in their work on the Majestic theatre. The allegation is that the union men endeavored to get the owner of the theatre to break his contract with the petitioners.

Kieran-MacDonald Case Settled

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 21.—A settlement has been reached in the breach of promise suit brought against Patrick Kieran by Miss Mary MacDonald, and which resulted in a favorable verdict for the latter recently. Counsel for the defendant, who asked for a new trial, declines to make any comment save to say that a settlement has been made.

The Remington Tragedy

Newport, R. I., Nov. 21.—The authorities, while they still believe that Robert R. Remington committed suicide, are ready to render every assistance in any investigation of the tragedy. The medical examiner will ask for an inquest if the necessary evidence to warrant it is produced.

WHY I AM THANKFUL.

A THANKSGIVING POEM BY ONE OF "YE OLDEN TIME" POETS.

I'm thankful 'cause I'm living, and can eat mamma's good pies,
I'm thankful when the sun goes down, and stars come in the skies,
For then I play at hide and seek 'til I hear them calling "Ted,"
And I know it's almost eight o'clock, and time to be in bed.
And then there's one who'll tuck me in, "bless her little man."
No one else I know can do it the same as mother can.

I'm thankful when it's stormy, and the bell "no school" will ring,
No lessons to learn for one whole day, and no excuses to bring;
A gay old time in the attic, where there's plenty of room for fun,
And we play "Old Sly, the Indian," with a broomstick for a gun;
We spin our tops, play "Blind Man's Bluff" and "Grandpa and the Bears"
'Til we get so very hungry we have to go down stairs.

There's lots a fellow is thankful for if he'd only stop to think;
I could name a half a dozen things in the time you'd take to blink;
A rifle and skates on Christmas day, and for dinner, good things to eat,
Pumpkin pie and turkey's wings, and candies and cakes so sweet.
I tell you ma knows how to cook, and does things up so brown,
At Christmas time or any time, she's just the best in town.

I'm thankful I've a birthday, for then the presents come,—
From ma a pretty book of poems, from Bob three chews of gum;
From little sister a "birthday kiss," and grandpa a fishing line,
And from papa a suit of clothes; I tell you they are fine.
Uncles and aunts remember too, they know what boys want most,
Plenty of money to spend sometimes, and a double runner to coast.

So I think I'm a lucky fellow, all the boys say so,
To have a home, and a pa and ma, and a little sister Flo;
And, though I don't like school, and would rather go fishing instead,
I suppose I've got to learn to know as much as Uncle Fred.
But I don't have to study all the time,—I find some time to play,—
And I always look for lots of fun on every Thanksgiving day.

The Social Realm.

He gives nothing but worthless gold
Who gives from a sense of duty;
But he who gives a slender mite,
And gives to that which is out of sight,
That thread of the all-sustaining Beauty
Which runs through all and doth all unite,—
The hand cannot clasp the whole of his alms,—
The heart outstretches its eager palms,
For a god goes with it and makes it store
To the soul that was starving in darkness before.
—James Russell Lowell.

To the Children.

Will not each little Quincy girl earn one cent during their vacation days and each boy earn five cents, a nickel, and give it to the collector for the hospital for his or her ward?

You all know Dr. Gordon and the doctors' hospital where a little child who has not as pretty a room and as nice a bed as a certain little neighbor has, can be taken if it is sick or hurt, and have a lovely white bed and be taken care of by a gentle kind nurse.

Endeavorers' Party.

A happy party of bright young Christian Endeavorers enjoyed a social evening Thursday at the Wollaston Congregational vestry. From 5 to 6 Rev. Mr. Chase allowed the children a good time playing games. At 6 about fifty sat down to a supper arranged by Miss Mary Sayward. When the good things had vanished the entertainment began. Piano solos were given by the young people, and Mr. Tobey pleased all with selections from his graphophone. At eight o'clock the party was over, amid good wishes for Mr. Chase and the Christian Endeavor.

A THANKFUL THANKSGIVING

"I DON'T feel as if I should enjoy this Thanksgivin'," said Mrs. Joel Nisbett, looking down into the basket of glossy, red cheeked Spitzenbergs as if it were a family vault and taking up an apple as if it had been a skull; "no, I don't."

"Then, Sarepta," observed her husband, who had just thrown a huge log on the open fire, "you don't disarn nothin' to be thankful for! It's as harnsome a turkey as ever flapped, and I don't know of a year when I've had nicer pumpkins on that ar' corn lot!"

"'Tain't turkey or pumpkin pies or cranberry sass as makes Thanksgivin'," sighed Mrs. Nisbett.

"What is it, then? Ef it's cold weather, I should ha' thought the last frost would ha' done the business for you pretty fairly. Them artemisias by the front door is scorched black, and the old maple is losin' its leaves as if they

"I AM GOING TO BE MARRIED."

was rainin' down. Parson Jarvis is comin' all the way from Sloatesville to preach tomorrow, and the quire's larned a bran' new anthem just a-purpose, about bein' thankful for harvest and all that sort of thing. I'm sure I don't know what else you'd have."

Mrs. Nisbett only answered by a sigh.

"I wonder if 'tain't possible Stephe 'll be hum tonight," she said after a pause.

"He writ not. He thought he'd drop in any tomorrow mornin' if he caught the train he expected. Only think, old woman; it's five years since Stephe was hum to Thanksgivin'!"

Old Nisbett rubbed his horny hands, with a chuckle, adding:

"And I s'pose, if all accounts is true, he's gettin' to be a great man out in that western country. It was kind of a hard pull when he went off and left us, but maybe the boy was in the right."

"Yes," said Mrs. Nisbett dolorously, "but somehow I can't get reconciled to the idea of his marryin' a strange gal out there."

Joel scratched his head. This was a phase of the subject that he scarcely felt competent to discuss.

"Maybe you'll like her. Stephen says she's a nice gal."

"Stephen says! As if a man over head and ears in love wouldn't say anything."

"I wish he'd told us who she was."

Mrs. Nisbett groaned again. Joel went out to the woodpile, the everyday shrine whence he generally derived what little of philosophic inspiration he had.

"Mrs. Nisbett!"

It was a soft little voice, and the old lady's face relaxed instinctively as it sounded on her ears.

"Why, Lida Tremaine—'tain't you!"

"It is. I've done everything that Aunt Constance wanted, and now I've just run over to see if you don't need a bit of help."

She stood in the doorway, a fair little apparition, all flushed and rosy with the November wind, while her blue eyes sparkled as if they were twin sapphires hidden away under her long, dark lashes. She was neither blond nor brunette, but a fresh cheeked girl, with nut brown hair, skin like the leaf of a damask rose, a straight, refined nose and lips as ripe as a red crabapple, though by no means so sour. Generally she had a demure sort of gravity lingering about her face, but when she did laugh a dimple came out upon her cheek and a row of pearly teeth glimmered instantaneously.

In one hand she carried a bunch of late autumn flowers.

"See!" she cried, holding them up. "I ransacked Aunt Constance's garden for these. I knew that big vase on the mantel needed something, and, with a branch or so of scarlet leaves, I'll have a royal bouquet to help you keep Thanksgiving."

Mrs. Nisbett took the fair oval face between her two hands and kissed the fresh little mouth.

"Set down, Lida," she said. "I wasn't a-calculatin' to have no sech fixin's up, but you've sech a way, child, I can't never say no to you."

"But you're going to keep Thanksgiving," cried Lida, throwing off her outer wrappings and dancing up to the looking glass like a little gale of wind, "because you invited Aunt Constance and me to dinner and because your son is coming home."

"Yes, child, yes," said Mrs. Nisbett, subsiding once more into the mournful key from which Lida's sudden appearance had momentarily aroused her. "Joel's got the turkey shut up in a coop, and the bakin' 's done, and I'm just a-fixin' them apples, and"—

"Oh, oh," cried Lida, who had fluttered to the window, "what glorious red leaves speckled over with little drops of gold! May I make some wreaths for the wall? Oh, please say yes!"

Mrs. Nisbett said "yes"—it would have been hard work to say "no" to Lida—and the girl soon came in, her apron full of the sprigs of the old maple tree, whose shadowy boughs kept the window veiled with cool shadows through the glaring summer days and showered fading gold upon the dead grass when the autumn came.

Mrs. Nisbett looked with tenderness upon the graceful little figure seated on the hearth rug, when the shine of the high heaped logs lost itself in her bright hair and made sparkles in her eyes, as the wreaths and trails of autumn leaves grew rapidly beneath her deft fingers.

"Lida," she said softly, "Lida, my dear!" Lida looked up.

"I saw your Aunt Constance yesterday, but there's somethin' reserved about her, and I didn't like to ask about you—whether you had decided to go out as a governess or not; because, my dear, Joel and I were talkin' last night, and we both thought what a comfort it would be to have you here."

"To have me here?"

"We're old and we're alone, and somehow we've both took a fancy to you, my child. So when your Aunt Constance goes back to the city, if you choose to come here"—

Mrs. Nisbett paused abruptly and burst into tears.

"We had a little girl once, my dear, and if she'd lived she would ha' been nigh about your age."

Lida let the leaves drop down on the floor as she sprang up and threw both arms round the old woman's neck.

"Oh, Mrs. Nisbett," she whispered softly, "you are so very, very kind. Believe me, I appreciate it all, but—but—I hardly know how to tell you."

Mrs. Nisbett listened intently. Lida smiled and cried a little and then whispered so low it was scarcely audible.

"I am going to be married."

"Married!" ejaculated Mrs. Nisbett, with all a woman's interest in this important piece of information. "And who to?"

"Your son lives in Iowa—in Parlington?"

"Yes."

"Well, did he ever mention the name of"—

Lida paused, her cheeks glowing roses. Old Nisbett had come in with an armful of wood, bringing a gale with him from the frosty outer world.

"I'll tell you by and by," whispered Lida as she went back to her work.

"Joel 'll go out again arter awhile," thought Mrs. Nisbett, "and then I'll hear about Lida's beau."

But Joel sat down before the fire with a complacent satisfaction which boded ill for the gratification of his wife's curiosity, and finally accompanied Lida home, thus frustrating all his wife's designs and cutting off her chance of hearing Lida's story.

"Dear me!" thought she. "I don't believe the man was ever born who knowed when he wasn't wanted! How lonesome it seems when Lida's gone! What does the girl want to get married for when I could ha' took such a sight o' comfort with her? Oh, dear, dear! It does seem as if the world was all askew!"

The next day, in spite of the weather prophet's prediction of snow, dawned clear and brilliant as the dying smile of Indian summer. By 11 o'clock Mrs. Nisbett was dressed in her best silk and cap, with the turkey browning beautifully in the oven and the cranberry tarts doing credit to themselves as well as to their maker, the table set, the fire high heaped with crackling logs and the plates dressed with coronals of autumn leaves. Aunt Constance, a tall, prim maiden lady of uncertain age, stood before the bedroom looking glass arranging her coiffure. Lida, in a blue dress with a late autumn rose in her hair, was tripping hither and thither as light footed and helpful as half a dozen household fairies merged into one, while Mrs. Nisbett stood regarding her with a loving eye, murmuring to herself:

"Well, well, it seems like it was the Lord's will to deny us of just what we most want, but if I had a daughter I could wish she was like Lida."

As the old kitchen clock struck 1 Mrs. Nisbett, looking from the window, gave a little cry.

"There he comes—there comes Joel, and, as I live, there's the boy with him!"

Lida ran into the bedroom.

When she returned, Mrs. Nisbett was clasped in the arms of a tall, handsome man of four or five and twenty.

"Lida," said the proud matron, striving to disengage herself from the affectionate clasp, "this is my son Stephen, and—why, what's the matter?"

For Stephen had dropped her hands with an exclamation of surprise and amazement, and Lida stood there glowing crimson.

"Lida! Why, mother, this is a surprise indeed that you have prepared for me!"

"I prepared!" echoed the astonished old lady. "Well, that's a good un, when I'm ten times as much surprised as you be! Lida, what does this mean?"

"It means," said Lida, with a demure smile—she was beginning to recover her scattered self possession—"it means that this is the gentleman I am to be married to!"

"Stephen!" cried Mrs. Nisbett, "is Lida to be your wife?"

"She has given me her promise to that effect, at least," said Stephen, looking proudly down upon his lovely little fiancee.

"Well, if it don't beat all how queer things do happen!" said Mrs. Nisbett, her face radiant. "And you've been livin' neighbor to me these six weeks and I never knowed it. Lida, why didn't you tell me?"

"Because I never dreamed that Stephen Risingham, my betrothed western lover, was anything to Mrs. Nisbett," said Lida, laughing.

"There 'tis, now!" ejaculated the farmer. "How was she to know that he was only my nephew, adopted when his parents died, twenty good years ago. We've always called him son, and he's always been a son to us. But Lida didn't know. Old woman, what do you say to Stephen's wife?"

Mrs. Nisbett clasped Lida to her heart.

"I do say," she ejaculated, "this is the thankfullest Thanksgivin' I ever lived to see!"—New York Daily News.

RULES FOR THE FEAST.

A Thanksgiving Menu, With Suggestions About the Turkey.

It is not only Thanksgiving dinner that Lady Bountiful is expected to provide for, says the Chicago Record, but she has the men of the family home for at least the day, and in many cases a houseful of company to look after. With all of this in view a few suggestions are offered for various goodies and savories, both hot and cold, suitable to the season.

Oysters on the Half Shell.
Oxtail Soup.
Salmon Cutlets, Caper Sauce.
Curried Kidney (or Escaloped Sweetbreads).
Roast Turkey.
Cranberry Sauce or Jelly.
Mashed Potatoes.
Stewed Celery with White Sauce.
Spinach or Peas.
Pumpkin and Mince Pies.
Quaking Pudding with Soft Custard.
Cheese Souffle.
Fruit. Nuts. Coffee.

For the piece de resistance it is well to go to market prepared to buy the best, which is always a young, medium sized hen turkey. Mind that your purchase is a thorough "black leg." If the legs incline to paleness, Father Time has been at work. The breast must be broad and fat, the skin very white and the neck short. If the legs are red and adorned with long spurs, these are sure signs of an old gobbler. Nothing will so improve a turkey and give it the desired holiday flavor as a stuffing of mushrooms, and, as these are raised in such quantities for the market nowadays, they are no longer an extravagance. The stuffing is made in this way: A pound of nice, tender ham cut in dice. When hot, add two pounds of mushrooms, a little grated nutmeg, white pepper to taste and a bay leaf (the ham supplies enough salt). Blend all together in the saucepan over a moderate fire until the ham is cooked; then put aside to cool. Stuff the crop out well, and if any remains put it in the body of the turkey; then sew both neatly.

PIECE DE RESISTANCE.

A BARNYARD DRAMA.

The Victim's Dream of a Horrible Revenge.

Rooster—So you will steal my corn, will you? Oh, you needn't strut around here as though you were the only one in this menagerie.

Turkey—Oh, I don't know. You're not in it with me just now. I'm the most popular thing on the walk at present.

Rooster—Well, madam, stretch your rubber neck up over my head all you want today, but just you wait till tomorrow! When your skinny legs are being dragged to the execution block, I will look on at your gory expiration and from the bottom of my lungs will crow for victory!

Turkey (taking two struts coopward and landing in the center of the stage) —Aye, aye, sir! But listen. Death hath its rewards, and to sacrifice myself at the altar of revenge is more glorious than life. What if my beauteous wings shall switch the dust from out the cracks of the kitchen stove? Wait till my nude and helpless form lies stretched upon the platter of the feast! Then shall revenge come to me, for never yet was one of our tribe sacrificed at the altar of Thanksgiving that the merciless gourmands did not so o'erstuff themselves that nothing in all the world was worth the having for three days in advance.

Revenge! My friends, revenge indeed is sweet!—Detroit Free Press.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 23—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Thanksgiving and thanks living. —Ps. cxvi, 2-17; Jas. i, 27.

No more appropriate Scriptural selection could have been made for this subject than the One Hundred and Sixteenth Psalm. The psalmist here gives thanks unto God for special and general blessings and declares practically that he will live his thanks. "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits?" he asks and then answers his question by saying, "I will pay my vows unto the Lord now in the presence of all His people." This is equivalent to saying, "I will live my thanks unto the Lord for all His blessings."

1. Thanksgiving to God is most fitting and appropriate. The psalmist on this occasion had much to thank God for. He had been sick—yea, nigh unto death. "The pains of death got hold upon me." Then he cried unto the Lord, and the Lord heard him. He was healed. His life was saved. Little wonder that he would cry out unto God in gratitude and thanksgiving. But who has not many things to be thankful for? Every day there are blessings in our lives. Sometimes they are conspicuously great—unusual prosperity, escape from danger, restoration from sickness to health. Do we thank God as we ought for these special blessings? And then there are the innumerable common blessings of life. Let us count our blessings and in gratitude thank God for them, for they all come from His hand.

2. Thanksgiving to God should be accompanied by thanks living. Words to be effective must always be accompanied by deeds. Not those who merely say, "Lord, Lord, I thank Thee," are the thankful ones, but those who do the will of their Father who is in heaven. The psalmist recognized his indebtedness to God for His goodness. A spared life put him in debt to God, and he declared that he would pay it. "I will pay my vows unto the Lord." All sick vows are not paid, but the psalmist evidently intended to pay his. Thus, best of all, he could show his gratitude to God. "Actions speak louder than words." But thanks to God can be expressed by deeds of kindness toward His people. "Pure religion and undefiled before God the Father is this—to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world." How can we better thank God than by helping and caring for those who are the special objects of His love and care?

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxxiv, 1-8; l, 14, 15; c, 1-5; ciii, 1-5; cvii, 1-16; Mark v, 18-21; Acts iii, 1-10; II Cor. ix, 1-11; Phil. iv, 6; Col. ii, 6, 7; Rev. vii, 11, 12.

A Sure and Safe Refuge.

The day may be one of calamity. Dark clouds may be over us and a terrible storm about to break upon us. Where shall we find safety? The providence of God may fill us with alarm, and we may feel ourselves left destitute and helpless. Where may we hide ourselves from the pending evil? Or, while all is peace about us, while others are rejoicing because of great good we are depressed in spirit and in the thought of ourselves see only sin and judgment. How shall we escape? The Spirit of God has given us the answer, "God is our refuge; a help in trouble most readily to be found." He is at hand, and His ear is open to our cry of distress. He is the Almighty, and within His loving care we are safe. He is the faithful, unchanging one, and therefore will not forsake us. Hasten to the open door and to the outstretched arms of Him whose love infolds you and whose arm will guard from every harm.—United Presbyterian.

Dreading the Future.

The most of our trouble is caused by dread of coming ills. Many of them never come at all, or, rather, when the trial that we have been dreading does come it proves to be far more easy to bear than we expected. In fact, we are almost disappointed when we get over some long expected trouble so easy and immediately look for something else to worry over. We have abundant grace given for every need today; let us thankfully receive the blessing and leave tomorrow, with all it may bring, in His care. After all, what He expects of you and me is faithful trust in Him, a trust that remains firm in the face of every possible calamity. Such faith as this is the only remedy for dread of the future, and such faith is the rightful heritage of every saved soul.—Presbyterian Journal.

NEW FOUNDATION LAID

For Adjustment of Differences In the Mining Region

AID OF STRIKE COMMISSION

May Be Dispensed With If Proposition Believed to Have Emanated From Operators Is Agreed To, Which Appears Highly Probable

Scranton, Nov. 22.—The mine workers, through their representatives, have agreed with the mine owners to attempt to adjust the differences existing between them outside the anthracite coal strike commission. The proposition was made on a compromise basis, and negotiations, it is expected, will be entered upon at once, with a reasonable hope of settlement with the aid of the arbitrators.

The rough proposition, which is to form the basis of negotiations, is a 10 percent increase in wages, a nine-hour day, and trade agreements between the miners and the company by whom they are employed. The only one of the four demands not touched upon is that of weighing of coal by the legal ton.

While both sides have expressed a willingness to settle their differences among themselves, it is not to be construed that it carries with it the acceptance of the terms proposed. These terms are mentioned only as a basis, it is understood, from which a settlement is to be effected. It is possible that the foundation already laid can be wrecked by either party holding out too strongly against some question, and thus leave the whole matter in the hands of the commissioners who in the meantime will act as a sort of a board of conciliation, rather than as a board of arbitration.

Few persons were aware that an attempt would be made at an outside settlement until it was practically so intimated by Judge Gray, the chairman of the commission, who read a carefully prepared announcement yesterday from the "bench." The move, one of the most important in the whole history of the coal strike, created a sensation when it became known. The surprise was all the greater when it will be remembered that numerous persons, from the President of the United States down, and many organizations, from the National Civic Federation to the small boards of trade of the mining towns, failed to bring the two parties together. It is said it was all brought about by both sides seeing that the proceedings before the commission would be interminable.

It cannot be stated officially which party made the proposition first. The attorneys for both sides are averse to talking, but those who do say anything differ in their statements. An attorney for one of the railroads said it came from the miners' side, while one lawyer for the miners said it came from the operators. Another representative of the miners said it was a "spontaneous" proposition.

It is generally believed, however, that the operators were the first to make the proposition. Wayne MacVeagh, who carried on such a brilliant cross-examination of President Mitchell, is given credit for bringing about the present situation. He went to New York after he finished with Mr. Mitchell and had a conference with certain persons connected with the coal industry, among them, it is reported, J. P. Morgan. He was in New York yesterday in connection with the matter.

The commissioners were informed of the new turn of affairs Thursday night and acquiesced in the proposed arrangement. The subject did not directly come up in the public hearing yesterday and the adjournment proposition was made ostensibly to permit both sides to complete their work of preparing documentary evidence.

Clarence S. Darrow of Chicago, one of Mr. Mitchell's attorneys, brought the matter out when, near the close of yesterday's session, he suggested that the miners be given a little more time to prepare their evidence. The miners wanted to present the due bills or wage statements of thousands of miners running back for several years, and they found that the task of presenting them in a proper manner was a stupendous one. They also wanted to carefully examine the company books and this, too, would take considerable time.

While Mr. Darrow was saying this the commissioners were all attention and no one outside of them and a few representatives on each side of the case knew what was coming. Judge Gray, in reply to Mr. Darrow, said that the commission would be glad to co-operate in bringing about the accomplishment of that end.

"We have been aware for some time," he said, "that, while the testimony that has been adduced has been very interesting, and I will not say that it has not been of value, still it has not yet borne directly upon the points at issue between the parties to this controversy."

After delivering this the chairman read the announcement which had been prepared by the commission in advance.

BREACH OF THE PEACE

The Charge Against Students Who Held Up Ticket Speculators

New Haven, Nov. 22.—Detectives of this city yesterday began an investigation into the exciting fight in which a company of Yale students engaged with speculators who were dealing in theatre and football tickets for the Yale-Harvard game. As a result of the investigation, after several students had been brought to police headquarters, warrants were sworn out for the arrest of W. H. Barnum, a member of the junior class in the scientific school of Yale, and Bradford Ellsworth, a member of the senior class of the academic department.

Barnum was held in bonds of $200 and Ellsworth in bonds of $1000, but both were bailed out at once. The charge lodged against both men is breach of the peace. The police say that this charge may be changed later if the evidence warrants.

Joseph Destrand Sidney Trober made the complaints which resulted in the arrests.

Soderquest Wants New Trial

Boston, Nov. 22.—Judge Bond, in the superior court yesterday, heard the petition of John L. C. Soderquest for a new trial, but gave no decision and set no date for announcing one. Soderquest pleaded guilty last September to an assault with intent to kill, upon Mrs. Eva Crockett in the natural history rooms, where he was employed as janitor, and was sentenced to state prison for from seven to nine years. Judge Bond said he did not see clearly what he should do, but would not brush the matter aside, but would let it stand over.

Alleged Illegal Sales of Liquor

Clinton, Mass., Nov. 22.—Humphrey J. Coughlin, proprietor of the Clinton House, was yesterday fined $75 on the charge of illegally selling liquor on Sunday, Sept. 28. The case was appealed and Coughlin furnished $300 as sureties. At the close of the case a second warrant was served for the same offense, Sunday, Oct. 12, being named as the date of the alleged infringement of the law. The case was continued until Dec. 1 for trial, $300 sureties also being given in the case.

Women Can't Vote on It

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 22.—Both branches of the legislature yesterday passed the local option, high license bill with referendum attached, and the bill will be submitted to a vote of the people on the first Tuesday in January. Should a majority then declare in favor of the bill the law will go into effect on the first Tuesday in March next. The amendment to allow women to vote on the referendum was defeated.

Baby Has Foster Parents

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 22.—The authorities have been unable to find any clue to the person or persons who abandoned a 2-months-old male child in St. Anne's church last Saturday night. Application for the adoption of the child was made by Mrs. Flavien Erenette, and the authorities yesterday turned the child over to her.

Murderer Kills Himself

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., Nov. 22.—The dead body of Noah Hale, who shot and killed his son on Oct. 3, was found under a pile of brush within two miles of his former home. Beside the body was the gun with which Hale took his own life.

Twenty Seconds Instead of Rounds

Baltimore, Nov. 22.—It required just 20 seconds for Tom Daly of Brooklyn to put Joe Tipman, the local featherweight, out last night. Daly crossed a right to the jaw when Tipman showed an opening. Tipman's seconds brought him to consciousness in three minutes. They were to have boxed 20 rounds.

Congressman Was Very Rich

New York, Nov. 22.—The will of former Congressman Felix Campbell of Brooklyn, disposing of an estate estimated at $7,000,000, was filed for probate yesterday. The bulk of the estate is devised to the testator's wife and four daughters.

Surrenders For Second Time

Manila, Nov. 22.—The Filipino, Seminola, with 50 followers, has surrendered to the constabulary at Albay. Seminola surrendered at Legaspi in July, 1901, and took the oath of allegiance, but he subsequently fled and organized a band of ladrones.

Failure of Norwegian Bank

Christiana, Nov. 22.—The Industry and Exchange bank here has suspended payment. The other banks have agreed to co-operate with the government in a guarantee of $500,000 to cover the bank's liabilities to its creditors.

PEACE TREATY SIGNED

War Which Ravaged Colombia For Years to End

REBELS HAND OVER FLEET

As Well as Arms and Ammunition In Possession of Land Forces—Soldiers to Be Returned to Their Homes at Government's Expense

Panama, Nov. 22.—Consul General Gudger landed from the Wisconsin at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, bringing the news that a treaty of peace had just been signed by the revolutionary general, Herrera, and the government commissioners.

Rear Admiral Casey will sail today.

The principal points in the treaty of peace which has been signed by Minister of State Perdomo specifies that General Herrera shall hand over to the government the entire revolutionary fleet, consisting of the gunboats Padilla, Darien, Gaetan and Boyaca. All the war elements of the insurgent armies in the provinces of Cauca and Panama, and the arms and ammunition captured at Agua Dulce, are also to be surrendered. The government will pay the sum necessary to return the soldiers of the revolution to their homes.

Once peace has been declared the Colombian congress will decide regarding the laws for the Panama canal and the elections and also the paper money questions, as this is the wish of the president and of the whole nation.

Satisfaction at Washington

Washington, Nov. 22.—Officials of the Colombian legation express great satisfaction over the news that a treaty of peace has been signed with General Herrera. They feel that this will bring about a cessation of all hostilities on the isthmus and terminate a war which has ravaged Colombia for several years. The government of Colombia, realizing the menace to its interests which the presence of General Herrera and his army would be to negotiations for the construction of a Panama canal, put forth every effort to bring about his capitulation, and for this purpose a large number of troops have been massed in the vicinity of Panama and Colon ready for an active campaign against the revolutionary general, should such action finally be determined on.

General Herrera's action follows closely on the recent surrender of General Uribe-Uribe to the government forces. General Uribe-Uribe has been recognized as probably the foremost of the rebel leaders, and his surrender was a source of great satisfaction to the Colombians as, in their opinion, it meant the termination of all organized armed resistance to the government in the interior of Colombia.

Prosecution Forced to Give Up

Waco, Tex., Nov. 22.—The indictments which have been pending in the criminal court for many years against members of the Standard Oil company, charging them with violations of the anti-trust law of Texas, were yesterday dismissed. All efforts to serve the warrants have been rendered futile through the refusal of the governors of New York and Florida to honor requisitions.

Guidi and Taft Exchange Visits

Manila, Nov. 22.—Governor Taft and Mgr. Guidi exchanged formal visits yesterday and discussed in a general way the prospective negotiations. The date on which the negotiations will be commenced and the method of work are still undetermined. Mgr. Guidi says that he accepted the mission because he knew that Governor Taft was an upright and sincere man.

Tremont Temple Wants Lorimer

Boston, Nov. 22.—Rev. Dr. Lorimer may return to Tremont Temple as the pastor, the committee of deacons which has been to New York to ask him to return being sanguine that their mission was successful. Next week another vote may be taken on the question of calling a pastor.

Derelict Menaced Navigation

Boston, Nov. 22.—Captain Williams of the schooner Luther T. Garretson, which arrived from Fernandina, Fla., yesterday, reports that he fell in with the derelict schooner R. F. Pettigrew and sent a boat's crew aboard to set her afire. The Pettigrew was in track of coastwise shipping.

Coal Scarce at Boston

Boston, Nov. 22.—Coal dealers in this city are predicting that the price of coal will go up for the reason that so little anthracite is being received. The bulk of foreign coal is now here. Cold weather has got to begin and the stringency of fuel has not been relieved.

FOR MAYOR
CHARLES M. BRYANT

Good Afternoon

Remember the poor at the Thanksgiving season.

The G. A. R. have indeed been very fortunate in having such pleasont weather for their annual fair. It was no small sacrifice for the boys of '61 to leave their homes to fight for the cause of freedom. Thousands upon thousands n ever returned,and many who did have never had perfect health since. Since the dark days of the Civil war, the "boys" have kept together in one great bond of brotherhood,helping each other now, as when they fought together side by side. Each year a fair is held for the purpose of raising funds for the old and disabled soldiers, and as we give toward this fair, our aid, either in money or gifts of articles, let us be thankful we can show our appreciation of the noble work they did for us in the days of '61. The fair closes tonight, so let everyone attend and do their part to help the "Old Boys."

SOUND STEAMERS.

To be Built at Fore River Works,

For the Fall River Line.

One a Palatial Passenger Boat, The Other a Freight Boat.

There seems to be no lack of work for the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. Besides several government vessels under construction they have a large number of contracts with private parties. Yesterday they were awarded another large contract by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company for two large steamers for the Fall River line between Boston and New York.

One of these new steamers will be a palatial passenger boat and the other a freight boat.

BIGELOW PARK.

Great Inducements to Visit This Property Next Week.

There are probably few people in Quincy and vicinity who have not been made aware by advertisements in the Ledger and otherwise, during the past ten days, that the beautiful estate fronting on South, Sumner and Walnut streets, known as the Bigelow property, had been laid out into house lots. That streets were being built through it and that all next week a great sale of lots will take place.

As an inducement for the public to come and inspect the property, it is proposed to make a distribution of valuable presents among the visitors. Among other things to be given away, are thirty Thanksgiving turkeys.

These present are not to be given as premiums to purchasers but to the general public whether purchasers or not, for the purpose of advertising the property.

A visit to the property shows the location to be very desirable. All lots are on high ground, and dry cellars are thus assured. Of course some lots are better than others, but there are no poor lots on the property. A number of lots are already marked "sold" which shows that the desire ability of the location has been readily recognized by by shrewd buyers who have lost no time in laying the foundation for a home for themselves.

The agents inform the Ledger that many of the purchasers intend to commence building operations at once, which means a year from now this property will be dotted with houses.

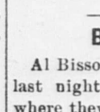

Owing to the new business enterprises that have recently located in Quincy there has been a scarsity of houses within easy distance of Quincy Neck, and many workmen who would like to live near their work are unable to do so. For this reason there can be no question but what in the near future, building operations in Bigelow Park will be active.

Brought No Bear.

Al Bisson and Tom Smith returned last night from Mechiasport, Maine, where they have been for the past two weeks on their annual gunning trip. They report the weather to have been rather unfavorable, aithough they got some small game. They realized how nice it would be to bring home a black bear to exhibit to their Quincy friends. They had several opportunities to shoot bear that were chained up, but mindful of the example set them by President Roosevelt, and the imperative instructions given them by the Sunshine club, they said no. They simply looked at the bear and said, "live until some other Quincy gunner comes along; we will not take thy precious life."

—Let no one sigh to be the possessor of vast income. Rockefeller's income of $40,000,000 a year has become a nightmare to its owner. Spend it he could not if he would. Give it away he would not, fortunately for the spirit of manly independence. Let it lie idle he dare not, for so much idle capital up-piling would disarrange the world's finances.—The Healthy Home.

The Vagabonds.

The was a large audience at Music hall last evening to witness the presentation of the three act drama, "The Vagabonds" by Thomas F. Martel, under the auspices of John A. Boyd Camp, Legion of Spanish War Veterans.

In the cast were Joseph F. Doherty, Frank P. Pierce, George A. Wardwell, Thomas F. Martel, William J. Collagan, John V. Meade, Leon W. Delano, Harry L. Chase, Gertrude Berry, Katherine Barnes and Katherine Fitzsimmons.

The drama was founded on a romance of Virginia. It abounded in thrilling climaxes, and it was finely staged.

The play concluded at 10.30. The floor was then cleared for dancing which lasted until an early hour this morning.

Councilman George E. Adams, commander of John A. Boyd camp was floor director, Senior Vice Commander David L. Smith assistant and there were many aids.

G. A. R. Fair.

Owing to other attractions the attendance at the Grand Army fair last evening was not quite as large as on the previous evenings. There was a goodly number present, however, and trade at the several tables was brisk.

The entertainment was furnished by a ladies quartette. The fair will close tonight at which time the articles sold by books will be disposed of, and the articles on the tables remaining unsold will be sold by auction.

The five dolls, that the little folks and their ma's have been working for, were awarded to Mabel Jilbert of Baxter street, who turned in $22.15; Theresa Corcoran, $19.70; Pearl Hayden, $17.30; Elizabeth Pinel, $16.65; Clara Decoste, $15.05. There were forty books out, but the above brought in the largest amount. In all, $208.04 was turned in on the dolls.

Half Century Mark.

Mark Gordon, a popular foreman of the Quincy Granite Quarries Co., has made many friends since he came to Quincy. Yesterday he reached the fiftieth anniversary of his birth and it was an eventful day for him and his friends. Besides some of his Quincy friends he entertained granite men and others from Worcester and Boston, at the residence of Mr. Maynard C. King. A banquet was served, and songs, stories and cards enjoyed.

TWO SMALL FIRES

Loss at Atlantic Was Only $30

Bigelow Estate Stable on Fire

Extinguished With Loss of About $50.

Two alarms of fire this noon, an hour apart, kept the firemen busy and gave the horses long runs, the two fires being several miles apart.

The first alarm came from Box 62 and was sounded at 12.23. This was a fire in one of the Duggan houses on Newbury street, Atlantic. The house is a double one. One side is occupied by James Travers and the other is vacant.

The fire started on the roof of the unoccupied part and burned down through before it was put out. The loss will not be over $30.

The central station apparatus was on its way home and had reached a point opposite the street railway car barn when the whistles were heard sounding another alarm.

From the tapper in the residence of a Ledger representative near by it was learned the box was 171. This alarm was rung in at 1.20 and proved to be a fire in the basement of the stable on the Bigelow estate occupied by W. H. Doble and J. W. McAnarney.

The barn is half way between boxes 171 and 172 so that a round about way was taken to reach it. The central fire station apparatus laid two lines of hose from a hydrant on South street and Hose 4 one stream from the same hydrant.

Hose 2 laid a line of hose from South Walnut street across the field.

The fire was confined to the basement although it had begun to work its way up through the floor.

The fire was probably caused by over heated manure. The loss will not be heavy possibly $50.

Claim Unfair Treatment.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

At the hearing held before Mayor Bryant of Quincy, on the petition of fifty and more citizens of Quincy, for the removal of Police Officer Patrick H. Bradley, for the unjustifiable shooting of John Bjornson, His Honor, the Mayor allowed the City Solicitor openly to insult several of the petitioners and their counsel, Mr. Charles O. Engstrom, and when the counsel appealed to His Honor, the Mayor, to stop such unjustifiable and unreasonable proceedings, he paid no attention to the same.

As it was apparent the Mayor and City Solicitor would not grant a fair hearing, we, together with our counsel, withdrew from the proceedings. There can be no justification for the course of procedure on behalf of the Mayor and City Solicitor who treated us unfairly in this matter.

As petitioners, we expected a fair hearing and fair treatment, and to be allowed to present our case, and as this was not allowed we desire to have the public know what really took place upon that occasion.

Very truly yours.
Nils Loddengaard.

The Smart Set Whist club met Monday evening with Miss Ruth Bassett of Walker street. It was a masquerade party and the costumes were imposingly graphic and strikingly picturesque. Flashlight pictures were taken in groups and whist began at 9.15 and continued until 10.30. First prizes were taken by Miss May Melzard and Miss Emma Curtin; second prizes were awarded to Miss Laura Hall and Miss Corinna Wilde. Prizes for the most unique and original conception of costume were taken by Miss Gertrude Warren and Miss Corinna Wilde. The members of the club proved themselves to be excellent actors, each one impersonating her part with mirth-provoking exactness. The next meeting will be held with Miss Maud Gray of Botolph street, on December fourth.

KING OSCAR'S DECISION

Relieves Germany of Responsibility In Samoan Muddle

BERLIN TREATY VIOLATED

By Military Action of the United States and Great Britain Tending to Overthrow Provisional Government—Responsible For Damages

Washington, Nov. 18.—By previous arrangement between the principals there was yesterday published simultaneously in Washington, London and Berlin, the full text of the decision given by King Oscar II as arbitrator between the United States, Great Britain and Germany of certain claims on account of military operations conducted in Samoa in the year 1899. The decision is long and in substance it has been announced heretofore from Stockholm. The preceding publication, however, did not convey to the officials here a full realization of the complete victory won by Germany in this arbitration.

The arbitration grew out of claims by German or British subjects or American citizens for compensation on account of losses they alleged they had suffered in consequence of unwarranted military action on the part of German, British or American officers in Samoa between Jan. 1, 1899, and May 13 following. The question really at issue was whether or not the British and United States governments should be considered responsible for the losses.

The arbitrator recites that the U. S. S. Philadelphia and the British ships Porpoise and Royalist. March 15, 1899, opened fire across the town of Apia, Samoa, directing this fire against the forces of High Chief Mataafa; that the same vessels brought the newly appointed King of Samoa, Malietoa, and his forces to Mulinuu point and supplied them arms and ammunition for the ensuing struggle against Mataafa.

In answer to the British and American claims that under the treaty of Berlin any one of the signatory powers was fully authorized to enforce the decision of the chief justice of Samoa, declaring Malietoa king, the arbitrator says:

"We have found nothing in the said general act or any subsequent agreement which authorizes one of the signatory powers, or a majority of them, to take action to enforce the conditions of the act or to make the decisions of the chief justice binding on the powers.

"It is held that the British-American military action 'had the character of a serious control over the Samoan islands and the government thereof which was prohibited by article 1 of the general act. The arbitrator insists that the Berlin conference aimed to establish the principle that in their dealings with Samoa the powers could proceed only by common accord, and that as the consular representatives of three powers by proclamation had recognized the provisional government of Mataafa the powers themselves were bound on principles of international good faith to maintain the situation until by common accord they decided to change it.

The action of the British-American authorities tending to overthrow the provisional government thereby established, it is held, "was contrary to the aforesaid obligation and cannot be justified either on the plea of the validity of the said provision of the government nor its establishment under a species of force majeuere."

The arbitrator meets the British-American contention that their military action was warranted because necessary for the protection of lives and property which it was their duty to safeguard by the flat statement that "we have found nothing in the evidence before us to show that the general condition of affairs was such as to render the military action necessary for the protection of lives and property."

Continuing, the decision recites that Mataafa had been completely defeated before the arrival of the Philadelphia, but that the United States admiral and the British authorities brought back his warriors and armed and provisioned them, giving them ammunition, which, under the treaty, should have been issued only at the unanimous request of the three consuls.

The decision concludes as follows:

"That the military action in question viz: the bringing back of the Malietoans and the distribution to them of arms and ammunition, the bombardment, the military operations on shore and the stoppage of the street traffic, connot be considered as having been warranted;

"And that, therefore, his Britannic majesty's government and the United States government are responsible under the convention of Nov. 7, 1899, for losses caused by said military action;

"While reserving for a future decision the question as to the extent to which the two governments, or each of them, may be considered responsible for such losses."

Stromboli Volcano's Great Display

Rome, Nov. 18.—A fresh eruption of the volcano Stromboli occurred yesterday evening, accompanied by a terrific explosion and a great flow of lava. It formed a magnificent spectacle, which was visible from all the northern part of Sicily. The situation of the few inhabitants of the island of Stromboli is precarious.

UNIVERSAL BROTHERHOOD

Notified That They Cannot Settle on United States Government Domain

Washington, Nov. 22.—The Christian community of the Universal Brotherhood, at Crowstand, Can., who sought a home in this country, forwarded a letter to the president asking for a refuge in the United States. The letter was referred to the interior department. Assistant Commissioner Richards of the general land office has forwarded a reply announcing that they cannot locate on the public lands of the United States. Mr. Richards says:

"In said letter you state that your community numbers more than 7000 and that in 1898 and 1899 you emigrated from Russia to Canada because the Russian government would not permit you to live according to the dictates of your religion. You have discovered that although in Canada there is religious freedom, still it is not what you were in search of; that you yield obedience only to the commands of the spirit of God, in your hearts, and cannot submit to any human laws or become the subjects of any sovereign; that you cannot obtain land on which to live without obeying 'all the institutions and laws of Canada.'

"You therefore ask that you may be given refuge in this country or on land under the jurisdiction of this government, where you may live by the labor of your hands, and where you shall not be forced to obey ordinances or be asked to become subjects of any one except the good God. You state that you use no meat or milk, but only vegetables and fruit; that you have no domestic animals and all your work is done by your own labor.

"In reply I have to advise you that the public lands of the United States are disposed of only to citizens of the United States, or to those who have declared their intention to become such citizens."

A Revelation of Wickedness

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—As a result of a raid conducted by the police on disorderly houses, it is charged that a syndicate, having for its purpose traffic in young girls, is operating on both sides of the Atlantic and that agents are scattered broadcast to lure girls from their homes to lives of depravity in this and other cities. The raid resulted in the arrest of 113 girls and a number of men. All of the defendants were held to bail for a further hearing.

Herring For United States

St. Johns, Nov. 22.—A large fleet of American fishing vessels are now loading with herring on the west coast of this island. Several of them have sailed for Gloucester, Mass., with full cargoes, and others are arriving to load. This herring fishery is one of the industries of which a large extension is expected under the Bond-Hay treaty.

Loss to Theatrical World

New York, Nov. 22.—George W. Ryer, who was joint author, with Denman Thompson, of "The Old Homestead," is dead. He was born in New York in 1845. He wrote "The Sunshine of Paradise Alley" and "The Two Sisters." He was a successful manager as well as author.

May Have Found Barges

Washington, Nov. 22.—Cruiser Prairie, which left Norfolk Nov. 5 with the auxiliary squadron for Culebra, has not yet been heard from, but it is believed she has found three of the four coal barges that were lost off Hatteras in a gale, and is now towing them south.

Regarding Our Red Brethren

Washington, Nov. 22.—Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones estimates that the government, from its foundation to 1890, spent $845,275,290 in fighting, subduing and controlling the Indians of the country, and $240,000,000 for the education and care of their children.

Officials to Confer With Bliss

Havana, Nov. 22.—President Palma has appointed Secretary of State Zaldo and Secretary of Finance Montes as a committee to meet General Bliss. There is a hope that the meetings of the conference will be brought to a conclusion before Dec. 1.

Fatal Row at Prize Fight

Guthrie, O. T., Nov. 22.—Trouble arose at a prize fight in Oklahoma City last night and within a few seconds 25 shots were fired. One man fell dead and another is fatally injured. Two others were shot, though they are not severely injured.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A general strike has broken out at Buenos Ayres. Riots have taken place, in which many persons have been injured.

The Hancock has been placed in commission at the Mare Island navy yard, Cal. She was formerly an army transport and will now be utilized as a receiving ship at New York.

Monsignor Falconio, the newly appointed apostolic delegate to the United States, has arrived at Washington and taken up his residence in the Catholic legation building.

Edwin L. Danforth of Milford, Mass., took carbolic acid with deadly effect. He was 42 years old, a farmer and lived alone.

Postmaster O. W. Hinckle of Barnstable, Mass., who was appointed to office under the Cleveland administration in 1886, is dead. He was born at Barnstable 50 years ago.

Colonel Thomas J. Borden, a member of the Borden family whose name is linked with the textile history of southeastern Massachusetts, is dead. He was born at Fall River in 1832.

A jury sitting on the land damage case of Patrick Johnson against the town of Brookline, Mass., gave a verdict of $11,150 for the plaintiff. The town took 6333 square feet of land from Johnson to widen two streets.

THANKSGIVING ....POETRY

BACK to the home of childhood,
Though scattered far and wide,
Back to the dear old kitchen—
Yes, back to your mother's side
Come, kiss her wrinkled forehead,
Her hair, as white as snow,
And sit down on her footstool,
As in the long ago.

While father bends above you
Weak with the weight of years,
His trembling voice with gladness,
His dim eyes filled with tears.
To both the greatest pleasure
The year brings on its way
Is this: The glad homecoming
Upon Thanksgiving day.

Once more the rooms re-echo
From kitchen, stairs and hall,
The sound of old time voices
And merry dinner call,
While many sweet grandchildren,
With laughter light and gay,
Come pressing round the table
This glad Thanksgiving day.

THE GLAD HOMECOMING.

So come, ye sons and daughters,
From restless city strife;
Come ere you lose your relish
For the quiet joys of life;
Come back, ye roving children,
From prairies far and wide
And cluster round the hearthstone
Once more at eventide.

Take up your song of childhood
And sing it o'er again;
Forget that ye are matrons
Or business loving men,
And if your eyes grow misty
Rejoice that it is so;
A heart sincerely tender
Is the purest one to know.

Remember, with your loved ones
Life's lamp doth feebly burn;
Your parents may not linger
To greet a late return.
Forget them not, though patient;
Oh, come now while you may!
Praise God; rejoice together
On this Thanksgiving day.
—Good Housekeeping.

Soliloquy of a Turkey.

I know that Thanksgiving day's most here,
And it makes me long to fly,
For I've reached my prime, and it's mighty clear
That it's time for me to die.

I saw the head of the house come out,
And he smiled as he gazed at me,
And he cried aloud that there was no doubt
What a comfortable meal I'd be.

Oh, I've got to go! And it gives me a fit,
Though it isn't so much for my life
That I care about, but he can't carve a bit,
And I've got to be hacked by his wife.
—New York Herald.

Sad Time For Them.

Of what are the turkeys thinking
Out yonder in the yard,
With their red eyes sadly blinking?
Do they think their fate is hard?
Are they on life reflecting
And to hear their final call
Each moment now expecting?
No; turkeys don't think at all.

Thanksgiving Trust.

Lord, I give thanks!
Last year, thou knowest, my best ambitions failed;
My back with scourgings of defeat was flailed;
My eyes felt oft the sharp salt wash of tears;
No guerdon blessed the tireless toil of years;
Fast in the snares my helpless feet were tied,
Yet in my woes thou didst with me abide.
Lord, I give thanks!

Not In a Good Set.

"No," exclaimed the mother turkey, "I would prefer my children not to associate with those incubator chicks."

"Because they are so heedless and don't know how to feather their own nests?" inquired the duck.

"No, it isn't that so much I have brooded over," replied the turkey, "but there's something so artificial about them."

However, when the incubator chicks heard this they thought of the funeral baked meats of Thanksgiving and remarked significantly, "Death levels all ranks."—New York Journal.

TURKEY A LA PURITAINE.

A Novel Way of Preparing the Bird For His Doom.

Anent the subject of turkeys, one of the dealers in the great national feast bird asked a reporter, says the Florida Times-Union, if he knew how to prepare and cook a turkey properly. The scribe confessed ignorance.

"Get you a half pint of good old whisky."

"What's that got to do with the preparation of a turkey?"

"Everything. Saturate enough corn in the whisky to soak up all the spirits. Feed that to your gobbler. The old fellow will like it. First thing you know he feels his oats, or, more, properly, his corn. He will spread his tail to the breeze, trail his wings on the ground and map off circles under the impression that he owns the earth and is the boss of everything on it. He will fluff up his feathers, wrinkle his neck and look intensely serious, all the while splitting the atmosphere into small chunks. By and by the old boy gets to staggering, his gobbling is more frequent, but less coherent, he gives a lurch backward and another forward, jabs his bill in the ground, reels and falls.

"Now for the ax. His head is off; he is bled and hung up for twenty-four hours in a cool place. Make your stuffing to suit your own taste. Put him in the baking pan breast downward. Only idiots cook fowls breast up. You want all the succulent juices to run into the breast. A juicy breast is the perfection of cooking. He comes to the table smoking hot and breathing an aroma like zephyrs which have soughed through gardens of roses and fields of ripe corn. Then lay to."

"Yes," commented the reporter, "but the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals would be horror struck."

"Not at all. The bird has got to die, so let him die happy."

"How about the very good people?"

"Why, bless your soul, man, that way of cooking a turkey is an invention of the Puritans!"

SPOILED HIS DINNER.

An Unpleasant Thanksgiving Day For a Politician.

"Bluest Thanksgiving I ever spent?" mused the fine old gentleman who has an unconquerable antipathy to practical politics. "It stands out in my memory like an obelisk on a plain, and it was not so very long ago, either.

"I had been induced that fall to run for an important public office. It was done against my better judgment and under great pressure, but when a man enters such a fight he wants to win. I was in a close district and determined to put up the very best fight that the circumstances would permit. I advertised at once for an extra stenographer, and from the many who responded selected a beautiful, bright and dashing young woman who justified my immediate faith in her ability. She did all my private correspondence, knew as much about the inside of the campaign as I did, worked day and night with a willingness that was surprising, and even took from one of my shrewdest advisers the list of voters in the strongest section with which I had to contend, with full instructions as to how the most influential persons among them could be won to my cause. It was great work, and yet I fell several hundred short of the normal party vote.

"My successful opponent lived in a neighboring town and graciously invited me to be his guest on the following Thanksgiving. It would have looked surly to refuse, and I went. It was really an admirable social function, but the few hours I put in there were torture. The host met me with a hearty handclasp. Turning, he said, 'My wife.' Resplendent in satin and jewels, I saw my stenographer. 'Love and war,' she murmured. 'He thinks I was visiting my old home in New England.' I held my peace, but that fatted turkey tasted like cork."—Detroit Free Press.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING.

A Cotemporary Account of the Pioneer Feast In 1621.

The first Thanksgiving day was celebrated in the autumn of 1621.

An account of the pioneer of all these feasts has been presented in a letter by Edward Winslow written in the same year:

"You shall understand that in this little time that few of us have been here we have built seven dwelling houses and four for the use of the plantation and have made preparations for eleven others. We set the last spring some twenty acres of corn and sowed some six acres of barley and peas. Our corn did prove well, God be praised, and our barley indifferent good, but our peas not worth harvesting. Our harvest being got in, our governor sent four men out fowling, so that we might after a special manner rejoice together after we had gathered the fruit of our labors. They four in one day killed as much fowl as, with a little help beside, served the whole company almost a week, at which time among other recreations we exercised our arms, many of the Indians arriving among us, and among the rest their greatest king, Massasoit, with ninety men, whom for three days we entertained and feasted. And, although it be not always so plentiful as it was at this time with us, yet, by the goodness of God, we are so far from want that we often wish you partakers of our plenty."

Thus Thanksgiving was born.

It continued to be celebrated, though not with any regularity, for about sixty years, after which it was annually ordered by the general court, not always in November, but generally after the harvests were gathered.

FINE POINTS INVOLVED

In Murder of American by American In Guatemala

VICTIM WAS AN EX-CONSUL

But Was In Service of Guatemalan Government at Time of Tragedy—Slayer a Son of Former United States Minister Hunter

Washington, Nov. 22.—The state department has been informed that Godfrey Hunter, Jr., son of the former U. S. minister at Guatemala City, yesterday shot and killed William Fitzgerald of Grand Rapids, Mich. Hunter has taken refuge in the legation and an interesting question has arisen as to his exemption from arrest.

Important details are lacking in the report of the affair which has come to the state department and the officials are in doubt as to what should be done. They have no notion of surrendering without protest an American citizen to the local courts of Guatemala, unless satisfied that the man is a proper subject for punishment. Even then it is not at all certain that the department itself has the right to waive any legal exemption that the man might have.

International law lays down the precept that an ambassador or minister may not of his own accord surrender any such exemption in his own case. A closer inspection of the original advices revealed the fact that the only name by which the man was known was Fitzgerald; he had not the Christian name William as was supposed at first. He was shot four times. Another important fact developed was that young Hunter was accompanied at the time of shooting by the secretary of legation. This official is set down in the register as being James G. Bailey of Kentucky, who went to his post in June, 1901. The cablegram also infers that the killing was provoked.

Not much is known here of the personality of Godfrey Hunter, Jr., and it is impossible to learn definitely whether or not he actually was connected officially with the United States legation at Guatemala City at the time of the killing. That he had been a clerk or typewriter in the legation is established, but in some quarters it is said that connection had been terminated for some time. This may be an important point in settling the question of exemption of young Hunter from arrest, for a legation attache or employe enjoys a large part of the exemptions conferred by international law on an ambassador or minister.

The state department is moving with caution in this matter, preferring to develop all the facts before establishing an important precedent. The excitement in the neighborhood of the legation in Guatemala City has made it difficult for the state department to obtain any information from any unbiased person connected with the legation and not involved in the affray.

It is suggested here that the shooting affray may have been the result of the recent relief of Dr. Hunter from his post as minister. The doctor has been steadily embroiled with members of the American colony almost since he assumed office in 1897 and lately, owing to his connection with a government railroad and other matters not supposed to be proper for a minister to meddle with, the pressure became so acute that the department was obliged to relieve him from office. It may be that Fitzgerald was connected in some way with the charges against the minister.

Hunter Scored by Fitzgerald

Louisville, Nov. 22.—Godfrey Hunter, Jr., is about 25 years of age. He figured in a social affair in Louisville which was extensively aired about a year ago. Dr. Hunter and his son came to Louisville last winter. James G. Bailey, secretary of the legation, is about 33 years old. He was a candidate six years ago on the Republican ticket for clerk of the court of appeals, but was defeated.

Fitzgerald, whom young Hunter shot and killed, made charges about a year ago against Dr. Hunter. He criticised sharply the way Dr. Hunter conducted his office and made some serious reflections on the minister. Fitzgerald, while on a trip to this country, gave out an interview at New Orleans in which he scored Dr. Hunter and his son severely.

Fitzgerald In Government Service

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 22.—William Fitzgerald, father of William A. Fitzgerald, reported shot and killed by Godfrey Hunter, Jr., has received no advices, and the only information he has of the shooting is contained in The Associated Press dispatches. Young Fitzgerald was appointed consul at Champerico, Guatemala, about six years ago. He served about a year and resigned, entering the service of the Guatemalan government, which position he held up to the time of the shooting.

For School Teachers' Union

New Orleans, Nov. 22.—The committee on organization has decided to report to the convention of the Federation of Labor in favor of organizing the teachers of the public schools into unions.

New Aerial Invention

Paris, Nov. 22.—The Figaro announces that James Gordon Bennett and the Marquis de Dion have undertaken the construction of a steerable balloon planned by the latter.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

All Lines of Business Progressing In a Most Satisfactory Manner

New York, Nov. 22.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Voluntary increases in wages by some of the largest railway systems in the country bear eloquent testimony to the amount of business handled in the past and emphasize the confidence of officials in continued heavy traffic. Preparations for holiday trade are on an unprecedented scale. There is no relief as to the congestion of railway traffic, nor any immediate prospect of free movement at the points of most serious blockade.

Orders are now coming forward for iron and steel products that have been held back many months in expectation of an easier market. Instead of making concessions, however, producers ask premiums for early delivery and hesitate to accept contracts where material and fuel are not in sight.

Heavy lines of dry goods and footwear need the stimulus of cold weather. A fairly steady demand is reported for staple cotton goods. Little is being done in heavy brown cottons for export.

Orders for spring shoes are coming forward freely, and there is supplementary buying of winter goods on a moderate scale. Retailers have much money tied up in rubber goods, for which there has been little demand.

Foreign commerce during October was more satisfactory than in any other month in the nation's history. In the aggregate the corresponding month two years ago made a better exhibit, but that was due to an abnormal outgo of cotton, which distorted the statement.

Chamber of Deputies at Princeton

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 22.—Professor Finlay, head of the department of politics in the university, has organized a chamber of deputies similar to the French chamber of deputies. The object of the course is to acquaint the members with the procedure of European legislative assemblies in dealing with their present political issues. The chamber of deputies later will be resolved into the German reichstag.

Mrs Sechrest Located

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Albert Sechrest of Kansas City, who was supposed to have committed suicide rather than be a witness for the state in the case of Dr. Louis Zorn, charged with killing her husband, was found here yesterday at the home of her parents. Mrs. Sechrest had thrown a note pinned to a hat into the river at Leavenworth stating that she had drowned herself and baby.

Says Boers Are Despondent

London, Nov. 22.—General Viljoen, who is going on a lecture tour to the United States, said yesterday: "The South Africans have lost heart and hope, and peace depends entirely upon the British. My commando offered itself to Lord Roberts for service against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland and I would have commanded it, but Lord Roberts declined the offer with thanks."

[Big Robbery Under Noses of Police]

New York, Nov. 22.—News of a robbery of $14,000 worth of dry goods from the basement of the building occupied by Steinhardt & Strasbourger was made public yesterday by a member of the firm. The store is half a block from a police station. The manager of the store says the thieves must have been at work at least four hours to get out so great a quantity of goods

Hundred Plants In Mill Merger

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 22.—The cotton mill merger committee, in session here since Thursday morning, so far have failed to complete their task of eliminating undesirable properties from the offerings of over 150 cotton mills. It is learned that 100 properties have been favorably acted upon. Properties aggregating $22,000,000 thus far have been embraced in selected options.

A Daring Train Robbery

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 22.—A passenger and express train on the Rock Island road was held up by 12 masked robbers early this morning at a point three miles west of Davenport. The robbers uncoupled the express car and ran it two miles further west, where the safe was blown open with dynamite. The train which was robbed left Chicago at 6:05 last night.

A Plea For Autonomy

Manila, Nov. 22.—General Miles was given a public reception in the island of Cebu, at which the Filipino speaker urged a prompter fulfillment of the promises made by the Americans, including autonomy. In reply General Miles advised the people to trust the Americans to satisfactorily settle all the questions now pending.

Cardenas Appeals to Palma

Havana, Nov. 22.—Chief of Police Cardenas, who was removed from his post by the mayor of Havana for having the police disperse the striking cigar workers against the mayor's orders, has made an appeal to President Palma for reinstatement.

Mine Fire Beyond Control

Trinidad, Col., Nov. 22.—The Engleville coal mine is on fire and the fire is beyond control. Two men have lost their lives. The fire started on Thursday near an abandoned air shaft, 600 feet from the mouth of the slope.

THE INDIANS' THANKSGIVING

THE interest in Thanksgiving day and its observance is just as intense these days among the reservation Indians as in college towns where great football games are scheduled to occur, says the New York Times. Especially is this true in the southwest, where the Indians have had an opportunity to become thoroughly civilized of late years. The white people find no more enjoyment in this day of universal good cheer than do these same dusky redskins.

It is a day of feasting, playing and gambling, with a big dance at night. Such sport only comes once a year to them nowadays, when they have had to forsake the scalping knife for the plow. Their wild nature rebelled at the idea of work, and it has been with much difficulty that the government agents have made farmers out of the young braves. A day of rest and amusement is considered good for their better nature, and the government authorities are willing that Thanksgiving day shall become a festal time for the reservation wards of the nation.

The Kiowas and Comanches, who have but recently been placed on allotments, will have forsaken many of their wild plans of amusement this Thanksgiving, owing to the fact that they have been cut off the free list of beef issues. They have arranged to draw grass money on Thanksgiving, and a goodly portion of this will be spent in purchasing food for a grand feast. At night they will take part in a green corn dance, at which prayers will be offered to the Great Spirit for the good crops which they have had the past season. The spirit of thankfulness pervades the Indian celebrations.

The Osages hold a big feast at Pawhuska, their capital city. All members of the tribe are invited to take part in the festivities. At the beginning and end of each meal—and there are many—the aged missionary who lives among them is invited to deliver a short prayer thanking the Great Spirit for the good things which the agent has sent to them. The food is cooked by the squaws, and, while it could be prepared in a much cleaner and more tasteful manner, the cooking is an improvement over that of a few years gone.

The Apaches and Cheyennes are in the habit of holding a pony smoke. Often the Osages indulge in this expensive festival. A pony smoke is a friendly meeting of two tribes and is especially appropriate for the occasion. The tribe giving the smoke is supposed to bear all of the expenses. They provide the best game and vegetables in the market for their guests, and at the end of the first day's meeting they present a good pony to the head of each family visiting them. As a tribe consists of from 300 to 500 families, the expenses soon mount high. The Osages, being the richest reservation Indians there are today, can better afford to hold pony smokes, and, combined with their feast day, they generally invite several hundred guests from the Poncas, Tonkawas and surrounding tribes. Those accepting the ponies are supposed to return the gift with equally expensive ones later on, but few of them can do so.

The Poncas hold every Thanksgiving as a beef issue day. If the agent does not come forward and present them with a herd of cattle for this occasion, they mortgage their property and buy cattle of some neighboring ranchmen. A beef issue is the most typical of the redskin and also the most picturesque of Indian Thanksgiving celebrations. For years the government has forbidden the issue of beef after the manner of an old time issue, but on special occasions they are allowed the amusement of killing their own meat. It is said by the government officers who succeeded in having the practice stopped that beef issue tends to make the Indian wilder and more difficult to civilize.

A hundred cattle are turned loose in a large pasture. The young men of the tribe are mounted on mustangs and have shining field guns. With the good wishes of the squaws and medicine men ringing in their ears they ride out to kill the cattle. The beasts have no chance for life whatever. The chase is accompanied by an undue amount of wild yelling, while excitement grows intense in the camp. The smell of fresh blood makes the squaws wild, as it were. After all of the cattle have been shot down then the killers give a signal which means that all of the tribe are at liberty to rush forth and secure their portion. A half beef is awarded to each squaw. The beef is cleaned and cooked on a fire on the open plain, while the medicine men dance their approval and the warriors sing in their glee. The feast follows, with more dancing, and the whole day is thus spent, ending late at night with a final gorge.

False Faces.

Thanksgiving time is the busiest season for the manufacturers of and dealers in masks and false faces. The fantastical costume parades and the old custom of masking and dressing for amusement on Thanksgiving day keep up from year to year in many parts of the country, so that the quantity of false faces sold at this season is enormous. The manufacturers make it a point to get up new styles, and this year brownies, "yaller kids," parrot visages and many other novelties will be on sale. Masks of prominent men and the foremost political leaders are made by some manufacturers, and large sized false hands, noses, ears, etc., are also new and amusing.—Selected.

Mrs. F. W. Brett and Mrs. E. H. Mathewson visited Priscilla Chapter, O. E. S. of Reading, Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Dyke have moved into the tenement in the Crosby house, recently vacated by the family of Adoniram J. Dyer.

Thomas J. Cain has bought of Elisha Thayer a parcel of land 72 by 125 ft., opposite the stable and adjoining the Hampton hotel.

Mr. Haridon of Taylor street has partially recovered from a severe head injury caused by coming in contact with a bridge upon the South shore while upon the top of a freight car.

The Penniman school was closed Wednesday that the teachers might visit other schools.

A barge with 1000 tons of soft coal has been unloading at J. F. Sheppard & Son's wharf this week.

L. O. Crocker has had his yacht, Eclipse, pulled up for the winter near the Quincy avenue bridge.

A new water main is being laid on Miller avenue and also a new supply pipe to the Jonas Perkins school.

Mrs. Ann Connor has been confined to her room the past week from injuries sustained by falling down stairs last Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Granville Yager of Rindge, N. H., was in town Thursday.

Mr. Will W. Mayhew who has been so very ill with typboid malaria is slowly improving under the care of Dr. Tinkham.

Miss Elsie Dearborn, of Malden has been engaged as a teacher in the High school in place of Miss Roberts, who went to the Dorchester high.

Mr. Albert Drollett has fixed the road in fine shape around Rosedale square and if the town will put on some crushed stone we will be more than thankful. It seems as if we might have a little of the macadamising when the crusher is so near and it will help Mr Drollett's road repairs to last much longer.

The remains of Otis Orne who died at his home in South Boston Wednesday, aged 83 years were brought to Weymouth yesterday and interred in the family lot in the Village cemetery. Mr. Orne was formerly a resident of this place and will be remembered by the older citizens as residing for many years on Quincy avenue.

About twenty little friends of Stetson Avery tendered him a surprise party at his home Friday evening in honor of his tenth birthday. The evening passed all too quickly for the little folks playing games and partaking of a dainty lunch which had been prepared for them. A little after nine they bade their young host good night, leaving many little remembrances as mementos of the occasion.

At the inspection of the W. R. C., Monday evening, guests were present from Randolph, Weymouth and Quincy. Also the department president, Mrs Dorcas Lyman; the department inspector, Mrs. Goddard; corps inspector, Mrs. Helen Cushing of Weymouth, and post department councillor, Mrs. Agnes Parker of Brockton. Light refreshments were served.

The Jonas Perkins School association ere very pleasingly entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Doane, Bowditch street. During the evening it was voted to present a large flag to the Jonas Perkins school to be used on their school building. The next meeting of the association is to be a public one in the school hall to which the public are cordially invited. At this meeting, which will be Dec. 2, an interesting lecture on "Travels in Southland," will be given by Mr. T. Rogers of Boston.

FUNNY OLD METHODS.

Will Our Children Think Our Ways as Strange as We Think Our Forefathers?

Chance for Improvement Still in Many Things.

Perfection Has Been Reached in Many Others.

Suppose you were obliged to go to New York. Wouldn't it seem strange to you to get into an old-fashioned, musty-smelling, jolting stage coach? It was not so many years ago that people had to travel that way.

Think of the inconviences, think of the hardships, even, they were obliged to suffer; and think of the time consumed. We doubt whether these experiences tended to lengten their lives.

It is just so with hundreds of other things. A great improvement is announced. We marvel at it for a few days, and then accept it as a matter of course. Now, if it is necessary to go to some distant city, we are made as comfortable if not more so, than though we remained right in our homes, and a few hours brings us, without fatigue, to our destination. There is not a man living who would prefer the old way, after he has experienced the delights of modern methods.

But it is not in travel alone that improvement has been made. There are many other things much more vital to the ultimate good of man than easier methods of going from place to place, and nothing, probably, will illustrate this better than the much-talked-of Vinol, for in Vinol we see what has formerly been a necessity, attended with the most disagreeable features, transformed into what is really a luxury.

In Vinol we have the elements of what has been the greatest medicine known to man for the cure of wasting diseases of every description, namely, cod liver oil; but in Vinol we have none of the objectionable features that attended cod liver oil.

As Mr. Edward J. Murphy of our city, who has connected himself with the Boston firm of chemists producing these goods, will tell you, and as many other druggists in town would endorse him, Vinol is the essence of all that is good in cod liver oil. Vinol is not a patent medicine: hence its popularity with physicians as well as the public. The manner of producing Vinol is a new discovery. It is the result of a special process by which the curative and medicinal elements are extracted from the liver of the live cod, leaving behind the fat and grease.

Just the right proportions needed of this extract is dissolved in a delicate table wine, and so today, in the line of medicine, all who have found it necessary to take cod liver oil, may do away with all the disagreeable features of the old way, discarding the horrible grease which may be likened to the lumbering and unhealthful vehicle of travel of the past, and take instead, as Mr. Murphy himself, in speaking of the matter, described it, "the elegant and modern vestibuled train" of medicine, finding in Vinol the elements so much needed to restore health, entirely disguised and much more rapid and efficient in the manner that they operate, than could have been expected in the old and cumbersome way in which this valuable remedy was formerly taken.

TODAY'S COURT.

Nickolas Delory was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case continued until Nov. 24.

S. Fabryo was fined $15 for assault on Emile Bodot at Quincy.

John Parker was arraigned for neglecting to send his children to school at Quincy. Case continued until Jan. 1.

Tourist Rates via the Seaboard.

Winter tourist tickets are now on sale at greatly reduced rates, via the Seaboard Air Line Railway, to all points in Florida, also to Cuba and Nassau, as well as to Pinehurst, Camden and the leading Southern Winter Resorts.

These tickets are good for stop-over, either going or coming, until the end of the winter season.

The Seaboard is the short route from the North and East to Florida and the South Atlantic States.

For further information and Book of Winter Tours, apply to Agents of the Seaboard Air Line Railway and those of connecting lines. Also for "The Land of Manatee," about a region on the west coast of southern Florida, in three booklets: No. 1, Historical and Descriptive; No. 2, for Gardener and Fruit Grower; No. 3, for Tourist and Sportsman. Ask or send for the one you want. C. B. Ryan, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va. 22-5t

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Jilbert wish to extend many thanks to their friends who so kindly contributed to their little daughter Mabel who received the first doll at the G. A. R. Fair.

Mrs. M. Jilbert.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

The Great Lafayette, that wonderful creative genius who has been drawing such tremendously large audiences to the Boston Music hall this week, concludes his regular engagement at the theatre with the performance of Saturday afternoon and evening. Arrangements have been made, however whereby Lafayette and his company of 70 artists will appear at the Sunday evening vaudeville concert when he will present an entire change of program. The Sunday night concerts are proving popular with the patrons of the theatre and last Sunday night several hundred people were turned away unable to secure even standing room in the big theatre.

PARK THEATRE.

For the week at the Park Theatre beginning next Monday, November 24th, the attraction will be the popular melodrama, "Taken from Life." It if the work of Henry Pottitt, the celebrated author of "A Prodigal Daughter," "The Souden," and many other successful plays, and contains a number of exciting scenes and several very interesting characters. Its most stiring situations represent the expulsion of John Denby and his wife from their home, the kidnapping of Kate Denby's baby, the murder of John Denby, and the escape of a prisoner from Clerkeneral Prison. Several comic characters and situations furnish plenty of amusement wherewith to relieve the more serious portions of the play.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.

Less than two weeks remain of the phenominally successful re-engagment of the merriest of musical farce comedies, "The Defender," at the Columbia Theatre, as the engagement will close Saturday, November 29th. For the past six weeks this most sumptuously gorgeous production has been entertaining the largest audiences ever drawn to the Columbia Theatre, and the unanimous verdict of all who have seen it is that "The Defender" is the most artistic and enjoyable production yet made at the Columbia Theatre," which is the recognized home of musical comedy and celebrated for the gorgeousness and artistic elegance of its productions.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Coming to Keith's for the week commencing Nov. 24 is the greatest aggregation of vaudeville acts seen there this season, including Techow's cats, those wonderful performing felines that scored such a hit a couple of years ago; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. T. Ellis, in their latest comedy and singing sketch; the Martinetti troupe of acrobats one of the cleverest organizations in the world; the great Pascatel, in his artistic posturing and aerial contortion; Pelot, who sings and dances; Frank H. White and Lew Simmons, in their latest success, 'A Pleasant Night's Rest," and Les Troupe Fantastique, in a novel dancing specialty. The Bermese foot jugglers, Moung Toon and Moung Chet, who scored such a hit this week, will be retained another six days as the special feature of the bill.

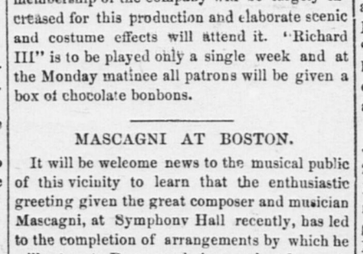

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

So much favor has been shown the Shakespearian productions at the Castle Square Theatre, by the patrons of this play-house, that the management has decided upon adding "Richard III" to its repertoire the coming week. The value of Mr. J. R. Pitman's association with this class of productions has been unmistakably shown in the Shakespearian plays already given at the Castle Square, and in his direction of the "Richard III" production there is ample assurance that the best traditions of earlier presentations will be faithfully followed. The version of the play made by Colley Cibber, the Drury Lane Theatre manager, in the early part of the eighteenth century, and used by Edwin Booth and his predecessors on the English and American stages for over a hundred years, will be strictly followed in the coming Castle Square Theatre production. The regular membership of the company will be largely increased for this production and elaborate scenic and costume effects will attend it. "Richard III" is to be played only a single week and at the Monday matinee all patrons will be given a box of chocolate bonbons.

MASCAGNI AT BOSTON.

It will be welcome news to the musical public of this vicinity to learn that the enthusiastic greeting given the great composer and musician Mascagni, at Symphony Hall recently, has led to the completion of arrangements by which he will return to Boston and give a series of operatic and miscellaneous concerts in this same grand auditorium, beginning on Tuesday evening the 25th inst. On this date and on the evenings of the 26th, 27th, 28th and Sunday the 30th insts. the entire operatic organization brought to this country by Sig. Mascagni, will appear under this composer's direction in concert programme similar in character to those which aroused such enthusiasm in the earlier appearances of this company of singers and musicians at Symphony Hall. No one has appealed more successfully to the music loving public of this country in recent years than Sig. Mascagni and his company and it is gratifying to know that, in spite of the unfortunate circumstances growing out of his Boston visit, he is delighted with the position of the musical public of New England in regard to his professional standing and the recognition given his performances in Symphony Hall. The concerts will include a complete performance of the "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Mrs. Crane, wife of Joseph Crane, observed the 83d anniversary of her birth last week. Several friends and neighbors called to extend congratulations.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called "Lane's Tea" or

The Cochato Club.

Under the strenuous management of Mr. E. L. Emerson a profitable evening was spent by a large gathering at the Cochato club, Wednesday evening. Tickets to admission for all were fifty cents each. House calendar souvenir programs were sold at ten cents each.

In the club hall the Braintree Orchestral club rendered sweet music ollowed at 8.15 by theatricals.

The Theatricals consisted of a laughable farce intitled, "An Economical Boomerang," which proved to be anything but an economical one for the unlucky Mr. Dabbleton who instigated it, and whose sorrows and troubles so multiplied in consequence as to almost make him the hopeless maniac he was supposed to be, thus giving rise to a series of most laughable situations.

Laurens Maynard sustained the part of Mr. Dabbleton to perfection, easily falling a victim to the wiles of Mrs. Dabbleton, and in the later scenes when goaded almost to desperation, enacting the role in such a realistic manner that one could but imagine an application of Omega Oil would prove most beneficial.

Miss Josephine Norris as Mrs. Dabbleton, was very good. Mr. Walter E. Severance as Mr. Bud Plover, and Mrs. N. S. Gould as Mrs. Plover, the innocent cause of the trouble, played their parts finely, and did a very neat bit of acting. Finding the unhappy Dabbleton arrayed in his wife's clothing and from his actions, naturally supposing him to be insane, they laboring under this mistake, ply the unsuspecting Mrs. Dabbleton with all manner of questions, and end by sending for the Doctor. Mr. M. W. Vye took the part of the family physician, sent to look after the maniac, very finely, and as his fruitless endeavors with the enraged Mr. Dabbleton, scored a success.

Miss Louise Pray has proved herself such a favorite with Braintree audiences that her appearance upon the stage, as Maggie the Maid, was the signal for a genuine ovation; such applause broke forth at her appearance as must have proved somewhat trying, and which was only stilled after Miss Pray had twice vainly endeavored to speak, it is needless to say, Miss Pray was a decided success.

Mr. Edgar Norris, under whose direction the play was given may feel gratified at the smoothness with which the entire performance was given.

At the close of the entertainment the hall was cleared of settees and whist tables were brought in. Tickets had quick sale at fifteen cents each, and at the close Miss Willey and Mr. Forsythe had first prizes, while the consolations were taken by Mrs. Wallace and Mr. Philbrook.

The bowling alleys as usual, were a centre of attraction, the alleys being in constant use.

Twenty-five cents a string for 100 bottle pins was the charge. Mr. C. O. Miller took first prize and Mr. A. L. Hobart second prize. The net proceeds of the evening were about $150.

TO BE NO SURRENDER

Of the Authority of Anthracite Coal Strike Commission

MUST HAVE THE LAST SAY

Even If Private Settlement of Differences Is Reached During the Period of Adjournment—Individual Operators Want the Matter Threshed Out

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 24.—The anthracite coal strike commission has adjourned until Dec. 3, and it is hoped that when the arbitrators again meet an agreement on all the points in dispute will be ready for submission to and approval by the commissioners.

Attorneys on both sides express the opinion that an amicable adjustment will be reached and predict that the commissioners will make only one more trip to this city.

Before adjourning Saturday a sub or "conciliation" committee was appointed in order that the wishes of the commission be officially voiced with regard to any matter that might arise in the interval.

The commissioners want it understood that they have the last say in the adjustment of the differences; that they will carry the full responsibility for whatever award, if any, they may make, and that whatever is agreed upon must have their full approval before the agreement can be put in operation.

The committee, which is made up of Commissioners Watkins, Parker and Clark, called into conference as many attorneys representing all the parties before the commission as could be gathered on short notice, and stated to them the attitude of the commission.

The individual operators, between 30 and 40 of whom are represented before the commission, are disposed to object to the way matters have been progressing.

Mr. Burns, one of their attorneys, brought the matter before the commission, and said the individual operators wanted to be consulted in whatever agreements regarding the proceedings before the commission may be made.

In all that has so far taken place, he said, the independent operators had not been consulted, although they had no objection to the 10 days' adjournment.

Chairman Gray, for the commission, had a long colloquy with Mr. Burns, in which he gave the independent operators to understand that the commissioners will not abrogate their duty, and that whatever agreements tending toward a settlement of the questions at issue have been effected were made by the parties to the agreements, and that the commission had taken no part in them. As a result of the discussion the individual operators submitted a paper containing a statement of their position.

The independent operators say they would rather have the whole matter threshed out before the commission than have a private settlement of the difficulties. One of them said:

"There is more than a question of wages and hours involved in this fight. We are right and we want to have the opportunity of showing the American people we are right. We want to show in open hearing who was right and who was responsible for the reign of terror that has been in existence in this region during the last six months."

The rough basis on which the large coal companies and the miners will work in the matter of agreements are a 10 percent increase, a 9-hour day and yearly agreements between the men and the company which employs them.

Tentative proposals have been informally made by both sides, and it is stated that there is very little difference between them.

The matter of yearly agreements with the men and not with the United Mine Workers as an organization, will possibly be left to the commission to arbitrate.

No Trace of Train Robbers

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 24.—The Rock Island express robbers, who blew open the safe of a train near this city Saturday morning, have apparently made good their escape.

THE MARION WHITECAPS

Before a Jury For the Tarring and Feathering of James McDonald

Plymouth, Mass., Nov. 24.—The much-talked-of Marion "White Cap cases" was called for trial here today before Judge Harris. These cases have caused great interest throughout the county on account of the fact that never before in Massachusetts has a man been taken from a dwelling by a gang of men, stripped of his clothing, treated to a coat of tar and feathers and ridden out of town on a rail. Such is said to have been the treatment given James McDonald at Marion.

Early last summer McDonald appeared at the home of Charles Potter of Marion, and soon became a member of the family. Mr. Potter allowed McDonald to remain for a while, but at last objected to his presence and left the house with his children and went to his father's home. The belief that Potter was driven from his home by McDonald aroused the ire of some of the inhabitants of Marion, and on the evening of Aug. 6 a crowd went to the Potter home, where they seized McDonald and treated him to a coating of tar and feathers. They then put him on a rail and escorted him to the Mattapoisett line, where they liberated him. It is said that Mrs. Clara Potter was also ill-treated by the crowd.

District Attorney French looked into the matter, with the result that Messrs. Silva, Bumpus, Andrews, Bates, Gifford, McLeod and Potter were arrested, and in addition complaints were made against two men named Briggs, who have left for parts unknown. These defendants were given a hearing and bound over for the grand jury. At the grand jury sitting in October indictments were found against them. The case will probably occupy several days, as it is said there are many witnesses on both sides.

Contradictory Statements

Washington, Nov. 24.—The state department has received reports from Minister Hunter and Consul General McNally at Guatemala City, regarding the case of Godfrey Hunter, Jr., and Secretary Bailey of the American legation there, who were parties to the shooting affray resulting in the death of William Fitzgerald. McNally's advices make it appear that Secretary Bailey was a party to the crime, he holding up Fitzgerald with a revolver in front, while Hunter shot the man from behind. Minister Hunter's statement is a flat contradiction of this report.

An Anti-Military Riot

Tours, France, Nov. 24.—A violent riot broke out last evening in a music hall in this city, owing to the singing of anti-military songs by one of the performers. A party of officers who were occupying the stalls hissed the songs, while the public in the gallery applauded and threw missiles at the officers, wounding several of them. A free fight ensued until the police cleared the building. An anti-military demonstration in the streets followed.

Destruction by Dynamite

Mahanoy City, Pa., Nov. 24.—Dynamite with fuse attached was placed on the bar of the saloon of Christopher Portland yesterday. The front part of the building was blown across the street and the adjoining buildings on either side were badly wrecked. Windows were broken in every house in the square. Portland and his family escaped without serious injury. Portland's two sons are non-union men and worked during the strike.

Ingalls Struck Coral Reef

Manila, Nov. 24.—Transport Ingalls, with General Miles and party on board, which struck on a reef while entering the harbor of Legaspi Saturday, floated at high tide and arrived here today. The vessel struck on a coral reef. The shock raised the ship two feet along its entire length.

Thief Got Over $12,000 In Cash

Chicago, Nov. 24.—As near as can be estimated by the postoffice officials, the robber who stole two pouches of mail from a mail wagon here Saturday night secured between $12,000 and $13,000 in cash, certified checks and other negotiable papers. No trace of the robber has yet been found.

A Wonderful Day's Work

Pittsburg, Nov. 24.—It is estimated that during the 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock this morning 929 trains, consisting of 46,225 cars, were moved in and out of Pittsburg. The estimated tonnage is 1,756,550 tons.

Fighting White Slave Traffic

Vienna, Nov. 24.—The Austrian league to combat the white slave traffic will establish branches in all the important towns and frontier stations of Austria and take active means to suppress the traffic.

NATION'S LAWMAKERS

Advance Guard Arrives at Washington For Short Session of Congress

Washington, Nov. 24.—Senators and members of the house of representatives are beginning to arrive in Washington preparatory to the meeting of congress a week from today. Most of the leaders will be here during the early part of the week, as the president desires to confer with them before putting the finishing touches on his message.

Yesterday's arrivals included Senators Spooner, Allison, Fairbanks and Bailey and Speaker Henderson. Senator Spooner spent some time at the White House last night in conference with the president.

Speaker Henderson expressed the opinion in an interview last night that there would be little legislation at the coming short session aside from the passage of the appropriation bills. He added, however, that the president would have the first inning. The speaker expressed his belief that a constitutional amendment would be the effective method of dealing with the trust question.

Next Convention at Boston

New Orleans, Nov. 24.—By a sweeping majority the convention of the American Federation of Labor voted to hold the convention next year in Boston. The result is largely due to the unity of the New England delegation. Delegate Cremer of the machinists nominated President Samuel Compers for re-election. There was no other candidate and the secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the convention for Mr. Gompers. This was done, and he was declared duly elected.

Noted Composer Passes Away

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Septimus Winner, composer of "The Mocking Bird," and hundreds of other popular songs, died suddenly yesterday at his home here. He was 76 years old. Winner was the author of 200 technical books on musical instruments and arranged over 2000 compositions for the violin and piano. He sold the "Mocking Bird" for $35, but the publishers years later admitted having realized $3,000,000 from its sale. Winner was born in this city.

Circus Man Killed by Elephant

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 24.—Gypsy, a big elephant belonging to Harris' Nickel Plate shows, went crazy near Valdosta yesterday and killed her keeper, James O'Rourke. The elephant was in a highly nervous state as the result of an accident to the circus train earlier in the day. O'Rourke entered her car to try to quiet her, when she crushed his life out, and then escaped to the woods. A hunt was organized and the elephant was shot to death.

To Bring Venezuela to Terms

London, Nov. 24.—Great Britain is contemplating serious reprisals against Venezuela and she is acting with Germany in all matters relating to the present state of affairs in that country. Whether the contemplated action will take the form of a joint naval demonstration accompanied by or following the severance of diplomatic relations is a matter now being discussed in Berlin and London.

Student Rowdyism

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 24.—The worst class fight in the history of the state university started at a freshmen dance, when sophomores bombarded the hotel with eggs and other missiles, doing $700 damage. The freshmen retaliated and a sanguinary struggle followed. The police used their clubs, but were driven away. Numerous revolver shots were fired. Several students were injured.

FOR MAYOR
CHARLES M. BRYANT

Good Afternoon.

Quincy is no exception. Only 17,936 of the 153,604 assessed a poll in Boston are property taxpayers in that city. The taxpayers don't have much to say in the election of officials or appropriation of money.

Four captains of the Fifth regiment are candidates for major, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Maj. W. E. Morrison. Why not Maj. Henry L. Kincaide, who holds the rank of captain and adjutant?

Very few newspapers announced the result of the Yale-Harvard football match, but the Ledger was one of them. The first edition reported that Yale had scored, and the latest edition printed before 5 o'clock, gave the final score, 23—0. Several bulletins were also displayed in front of the Ledger office.

The new steamer for the Fall River line to be built in this city, should have a name which will in some way remind passengers of Quincy, and it should not be difficult as the line now has a Priscilla and a Puritan. We would like to have her called the "Quincy," but if this does not come up to the requirements, there are "Dorothy Q." and "Abigail Adams." If a masculine name is wanted, why not John Adams, "John Hancock," or "Myles Standish."

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

MILLION DOLLARS.

Contract Price for New Fall River Line Steamer.

To be Built at Quincy Shipyard.

Description of New Palace Which Will be 397 Feet Overall.

Two new steamers, to be the finest and most perfectly equipped ever built for the Long Island sound service, are to be added to the fleet of the Fall river line, and preparations for their construction will be begun at once in the Fore River shipyard at Quincy. One will be a million-dollar passenger boat, as big as an ocean liner; the other a large freighter, to cost half a million.

The passenger steamer will be a side wheeler with twin engines, that type having been found speediest, most comfortable and best to navigate in smooth waters like those of the sound, with comparatively shallow draft, while the freight boat will be propelled by twin screws. Both will be built of steel and will have double hulls, similar in construction to those of the big battleships now building at Fore River. The prime consideration in their design has been safety from any chance of sinking or burning, together with sufficient strength to meet the working strain without vibration.

The new passenger boat will be 397 feet long overall, and 90 feet wide across the guards of the paddlewheels at the widest point, her hull having 50 feet of beam and 21 feet of depth, and the paddle boxes being built into the superstructure, so that they will not show outwardly. There will be thirteen water-tight compartments in the double bottom, while above it the vessel will be divided by water-tight bulkheads into seven compartments with a "collision" bulk-head and a water-tight "collision" steel deck extending back from the stem about one-third of the steamer's length, eleven feet below the main deck, which will make her practically unsinkable.

The engines and boilers are to be in steel enclosure with sails that rise above the upper deck, and a steel deck will cover them. Steam steering gear will be used and the auxiliary machinery includes an electric lighting plant, capable of supplying current for 1600 incandescent lamps. A fire extinguishing service, under the immediate control of the engine room with connection in every part of the vessel, is supplemented by seperate powerful fire pumps in addition to the more usual equipment. Besides the customary life boats and rafts, sufficient for 1200 passengers, the steamer will carry a Lyle gun, like those used in the United States life saving service, for shooting lines.

The interior will be the most elaborate ever put into a steamer of this type, the woodwork being of pine, carved, fescoed and gilded. A pressure water system, supplied by special pump, will be connected with all the plumbing, which is of the most modern design. All of the work on the vessel, except the furnishing, will be done at Fore River plant.

The freight boat will be equally modern in construction and general equipment. She will be 318 feet long overall, with a moulded width of 60 feet, 6 inches, and a moulded depth of 26 feet, 6 inches. She will have steam steering gear, and there will be double freight elevators at her forward and after hatches.

Injuries Fatal.

Robert F. Shaw, a well known resident of East Weymouth, died at the City Hospital, Boston, Saturday, from injuries received by being struck by a train at the South Terminal. He was employed at the baggage room in the terminal. He was formerly postmaster at Weymouth Center, and a member of the fire and police departments.

LOST BY A FLUKE.

Wollaston Outplayed Ayer at Every Feature.

The Wollaston foot-ball team went to Ayer Junction Saturday to play Ayer A. A. and were defeated 5 to 0.

In the first half Ayer kicked off to Wollaston's 25 yd. line where Wollaston started a series of line and end plays carrying the ball to Ayer's 20 yd. line. Here Wollaston lost the ball on a very close distance decision.

Ayer plugged Wollaston's center to no avail, and then gained 10 yds. on a double pass around Wollaston's right end. Ayer reached her own 45 yd. line by small gains outside the tackles. Wollaston made a determined stand and forced Ayer to punt.

Taylor received the ball and ran it in to Wollaston's thirty yd. line. Taylor's punt was blocked but Wollaston held for downs and again received the ball on her own thirty yd. line.

Fowler made ten yds. through right-tackle but fumbled, O'Brien getting the ball with a clear field. He ran to Wollaston's three yd. line where he was overhauled by Taylor and Miller.

Wollaston made a beautiful stand and it took every pound that Ayer could muster to push the ball across for a touch down in three rushes. Duffy failed to catch the kick-out for try at goal. Score, 5 to 0.

Wollaston kicked off with but 20 seconds to play. Ayer failed to gain and time was called.

In the second half Wollaston kicked off to Ayer's 10 yd. line where they held, forcing Ayer to punt. Wollaston received the ball on her forty yd. line and ran it into the centre of the field. Welsh, Kemp and Ripley followed each other for five yds. at a time, carrying the ball to Ayers 25 yd. line and lost the ball for holding.

The rest of the game with the exception of the last three plays was the work of Umpire Crocker who was able to see offside playing or holding on nearly every play. However, he evened things up very well by penalizing both teams.

With two minutes to play, Taylor received the ball from Otis on a double pass on Wollaston's forty yd. line, and distanced the entire team with exception of Ayer's substitute center who brought him down from the side lines. Although this center was not in the line up to him belongs the credit for Ayer's victory.

Time was called after two five yd. gains by Miller and Scharnagel with the ball on Ayer's 20 yd. line.

Wollaston's line was like a stone wall on the defence, and demoralized their opponent on the offence.

Wollaston outplayed Ayer at every feature of the game. The line work of Linnell, Kemp, Tabb, Welsh and Ripley was particularly strong, while the tackling by Tabb and Fergerson was by far the feature of the game.

Fowler backed up the line well, although injured early in the game. Scharnagel, Otis and Miller worked well under punts. Taylor outgeneraled Daffy at quarter.

The weather Sunday was an indication that this week would see some Thanksgiving weather. The temperature at noon was 40. Last year Thanksgiving week was unusually cold the average noon temperature being 34 degrees. On Thanksgiving day at noon it was 24 degrees the coldest day of the month.

Among the Quincy people who witnessed the game between Harvard and Yale at New Haven were W. T. Thomas, A. F. Shedd, Frank S. Patch, Dr. Clayton Marstin, Eugene C. Hultman, Miss Alice B. Hultman, Joseph Bruce, Harold B. Faxon, Howard Haskins, Howard Wheeler, Henry Holden, Alex. Marnock.

Great Sachem Bigelow of the Improved Order of Red Men has appointed Past Great Sachem William A. Jordan of Wollaston as organizer and instructor for this reservation under the title of special deputy great sachem. Under his guidance, arrangements are being made for exemplifications of the degree work in different parts of the state among local tribes.

Of course Dr. Everett doesn't mean to insinuate that the habit of hating fools, of regarding stupidity as a vice and intelligence as a duty, has been discarded since the old days when he went to school. There may be a little more charity for fools nowadays than there used to be, but they are still unpopular, and the qualifying adjectives applied to them are quite as profane as ever.—Herald.

Young—Pitts.

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday evening, Nov. 22, at the residence of Mr. Lemuel Pitts, 203 Highland avenue, when his daughter Miss Mary Eva Pitts was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest L. Young of Stoneham. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock in the evening by Rev. Frank W. Pratt. The bride was daintily attired in white muslin. Only the immediate relations of the bride and groom were present. After the marriage a lunch was served and Mr. and Mrs. Young left on a wedding trip. At a later date they will be at home to their friends in Stoneham.

New Rector.

Rev. William E. Gardner, rector of the church of the Holy Name at Swampscott, has accepted a call to become the rector of Christ church, and will assume his new charge early in January. Rev. Mr. Gardner is a graduate of Brown University and of the Cambridge theological school. He served as a lay reader until five years ago when he became rector of the church at Swampscott, which was then a mission.

Frank W. Sampson, who has been ill the past three weeks resumes his duties as conductor for the Quincy & Boston street railway today. His many friends will be pleased to see him around again.

Timothy DeCoste was tendered a surprise party at the home of his parents on Coddington street Saturday evening, by thirty of his young friends. Music, games, and a general good time were enjoyed by all. A bountiful supper was served by the young ladies who had charge of the affair.

THE DEATH OF KRUPP

Believed to Have Been Due to Stroke of Apoplexy

GREAT MENTAL STRAIN

Because of Charges Made Against Him by a Newspaper—A Man Who Did Much For the Well Being of the Laboring Classes

Berlin, Nov 24.—The first assumption that Herr Krupp, the great gunmaker, whose death was recorded Saturday, committed suicide, is yielding to precise and abundant testimony to the contrary. It is regarded as being beyond belief that celebrated physicians should have connived at a concealment of the cause of death, which they ascribe to a stroke of apoplexy, induced, they add unofficially, by mental excitement from which the deceased was suffering.

Herr Krupp for several years past has had a weak heart and was subject to fainting spells. He had been warned to avoid overfatigue and worry. At a hotel in Hamburg last Thursday he was observed to be in a highly wrought state and scarcely in control of himself. His condition accounted for the presence of two physicians in the house at the time of his death. Mme. Krupp is suffering from a nervous malady, but was brought to Essen in a special train. Chancellor Von Buelow, all the ministers and a great number of other officials, following the example of the emperor, have telegraphed their condolences to the widow. Herr Krupp leaves two daughters, aged 17 and 15 years.

Herr Krupp's favorite study was to think out schemes for improving the well-being of the lower classes, which he applied practically to what are called "labor colonies." He assented seemingly to most socialistic principles except that he held tight to the wage system, averring that the wage earners were not yet sufficiently developed or self-controlled to regulate for themselves a just system of division of profits. It is mentioned as an odd chance that a man who applied social reform ideas in so extensive a way should have been crushed by a social domestic newspaper which, however, regarded his measures to ameliorate the condition of the laborers as not touching the question of economic injustice.

Several days ago The Vorwaerts made charges against him, which were reproduced in Essen in The Arbeiter Zeitung, charging Krupp with depravity while sojourning at his villa at Capri, near Naples. It was alleged that the Italian minister of the interior ordered Krupp to leave the island.

The Italian minister's denial was published here Saturday. Krupp brought legal proceedings against The Vorwaerts, and the police confiscated the issue containing the sensational charges.

Herr Krupp's father started the system of modern dwellings for the working man as a matter of expediency, and Krupp himself appears to have developed them from conviction and in accordance with his ideals. He owned 5469 dwellings, each, to whatever group it belonged, being constructed with variations in the architecture to avoid monotony. Each house had a front yard in which were bits of ornamental gardening; the outside coloring and the interior decorations gave a certain esthetic unity, while there was plenty of space and light.

Herr Krupp had also a variety of institutions, some of them rather singular, such as "bachelors' homes" and "widowers' retreats." Besides convalescent hospitals and the regulation orphanages, he had a pension fund for his employes amounting to $4,125,000. He contributed last year, as required by the law, $372,000 to the national insurance fund, and gave voluntarily $4,080,000 to other insurance funds.

Notwithstanding his benevolent interests in the laborers, he was an autocrat in the management of his concerns. He was almost unknown by sight to his workmen and rarely visited the works or even his offices. He spent several months every year on the Island of Capri and managed his gun works, rolling mills, iron mines and shipyards by letters and telegrams.

Unlike his father, Krupp took no interest in the technical side of his business, yet, in 15 years, he more than doubled the fortune he inherited. Since their foundation the Essen factories have turned out 41,000 pieces of artillery. Herr Krupp resented being called the "cannon king," and he said that half of all the output of his works was civilizing products, such as railway and merchant ship material and structural steel.

County Custodian.

"By the death of Mr. Albert L. Daniells the position of custodian of county buildings for Norfolk county became vacant. The county commissioners, naturally, have been considering the appointment of a new custodian, and it is reported that Mr. William M. Marden of Quincy is being highly recommended for the place, with a good chance of obtaining it. We sincerely hope that this report is true, for Mr. Marden is well fitted to fill the situation, as is attested by all those who have been brought in contact with him, either when he was a newspaper man or since he has held his present position as the court officer and supervisor of county property in the district court of East Norfolk at Quincy.

"To quite an extent Mr. Marden may be considered as in line for this position, which would be really more of a promotion than a new appointment. We are assured that he has the backing of a very large number of the prominent men, irrespective of political parties, not only in his own city but throughout a large section of the county. For the past seven years Mr. Marden has been connected with the district court, and in that time he has plainly proven his fitness for public office. We hope that this fitness will be rewarded by the Norfolk county commissioners, and that Mr. Marden will be promoted to the position of custodian of county buildings, a position which we are convinced he could fill most acceptably."

The above editorial endorsement from the Herald covers the whole situation. The Ledger is pleased to add its endorsement of an old newspaper friend who is worthy of the appointment. While Quincy is the only city in Norfolk county, it has had very little representation among the elective or appointive officers of the county, a further reason why Mr. Marden should be selected.

Appreciated.

The Sailors' Haven expenditure was successful beyond all expectations. Thanks are due everyone who had a share in making the evening so successful and the talent who provided the money also Mr. Briggs for his generous gift of the coffee.

The following extract from a letter received from Mr. King the next day shows his feelings. "I have been ship visiting this morning and have heard some excellent words spoken among the men regarding the good time they had last evening. Your good people gave a fine concert and brightened many old shell's hearts, I was more than pleased to see such a large number from Wollaston come in, for it is only by having them see the work that they can be fully roused to help. Kindly thank all your good folks, assure them that they were appreciated and another year we will try to have them with us again. The boys were grand. In fact it was splendid all through."

Cannon Will Be Speaker

Washington, Nov. 24.—Representative Cannon of Illinois, candidate for speaker of the house of representatives, has arrived here to remain for the session. He expressed considerable gratification over the speakership situation. His figures give him a total of 119 votes already declared and pledged, against 105 votes required.

MANY ERRORS.

A Taxpayer Tells of His Experience with the Tax Collector.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

As the time draws near when both the executive and administrative deparments of our city come before us for endorsement or disapproval at the polls, it is well for us to carefully look over the records of our city officials as public servants, and, if we find anything which we may consider deserves to be publicly criticised, not hesitate to make the matter known that our fellow-citizens may compare the same with their own experience with the same or other officials, and decide whether or not they are desirous of having the business of the city executed by the same parties for another year.

Now I desire to give a little experience which I have had this year with the Tax Collector's office; and I desire to say right here, that while I have always found Mr. Cleaves very accommodating and a good fellow socially, still that is hardly a reason why we should overlook a mistake such as I desire to call to your attention.

When I received my tax bill for the present year, 1902, I found it called for poll tax $2, real estate tax $264.53, street sprinkling $2.99, in all $269.52. Knowing that these figures could not possibly be right, I sent the bill to the Tax Collector's office for correction, and when the same was returned to me one hundred dollars had been added, making the bill $369.52, with an itemized statement on the back.

This being correct, on November 1st. I sent a messenger with a check for the $369.52 to the Tax Collector, which check was handed to Mr. Cleaves and a new bill made out and receipted by him personally. I supposed this ended the matter but, to my great surprise on November 17, I received the following letter:

City of Quincy, Office of Tax Collector,
Quincy, Mass., Nov. 17, 1902.

Mr. Napoleon B. Furnald,

Dear Sir:—In crediting your payment of Nov. 1, 1902, when you paid real estate and poll tax $266.53 and street sprinkling $2.99 I find that when the bill was copied there was a mistake made in one figure which made a difference of $100.00 in your real estate tax. Your bill should have read: Poll tax, $2.00; real estate, $364.53 and street sprinkling, $2.99, making a total tax of $369.52; while the amount that you paid was only $269.52. Will you kindly call at office and receive a corrected bill.

Respectfully yours,
Edgar G. Cleaves, Coll.
Per Kingman.

Now, Mr. Editor, on this one collection of a moderately sized tax bill two blunders were made, the first when a bill is sent calling for one hundred dollars less than it should call for, and the second when, after the matter had all been gone over and, as I supposed definitely settled, he fails to recall that I had paid full amount of corrected bill and sends me the above letter calling for a further adjustment.

I most certainly congratulate myself that I paid this bill by check, otherwise there might be some question of veracity. Now what I desire to know is, am I the only one that has sufferered any inconvenience in the collection of the taxes this year or are there others? If so I hope they will stir the matter up.

Napoleon B. Furnald.

Fell Into Water.

The morning Post reports that Charles Burgess, 35 years old, living at Quincy Point, took an icy bath off the end of Union wharf at an early hour Sunday morning.

He was awaiting the arrival of the Kennebec boat, which is due shortly before 6 o'clock. While standing on the stringpiece he made a misstep or tripped on a projectiug plank, and fell about 10 feet into the water. Thomas Brennan and John Sullivan, who work about the wharf, heard the drowning man's cries for help and unmoored a rowboat from a near-by landing stage and reached the spot where Burgess was struggling frantically to keep afloat.

He was pulled into the boat in an exhausted condition and taken to Police Station 8. Later he had so far recovered as to be able to leave for his home. He is employed at the shipyard.

TODAY'S COURT.

William E. O'Brien was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. Case continued until Dec. 1.

HUMANE EMPLOYMENT

Conditions as Viewed by President of Harvard College

EMPLOYERS MOST TO BLAME

For Present Antagonism Between Capital and Labor—Declares That Unions Have Come to Stay, but There Are Evils to Be Remedied

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 24.—In an address Saturday evening at a private meeting of the Colonial club of this city, a report of which was given out last night, President Eliot made a comprehensive statement of his views on labor unions. He said that the work of the labor unions must be counted among the efforts to make the lot of mankind more satisfying and happier, and that their strength lay in their belief in this work as their mission. He then enumerated the conditions which he designated as humane conditions of employment—those to which laboring men may rightly aspire.

First was a rising wage based on increased experience, attainments and age; second, steady employment after adequate probation; third, the opportunity for the working man to establish a permanent home; fourth, conditions which enable him to give his employer generous service, and to take pride in it; fifth, the right to a pension on disability, which gives throughout life relief from one great anxiety, and that public consideration which goes with a steady job and a self-respecting, though humble or unobserved career.

These five conditions of humane employment, President Eliot said, were realized today in Harvard university. Plainly they were not realized in the great American industries employing unskilled labor, where the terms of service were often those of "instant dismissal." Another serious difficulty with American employment was that it was spasmodic. Complaints from employes were often made the ground for dismissal.

The present antagonism of the employers and the unions was the fault of both parties, but on the whole the former were more to blame because their situation was more comfortable and their education superior. The industrial community was under many obligations to unions for the evils they have mitigated, such as poor sanitary conditions in factories, an unreasonable number of hours of work, child labor, and the company store. The oligarchy of capital had combined effectively and the corresponding combination of laboring men was a wholesale check upon that oligarchy. There was no question but that the labor union had come to stay.

On the other hand its cause was injured by certain evils which were subsersive of fundamental American doctrines of liberty. One of these evils was the limit placed on the number of apprentices, whereas in the learned professions every encouragement was given to the training of novitiates. Other evils were the limitation of output, which destroys the self-respect of the efficient workman, and the uniform wage, which has a cruel reaction on the less capable workman because, with a uniform wage, he loses his job at every slack in business, whereas if he were paid according to his earning capacity his employer could afford to keep him the year around. A fourth evil was the violence which was an inevitable feature of every strike in industries employing unskilled labor. The unskilled laborer on strike had no other weapon, unless it were the boycott, which was a cruel, cowardly interference with the rights of all the people.

President Eliot declared that he saw grounds for hoping that the relations of capital and labor would be improved, in spite of their present unintelligent antagonism, partly by frank public discussion of abuses, partly by prearranged agreements for conciliation or arbitration, and partly by the service which labor unions would render to capital through their constant command of the labor resources of which capital comes in need.

Major Reed Is Dead

Washington, Nov. 24.—Major Walter Reed, an officer of the surgeon general's department of the army, died here yesterday of appendicitis. Reed was sent to Havana to investigate the yellow fever question and it was largely through his researches that the determination was reached that the disease was communicable through the mosquito. He was born in Virginia in 1851.

Cholera Continues to Spread

Manila, Nov. 24.—The cholera is spreading among the Moro towns on the west coast of Mindanao and there is much destitution among the people. Quarantine increases the suffering by stopping work and the movement of supplies.

Neglected His Daughter

Guthrie, O. T., Nov. 24.—B. B. Newcomb, a Christian Scientist, was convicted in court at Arapahoe on the charge of refusing medical aid for his daughter, who died of typhoid fever. The judge fined Newcomb $100 and costs.

Japanese Leave Shanghai

Shanghai, Nov. 24.—The evacuation of this city by the foreign garrisons has begun, Japan being the first government to withdraw its troops.

FISHERMEN PERISH

Were Hauling Trawls When Gale Separated Them From Vessel

Highland Light, Mass., Nov. 24.—The beginning of a northwest gale Saturday night scattered the dories of the fishing schooner Two Forty of Gloucester, which was off the end of the cape at sunset, and only one succeeded in getting back to the vessel. Another came ashore at Wood End life saving station, a third was picked up by the steamer Kershaw, while what is believed to have been a fourth was washed ashore at the Peaked Hill Bar station, together with the bodies of two of the fishermen.

When the gale struck the vessel only the cook was on board, all the dories being out hauling trawls. The men all pulled vigorously for the ship, but the gale increased and the dory nearest succeeded in reaching the vessel. Captain Higgins, with one man, managed to reach the Wood End life saving station, both very much exhausted. Two more of the crew unable to get inside of Cape Cod bay drifted out by the end of the cape and were picked up by the Kershaw Sunday morning. Yesterday afternoon the patrol of the Peaked Hill Bar station found a fisherman's dory with the bodies of two men lying near it on the beach. From the appearance of the bodies it seemed as if the men died from exposure while drifting about the bay and that when the dory was swept over the bar the bodies were thrown out and then washed ashore with the boat. The schooner lies at anchor northwest of Race Point, but only three men can be seen on board.

Student's Unique Sentence

Medford, Mass., Nov. 24.—In East hall, College hill, last night, a Tufts freshman was tried by a court composed of fellow students on the charge of "burglary," his offense consisting of the taking of a large bunch of class ribbons from one of the sophomore's rooms. The freshman was found guilty and sentenced to be inked. The court officers led him to a bath room where, after removing his clothing, they applied a coat of ink and shoe polish to his body, after which he was released.

Schooner Going to Pieces

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 24.—Schooner Beta, with 128 tons of cement on board, went ashore on a ledge just off Eastern Point Saturday night. Captain Danforth, his wife and daughter, and a crew of four men were aboard. Life savers from Dolliver's Neck took all ashore. The vessel is breaking up fast and will be a total loss.

Tramp Inflicted Fatal Injuries

Providence, Nov. 24.—Deputy Sheriff John B. Gendron of Warwick, who was shot some weeks ago by a tramp whom he aroused while the vagrant was sleeping in a box car, died yesterday. No clue to the tramp was ever found, although the town offered a reward for his capture. Gendron leaves a widow and seven children.

Atalanta Landed on Rocks

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Nov. 24.—Brig Atalanta of New York struck the rocks on the Neshawna island, Vineyard sound, Saturday night during the southwest gale, causing her to leak so badly that her crew were unable to keep her free. Tug Spartan pumped the vessel out and towed her here.

Yale Again

New Haven, Nov. 24.—Yale university established her supremacy in eastern college football by defeating Harvard in the annual game in unmistakable style. When time was called the score stood at 23 to 0. Nearly 30,000 spectators witnessed the game.

Cattle Dealers Suffer

Providence, Nov. 24.—Traffic in cattle in Rhode Island has been almost completely suppressed because of the prevalence of a foot and mouth disease in the large herds in the northern portion of this state and in the contiguous Massachusetts territory.

Naval Apprentices Have Pneumonia

Newport, R. I., Nov. 24.—A medical board has arrived at the naval training station to ascertain, if possible, the cause of 40 cases of pneumonia that have occurred among the naval apprentices here, from which four deaths have resulted.

HARMLESS AS MILK

Look out what you put into the child's stomach! Children are especially sensitive to the action of medicine. But you need never fear Scott's Emulsion. That is one reason why it is so popular as a children's medicine.

"As harmless as milk"—that is saying a good deal. But we may go even further and say that Scott's Emulsion will stay on the child's stomach when milk will not.

A little added to the milk in baby's bottle and a little after meals for older children is just the right thing for the weak and sickly ones.

We'll send you a little to try if you like.

Fortune Goes to Grandson

Augusta, Me., Nov. 24.—The last will and testament of P. O. Vickery bequeaths the bulk of his property to his grandson, Percy V. Hill, son of Governor Hill. It is estimated that the value exceeds $500,000. The family residence goes to his widow and the residue of the estate is divided equally between Mrs. Vickery and Percy V. Hill. The latter has only recently passed his 21st birthday and will immediately come into possession of his legacy. No opposition is expected.

Three Canoeists Missing

Providence, Nov. 24.—Two of the instructors and one of the pupils at the Pentecostal Collegiate institute went canoeing on Moswansicut lake Saturday afternoon and are supposed to have been drowned. Soon after they were seen at dusk, a heavy wind and rain squall struck the lake. Personal belongings and the overturned canoe were found on the shore. They were Ernest W. Perry, 26 years old; Albert C. Brewer, 27, and Miss Elizabeth L. Moon, 21.

Alleged Frightener of Women

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 24.—For the past two weeks women in this city have been afraid to be upon the streets at night on account of frequent assaults that have occurred. Frank H. Cook was arrested Saturday night and was held in $1000 bail, which was furnished by his mother. The name of the complainant in the case is withheld, but it is said that she is willing to appear in court against Cook.

ARE WEARY OF STRIFE

Miners and Operators Willing to Make Concessions

A THANKSGIVING OFFERING

May Result From Conferences to Be Held by Interested Parties at Washington and New York—General Opinion That Settlement Is Near

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 25.—The scenes of the strike settlement negotiations have been suddenly shifted from this city to Washington and New York. The committee of nine of the independent operators expects to hold a conference today with the presidents of the coal-carrying roads regarding the position of the individual companies, and at the same time a meeting between Wayne MacVeagh and possibly other attorneys representing the coal roads and President Mitchell and his attorneys will be held in the national capital.

Scranton and the entire coal region will, in the meantime, wait with considerable interest to hear what the Thanksgiving offering will be. The New York conference had been known for 24 hours and the Washington meeting was decided upon yesterday afternoon. The independents have gone to New York to find out what the large companies can do for them in the way of freight rates in case an increase in wages is decided upon, and the mine workers' representatives to Washington to find out what the large companies have to offer. Both ardently wish for success, but it is not within their power to say what will be the outcome.

Although the miners' representatives do not know why they were summoned to Washington, they believe the companies have something to offer. Wayne MacVeagh was in telegraphic communication yesterday with Clarence S. Darrow, Mitchell's leading attorney, and later MacVeagh called him up on the long distance telephone from Philadelphia. MacVeagh said he wished to have a conference with Mitchell and himself, but as he was not feeling well he desired that they all meet in Washington today instead of he making the journey to Scranton. Darrow said that MacVeagh did not tell him what he wanted the conference for, but he felt that MacVeagh would not summon them to the national capital is he were not qualified or clothed with authority to carry on negotiations. Mitchell's party left here at 4:35 p. m. Those who went along besides Mitchell and Darrow were Henry D. Lloyd of Chicago, an adviser, and Miss Morris, Mitchell's private secretary. From Washington, it is expected, the party will go to New York, returning here Friday.

The larger part of the committee of independent operators left for New York at 3:35 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Others left earlier in the day.

Several of the resident attorneys of the large companies also went to New York for the purpose of conferring with the head officials of the corporations they represent. They pleaded ignorance as to the developments in the situation. Nothing was done here looking towards a settlement of the existing differences without the aid of the strike commission. Mr. Darrow had a brief conference with Ira H. Burns, one of the attorneys for the independent coal companies, but both men said there was no significance to it.

The outlook for a settlement is more hopeful than ever. Conversations with attorneys, coal operators and mine workers show that all are wearying of the strife and are willing to waive a point here and there in order to end the uncertainty of the situation and restore peace and harmony to the community and the coal trade generally.

There is some talk here of having congress enact a law making a permanent board of arbitration of the coal strike commission, but nothing definite in this line was yet done.

Made Desperate by Hunger

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.—Bread riots are reported from the Ural districts, where thousands of persons are idle on account of the closure of the iron works.

POTTER TESTIFIES

Regarding Treatment of the Alleged Invader of His Home

Plymouth, Mass., Nov. 25.—Charles A. Potter of Marion, husband of the female plaintiff in the famous Marion "whitecapping case," was the important witness on the opening of the trial of nine men of that town, accused of tarring and feathering James McDonald, before Judge Harris yesterday. He told of the march of the masked men from the Marion town hall to his own home, which, however, he had left because McDonald continued to live there; of the personal escorting of McDonald from the house to a nearby gravel pit, and the appearance of Mrs. Potter at the door appealing to the men to let her alone under promise of doing better in the future. Potter identified three of the defendants as having been of the party, and mentioned two other men for whom capiases have been issued. The government turned Potter over for cross-examination just before adjournment and an effort of counsel for the defense to probe into the family affairs of the Potters was stopped by the court.

The trial began with a large audience and the court house scarcely accommodated the influx of visitors, many of whom came here from Marion.

Women Charged With Arson

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Mildred Sullivan was in court yesterday on the charge of attempted arson in setting fire in the house of correction last Friday. She was held in $1000 for the next term of the superior court and has gone to jail in default of that amount. Her husband committed suicide a year ago.

Belfast, Me., Nov. 25.—Mary Collins of East Liberty was committed to the county jail yesterday in default of bail, after being held for a hearing on the charge of setting fire to the town farm buildings in Palermo.

Scarcity of Sardines

Eastport, Me., Nov. 25.—With the sardine canning season practically at an end, it is estimated that the storehouses of this section contain fewer cases than at the end of any season in recent years. Packers, however, predict that there will not be any considerable advance in prices this season, as the price of tin, oil and other raw material is considerably lower than a year ago.

Game Plentiful In Maine

Bangor, Me., Nov. 25.—With a full week of the big game season remaining, all previous records of deer shipments have been broken, and the number of moose shipped is within 12 of last year's total. Last week the total shipments were 756 deer, 28 moose and 8 bears. Up to Saturday night, the total shipments for the season were 4164 deer, 164 moose and 39 bears.

Robbers Make Confession

Attleboro, Mass., Nov. 25.—George Chamillard and Arthur Chase, the last two of a gang that has been raiding extensively in this district, have confessed to breaking and entering in five neighboring towns. Arthur Croud, a negro, was arrested last night on a charge of secreting stolen property and being an accessory before the fact. He made a confession.

Slugged by Unknown Man

Providence, Nov. 25.—Benjamin Franco, an Italian barber, was walking through Pearl street with a woman last night when a man stepped up behind the couple and with a baseball bat beat Franco into insensibility. The assailant escaped. Franco's condition is critical. The motive for the assault is not known, but it is believed jealousy figures in the case.

Majority Against Lorimer's Return

Boston, Nov. 25.—The action of the executive committee of Tremont Temple last night in deciding against requesting Rev. Dr. Lorimer, the former pastor, to return here from New York, probably ends the effort of the society in that direction, 21 being opposed to asking Dr. Lorimer to return, while 18 were in favor of such action.

Met a Terrible Death

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 25.—Thomas F. Malihan, while walking on the railroad tracks last night, caught his right foot in a frog and could not get it out before an express bore down upon him. His leg was cut off and his back broken. He died in a few minutes. Malihan was a gate tender and was 75 years old.

To Wind Up Affairs of Bank

Boston, Nov. 25.—Frank D. Allen of Lynn has been appointed by Comptroller Ridgely permanent receiver of the Central National bank of this city, which ceased operations a week ago last Friday. Mr. Allen is in Washington in consultation with Comptroller Ridgely.

A HOPEFUL OUTLOOK

For an Amicable Adjustment of the Irish Land Question

London, Nov. 25.—Speeches which were delivered yesterday by the Earl of Dudley, the new lord lieutenant for Ireland, and by John Redmond, the Irish leader, have aroused much comment as striking a more hopeful note of conciliation in the Irish question. The Earl of Dudley, in a speech at Belfast, dealt with the land question as the crux of the Irish problem, and suggested that a sort of round table conference of representatives of the landlords, tenants and other interests in Ireland should be held to endeavor to arrive at a mutual understanding, and possibly some scheme for the good of Ireland and the increased happiness of her people.

While Lord Dudley was speaking in Belfast, John Redmond was making an equally conciliatory speech at the suburb of Bermondsey. He was intensely gratified, he said, to find on returning from the United States that the political situation in Ireland was more hopeful than he had known it for 25 years. The political situation in Ireland, he said, had undergone an extraordinary and radical change, and he believed that no English minister since the union had such a chance as Secretary Wyndham now had. The time had arrived when the combatants were grown tired of the contest and were taking counsel as to whether it could not be brought to a satisfactory end.

For the first time in Irish history the majority of the landlords were speaking words of good sense, conciliation and reason. The tenants were united and a moderate use of the imperial credit would enable a settlement of the land question to be brought about. At the same time, he said, this would not affect the aspirations of the Irish people for home rule.

Looking Into Loud's Defeat

Washington, Nov. 25.—The United States civil service commission has started an investigation into the relation of President Keller of the National Association of Letter Carriers to the defeat for re-election to congress of Mr. Loud of California, chairman of the house committee on postoffices and post roads. The charge has been made that Loud was defeated through the efforts of postoffice employes for the reason that Loud opposed an increase in pay for the letter carriers and the men engaged in the rural free delivery service.

Miles Fears a Famine

Manila, Nov. 25.—Discussing the Philippines with the correspondent of The Associated Press yesterday, General Miles said: "I have seen 13,000 of our troops and will inspect more of them before leaving. I found them to be in fair condition. I found the people generally impoverished from the effects of the war and the pestilence which followed it, and I fear some may suffer from famine. The dearth of farm animals leaves the people no means of recovery."

Union Can't Be Prosecuted

Albany, Nov. 25.—Attorney General Davies holds that the state has no power to proceed against the Schenectady Painters' union for expelling a member named Potter because of his membership in the National Guard. No charge can be brought against the union for conspiracy, as there is no proof that the union did anything more than notify Potter's employers that he was a non-union worker.

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 25.—large brick block in the centre of the town was badly damaged by fire early this morning and Rorrison Bros., dry goods dealers, lost heavily. The total loss will be $15,000.

Heavy Fines For Rioters

Ballston, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Abner E. Brockway, who was convicted of misdemeanor in the Hudson valley trolley strike riot, was sentenced yesterday to pay a $300 fine or to go to jail for 300 days. John Hewitt, who pleaded guilty of riotous conduct, was fined $150 or 150 days. Both were committed in default of fines.

Holiday Notice.

Thanksgiving day will be observed as a holiday by the Daily Ledger, no paper being issued that day. Please hand in early, copy for "ads" and news items for Friday's issue.

Good Afternoon

When Mr. William Randolph Hearst takes his seat in Congress the Congressional Record will be printed on yellow paper with "scare headings,"

Oom Paul Krueger's book is said to resemble Oom Paul Bryan's book, not in matter but in spirit. Mr. Krueger thinks the Boer cause will eventually prevail.

A West Virginia man dropped a lighted cigarette in a keg of powder. From the result we feel vindicated in our opinion that cigarettes are not to be classed as health foods.

We hope our people have a little money left from the numerous fairs to contribute generously to the Hospital; Quincy's most worthy charity. The collectors conclude their rounds Wednesday.

One of those 100 foot openings in the new Quincy Point drawbridge will be necessary all right to allow the new Fall River line steamer to pass out from the Fore River shipyard. Just think of a big sound steamer in this river!

There is no doubt about Quincy being a No-license city, when a majority of all the registered voters cast a "No" ballot. It should be the aim to keep the city up to that level. Quincy is also an example that the law can be enforced.

CITY ELECTION.

City of Quincy.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1902.

City Clerk's Office, Nov. 20, 1902.

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 548 of the Acts of 1898, notice is hereby given that meetings of the Citizens of Quincy qualified to vote will be held on TUESDAY, Dec. 2, 1902, in the following places, namely:

Ward 1, Pre. 1. Council Chamber, City Hall.
Ward 1, Pre. 2. Council Chamber, City Hall.
Ward 2, Pre. 1. Hose House, Washington Street.
Ward 2, Pre. 2. Building, Washington Street, opposite Mill Street.
Ward 3, Pre. 1. Doble's Hall, Franklin Street.
Ward 3, Pre. 2. Police Building, School Street.
Ward 4, Pre. 1. St. Mary's Hall, Willard Street.
Ward 4, Pre 2. Hose House, Copeland Street.
Ward 5. Hose House, Beale Street.
Ward 6, Pre. 1. Music Hall, Newbury Avenue.
Ward 6, Pre. 2. Poland's Building, Billings Road.

The Polls will be opened at 6 o'clock in the morning and will be closed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and all such citizens will, in the several Precincts in which they are entitled to vote, between said hours, give in their votes for Mayor, Five Councilmen at Large, Three Councilmen from each Ward, One member of the School Committee at Large for three years, One member of the School Committee for Ward 4, and One member of the School Committee for Ward 6 for three years.

Also to vote Yes or No in answer to the following question:

"Shall licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors in this City?"

Attest:
JAMES F. HARLOW,
City Clerk.

HOW I GOT RICH.

Henry H. Faxon Says Assessors Did It.

Gives Example on One Estate.

Taxes, Assesments and Debt Burden Taxpayers.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

In 1867 and 1868 I purchased from Breck and Blanchard estates on Granite street consisting of house, stable, shop and about 52,000 square feet of land, paying therefor $4,400. I afterward sold a small piece of this land for $900, leaving the cost of the property at $3,500. Since I purchased the estates two new buildings have been erected thereon and two old ones have been moved to the premises. The valuation on the entire property for the year 1890 was $26,000, the land being assessed for $20,000. The tax rate for that year was $13.60.

The valuation of the whole estate in 1902 is $41,750, the land being assessed for $35,000, and the rate is now $17.40.

These figures show that the tax rate has been increased from $13.60 in 1890 to $17.40 in 1902, and the valuation of the land in question has been advanced from $20,000 to $35,000. It will thus be seen that the real estate owners have been humbugged by unscrupulous politicians who clamor that the rate has been reduced, intimating that the taxes have thereby been lessened, while in truth the tax bills are continuously increasing owing to excessive valuations.

High valuations also affect the State and County taxes as will be observed in the following figures: In 1890 the portion of the State tax paid by Quincy was $8,557.50. In 1901 this tax was $11,847.50. In 1890 Quincy paid for Norfolk County tax $6,580.91, and $14,462.92 in 1901.

In addition to the heavy taxes already considered there are those on account of parks, sewers, play-grounds, sidewalks and other things too numerous to mention.

It should be remembered that not only has our tax rate advanced, and the valuation doubled every few years, but a debt has been incurred which on January 1, 1902, amounted to $1,566-635.64, divided as follows:

Municipal,	$442,735.64
Water,	$719,000.00
Sewer,	$362,900.00
Playground,	$ 42,000.00

The real estate owners' burdens will not be lightened so long as the present political clique are in control of the business affairs of our city.

Henry H. Faxon.
Quincy, Nov. 25, 1902.

Magazine Club.

The Quincy Point Magazine club held its annual meeting Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Smith. At the business meeting Mr. Smith was reelected president and treasurer; T. B. Pollard, vice president and assistant treasurer; and Miss K. A. Raycroft secretary. The auction of the 1902 magazines netted a good sum. Mr. and Mrs. Smith served refreshments and the evening was an enjoyable one. The club enters its sixteenth year and will take the following magazines during 1903: Harper's Monthly, Harper's Weekly, Century, Atlantic Monthly, Illustrated London News, Country Life in America, Outlook, World's Work, St. Nicholas, Life and the Studio.

Harvest Festival.

The annual harvest festival of the Sunday school of the First church was held Sunday morning. The altar was profusely decorated with vegetables of all kinds. The exercises were held under the direction of Charles H. Johnson, assistant superintendent, and consisted of singing and recitations by the Sunday school pupils, and an address by C. F. Harper, head master of the High school. After the exercises a basket of fruit was sent by the school to their superintendent, Miss Randall, who was confined to her home by illness. A committee was chosen from the school to distribute the fruit and vegetables to the needy for Thanksgiving.

Car Float Launched.

One of the large car floats built by the Fore River Ship and Engine Co. for the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was successfully launched this morning. The car is designed to carry 28 cars, there being four parallel tracks which will hold seven cars each. The floats will be used in New York harbor.

Bigelow Park Sales.

Monday was the first day of the distribution of the valuable presents at the sale of house lots at the new property known as Bigelow Park.

A new method has been taken in disposing of the lots. The usual custom is to sell them at auction. Here, however, there is no auction. Agents of the property with plans are about the premises, and purchasers of lots have the satisfaction of knowing that the general public does not know what is paid for them.

There was a crowd numbering fully three hundred on the property Monday and the distribution of presents was carried out just as advertised.

These distributions took place at the following hours: 10, 11.30, 2 and 3.30. Five turkeys were given away during the day as well as many other valuable gifts including gold watches, etc. It was a comical sight to see a woman with a young child under one arm holding a turkey in her other hand, scooting across the field toward her home. She knew she looked comical but she had the turkey and that was enough.

During the day upwards of fifteen lots were sold.

Wants Increase in Freight Rates

Chicago, Nov. 25.—"Railroad freight rates are lower than they ought to be under the new scale of wages and the present cost of supplies and materials which railroads have been obliged to pay, owing to the great prosperity of the country," according to second Vice President Morton of the Santa Fe. He advocates an advance in freight rates of at least 10 percent.

Shocked to Death

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 25.—Calvin Berger, aged 18, was instantly killed last evening in the Shamokin Iron works by a long-handled skimming iron he was carrying coming into contact with a live wire and forming a circuit, causing 2000 volts of electricity to pass through his body.

An Alleged Blackmailer

New York, Nov. 25.—William Becker, arrested in connection with an investigation into the sending of threatening letters to merchants, was indicted yesterday on a charge of blackmail. The letters purported to be from Russian nihilists, and one contained a threat of death in red ink.

Boycott on Rhodes Scholarships

Vienna, Nov. 25.—A dispatch from Gottingen, Prussia, says the students of the famous Hanoverian university have decided not to accept any of the scholarships founded by the late Cecil Rhodes.

A barge loaded with hard coal is due at Sheppard & Sons' wharf, and one for Cyrus Patch & Son is due the first of December.

The Tuxedo club will observe the Thanksgiving holiday by a dance at Hancock hall from 3 to 11 P. M. A prize waltz will be a feature.

The Monday evening meetings of the Boys' Glee Club at the Wollaston Baptist vestry have been discontinued. Later in the winter the work will be resumed, with new enthusiasm.

Several of the beach houses at the Wollaston shore were opened up Sunday. The remarkable mildness of November is being appreciated by all, especially those whose coal bins are empty.

Sunday had the lowest noon temperature of any day since Mar. 19, 1902, but every November since 1896 has had lower, the November minimum varying from 24 to 33 in the six years. Nov. 28 is usually the coldest day of the month.

A union Thanksgiving service will be held in the Wollaston Unitarian church Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. An address will be delivered by Dr. H. M. Willard of Wollaston, and there will be music by the Adelphi Male Quartette of Boston, Mr. Geo. Want leader.

Peter Kerr of Boston read an instructive paper Monday evening before Clan McGregor, O. S. C., on William Wallace. At the second meeting in December Congressman-elect Wm. S. McNary will speak on Mexico. It is planned to have some public man make an address or read a paper on popular subjects at every meeting during the winter.

A complimentary dinner to Brooks Adams of Boston, took place at the National Arts Club, New York, Nov. 20; Charles R. Lamb, chairman of the art committee acting as host. Among the guests were Charles R. Miller, of the New York Times; H. R. Towne, of the Merchants' Association; Professor W. A. Ware of Columbia; John DeWitt Warner, Walter S. Logan, Spencer Trask, Charles C. Haight, F. S. Lamb, and W. S. Crandall.

Mrs. Nellie M. Moore of East Pepperell, formerly of Atlantic, has organized a dramatic club in that town known as the Yew-Kneedah Dramatic club. The members include many of the clever young people and their aim will be to furnish first-class entertainments. They opened the season with a dance Nov. 19th, which was largely attended. An orchestra of six pieces furnished music. Mr. Charles W. Moore was floor director and was assisted by a reception committee of ladies and gentlemen.

Perfectly at Home.

NO LICENSE.

Majority Against in Excess of Yes Vote.

A Ratio That Should Be Maintained.

Rallies Open Tonight and Will Continue Through Sunday.

The Citizens No-License League has planned for the usual number of rallies to be held before the City election of next Tuesday, that there may be an increased majority against license in this city. In 1901, the majority of 1286 was in excess of the total "Yes" vote, which was 1226, while the "No" vote was 2,512. The "Yes" vote was reduced 184, and the "No" vote was increased 322, a total gain for No-license of 506. Every ward in the city contributed to this gain by increasing their "No" vote, while Wards One, Two, Three and Four decreased their "Yes" vote. The Wollaston and Atlantic wards had a little larger "Yes" vote than in 1900.

The following summary shows the vote on the License question since the Local Option law went into effect. Never has Quincy voted for license, and the majority against has always been in excess of 490. Inasmuch as the majority against was never larger than last year, the tendency is in the right direction:

Year.	No.	Yes.	Total.	Majority.	Silent.
1882	1,057	457	1,514	600	75
1883	1,086	458	1,544	628	126
1884	1,067	407	1,474	660	200
1885	1,002	510	1,512	492	200
1886	1,017	258	1,275	759	325
1887	1,071	259	1,330	812	425
1888 (town)	1,064	203	1,357	771	459
1888 (city)	1,394	458	1,852	936	414
1889	1,162	618	1,780	544	332
1890	1,339	720	2,059	618	351
1891	1,659	835	2,404	824	250
1892	1,860	956	2,816	904	176
1893	1,886	1,060	2,946	826	249
1894	1,889	1,037	2,926	852	273
1895	1,958	1,177	3,135	781	208
1896	2,074	1,370	3,444	704	149
1897	2,047	1,194	3,427	853	186
1898	2,124	1,191	3,315	933	261
1899	2,213	1,388	3,600	825	272
1900	2,192	1,412	3,604	780	361
1901	2,512	1,226	3,738	1286	350

The rallies will be advertised tomorrow and crowded houses will give encouragement and assure a large No vote. The grand union rally at Quincy Music hall should be an attraction with Candidates Bryant and Wilson as speakers.

The league has also issued as usual the No-license paper, "The Duty of the Hour," which will be distributed in a few days. It is full of convincing facts why Quincy should continue to vote "No" each year by large majorities.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

General Court of 1903.

The Hyde Park Gazette has ascertained that for the forty seats in the Senate of 1903 there were at the recent election 137 candidates. The two leading parties had candidates in each district. The Socialists entered the contest in 34 districts, and the Prohibitionist in 19, while Socialist Labor party filed nomination papers (not being recognized as a political party under the election laws of the Commonwealth) in four districts. Of the successful candidates 31 were Republicans and nine were Democrats, a Republican loss of two. Of the forty members of the last Senate 23 were renominated and 21 re-elected. Of the 19 new members of the incoming Senate 14 have been members of the House, leaving but five who are new to legislative work.

Of the representatives-elect 154 are Republicans, 83 are Democrats and three are Socialists, a Republican loss of twelve, a Democratic gain of eleven and a Socialist gain of one. One hundred and thirty-three members of the last House were renominated (many others defeated at the caucuses) and six ran on nomination papers. Of these 139, 21 failed of election, leaving 118 old members who are returned for next year. Consequently 122 members of the 1903 House will be new members, but several of these have had legislative experience in past years.

Sudden Death.

Mrs. Mary J., wife of Mr. Cornelius J. Crowley, died suddenly this morning at her home on Wibird street of heart trouble. Mrs. Crowley was janitress of the Adams building, and was about Monday in her usual good health. She had an attack of heart trouble this morning shortly after arising, and although a physician was summoned she soon expired. She leaves a husband.

TODAY'S COURT.

Malcolm McLeod and John A. Murray were arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Cases continued until Wednesday.

Maurice I. Sheehan was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Jeremiah Delorey was fined $3 for disturbing the peace at Weymouth.

William M. Smill was arranged for the carnal abuse of a young girl at Cohasset, and was held in $1000 for the grand jury.

The continued case of Arthur A. O'Brien of Quincy was called and he was defaulted.

GENERAL STRIKE ORDER

Results In Serious Disturbances at Havana

HOLDING UP OF STREET CARS

Led to Conflict Between Police and Strikers, In Which Two Men Were Killed and Eighty-Two Wounded—Blame on Government Secretary

Havana, Nov. 25.—As the result of conflicts of a serious character between the police and the men on strike here yesterday two strikers are dead and 82 other persons are wounded. Five of the latter, one a lieutenant of police whose throat was cut by a striker, have injuries of a serious nature. Eight other policemen are wounded. The police have the rioters well under control, but every precaution is being taken to prevent a further outbreak of disorder, and all the police and rural guards in the suburbs have been summoned to concentrate in Havana.

The strike, which at first only concerned the cigar workers, became general yesterday by the calling out of all trades in sympathy with the cigar makers. All the trades people closed their doors, clerks, cooks and every class of workmen having obeyed the command of the union except the motormen and conductors of the electric cars, who refused to join in the general strike.

Trouble began early in the morning by the holding up of the electric cars by the strikers, whose wrath was naturally directed against the street railroad employes. Several cars were held up and stoned in the outskirts of the city and the passengers were compelled to walk into Havana. Several cars were wrecked and some motormen and conductors were injured during these occurrences. The carmen, however, continued running their cars until 10 o'clock, when Superintendent Greenwood ordered a suspension of traffic. The employes were willing to remain at work, but the officers of the company, in order to protect the property, deemed it wise to suspend the service. Mr. Greenwood had asked for protection from the civil governor, but the authorities were unable to protect the public vehicles. A mob of strikers drove the men on the Western railroad from the trains during the morning.

The mayor of Havana and the secretary of government, Diego Tamayo, had, during the past week, openly sympathized with the strikers and had given orders to the police not to use force in dispersing the crowds, and under these conditions, the police were unable to cope with the strikers.

The situation was approaching a critical point at noon, serious disorders having taken place in front of the palace itself, when President Palma sent word to the mayor that unless the city authorities could preserve order and protect the railroad company, the state would intervene. The mayor then took drastic measures and issued an edict prohibiting crowds from gathering in the streets and authorizing the chief of police to kill, if such action should be necessary to preserve order. A similar show of force early in the morning would undoubtedly have prevented the trouble, but the strikers had become emboldened and frequent clashes between them and the police occurred in all parts of the city. The police were obliged to charge a mob of rioters at the slaughter house and several among the latter were injured. The vigorous attitude of the police now made itself felt and traffic on the car lines was resumed and was continued from that time forth with only occasional interruptions. Most of the injuries sustained by the strikers were caused by the policemen's clubs.

The Central Veterans' union, headed by General Gomez, held a meeting yesterday afternoon and sent word to the labor unions that if the disorders continued the veterans would offer their services to President Palma to preserve order.

No bread or meat was on sale yesterday and a continuance of the strike will cause much suffering to the poor.

Senor Tamayo has resigned his office of secretary of government, but President Palma will not accept his resignation until the strike has been settled. The public blames Tamayo for his active participation in the strike and says that he and the mayor are responsible for the riots, as he had openly expressed sympathy with the strikers. At a political meeting on Wednesday, at which Senor Tamayo was chairman, he endorsed the action of the strikers.

Guilty Parties May Escape

Washington, Nov. 25.—Nothing has yet been heard here from the Guatemalan government respecting the killing of William Fitzgerald by Godfrey Hunter, Jr., in Guatemala City. It is said at the state department that nothing can be done by this government toward prosecuting Hunter, and, therefore, it appears that unless the Guatemalan government chooses to act, the guilty parties will escape trial altogether.

Uniforms For Naval Prisoners

Washington, Nov. 25.—The navy department has decided upon a distinctive prison garb for marines and enlisted men in the navy. It will be a plain dark gray uniform, blouse and trousers, with a round-brimmed soft hat of the same hue. Heretofore enlisted men serving terms in naval prisons have worn their old uniforms.

WILL SHOOT TO KILL.

Trainmen Will Have Ample Backing In Disposing of Robbers

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Train robbery as an industry is to be throttled through concerted action of railroad and express companies operating from headquarters scattered throughout the middle west. The Davenport robbery of the fast Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific train resulted in action in this direction. The railroad company, in conjunction with the United States Express company, issued a joint reward yesterday of $5000 for the arrest and conviction of the men who robbed their train early Saturday morning.

"We have given all our trainmen to understand," said General Manager Delano of the Burlington road, "and also the express messengers, that a dead train robber is worth $1000 to any of them. All of our conductors and trainmen carry revolvers and we are encouraging them to do so, and to learn to shoot straight. I am in favor of a concerted action on the part of the railway managements and express companies which shall have for its object the hounding of train robbers to the ends of the earth."

Officials of other roads coincided with Mr. Delano's statement and declared that they would not hesitate for an instant to bear their share of any burden brought about by the killing of train robbers.

Wright Will Post President

Memphis, Nov. 25.—General Wright, vice governor of the Philippines, has left for Washington, where he has been summoned by the president for a conference on proposed Philippine legislation. It is said that General Wright will assist in the preparation of several bills which will be presented to congress at its forthcoming session, notable among which will be one to establish a stable currency in the islands. It is believed that an extension of the civil service laws in the archipelago also will be recommended.

Vinol Substituted for Cod Liver Oil a Wonderful Improvement.

Mr. Edward J. Murphy, whose name is so closely associated with Vinol, the wonderful discovery, is by this time becoming used to answering questions. Yesterday, in answer to a reporter, he said: "People are not making as many inquiries of me as they did. I am now having my innings, and you may be sure I am improving them by asking questions. This talk of the difficulty of introducing a new discovery is one of your newspaper fellow's yarns. Let the discovery be all right and it goes right on and introduces itself. All you need to do is to give it a little shove and make it stand ont before the public. It will do the rest. Yes, I did have to answer a great many questions for a few days. I will admit that, and of course I am not entirely through yet; but Vinol's friends are talking for it almost as well as it talks for itself, and good news, as well as news of that which will do good, gets around pretty fast.

"You see it was not a very difficult thing to explain. Everybody grasped the idea in a minute, when I told them that the real value of cod liver oil existed in certain active principles always found in the liver of the live cod. It was not very hard work for anyone to believe that these same principles could be obtained by a special process, without its being necessary to have them connected with the disagreeable and vile smelling grease that formerly was part of the remedy which they had known as cod liver oil. Well, that is about all I had to tell them. It is not very hard work for even a child to comprehend that given a certain extract that contains valuable medicinal principles, that just the right amount can be administered, and even a child could mix this same extract in the delicious table wine which we are using and which so prepared goes under the name of Vinol—Wine of Cod Liver Oil.

"Yes, indeed, any number of people have already found out the value of Vinol. Lots of them are coming to me every day and telling me that they knew it was necessary for them to take cod liver oil, but they could not do it. They are now telling me of the good they are deriving from Vinol, and I am surprised myself at the rapid way such benefits show themselves. This is where I am asking my questions and collecting a nice little batch of information in regard to the good that is being done in this city to people we all know. Will I publish any of it? Oh, I do not think I will. Not for the present at least, and of course I never would without the full permission of the people who tell me their stories. Many of them say more than they would like to see in print, they are so enthusiastic on the subject. Yet, perhaps, I will in a few days be able to give you the names of a few of the best known people in the city, who are warm advocates of Vinol, and doing more in a minute to gain new converts for it than I could in a week.

A SUDDEN TERMINATION

Of Prospects For Speedy Settlement of Coal Troubles

PROPOSITION OF MAC VEAGH

For Conference Between Mine Workers and Operators Rejected by the Latter After Having Protest From Independent Operators

Washington, Nov. 26.—All prospects for an understanding between the United Mine Workers and the coal operators outside the anthracite coal strike commission came to a sudden termination late yesterday afternoon through the receipt of a dispatch to Wayne MacVeagh, representing the Pennsylvania Coal company and the Hillside Coal and Iron company, notifying him that at a meeting of the anthracite coal road men in New York yesterday it had been decided not to grant an interview to Mr. Mitchell and his associates which had been suggested for Friday next.

The announcement, coming as it did after an all day's conference in this city between Mr. MacVeagh and Mr. Mitchell and his associates, attended part of the time by Carroll D. Wright in an endeavor to adjust some details of the proposed agreement between the operators and the miners, completely surprised everyone here.

From a reliable source it is learned that the proposition that the operators meet Mr. Mitchell on Friday next was made at the instance of Mr. MacVeagh, who was no less surprised than Mr. Mitchell himself at the turn affairs took yesterday. From statements made by Mr. Darrow early in the day, the impression had spread that a complete agreement would be effected at yesterday's conference, but when the meeting broke up Mr. Darrow read to the newspaper men in the corridor outside his room in Willard's Hotel a statement which made it clear that no final agreement had been reached and that no further conferences were likely.

Mr. Mitchell, when shown the dispatch from New York, said that he had not asked for the conference. Mr. Darrow and Mr. Lloyd, however, were outspoken regarding the action of the operators. Mr. Darrow said that it was now "up to the operators" and that he would return at once to Scranton and on Tuesday next would appear before the commission ready to go on with the hearing. Mr. Lloyd referred to the fact that Friday's conference had been suggested in order to adjust some matters on which there was still some disagreement. "Yet," said Mr. Lloyd, "these same men, who only last week wired the commission their assent to the general provisions of the tentative agreement and upon the strength of which the commission adjourned for a week in order to give the parties time to get together, now go completely back on their former action and call it all off. We are satisfied to go before the commission and continue the hearing."

Messrs. Mitchell, Darrow and Lloyd left here at 6:50 over the Pennsylvania railroad for Scranton.

Conclusion of Operators

New York, Nov. 26.—A serious hitch occurred yesterday in the plans for a settlement of the coal controversy by conference between the coal operators and the Miners' union, and it is now most probable that the final adjustment of the points at issue will be again referred to the strike commission.

At a meeting between the presidents of the coal roads and a large number of independent operators a strong protest was entered by the latter against treating directly with the miners. An invitation to meet Mr. Mitchell at Washington on Friday was peremptorily declined and it was unanimously agreed that in the judgment of the operators it was best for the present to go on with the hearing before the commission.

"Agreement Undesirable"

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 26.—The independent operators' committee, on their return from New York last night, were all gladness and smiles. "We have won our point," said J. N. Rice of the Riverdale Coal company. "We are ready to show to the public that we are paying all the wages our business warrants and that an agreement with John Mitchell's organization is undesirable, because of its un-American ideas. The big companies have come to our way of thinking and a settlement 'out of court' is longer a possibility." Other members of the committee spoke in a similar strain. The hearings before the commission will be resumed Dec. 3.

Made Partial Restitution

Des Moines, Nov. 26.—H. E. Christiansen of the Sharpsburg state bank, who was alleged to have absconded with $26,000 of the depositors' money and who was arrested in Missouri and brought back to Sharpsburg, was released from jail on turning over to the creditors property worth $13,000. He has returned to Missouri.

Government Barges Probably Lost

Norfolk, Nov. 26.—The naval tug Hercules, which was sent out to find the government coal barges that were lost off Hatteras while being towed to West Indian waters, returned to the navy yard yesterday. No trace of the barges was found. Some members of the Hercules' crew gave out under the strain of their heavy labor.

American Gladiator Won

New York, Nov. 26.—In a clever wrestling bout, catch-as-catch-can style, Tom Jenkins of Cleveland defeated Joe Carroll of Ireland last night. Jenkins had a decided advantage in weight, as he scaled 192 pounds, while Carroll weighed but 170. The match was best two out of three falls. Jenkins scored the first fall with a crotch hold. He also got the second and match on a body hold with which he lifted Carroll high up and then pressed him head down until his shoulders were securely pinned to the mat.

Alleged Smuggling of Butter

Plattsburg, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Customs officials have arrested Edward Pond of Burke and John E. Leach of Constable, charged with smuggling butter from Canada into the United States. Leach is the butter maker for a creamery in Constable and it is said that a great many more tons of butter have been shipped from there to points in the United States than could possibly have been made there.

Death Probably Accidental

Paris, Nov. 26.—In spite of the rigid secrecy which has been maintained concerning the result of the autopsy conducted by doctors on the body of Mrs. Ellen Gore it is learned that the doctors tend individually to the acceptance of the theory of an accident, thus bringing the French and American doctors into agreement and relieving the case of any international significance.

Rebels Need Chastisement

Constantinople, Nov. 26.—The British consul at Salonica, in a report to the British embassy here on the recent troubles in in northern Macedonia, says the agitators did their utmost to incite the Turks and provoke a massacre of the Christians, but the Turks remain quiet. The rebels even murdered their own kinsmen in the hope of incriminating the Turks.

Millionaire's Ribs Smashed

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 26.—T. E. Houston, a millionaire coal operator of the Elkhorn, W. Va., district, while busy about one of his mines yesterday, was struck by one of the small coal hauling locomotives. He was seriously injured internally, several ribs being broken.

American Skipper Shoots Pilot

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 26.—Captain Stevens of schooner John I. Snow of Portland, Me., which has arrived at Port Fajardo, shot a pilot named Frank Stoddard, who died from his wound. It is claimed that the shooting was accidental, but Stevens has been arrested.

Reduction of $100,000,000 In Taxes

Washington, Nov. 26.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes, in his report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1902, says that by the two acts abolishing the war revenue taxes internal revenue taxes have been reduced about $100,000,000.

Where Gold Dollars Are Scarce

Mexico City, Nov. 26.—The premium on New York exchange continues to advance and $2.85 in silver is required to buy one American gold dollar. Importers are generally refusing to make prices on machinery, supplies, etc., except in gold.

THE MARION WHITECAPS

Their Two Victims Testify to Being Roughly Handled

Plymouth, Mass., Nov. 26.—The main evidence of the government in the case against seven citizens of the town of Marion charged with "whitecapping" was presented in the second day of the trial in the superior court yesterday by the testimony of James McDonald, who was given the coat of tar and feathers, ridden on a rail, and ejected from the town, and that of Mrs. Clara Potter, the woman whose alleged conduct is said to have prompted the whitecapping.

McDonald's testimony, which was given graphically as well as minutely, occupied several hours of the session, and a severe cross-examination failed to shake it. When the counsel for the defendant asked him if he was sure that he had been tarred and feathered, McDonald replied indignantly: "I guess I am sure of it." He said that he did not tell the town authorities the next morning as to whom he suspected because they all seemed very much pleased over the affair. In cross-examination he admitted that he had been convicted of assault on Potter and of selling liquor. He said he was not a boarder at the Potters', but on the other hand was in partnership with Mrs. Potter, and that they conducted a boarding house.

Mrs. Potter, in her testimony, declared that she had been dragged from the house, stripped of her clothing, and threatened with hanging, besides being several times slapped in the face. It was while thus being roughly used by the mob that she said that she would be good if they would spare her life.

A number of deputy sheriffs also testified during the day, and several said that they smelt tar on McDonald several days after the affair.

Several exhibits were introduced by the government, and, although objected to by the defense, were admitted by the court. Among them was a long fence rail, and several bunches of tar and feathers, as well as some portions of clothing belonging to McDonald which smelt strongly of tar.

Czar and Wife In Good Health

Vienna, Nov. 26.—Ambassador Tower has arrived here from Lavidia, where he was received in farewell audience by the czar. He says that the czar and czarina are both enjoying the best possible health.

Disaster to Lake Steamer

Lorain, O., Nov. 26.—Steamer Quito, ore laden, ran ashore while trying to make this port last night in a northeast gale. The captain and crew were saved. The boat will probably be a total loss.

NEWS IN BRIEF

South Carolina is to have another $1,000,000 mill, the Marlboro cotton mills. A commission to the company has been issued by the secretary of state of South Carolina. The plant will be located at McColl in.

President Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading denies the report that he has been elected president of the Lehigh Valley, to take the place of President Walter, who resigned last week.

The president has decided to appoint Judge Francis M. Wright, now judge of the circuit and appellate court of Illinois, to the vacancy on the court of claims caused by the death of John Davis.

The appointment is announced at Berlin of Major Otto Von Etzel of the general staff to military attache of Germany at Washington.

Receivers have been appointed for S. Preiss & Son, also dealing as the Chesapeake Rubber company, Baltimore. The bond is for $100,000.

Holiday Notice.

Thanksgiving day will be observed as a holiday by the Daily Ledger, no paper being issued that day. Please hand in early, copy for "ads" and news items for Friday's issue.

Good Afternoon.

"Coming our way" should be the shibboleth of Quincy for the new year. The city has a grand future before it, and should increase rapidly in valuation and population in the next few years, It would not be surprising if the city had a population of 40,000 in 1910. Let all have a good word for Quincy.

Mayor Bryant is to be commended for his courage in reaching a decision in the case of Officer Bradley on the eve of the City election. Many thought he would not make his finding until after the election, as a verdict either way would lose votes. His decision may lose votes but his courage will win others.

Many Quincy people doubtless wish they could get rich the way Henry H. Faxon did, but they find it difficult to obtain an unencumbered lot of land on which to experiment. Mr. Faxon mus admit that it is the prosperity of Quincy that has caused the increase in the value of his land. We notice that Mr. Faxon is unwilling to part with any real estate which he owns in the city, although he is offered assessed valuation and more.

Vacancies Filled.

The Democrats have filled the vacancies caused by the declination of John C. Ballou as candidate for Councilman at large, and of Henry McGrath as Councilman from Ward Three. The new men named for these offices are: For Councilman at large, James H. Elcock; for Councilman from Ward Three, Anthony L. Mottla.

Republicans Harmonious.

The most harmonious meeting which the Republican City Committee has held for a year or two was held Tuesday evening. Mayor Bryant, the candidate of the party for reelection was present. Tonight the candidate will meet the several ward chairmen for conference.

COMING OUR WAY.

What Recent Purchase of Tube Company Means.

Many Large Real Estate Deals of Late.

The New Plant Will Employ About One Thousand Men.

Never in the history of the South shore, as the Globe says, has there been such a demand for real estate for improvement at at present. In fact, ever since the Fore River Ship and Engine Company located its plant in Quincy, it has seemed that every manufacturing concern of note in this part of the country has been desirous of getting a location in this section. The result is that negotiations are now pending for the transfer of property in Braintree and Quincy, which will involve, including the new plants to be erected, over $3,000,000.

From time to time brief rumors have been current that the American Tube Company, located at Somerville, was to move its plant away from that city. That this rumor has foundation is apparent from the fact that Frank F. Crane, the well-known real estate broker in Quincy, has just sold to the American Tube Company a tract of some 46 acres of land, having nearly a mile of water frontage and located just across the Quincy line in Braintree where they propose building a new plant which will cost in the neighborhood of nearly $1,000,000 above the land.

OVER FORTY ACRES.

The property purchased was in two parcels, some 26 acres in one, and 16 acres in another. The larger parcel was owned by the Fore River real estate trust, and is known as the "Seven Oaks," while the other portion is known as Hayward's grove, being owned by H. F. McIntire and Swithin Bros.

While the purchase price at this time is not made public, it can be stated upon the very best of authority that the total amount involved will reach nearly $75,000.

The property has one of the finest locations on Hayward's creek, being directly opposite the large plant of the Fore River ship and engine company. Negotiations were begun last September and were brought about at a meeting of the town of Braintree, in which Judge Albert E. Avery, William H. Shaw, James H. Colbert and Harry W. Bosworth were appointed a special committee on public enterprises.

The result was that a large and enthusiastic meeting was held by the town, and it was unanimously voted to render any assistance possible to have the American Tube Company locate in Braintree, and as stated above, it has resulted in this large concern deciding to erect a plant in that town.

THE AGENCIES.

It is to the credit of Thomas A. Watson and F. O. Wellington, head of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company, that this latter industry is to locate here, while at the same time Mr. Crane is deserving of considerable credit for the energetic manner in which he has negotiated and carried on the real estate transaction.

It was also Mr. Crane who sold the Hanley & Baker corporation its location, and also purchased for the Fore River Ship and Engine Company the property now occupied by it, and he has now under negotiations, which he expects to close in a few days, the location to be occupied by two other large concerns.

It is the intention of the American Tube Company to erect one of the most comprehensive and complete plants of this kind in the United States, so much so that over $1,000,000 will be spent in the new buildings, etc.

The American Tube Company will give employment to over 1000 men, and it is the intention to run both of the plants, although at some future time the Somerville plant will be abandoned and the real estate sold.

The work of getting the property in shape is now being carried on, and it is the intention of the American Tube company to take formal possession of the property Jan. 1.

OTHER SALES.

No real estate transaction in this section has created such a furore since the location of the Fore River ship and engine company. And not only has this important transaction been negotiated and closed, but Hon. William B. Rice of Rice & Hutchins has just purchased some 50 acres situated on Quincy avenue in Quincy. This is also the street on which the property purchased by the American Tube company is located.

The large purchase by Mr. Rice is what is known as the Paul Wild estate and is but a few minutes from the large purchase of the American Tube company. Just what significance the purchase by Mr. Rice has, at present is not known, but it is stated that it is in the interest of another large manufacturing plant.

In South Braintree Rice & Hutchins have just purchased five acres and are erecting another large factory in conjunction with the present factory in that town.

The well known Bigelow park property, situated on South street, Quincy and also near the plant of the Fore River ship and engine company and the proposed plant of the American tube company, comprising some 16 acres, has also changed hands, the new owners being Messrs. Swithin Bros., agents, the total amount involved being about $25,000. This transaction was negotiated through H. T. Whitman, who is the personal representative of the Bigelow estate.

The closing of another transaction of some 11 acres on Shaw street, Braintree, has just been effected, the purchaser being H. I. McIntire, while the grantor is T. A. Watson et al. This property is also located near the large plants already mentioned above and is known as Fore River terrace. As will be seen, the sale of considerable property in this section will naturally mean a most remarkable development.

Not only are these transactions just closed, but Mr. Crane, the broker in the sale to the Fore River ship and engine company, and also who just sold the American Tube Company its location is now closing another large deal, which will comprise over 100 acres.

RAILROAD DOCKS.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company is also negotiating for a large tract of land in this section, but for what use the property is secured is not made known at this time, but it is hinted that the company proposes to build a line of docks.

A contract for the building of a new and elegant steamer to be added to the Fall River line, which it is estimated will be the largest pleasure craft in the world, has just been awarded by the New York, New Haven & Hartford R R company to the Fore River Ship and Engine Company, and the contract price is said to be over $1,000,000. There is also a large freight steamer for the road to be made.

It has been known for a long time that ever since this company located in Quincy, that there was considerable more water frontage that would sooner or later be developed, and the fact of the company having made the channel a width of 40 feet enables the largest craft afloat to now enter this section for repairs.

Talbot---Howley.

Mr. Peter F. Talbot, superintendent of delivery at the Quincy postoffice, and Miss Josie R. Howley, daughter of Mrs. John Howley of East Weymouth, were united in marriage on Tuesday evening.

The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. James Allison. Miss Ella Green of Rockland was bridesmaid, and Mr. John W. Howley, a brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception to the immediate family friends followed the ceremony at the residence of the bride's mother on Broad street, East Weymouth, from 7 to 9 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Howley, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Henry Talbot, mother of the groom.

After a brief trip Mr. and Mrs. Talbot will reside at 44 Chestnut street, Quincy, where they will be at home after Jan. 1, 1903. No cards.

AN APPEAL.

Citizens of Quincy:

On Monday, Dec. 1st, we want to distribute among the school children 3000 picture buttons reading "For my sake, vote 'No.'" The cost will be $25. With our other expenses we have not the money for this.

We have sent out with stamped and addressed envelope enclosed, over 500 letters asking for a contribution of $1 or more. We have received 86 responses.

We do very earnestly ask for contributions from those who have not as yet responded to our letters, and from those as well who were not solicited. We could use to splendid advantage more than this $25.

We must not relax our efforts one whit.

CITY BREVITIES.

Observations in Daily Walks of Ledger Reporters.

Rather stormy today.

Thanksgiving day tomorrow.

Thanksgiving fair and colder.

Mrs. Jared T. Thomas, who has been quite ill the past week, is slowly recovering.

No school today because of the rain, and no school until next Monday because of Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Kate A. Hayden leaves today for Newmarket, N. H., to spend Thanksgiving at her old home.

The new house of Arthur H. Doble has been raised at the corner of Dimmock street and Whalley road.

T. D. Borst of Atlantic received the contract to furnish the C. C. Johnson turkeys at eighteen cents per pound.

Tomorrow, if pleasant, will be the big day at Bigelow park. Payments are already reported on about forty lots.

Frederick G. Thayer of Amherst college has returned to his home on Willow street to spend Thanksgiving week.

A communication in reply to Miss Vining, bulletined to appear today, is crowded out but will appear in the next issue.

Rev. E. N. Hardy of Quincy will give a stereoptican lecture at Music Hall, at 7.30, at the union temperance meeting.

There will be a Thanksgiving service Thanksgiving Day at Bethany chapel at 10.30 A. M. Everyone cordially invited to the service.

The Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, will meet with Mrs. Stanley on Farrington street on Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Rev. C. C. Pratt of Hingham will preach in the Methodist church next Sunday morning, and administer the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Lack of a quorum prevented a meeting being held Tuesday afternoon of the managers of the Woodward Institute, and an adjournment was had until next Tuesday.

The John W. Sanborn Co. are presenting each purchaser with a souvenir of the Christmas season. This old reliable firm carries a large stock of holiday goods.

Subscribers to Rev. D. M. Wilson's new book "Where Independence Began" may expect to receive their volume next week. It is attractively boundin red cloth with a picture of the "Dorothy Q" house.

Today is a busy one for the Overseer of the Poor, for he is distributing among the aged and people of Quincy upwards of one hundred turkeys, made possible by the generosity of Cotton C. Johnson and Mayor Bryant.

The Monatiquot Greenhouses are again radiant with sweet pea blossoms, one large house being devoted to the culture of sweet peas alone. Another house teems with the scent of violet while the wonderful chrysanthemum house is being ruthlessly torn up to give place to over 1000 calla lily plants.

Assistant Superintendent John T. Conway of the Quincy division of the Old Colony street railway gave an address on "Snow," the equipment and organization for handling storms, rotary and shear ploughs, etc., at the meeting of the New England Street Railway club in Wesleyan hall, Boston, Tuesday evening.

REV. AND MRS. BARR.

Given Reception by People of the United Presbyterian Church.

The chapel of the First United Presbyterian church on Pleasant street, was profusely decorated Tuesday evening with potted plants and ferns. The occasion was a reception tendered to the new pastor of the church, Rev. William B. Barr, and Mrs. Barr, by the people of the church. Rev. and Mrs. Barr were assisted in receiving by Alexander Falconer and Mrs. Daniel Stewart. The people were presented by the folfowing efficient corps of ushers: Miss McDonald, Miss Annie Jacobson, Alex Rose, Hugh McLeod and Alex Phillips.

The reception was at 8 o'clock and was followed by an address of welcome by Alex. Falconer, chairman of the committee of arrangements, and response by Rev. Mr. Barr.

There were also brief addresses by Rev. William W. Dornan of Holbrook, a former pastor of the church, Rev. A. K. McLennan of Boston, Rev. James Alexander, of Cambridge and Rev. James Todd, D. D., of the Water Street Presbyterian church.

During the reception there was singing by the church choir.

The reception was followed by a social hour during which refreshments were served.

The gathering was a very pleasant affair, and gave the church people an opportunity to meet their new pastor in a social manner, and to cement more firmly the relationship of pastor and people.

The arrangements were in charge of an efficient committee composed of Alexander Falconer, James McDonald, Alexander Ross, Mrs. Malcolm McKenzie and Mrs. Charles Campbell.

FOR ECONOMY.

Candidate Wilson Given a Reception at Quincy Point.

George H. Wilson, Democratic candidate for Mayor, was given a reception Tuesday evening by the Democrats of Ward Two. It was held in the old hose house and was largely attended.

Timothy J. Carey, president of the Democratic City Committee presided, and brief addresses were made by Candidate Wilson, James F. Cleverly, Edward H. Perry, Jr., Edgar F. Hayden, William F. Stedman, and others. Refreshments were served.

Mr. Wilson, in his remarks said, if elected he would administer the affairs of the city on business like principles; that he would exercise the strictest economy in the public expenditure of money, and that he would appoint to office only those men who by their fitness were able to fulfill the duties of the office.

Edgar F. Hayden made a bitter attack on the present administration, and what he characterized as ring rule.

No-License Rally.

The Park and Downs church was crowded with an audience of over 200 Tuesday evening at the No-License rally. Temperance lectures are often uninteresting, but with Rev. E. N. Hardy as speaker, and stereopticon views manipulated by Melville P. Hayward, the audience had a treat. Convincing arguments were made for a continuance of temperance in Quincy.

A NEW MASTER.

Ladies Present at Installation of Rural Lodge of Masons.

Only once in two or three years are ladies permitted to attend Masonic gatherings, and the installation of a new master of Rural lodge on Tuesday evening, was one of these occasions.

There was a large gathering and all enjoyed the very impressive services as conducted by Rt. Wor. Bro. Joseph H. Gleason, assisted by Wor. Bro. Louis A. Wallon as grand marshal, and also the beautiful selections by the Brockton quartette.

The new officers:

W. M.,—H. F. Pierce.
S. W.,—Joseph P. Prout.
J. W.,—H. L. White.
T.,—Frederick L. Jones.
S.,—W. E. Simmons.
C.,—J. Francis Merrill.
M., Charles H. Johnson.
S. D.,—Charles Sampson.
J. D.,—Henry P. Furnald.
S. S.,—A. M. Parker.
J. S.,—T. R. Blanchard.
I. S.,—F. A. Reed.
T.,—J. D. Nutting.

A year ago Dr. Brett, the retiring master was presented a past master's jewel, and this year the officers of 1902 presented him a rich past master's apron.

Seiler served a grand banquet when the call came from labor to refreshments.

SCHOOL PLANS.

Considered at the Meeting of the the School Committee.

The school committee held its first regular meeting in its new rooms on Tuesday evening.

SCHOOLHOUSE PLANS.

The chairman reported the receipt of plans for the new school building at Quincy Point from the Commissioner of Public Works, Nov. 3, which had been referred to a sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Smith, Record and Hallowell.

Commissioner Knowlton and Architect Wright presented drawings and specifications for the new school building, which were discussed in executive session.

The discussions of the plans of the Ward Two school building occupied the attention of the committee until nearly 11 o'clock. Before the meeting adjourned the committee voted to approve of the plans.

TEACHERS.

The following resignations were accepted: Walter G. Bryant of the High school, Gene B. Tucker, master's asistant at the Adams, and T. Desire Lewis of the Willard.

The following transfers were approved: L. Jeanette Saunders from the John Hancock to the Willard; Madge D. Ballue from the seventh grade to master's assistant at the Willard.

The following teachers were elected: Samuel D. Thompson to the High school; Emily M. Rogers to the John Hancock; Sarah A. Packard as master's assistant at the Adams.

DISMISSED.

Mayor Bryant Finds in Favor of Officer Bradley.

Mayor Bryant made public this morning his finding in the case of the petition for the removal of Officer Patrick J. Bradley.

The document is a lengthy one and was not received in time to be published in full in today's issue.

In brief the Mayor reviews the evidence submitted at the hearing. He finds that Officer Bradley has been a member of the police force for many years. That he has always held a good reputation. That he has been assigned to difficult work in the past, and that he has arrested many dangerous persons without the use of firearms, and that his courage is unquestioned. He had never before been charged with the unnecessary use of a revolver, and in view of the evidence and the admission of Bjornson, he believes that Bjornson was not in condition to realize fully what he was doing and that his memory is not as accurate as it might have otherwise been.

He also believes that as Officer Bradley thought his life in danger at the time, as he had lost his club, and owing to injuries received, was powerless to defend himself, that he was justified in firing the shots, and he therefore dismisses the petition.

Mayor Bryant also expresses his disapproval of certain articles which have appeared in the papers while the matter was under consideration The petition he says was signed by reputable citizens, and not by the unlawful element.

In regard to a signed article which stated that he allowed the City Solicitor to insult witness, and that the hearing was not a fair one, he emphatically denies the charge.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

On Sunday evening, a union service in favor of No-License will be held at the Congregational church, Wollaston, at 7.30 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Chase and Rev. Mr. Webber and Messrs. Nickerson and Bailey will speak.

For a Bad Cold.

If you have a bad cold you need a good reliable medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to loosen and relieve it, and to allay the irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs. For sale by all druggists.

In Connection With Investigation of Loud's Defeat

LETTER CARRIERS' UNION

Appears to Have Turned Californian's Majority of Six Thousand to the Same Figures on the Other Side—Tip For Opponents of Unions

Washington, Nov. 26.—There is to be a thorough inquiry of the relation of the Letter Carriers' union to the defeat of Representative Loud of California, chairman of the house committee on postoffices. The civil service commission has sent for all the correspondence which passed between President Keller of the Carriers' union and the department. No subject is just now of more importance than the relation of the government to its own trade unions, and the sooner this relation is established the better. President Roosevelt issued an order some months ago against lobbying in congress on the part of postal and other federal employes.

This was greatly misunderstood and widely criticised. Representative Foster, one of the new members from Vermont, not a great trade union state, took occasion to announce in the house in a formal speech at the time that he should not be influenced by any such request, and that his constituents in the federal service might come to him all that they pleased. These utterances were but typical of the prevailing misapprehension of the president's order, or at least of a failure to realize the gravity of the problem which it was attempted to attack.

In the case of Congressman Loud, the facts seem to be these: He opposed any increase in the salary of letter carriers on the ground that they were already much better paid than other postal employes who were not so much in the sight of the public, and who were less effectively organized. He could not consent consistently to an increase in their salaries unless an increase was made along the line, and this the present postal revenues would not stand, even with due allowance for the felicitous ways in which the actual postal decifit is regularly concealed. Mr. Loud made no secret of this opposition, and the carriers were equally open in opposing him.

When the campaign opened the president of the Carriers' union obtained a six months' leave of absence from his regular work, and soon appeared in San Francisco. It was reported here that he had gone there for the purpose of working against Mr. Loud. The department, at all events, promptly ordered him back, cancelling his leave of absence. It was three weeks before he started, according to current reports, and then instead of returning to his work, came to Washington to confer with the postal authorities on the "two great presidents'" theory. Why should not the president of a union of federal employes, which by affiliation with other labor unions could make and unmake statesmen, confer with the President of the United States, who was obviously dependent on popular support?

Keller, it is said, promised to submit to the department a written statement of his relations to the Loud canvass. If so, such a report has never been received. Mr. Loud, who had been elected two years ago by 6000 majority, was defeated this time by 6000.

Mr. Loud's defeat will prove an effective warning in congress to any members who think of resisting the demands of federal employes, and especially so at a time when, through the development of rural delivery, the Carriers' union may be made a power in every district. The department has decided to stand against any increase of the rural carriers' salary, which is now double the rate upon which the original estimates were made a few years ago. But it is doubtful if congress can be held back by the wishes of the department when a well-cemented union of urban and rural carriers, controlling votes everywhere, begins to work. It would be much simpler, from the politicians' point of view, to increase the postal deficit. Who cares about that? Meanwhile an investigation of the California case is in order.

Ceylon Will Make Good Exhibit

Colombo, Nov. 26.—John Barrett, commissioner general for Asia and Australia for the St. Louis exposition, has addressed a number of public meetings here, and as a result of his efforts it is proposed to make the Ceylon exhibit more comprehensive and a larger appropriation to that end is advocated.

Fears For Steamer's Safety

Toronto, Nov. 26.—Steamer Bannockburn, with 90,000 bushels of wheat for Midland, which left Port Arthur and was due to arrive at Salte Ste Marie Saturday, has failed to arrive. Stormy weather has prevailed on Lake Superior and it is feared that she may have foundered.

Didn't Leave In Secret

Washington, Nov. 26.—Mr. Calvo, minister from Costa Rica, denies that ex-President Iglesias has left Costa Rica secretly. He says Mr. Iglesias has started for the United States with the authorization of the Costa Rican congress, which is requisite under the constitution.

A GOLD BRICK GAME

Successfully Worked on a Bostonian by Venerable but Unreliable Pole

Boston, Nov. 26.—As the penalty for swindling Meyer Cohan, a Bostonian, out of $6000, Samuel Brotzki, a Pole, 66 years of age, was yesterday sentenced in the superior court to state prison for not less than four nor more than seven years. Brotzki told Cohan that he was at one time a Russian convict in the Siberian mines and that while there a Russian captain of the guard fell in love with a female convict and was induced to leave the country with her, deserting his post. Brotzki and 15 companions escaped, and together with the officer and his sweetheart came to New York, the officer having in his possession a bag containing 160 pounds of gold dust worth $6000, which, according to Brotzki, he was afraid to sell openly, as it might lead to his arrest as a deserter.

Brotzki exhibited examples of the dust, which were sent to an assayer, and as they proved to be pure gold Cohan purchased the entire 160 pounds for $6000, only to find later that the bag contained brass filings.

The officers told the court that Brotzki had been sentenced to serve five years in Sing Sing for swindling a New York man out of $12,000 by the very same trick, and had also served two years in Pittsburg for a similar offense.

Brotzki is also said to be wanted in Montreal and Baltimore for similar transactions.

To Prevent Spread of Plague

New Haven, Nov. 26.—It was voted at a meeting of the state board of health here last night that the surgeon general of the United States army be requested to call a convention of state boards of health for the purpose of preventing a spread of bubonic plague. At the recent international convention of health authorities it was announced that if five states made a request for such a convention the surgeon general would call it. Connecticut is the fifth state. The board condemned the manner in which the San Francisco board of health has handled the bubonic plague outbreak in that city.

Gets $16,000 For Loss of Leg

Providence, Nov. 26.—For the loss of a leg while in the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railway, James H. Benson has been given a verdict of $16,000 in the common pleas division of the supreme court. Benson had his case tried three times. In the first trial the jury awarded him $10,000, and this was disallowed by the court on the ground of its being excessive. On the next trial of the case the jury disagreed, while the trial just ended covered 16 days.

A Burglar-Infested City

New Haven, Nov. 26.—Burglars who have been causing the police and citizens considerable worry made a good haul last night when they entered the house of Jacob Johnson. Every room in the upper part of the house was visited and diamond rings and ear rings, $83 in cash and numerous other pieces of jewelry was taken. Several burglaries have occurred here within the past fortnight.

Jury's Indefinite Verdict

Portland, Me., Nov. 26.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the death of Gertrude F. Welch, returned the following verdict last night: "That Gertrude Welch came to her death by a bullet from a revolver, but whether the revolver was in the hands of Gertrude Welch or Elmer A. Smith, your jurors are unable to determine."

Made 101 Miles In 100 Minutes

Chicago, Nov. 26.—When the "Twentieth Century Limited" on the Lake Shore pulled into the Grand Central station yesterday all records between Chicago and Elkhart had been broken. The train, consisting of engine and six heavy Pullman cars filled to their capacity, made the distance, 101 miles, in 100 minutes. The run included slowdowns for water and for passing through three cities where slow running ordinances exist. During several portions of the trip a speed of nearly 90 miles an hour was attained and kept for a considerable distance.

FEEDS ONE—STARVES OTHER

Feeds the body—starves the microbes! That is what Scott's Emulsion does in consumption.

We can't expect to understand all about these germs and microbes the doctors talk of. They say that one kind causes consumption. Consumption microbes feed on weak lungs. Perhaps that's so.

At any rate we know that Scott's Emulsion has a peculiar action on the lungs which gives the lungs new life and vigor. Healthy lungs starve the microbes out.

Life for the lungs and flesh for the body, that is what the consumptive has a right to expect from Scott's Emulsion. An ideal food and tonic for any form of wasting disease.

GENERAL GOMEZ'S GRIT

Responsible For the Sudden Termination of the Strike at Havana

Havana, Nov. 26.—The Central Labor union decided last night to call off the strike and committees were appointed to inform the various unions of this decision.

Much of the credit for the settlement of the strike is due to General Gomez, who headed the committee which consulted the managers of the Havana Commercial company, against whom the strike was first directed. After the conference Gomez and the majority of the committee expressed themselves satisfied at the stand that the company had taken. The managers maintained that they were always willing to meet a committee made up of workers from their factories and they agreed to open the factories again if the men returned to work.

General Gomez and the committee afterwards met the Central Labor union and the old warrior did not spare words in his condemnation of the action of the union in calling out the workmen. He said it was a revolution and not a strike, and that the war veterans stood ready to take up arms in support of the government in order to maintain order.

That ended the strike as far as the Central Labor union was concerned. It did not care to brave Gomez's wrath and word was sent out as soon as possible to have the men return to work. There may be some difficulty with the local unions, but the backbone of the strike is broken and today saw most of the laborers at work.

A Whack at Earl of Dudley

London, Nov. 26.—The Times this morning, evidently fearing some yielding on the part of the government, publishes an editorial in which it resents the suggestion made by the Earl of Dudley that a sort of round-table conference of representatives of the landlords, tenants, and other interests in Ireland should be held to endeavor to arrive at a mutual understanding on the Irish land question. The paper contends that Lord Dudley, not being a member of the cabinet, is not entitled to interfere in matters of policy.

AN APPEAL.

Citizens of Quincy:

On Monday, Dec. 1st, we want to distribute among the school children 3000 picture buttons reading "For my sake, vote 'No.'" The cost will be $25. With our other expenses we have not the money for this.

We have sent out with stamped and addressed envelope enclosed, over 500 letters asking for a contribution of $1 or more. We have received 86 responses.

We do very earnestly ask for contributions from those who have not as yet responded to our letters, and from those as well who were not solicited. We could use to splendid advantage more than this $25.

We must not relax our efforts one whit.

VERDICT IN FULL.

Mayor Bryant's Finding in the Bradley Case.

The Officer's Story Accepted.

No Insult to Petitioners or Counsel as Claimed.

Because of the interest in the petition for the removal of Officer Bradley, the full text of Mayor Bryant's finding is given below:

"In the matter of the complaint against Officer Bradley for the shooting of John Bjornsen on Sept. 9, after hearing the parties their witnesses, I find as follows:"

"It appears that at one o'clock in the morning of Sept. 9, Bjornsen assaulted Officer Bradley, striking him twice or three times with a rock tied up in a handkerchief and used as a slungshot. Bradley received an ugly gash near his right temple and also a bruise on the back of his head."

"Bjornsen admits that he struck Bradley with this weapon, but claims that he did not use it until he had been shot. Bjornsen also claims that he did not know he was assaulting an officer, but supposed he was encountering a man named McLaughlin with whom he had had trouble earlies in the evening."

"Bjornsen has already been tried in the District Court for this same assault and has paid a fine of one hundred dollars without appeal. His friends claimed that he had additional evidence and asked for a hearing, which I gave them.

"It appeared, and was uncontradicted that McLaughlin had appealed to Bradley twice before during that evening for protection, claiming that there were two men lying in wait for him on his route home. According to Bradley's statement, he accompanied McLaughlin to a point about one hundred yards from his house and then left him, directing him to go the rest of the way alone. Bradley then turned back to Quincy centre, but hearing cries for help from McLaughlin, went to his assistance."

"He had gone but a short distance when he was struck by a stone thrown by some person and another stone went by his head. Bradley warned the person to stop throwing stones or he would arrest him. Immediately afterwards Bjornsen jumped from the side of the road, the night being very dark, and struck Bradley over the head with the slungshot. The second blow dazed Bradley so that his club dropped from his hand."

"Bjornsen continued to strike at him, whereupon Bradley called upon him to stop or he would shoot. Bjornsen did did not stop and Bradley fired his revolver, shooting Bjornsen in the breast."

"I find that inasmuch as Bradley must have been struck at least three times that it is extremely unlikely that Bjornsen could have had the strength to give all the blows after he had been shot in the breast, as he claims.

"The place at which the shooting occurred was near the house of McLaughlin. Bjornsen admitted having passed his own house to get to this place. His explanation of his not going into his own house, and being where he was at that hour of the night, was that he intended to call upon a friend and that the road by McLaughlin's house was a short cut to his friend's place.

"Bjornsen admitted that he had been drinking the night of the assault and that he had brought a quart of whiskey from Boston that afternoon, which he and others had drunk, but denied being intoxicated. It appeared, however, that he had been drinking for several days previous to the night of the assault.

"Officer Bradley has been on the police force for a number of years and has borne an excellent reputation. He has had difficult work assigned to him in the past and has arrested dangerous and turbulent persons without the use of violence or firearms. His courage is unquestioned. He has never been charged with having used his revolver unnecessarily before, and in view of his good record and the admitted fact that he had had no previous trouble with Bjornsen, I find that there is every reason to believe as true his statement of the affair. I find that Bjornsen was not in a condition that night to realize fully what he was doing, and probably his memory is not as accurate as to what happened as it might have been had his condition been different.

I believe from the evidence that Officer Bradley's life was actually in danger at the time he did the shooting, and that as he had lost his club and power to otherwise defend himself, he was justified in shooting. I therefore dismiss the petition for Officer Bradley's removal.

"I desire furthur to express my disapproval of certain articles which appeared in the Quincy papers in reference to the petitioners and the hearing upon this petition while the matter has been under consideration by me and before my finding was made.

In the first place, I wish to say that the petition presented to me was signed very largely by responsible and reputable citizens of Quincy, most of whom signed them, I believe, in good faith, having heard conflicting stories of the shooting and desiring simply to have the Mayor investigate the facts and see justice done. It is not true that these men represented in any sense an unruly element in this community.

"There has, however, appeared in the paper an article signed by Mr. Loddengaard, one of the signers to this petition, claiming that I did not give a fair hearing and that I allowed the Solicitor to insult the petitioners' counsel and Mr. Loddengaard. This statement is entirely untrue. Mr. Loddengaard was allowed to put in his case in his own way without interruption or objection by anyone.

"His counsel, Mr. Engstrom, objected to Mr. Blackmur's asking Mr. Loddengaard certain questions which, in my judgment, were perfectly proper questions to ask. When Mr. Blackmur attempted to explain the purpose of his questions by saying that they were to test the witness's fairness, counsel insisted that Mr. Blackmur had intended to insult the witness by questioning his fairness and all the Swedish American citizens in Quincy whom he represented, and demanded Mr. Blackmur's apology."

After this altercation, the questions were asked and answered, but at the close of the evidence, counsel for Mr. Loddengaard got up and stated to me that he considered that he had been insulted and that as no apology had been made to him, he was satisfied that I did not intend to give a fair hearing, and withdrew with Mr. Loddengaard and his witnesses, from the room while Officer Bradley was being called to testify.

"Aside from Mr. Loddengaard, I do not believe that the gentlemen who signed the petition, none of whom were present, approved of Mr. Engstrom's conduct or were in any way responsible for what he did or said.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

☞For sick headache try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets; they will ward off the attack if taken in time. For sale by all druggists.

PROUD OF HISTORY

Good Work Accomplished by the Swedish Lutherans.

A Happy Two Days' Celebration.

Of the Laying of Corner Stone Ten Years Ago.

The tenth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the Swedish Lutheran church on Granite street was celebrated Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

There was a large attendance on Wednesday evening, the principal addresses being made by Rev. John T. Norrby of Auburn, R. I., a former pastor, who gave a historic address, and by by Rev. J. A. Bernhard, the present pastor. There was also singing by the choir and refreshments were served.

The history of the Swedish Lutheran church in Quincy dates back to February, 1889, when a society was organized with thirty-seven members. A call was extended to Dr. C. O. Young, then a senior at the Augustan college and Theological seminary at Rock Island, Ill. He took charge of the church in June, delivering his first sermon in the vestry of Christ church, where services were then held. Two weeks later Plumer's hall was rented where services were held until the new church was completed.

A site was secured on Granite street and the members of the church and Swedish people generally worked a day or more each on the lot and quarried the granite for the foundations. The corner stone was laid on Sunday Nov. 26, 1892, with impressing cerimonies Mayor Fairbanks being among those who made addresses.

The church was completed and the dedicatory service was held in February 1894. The edifice, which cost about $8000, is located on Granite street and true to scripture is founded on a rock and occupies a commanding situation. Its demensions are 40 by 60, and it is of Quincy granite with the exception of the belfry and spire which is 100 feet high.

In front of the church is a large door opening into a vestibule 8 by 12 which leads to the main auditorium, which is 36 by 45. On the right of this room is an ante-room which is connected by folding doors, so arranged that th whole can be made into one large room with a seating capacity of 500.

The size of this ante-room is 15 by 36. The platform is at the extreme rear end of the building. A balcony with a seating capacity of twenty-five extends across the front end.

The interior of the church is finished in cypress. The windows are of cathedral glass and the edifice is lighted by electricity.

Since the church was completed there have been two other important events at the church. One when a large bell was placed in the spire, and on Wednesday to celebrate the tenth anniversary of laying the cornerstone.

Thursday evening there was a grand concert which was also well attended. The program consisted of selections by the orchestra, reading of scriptures and prayer by the pastor, singing by the choir, vocal solos by Miss Maria Sundborg, violin solos by Miss Emily Streiferd, and trios by Messrs. Chilstedt, Johnson and Mrs. Nelson.

Dance at Atlantic.

The Atlantic base ball club held its first sunlight dance Thanksgiving afternoon in Music hall, Atlantic. There was a large attendance of young people from this city and Neponset, The floor was in charge of Charles Edwards, and the assistant floor director was Peter J. Colligan. The aids were Henry Granahan, Fred Cornish, John Hastings, James Brennan, John Curley, Edward Cunniff, Edward O'Brien, Herbert Birch, Loring Hallett, William McGrail, William Gerry, Joseph Granahan, James O'Connell, John Dolan and Thomas Doyle.

TERRITORIAL ILLINOIS

Passed Some Vague Laws Between 1785 and 1819

ACTS RELATIVE TO SLAVERY

Were Repeated With Almost Literal Accuracy In the Thirteenth Amendment—Ordinance Forbidding Slavery Had No Value

Washington, Nov. 28.—Seventeen musty old books shipped by a Washington collector to the Chicago Historical society contain within their substantial covers a surprising amount of that early western history which had so much to do with shaping the greater policies of the nation. This is a collection of books of laws enacted by the legislative bodies which governed what is now Illinois from the first organization of its government in 1787 to the admission of the state to the union in 1819. These books are all of the original, contemporaneously printed, editions. The most recent of them are thus nearly a century old, and several of the set are exceedingly rare.

Perhaps the most interesting of the laws contained within these musty volumes are those relating to slavery. While this territory had been organized under the famous ordinance of 1787, which declared that there should be "neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory otherwise than in the punishment of crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted"—words which have been repeated with almost literal accuracy in the 13th amendment—its local lawmakers were all the time struggling to make slavery legal by indirection. They used the word "slave" freely in their laws, but generally disguised the issue by allusions to terms of servitude and indenture.

One of the earliest laws declared that "all negroes and mulattos and other persons not being citizens of the United States coming into this territory under contract to serve in any trade or occupation shall be compelled to perform such contracts specifically during the time thereof." The master was by the same law required to give a clothing outfit, suitable to the season of the year, to his servant at the end of the contract period.

Another law provided that, "no negro, mulatto or Indian shall at any time purchase any servant other than of their own complexion. If any such presume to purchase a white servant," it was declared that such a servant should become immediately free. It was also provided in the same code, that "in all cases of penal laws where free persons are punishable by fine, servants shall be punished by whipping after the rate of 20 lashes for every $8."

The laws of the Indiana territory of 1807, of which Illinois was then a part, recited that if any slave or servant should be found at a distance of 10 miles from the tenement of his or her master without a pass, or some letter or token, whereby it might appear that he or she was proceeding by authority of the employer or overseer, it should be lawful for any person to apprehend such slave or servant, and take him or her before the justice of peace, who might at his discretion award not to exceed 35 strokes.

Moderate fines were provided for any person who harbored any servant, or slave, of color who was bound to service without the consent of his or her master, and larger penalties for any person who should aid or assist any servant to abscond. Most of the fine in the latter case went to the party aggrieved.

The first section of the law in 1807 read: "It shall be lawful for any person possessing any negro or mulatto over the age of 15 years and owing service as a slave to bring the said negro or mulatto into this territory." There is something notable in the date of this code. It was passed 20 years after the famous ordinance forbidding slavery, and on Sept. 17, just 55 years to a day, before the battle of Antietam, on the results of which an Illinois president decided to issue the emancipation proclamation. His words, according to Carpenter, were that if General Lee's army was driven back from Maryland he would crown the result by a declaration of freedom to the slaves. The monument in the National cemetery at Antietam bears conspicuously on its pedestal the words: "September 17," that being the day of the enactment of the slave code in the old Indiana territory, of which Illinois is now a part—an interesting coincidence.

The same code provided in section three that "if any negro or mulatto removed into this territory as aforesaid shall refuse to serve his or her owner as aforesaid it shall or may be lawful for such person, within 60 days thereof, to remove the said negro or mulatto to any place which by the laws of the United States * * * such owner or possessor may be authorized to remove the same."

Children born in that territory of a parent owing service or labor by indenture were required to serve the master or mistress of such parent until they reached the age of 30 if males and of 28 if females. Other glimpses of the social conditions of the times are reflected in these laws, but those relating to slavery are perhaps of the greatest historical interest. Much of them have, to be sure, been reprinted elsewhere, but there is a lifelike touch in the musty volumes themselves which adds to their value to the historical student.

HAS NEW REFUGE

Beavers' Anti-Confidential Chair Did Not Prove a Success

Washington, Nov. 28.—Mr. Beavers, chief of the salary and allowance division of the postoffice department, has abandoned his anti-confidential chair. It will be remembered that his anti-confidential chair was attached to the floor by a wire so short as to prevent its being drawn up to whispering distance. It was his own invention. He found that so many of his visitors insisted on talking to him at close range that he had to do something for self-protection. His callers are usually in search of an increase in the allowance for their clerk hire or something of that kind. In telling their troubles they like to get on a confidential footing with their chief.

But some unkind person exposed the game, and lately visitors have been dragging up chairs from remote corners of the room. They side-step the anchored chair. Besides, he has friends for whom the anti-confidential chair is not intended. He found it took too much time to explain it to them. Now he has fallen back on the old plan of pulling out the extension leaf of his desk and taking refuge behind that.

Ranch to Cover 4000 Square Miles

Salt Lake, Nov. 28.—The purchase of millions of acres of Mexican territory along the border of the United States for the purpose of creating one of the largest cattle raising ranches in the world is the result of recent negotiations of American capitalists with Utah men as principals. The land comprises nearly 4000 square miles of territory and its purchase involves an initial expenditure of $21,000,000.

White Honored by Germany

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Emperor William, in his farewell audience of Ambassador White yesterday, presented him with the gold medal of the empire for science and art, which is given once a year to a person who, in the opinion of the government, is best entitled to it. Emperor William said as a personal remembrance he was having a porcelain vase made for Mr. White.

New Lightweight Champion

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Frank Erne of Buffalo lost his hold on the world's light-weight championship in his contest with young Jimmie Britt of this city, who knocked out Erne in the seventh round. The contest was the fastest ever witnessed in this city. Britt, while not so clever as Erne, was the more aggressive and landed the most telling blows.

Shipwrecked Crew Rescued

Liverpool, Nov. 28.—Steamer Brinkburn has arrived here, bringing the crew of the American schooner Lucy A. Davis, which sprang aleak and was abandoned in a water-logged condition of Cape Hatteras Nov. 11. The Brinkburn rescued all the schooner's hands when her bows were beneath the water. The men have lost all their belongings.

Candy Contained Arsenic

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 28.—Chemical analysis of the candy which caused the illness of Dr. Manley M. Enos and his attendant, Miss Margaret Cooper, discloses the fact that it contained arsenic. Dr. Enos is of the opinion that the drugged candy was not intended for him or Miss Cooper, and the detectives have dropped the case.

Raise In Price of Milk

New York, Nov. 28.—At a meeting of the Milk Exchange in this city an advance to dairymen from 3 1-4 to 3 3-4 cents a quart was agreed upon. This is said to be the highest price paid for milk at wholesale within 20 years.

PRESENTS MADE AT HOME

TABLE LINEN IS ALWAYS ACCEPTABLE TO THE HOUSEKEEPER.

Handsome Christmas Souvenirs Which a Woman Skillful With Her Needle Can Easily Fashion—Tablecloths, Doilies and Centerpieces.

NEW table linens are always useful, and the good housewife welcomes additions to her store with such enthusiasm that any one who tries the experiment of making a gift of this kind is tempted to repeat the experiment not once, but many times.

Tablecloths never come amiss. The handsomer they are the better, but even a plain one of modest dimensions has its uses. If a woman has time, she can make a handsome one for presentation to a relative or intimate friend. Cream colored linen should be the foundation fabric. The linen should be inset with a band of Irish lace insertion and edged with a wider piece. The lace shown in the sketch of the tablecloth is simple. The heavy flowers in the patterns are crocheted separately, and then they are all strung together with chain stitch. Along the outside of the edging a border of crocheted scallops is added. To make the trimming ecru linen thread, the very finest obtainable, is needed. Nothing coarser than 100 should be accepted. Two inches is a good width for the insertion, and the edging should be three or four inches wide. For a tablecloth two and one-half yards square are needed eight and three-quarter yards of insertion and ten yards of lace edging. An embroidered monogram should be worked in one corner of the linen.

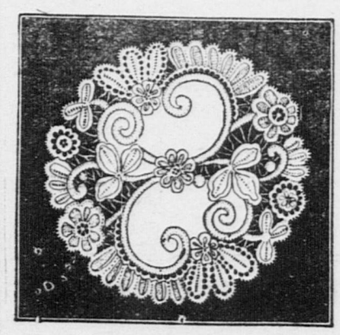

LACE TRIMMED TABLECLOTH.

Next to tablecloths doilies are the most acceptable linen gifts. The pretty doily design shown in the sketch is a linen and point lace affair. So many amateurs are skilled point lace makers that no directions for fashioning the trimming are required. The braid is twisted to form the flowers and leaves, and the figures are joined by chain stitch. Possibly the irregularity of the pattern is its chief charm, for it is really not elaborate. A rose is made the floral centerpiece, all the rest of the design radiating from that. The two plain, winglike parts at each side of the rose are linen.

Fancy centerpieces also make nice holiday gifts. Almost any sort of muslin may be used to form a centerpiece if a colored slip be placed beneath. Spotted muslin may be embroidered to represent daisy blossoms by using the spot as the flower center and working petals round it in outline. This work is worth the trouble, as it looks very effective at trifling cost. A couple of skeins of silk will suffice for quite a large piece of muslin, and any color may be selected, the underslip being of the same tint or a little deeper. Finish off the center with a frill of the silk covered with one of the muslin or else with a full frill of imitation valenciennes lace.

Net darned with filoselle in a running design, with stars at intervals, may be substituted for muslin, and the result will be equally pleasing. The special make of muslin now sold at fancy workshops is adapted for embroidery with narrow ribbon or with ordinary silks, and as it is moderate in cost it is possible to use it for table centers which are within the reach of every one. Such work looks best with an underslip of color, edged with a full frill of valenciennes or fine lace over a pinked out frill of colored silk to match the foundation.

POINT LACE DOILY.

For small square tables square table centers are best. A pretty variety of this style is to cut out portions of the square, leaving a shape resembling a four leaved shamrock. On each of these "leaves" a spray of flowers may be worked and the whole finished off with a deeply scalloped border worked in buttonhole stitch. They look equally well in art linen or satin.

Silver fruit pocketknives are nice presents for men.

TAKE AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

"Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla." We say it, and the doctors say it, too. Ask your own doctor about it. He probably has the formula. He can tell you just how it lifts up the depressed, gives courage to the despondent, brings rest to the overworked.

If your liver is sluggish, bowels constipated, tongue coated, better take one of Ayer's Pills at bedtime. These pills greatly aid the Sarsaparilla, and cure all liver troubles. Two grand family medicines. J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

A STRICT QUARANTINE

Ruminants and Swine Cannot Leave New England States

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Will Tax the Utmost Resources of the Agricultural Department In the Endeavor to Stamp It Out—Spread Would Be a National Calamity

Washington, Nov. 28.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson issued a sweeping order yesterday, directed to the managers and agents of railroads and transportation companies of the United States, stockmen and others, notifying them of the esfablishment of a quarantine of cattle, sheep and other ruminants and swine in the New England states and prohibiting the exportation of such animals from the port of Boston until further orders.

Recent investigations by the department of agriculture disclosed the fact that what is known as foot and mouth disease exists to an alarming extent in Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Vermont. Experts visited the infected districts and united in a recommendation that in order to prevent the spread of the disease a quarantine should immediately be established.

Secretary Wilson says that this is the most serious matter the department has had to handle for some time, but that all the resources of the department will be employed in stamping out the disease. He declares that if it should spread west of the Hudson river it will be nothing short of a national calamity.

The orders, which are dated Nov. 27, are as follows:

"To managers and agents of railroads and transportation companies of the United States, stockmen, and others:

"In accordance with section 7 of the act of congress approved May 29, 1884, entitled 'an act for the establishment of a bureau of animal industry, to prevent the exporting of diseased cattle and to provide means for the suppression and extirpation of pleuro-pneumonia and other contagious diseases among domestic animals, and with the act of congress approved June 3, 1902, making appropriations for the department of agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903, you are hereby notified that the contagious disease known as foot and mouth disease exists among animals in the states of Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Vermont, and that the cattle, sheep and other ruminants, and swine of said states have been exposed to the contagion of said disease; therefore,

"It is hereby ordered, that to prevent the spread of the said diseases from the states of Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Vermont into other states or foreign countries, and to aid in its eradication, no cattle, sheep, or other ruminants, or swine shall be moved, or be permitted to move, from or across the territory of any of the states above named into any other state or foreign country. Any person, company or corporation violating this order will be proceeded against as provided for by the act of congress above referred to.

"It is hoped that all transportation companies, cattle shippers and others interested in the welfare of our animal industry will co-operate with the department of agriculture in enforcing this order, to the end that the restriction on traffic may have the desired effect and be removed in the shortest possible time.

"Whereas, a highly contagious disease, known as foot and mouth disease, exists among cattle in the state of Massachusetts, and the routes of transportation possibly may have been contaminated. In order to protect the export trade in live animals by preventing the exportation of animals which are diseased, or which have been exposed to disease,

"It is hereby ordered, that no cattle, sheep, or other ruminants or swine shall be permitted to be exported from the port of Boston until further orders."

Not Pleasing to Colombia

Panama, Nov. 28.—The news of the suspension of the Panama canal negotiations between Secretary Hay and Senor Concha, Colombian minister in Washington, has been received here with dissatisfaction. Within two months the Colombian congress will meet, according to the terms of the peace treaty, and the first subject to come under its consideration will be the Panama canal bill.

Blanket Indian Disappearing

Washington, Nov. 28.—Estelle Reel, superintendent of Indian schools, has submitted her annual report to the commissioner of Indian affairs. She notes a marked advance in industrial training. The enrollment in 1902 was 28,610. Miss Reel refers to the gradual disappearance of the blanket Indian and the general improvement in the condition of the race.

French Miners' Strike Off

Paris, Nov. 28.—The committee of the Coal Miners' Federation of the Loire resolved in favor of the resumption of work at all the mines in the district today. With this decision the general strike of the coal miners of France which was declared on Oct. 9, and which at one time involved over 100,000 men, came to an end.

MUST "BACK WATER"

Our Government In Peculiar Position as Result of Samoan Decision

Washington, Nov. 28.—The state department is preparing to present to King Oscar, the arbitrator of the issues between the United States and England on the one side, and Germany on the other, growing out of the Samoan troubles of 1899, the second phase of the case. The recent decision of King Oscar touched only the principle involved, namely, the liability of the United States and Great Britain for damages sustained by foreigners as a result of the joint naval operations. That having been decided against the United States and Great Britain and in favor of Germany, the next step in order is to prepare and to submit to the arbitrator detailed statements of the individual losses. By the terms of the arbitration treaty each of the countries concerned undertook to look after the claims of its own citizens. Thus it is in the peculiar position of presenting to the arbitrator for payment the claims of a number of American citizens, after it had, through elaborate argument, presented to the arbitrator by special counsel, specifically denied liability for any such claims.

La Soufriere's Latest Eruption

Kingstown, St. Vincent, Nov. 28.—Wednesday's eruption of La Soufriere occurred at he head of the dry river, Rabacca, where huge quantities of volcanic deposits had blocked the watercourse since the eruptions last May, in spite of the subsequent heavy rainfall. A raging, steaming torrent flowed from the base of La Soufriere and swept down the Rabacca, completing the destruction of the sugar works there.

A Rather Nervy Thief

New York, Nov. 28.—While John G. Underhill, a real estate broker, was conversing with friends in the billiard room of the Waldorf-Astoria his overcoat was stolen. In the pockets were two $1000 gold 6 percent bonds of a water company. In the coat also was a check for a dress suit case he had left at another hotel. The cool thief later presented the check and got the case and its valuable contents.

Ames to Live In Louisville

Louisville, Nov. 28.—The Courier Journal says that former Mayor Ames of Minneapolis, who was indicted in connection with the municipal corruption in that city and who was supposed to have gone to Mexico, is in Louisville, under the treatment of a physician. It is expected that his family will arrive here today and he will then take up his permanent residence in Louisville.

Dominican Disturbances

San Domingo, Nov. 28.—The political situation in Santo Domingo has been complicated by revolutionary disturbances which have broken out in the northern part of the republic. The government has taken severe measures to suppress the movement. Many arrests have already been made. Quiet prevails in this city, but business is stagnant.

Thanksgiving Day In Philippines

Manila, Nov. 28.—The first general observance of Thanksgiving day by the Roman Catholic church took place here yesterday. Bishop Gracia had called attention to the proclamation of President Roosevelt and Governor Taft directing the observance of the American holiday. The other churches held a united service.

Two Victims of Rioter's Deeds

Havana, Nov. 28.—Two of the men who were wounded Wednesday evening while on a street car by shots fired from neighboring houses died yesterday. There have been no further disturbances. The mayor has ordered the police to arrest all the occupants of the houses from which the shots may have been fired.

Woman Charged With Murder

Butte, Mont., Nov. 28.—The county attorney has drawn up a complaint charging Mrs. LaBonta, a French dressmaker, with the murder of Dr. Cayley. Editor J. W. Kelley, who is alleged to have done the shooting, is still in the county jail here. Mrs. LaBonta was arrested at San Francisco.

Dutchmen Killed by Savages

The Hague, Nov. 28.—A dispatch from Achin, Sumatra, announces that Lieutenant Dekok and 45 Dutch troops, on board a barge on a river in the interior, were recently attacked by a band of Achinese, with the result that the barge sank and the lieutenant and 20 men were drowned.

Krupp's Character Cleared

Rome, Nov. 28.—An inquiry instituted into the scandals concerning the late Herr Krupp at Capri island is said to have completely cleared the deceased's character and that it has been decided that the government will prosecute the newspapers which made the defamatory statement.

Fatal Collision of Street Cars

Des Moines, Nov. 28.—Two persons were fatally injured and six seriously hurt in a street car collision here yesterday. A street car ran away at the top of a hill and crashed into another car at the bottom. Both cars were crowded with passengers.

Train Wreck and Fire

Greenville, Ills., Nov. 28.—A passenger train plunged over an embankment here and 10 passengers were injured, two of whom may die. Several were badly burned in the debris, which caught fire from an overturned stove.

Warships Off For Venezuela

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Three additional cruisers, the Niobe, Ariadne and Amazone, have been ordered to leave Kiel and proceed to Venezuela.

FLIGHT OF THE SNIPE.

Its Dodging Comes From the Ancestral Method of Avoiding Foes.

The flight of the snipe is swift, vigorous and usually for the first few yards erratic. The bird gets under way smartly, and as a usual thing goes boring up wind in a style rather suggestive of a feathered corkscrew. A series of electrical zigzags get him to top speed, whereupon his progress steadies a bit and he darts away in something more like a straight line. As a general rule a flushed bird springs a few feet into the air, hangs for the fraction of a second, then begins to twist and dodge as though the Old Boy was at his tail. It would be very interesting could we discover the original cause of the dodging. Possibly some ancient foe, now long extinct, was best baffled by that mode of flight, for there usually is some such explanation for peculiar actions by wild things. Because the flight happens to be puzzling to a gunner is no guarantee that the bird dodges for that purpose—such an explanantion would imply a deal more intelligence than the entire tribe of snipe are possessed of. Snipe, of course, dodged on the wing long prior to the appearance of firearms, and it is extremely unlikely that the erratic flight has anything in the nature of protective tactics against the devices of human foes.—Edwyn Sandys in Outing.

A Plea For Leisure.

Individuals will rather helplessly reply to a plea for leisure by saying: "What are we going to do? Competitors 'hustle' and we must do the same or starve." Some will urge that the American temperament demands constant occupation, that "hustling" is our national trait. Well, I have no desire to insist that we go back to stagecoach days. But all of us have plenty of opportunity to tone down a little. And why not try it? A national trait may be dangerous as well as useful—may need control. If the average individual would make more leisurely use of his leisure there would not be nearly as many cases of nervous prostration as there are now. Put on the brakes a bit. Take things a little easier when you can. I know people who are never content unless they are "doing" something. Such abnormal desire for activity is not natural; it is an unnatural craving. It will be well for us not to be so eager to gratify it.—Great Round World.

A "Man of Steady Habits."

It was a very angry man who met an acquaintance on the street the other day. "I thought you told me that D. was a man of steady habits," were his first words following the usual salutation. "I said I required a man of absolutely steady habits, and you were very positive in your assurance that the man in question was such a one."

"Well, has he proved otherwise?"

"Why, man, he is drunk all of the time; in fact, I do not think he has drawn a sober breath since he has been with me."

"Then what are you jumping on me for? Your own statement bears out just what I told you about him. I have known D. for the past ten months, and I know that he has been drunk during all of that period, and if that isn't being a 'man of steady habits' I'd like to know what it is."—New York Times.

For Wounds From Rusty Nails.

Very often we read or hear of some one who has met with the accident of having a rusty nail thrust into his foot or hand, which frequently causes lockjaw. A writer supplies the following simple remedy, vouching for its efficacy, and certainly it might be tested without much trouble and no danger. It is simply to smoke thoroughly any bruise or wound that is inflamed with burning woolen cloth. It is said that twenty minutes in the smoke will take the pain out of the worst case of inflammation arising from such a wound.

Ruskin on Humility.

I believe that the first test of a truly great man is his humility. I do not mean by humility doubt of his own power or hesitation in speaking his opinions, but a right understanding of all the relations between what he can do and say and the rest of the world's sayings and doings. All great men not only know their business, but usually know that they know it, only they do not think any better of themselves on that account.—John Ruskin.

Good Afternoon.

Only four days to the city election, but one would hardly think it.

Reports from the Hospital collectors are anxiously awaited now. It is hoped the institution may have enough for current expenses of the year and a surplus.

Not so cold as Nov. 28 last year when the noon temperature was 24 degrees, or in 1900 or 1896 when it was 32, or in 1898 when it was 33. The 28th will pass for November's "cold day" all right, but in 1896 it was the warmest, 70 degrees.

Many do not realize the large proportion of school children in Quincy to the population, but just note these figures:

	Waltham.	Quincy.
Population 1900,	23,481	23,899
School Census 1902,	2,951	5,621

It will be seen that Quincy with the same population as Waltham has to educate nearly twice as many pupils.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The average length of human life is constantly and steadily increasing, having, according to Dr. George M. Kober, professor of hygiene in Georgetown University, D. C., doubled within the past three centuries. In the sixteenth century it was between eighteen and twenty years, while today it is forty. The principal agencies in this prolongation of life, Dr. Kober believes, are more attention to the air we breathe and more care as to the water we drink. This opinion is sustained by the statistics of large cities, which show that, owing to improved sanitation, the introduction of sewers and of public water supplies, their rates of mortality within the past forty years have been reduced to about one-half. Do you want to prolong your life and increase your powers? Then breathe deeply, and drink plenty of pure water between not at, meals; not iced water or boiled water, but distilled water.

☞ Fat schoolteachers are not wanted in Philadelphia. This is not because they take up valuable space, but because the board of education has concluded that fatness tends to excessive nature and indolence. This is certainly rich, and shows that the Philadelphia board is alive to the interests of the rising generation. It would be interesting to have a few statistics in this matter. For example, at what weight does a schoolma'am become dangerously prone to good humor and laziness. How much should she weigh in order to have just the right amount of good nature and activity? There is another phase to the subject, also might not such a degree of thinness be attained as to render a teacher too sour and so active as to be on the verge of nervous prostration? Would the pupils committed to her charge be any better off than those taught by a fat woman? Seriously, what a senseless attitude is this of the Philadelphia board. Common sense would teach any one that some teachers are fat and capable and others are thin and capable. To debar any one from a teacher's position just because her avoirdupois exceeds an arbitrary number of pounds is a strange course. It seems almost incredible that it should have been proposed, much less entered on.—Boston Home Journal.

—Weymouth High and an alumni eleven met on the gridiron Thanksgiving day but neither eleven was able to score.

OUR MAYOR.

A Woman Who Does Not Agree With Miss. Vining.

Would Vote for Charles M. Bryant.

A Successful Business Man.—Kind, Generous, Conscientious.

By request the following reply to Miss Vining is published;

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

With all due respect to Miss Vining, we would like to say a word in regard to the article published in Saturday's Ledger, Nov. 15th, taken from the Hull Beacon. Many people who have known Miss Vining for years were amused, while others were very much surprised to read such a milk and water article with Miss Vining's name signed to it.

Now I will not say that Mr. Bryant is the "most splendid" young man in Quincy, but I will say that Mr. Bryant has proved himself to be a thorough business man. Kind, generous and conscientious in all his dealings with the people but holding the reins of the city government in his own hands and allowing no man, either friend or foe to buy, beg, or bribe him from doing what he, in his good judgment considered best for the city. Just for a moment compare the business ability of the two candidates. Mr. Wilson was left, by the death of his father one of the best grocery business in Quincy, what is it today?

Mr. Bryant has by his good judgment built up a business that was comparatively small at the death of the senior member of the firm, to one of the largest of its kind in Boston.

Miss Vining lays great stress on Mrs. Wilson having been born in a grand house in the Back Bay. We are not in a position to say where Mrs. Bryant was born, but we can truthfully say that Mrs. Bryant is a very charitable, pleasant and agreeable lady to all classes of people and interested in all her husband's affairs in a quiet, lady like way. Always ready to assist him in his generous deeds and by a kind word or by her presence when needed. All this I think counts far better for the wife of a public servant than the high bred location of the house she was born in.

About Henry Faxon whom Miss Vining says this administration is making miserable I think she is wrong, it is only another instance where Mayor Bryant will not be bulldozed into doing what he considers wrong and I think every citizen of Quincy will agree with me, but if Mr. Faxon is making himself miserable because he is growing old what is to be done about it?

Miss Vining may run the Life Saving Station or an ice cart in Hull but she cannot come up to Quincy and try to push the democratic nominee before the public by slurring Mayor Bryant without the women of Quincy retaliating, for no small number of us have had occasion to go to Mayor Bryant for donations to this, that and the other thing, buy tickets, etc., and every one was graciously received and generously rewarded for their interview no matter what denomination or nationality. One lady in particular told me she went to Mayor Bryant to sell tickets for a charitable fair.

Knowing Mr. Bryant has previously donated money for same and was asked to buy a ticket, the Mayor asked her, how many she had, Mrs. H. said, "twenty-five." "Well," Mayor Bryant said, "you can leave them all, it is a worthy object." That is only one little instance but it shows how Mayor Bryant stands with the women of Quincy.

O no! Miss Vining the women of Quincy rise in indignation at such an article as was written by you in the Ledger and wish some good fairy would turn us into men for a few hours Dec. 2d, not so we could run the police department, a farm or an ice cart, but to just cast one vote for Mayor Bryant and let the good work continue.

IN FANCY DRESS.

Annual Carnival of Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor.

Thanksgiving eve was the occasion of a grand celebration in Music hall by the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor, No. 1.

The event was a fancy dress carnival and ball at which, notwithstanding the inclemency of the night, a large number of ladies and their friends were present.

The number who attended in fancy costume was not so large as on previous occasions of the kind; this defect was amply offset by the plentiful array of stylish and tasteful costumes which were so happily in evidence.

On this occasion the ladies enhanced the entertainment by awarding prizes to the wearers of the best and most striking character costumes worn by a lady and gentleman. Mr. and Mrs. McDonell of City Point, in the garbs of Indians, were successful in winning the coveted trophies, fine silk umbrella and a beautiful porcelain vase.

After the preliminary musical and promenade, the grand march was announced, at the head of which was floor directress, Miss Maggie Esson, and Mr. John Gauld as her escort. Leading on the left was assistant floor directress, Miss Elizabeth Black, attended by Mr. John Black. Following the completion of the bewildering evolutions of the many delighted and handsome couples that marched to the thrilling strains of Robinson's orchestra, were the dances, new and old, simple and complex, and all so wonderfully exciting and facinating as to hold in thrall and unwearied effort many nimble pairs of feet until "just before the break of day."

The aids on the floor were Jennie O'Hara, Lenora Gibb, Margaret McDonnell, Bessie Robbie, Mary J. Kennedy and Agnes S. Reynolds.

The duties of the reception committee were very ably discharged by the President, Mrs. Henrietta Marr, assisted by vice-president, Mrs. Maggie Hall. Committee of arrangements, presided over by the president, Mrs. Marr, included Margaret Hall, Belle Ross, Lizzie McIntosh, Margaret Allen and Margaret Ross, Mrs. Margaret Stronach being secretary. During the night refreshments were served by a committee of ladies in the dining rooms attached to the hall.

At early dawn of Thanksgiving day the Loyal Ladies added to their annals one more successful celebration of the season.

The order is to be congratulated on the ever increasing amount of good work it is enabled to accomplish within its ranks. The onerous position of president has never been more ably filled than by the present ever vigilant and painstaking incumbant, Mrs. Henrietta Marr.

Annual Ball.

The Nonpariel social club held its sixth annual concert and ball on Wednesday evening at St. Mary's hall. The stage was prettily decorated with potted plants and ferns and the hall was crowded with young people. A promenade concert was given by the orchestra from 8 to 9 o'clock and was followed by dancing until morning.

The feature of the evening was the grand march which was led by John Fitzgerald, president of the club, and his sister Miss Katharine Fitzgerald, followed by over a hundred couples.

President Fitzgerald had charge of the floor, and was assisted by Harry Lark, Alex. Souden and Max McIntosh and a large corps of aids.

—The whole vote for governor in Massachusetts this year was 398,689. Last year the vote for governor was 324,520. The whole vote for President in 1900 was 414,801. The population of Massachusetts in 1900 was 2,805,346.

Last Year's Vote for Mayor.

A summary of the vote for Mayor in Quincy last year will be of interest. C. M. Bryant carried four precincts, F. L. Jones five precincts and F. W. Tirrell one precinct, as follows:

	Bryant.	Jones.	Tirrell.	Turner.	Blanks.
Ward 1, Pre. 1,	120	152	45	20	7
Ward 1, Pre. 2,	128	174	111	7	6
Ward 2, Pre. 1,	68	80	56	1	2
Ward 2, Pre. 2,	110	89	101	17	5
Ward 3, Pre. 1,	101	170	134	16	1
Ward 3, Pre. 2,	84	206	50	39	1
Ward 4, Pre. 1,	164	55	132	24	10
Ward 4, Pre. 2,	114	100	137	19	8
Ward 5,	384	232	27	23	8
Ward 6,	274	95	101	40	9
	1547	1386	894	206	57

A comparison of the number of names on the voting lists for the municipal election this year with that of a year ago shows that there are 294 more names this year. The following table tells the story:

	1902.	1901.	Increase.

THANKSGIVING.

How the Holiday Was Observed at Quincy Institutions.

The Thanksgiving spirt prevailed at all the public homes of the city on Thursday as well as in the private ones.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

Thanksgiving day was quietly observed at the Quincy Hospital. A dinner appropriate to the day was served to those well enough to partake of it. There are a great many patients at the hospital at present but only a few could indulge in any feasting.

AT QUINCY HOME.

The unfortunates at the Quincy Home were given an old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner consisting of turkey and vegetables, plum pudding, nuts and fruit. There was plenty of it and it was as good a dinner as one could wish.

AT SAILORS' HOME.

At the National Sailors' Home the old sailors were treated to a turkey dinner with all the fixings. After dinner they gathered in the guard room and smoked their pipes and told sea yarns.

AT SNUG HARBOR.

At Sailors Snug Harbor the usual Thanksgiving dinner was served, together with all that goes to make up an ideal Thanksgiving dinner.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

A full house greeted the pastor of the United Presbyterian church last night at the Thanksgiving service. A collection was taken for the Hospital fund. The pastor announced that there would be no evening service on the Sabbath on account of the No-license rally at Music hall.

AT ATLANTIC.

The Thanksgiving service of the Memorial Congregational church of Atlantic was gladdened by the pastor's announcement that the Ladies' Benevolent society has added $250 to the church building fund out of the proceeds from The Newspaper fete. This makes the fund now amount to $396.

AT DEDHAM JAIL.

The prisoners at jail and house of correction at Dedham were treated by Sheriff Capen to a Thanksgiving dinner of turkey, plum pudding, etc. They were also given the liberty of the yard for awhile and indulged in foot ball.

AT QUINCY MANSION.

There was a merry Thanksgiving party at the Quincy Mansion school. The young ladies and friends gathered at Canterbury hall. A series of tableaux, entitled "The bachelor's dream," were presented.

AT WOLLASTON.

"Causes for Thanksgiving" was the subject of Dr. Willard's address at the union Thanksgiving service of the Wollaston societies at the Wollaston Unitarian church Thanksgiving afternoon. Rev. Jesse Wagner, Rev. C. P. Mills, Rev. E. D. Webber, Rev. E. A. Chase, Rev. H. G. Megathlin and Rev. F. W. Pratt also took part in the service.

Thanksgiving Fire.

The alarm from Box 43 at 5.30 Thursday afternoon called the fire department to a lively blaze on West street, and it was over an hour before the recall was sounded. The fire, which was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary, was in a large unoccupied house owned by James Nightingale. The fire had made good headway before it was discovered, and caused a loss of $500 before it was extinguished.

Difficult Digestion
That is dyspepsia.
It makes life miserable.
Its sufferers eat not because they want to, —but simply because they must.
They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise.
They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffy fulness, headache, heartburn and what not.
The effectual remedy, proved by permanent cures of thousands of severe cases, is

AFTER LONG YEARS...

By Zoe Anderson Norris

Copyright, 1902, by Zoe Anderson Norris

WHEN Gabrielle looked at the card they had brought her, she was for a moment puzzled.

Then she gave a little cry of joy.

"Courtney Griswold." And how many years had it been since she had seen him! So many it was impossible to count, and he waiting there while she made ready to go down.

She hurried. The glass reflected brilliantly excited eyes and cheeks that were red. She forgot the years and the difference they must have made in that reflection of hers, or she would not let herself think, for Gabrielle had partly learned the lesson of putting aside the thought of those things that hurt.

Ready, she ran half way down the stairs and stopped, peeping over the tall bronze figure at the foot of the banister, in whose uplifted hand was the torchlight of the jet, into the parlor.

"YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL AS EVER," HE SAID.

She could not see him from there, for the parlor was dark, or he sat hidden in another part of it.

She ran all the way down and entered.

He arose, advanced and, taking her by the elbows, pushed her back into the more brilliant light of the uplifted jet in the hall.

He looked down at her.

"I want to see you," he said. "I want to see how these long years have dealt with that beauty of yours."

She faced unflinchingly, since she must, the light of the lamp, together with the searchlight glance of his eyes.

The glance softened. It glowed. Through half closed lids he smilingly regarded her. His down dropped hands released her.

"You are beautiful as ever," he concluded. And she laughed.

"As if that could be," the laugh turning into a sigh, "after all these years."

He led her to a divan.

"Come, sit down by me," he insisted, "and let's talk about it—about those rare old days when I used to be with you."

"But first," she reminded him, "take off your overcoat and hat. Here. Let me help you. And stay an hour or two."

"Or three will be more like it, if I may."

"You may," she laughed back from the hall, where she had gone to hang up his coat and hat, "and longer."

He leaned forward listeningly.

"There is one thing I have heard through all these years," he said to her softly when she had taken the seat by his side.

"And that is?"

"Your laugh."

She hushed it, thinking how its echo had stayed with him through the years, breathlessly, reverently, wonderingly.

Her restless fingers toyed with the jeweled cords of a pompon she wore. She whirled them about, first this way and then that.

"Those dear old days," she began, "when you were my pupil—those rollicking old days! What fun they were!"

"And fancy your being a teacher—you, with your short hair curled about your face and your pretty gowns and your prettier ways and your big eyes and your laugh—above everything, your laugh!"

Showing some dimples in a smile, she turned suddenly grave.

"To tell the truth," said she, "my conscience doesn't lacerate me so much as to the art I taught. But of all the bluffs I ever perpetrated upon an unsuspecting public that bluff of teaching mechanical drawing was the most audacious, the most gigantic, the most—well, words fail me when I think of it; they actually do."

"They fail me, too," he assured her, "for I was the victim, the sole victim. When I think of the money I cheerfully paid out for the learning of absolutely"—

She threw back her head in another laugh.

"Say it if you want to!" she cried. "I don't care. It is only just. For nothing—for absolutely nothing."

"Why, when I think of it, I"—

"What?"

"I only wish I had it to pay all over again," he finished, caressing her with his eyes.

"That goes to show the reckless character of you," she averred, but was quiet a little while, thinking, warmed by his glance.

"The old studio," she commenced by and by, "with its wide north window, with its flowers on the sill that you and I watered."

"About all we did," he interrupted, "was to water those flowers."

"And the giant table you would drag in for your mechanical drawing—that huge, horrible table that took up all the room."

"I had it there," he apologized, "because it was the only way I could seem to get the worth of my money. Tell me," straightening himself, facing her squarely, looking her boldly in the eye, "did you ever hear of mechanical drawing before you struck that academy?"

"Once or twice," she acknowledged, "before I left Washington city, where I was studying, I heard the word."

"Once or twice!" he groaned. "And then to teach it! Of all things! Mechanical drawing!"

"I wrote to my teacher in Washington," Gabrielle continued, explaining, "asking her if she thought I could study it up from a book and teach it that way?"

"And what did she reply?"

"That if I could I would be a wonder worthy of traveling in a sideshow, and if I succeeded to let her know, because the thing would be little short of a miracle."

"And you attempted it after that?"

"I attempted it after that," she asserted, "and with success."

He slapped a resounding hand on a knee.

"With success!" he repeated, a grimace contracting the cords of his countenance. "Those hours I spent in racking my brain with problems of mechanical drawings impossible to solve! Those mornings I spent in drawing diagrams on boards, you, standing by, trying hard to look wise!"

"And all the time knowing less than you did."

"Less! I should go one better and say knowing nothing at all. And the poor old professor coming in from his classes now and again to help me out. Then to call it a success!"

"I call it a success," she reasoned demurely. "because you told me you'd be only too glad to pay the money all over again."

"You are right," he assented after a period of thought. "It was a success."

"The professor?" she questioned. "Do you think he ever caught on?"

"If he didn't, he hadn't the perspicacity I gave him credit for, and so far as perspicacity was concerned the professor was all right. He knew a thing or two when he could think of them. He often proved it. I shall never forget how he came unexpectedly down into the cellar at lunchtime one day and found four of us busily engaged in playing a game of cards. Playing cards, now, in an academy of religious principles so exceedingly strict! And that wasn't all. By the side of each sinner of us was a bottle of beer."

"Yes. And what did he do?"

"He expelled every last one of them with the exception of me. You can rest assured that there was no doubt about the perspicacity of the professor."

"If he hadn't worn celluloid collars—I forgave him everything but that."

"It was a minor matter. He was as good as gold. There was no flaw in him. Do you remember how regularly every Christmas time we made him a little present, and I was the spokesman?"

"Probably that was why he let you off so light."

"Dear old fellow!" she murmured.

Her fingers showed white in the dim light of the faroff lamp. Bending over, he looked at them.

"It's the same little cluster ring," said he, "isn't it?"

"The very same," holding up her hand for him to see.

"I remember. I wore it once. Have you forgotten?"

"When was it?" she queried.

"At one of those famous presentation speeches. You let me wear it on my little finger. It wouldn't fit the others.

ABOUT ALL WE DID WAS TO WATER THE FLOWERS.

You put it on yourself. In the middle of the speech I nearly forgot what I was going to say, catching sight of it."

She turned her eyes on him.

"Why?" she asked wonderingly.

"Because it was yours and because it was you who put it on."

She looked away from him.

"I never thought you cared so much," said she, "as that."

"You wouldn't think. You were willfully blind."

"No, you are wrong. I was not. I should have been glad to know. It might have saved me heartaches."

"Heartaches, girlie?"

"Yes, heartaches. Did I succeed so well in hiding them? Oh, if you only knew! Why, think, for one thing, of going straight from Washington city to that little western town all plank walks and windstorms and dust and cyclones! From the most beautiful of cities to—Don't let's talk about it! Not only that, but to be made to go to certain unhappiness there, to be dragged back in chains that all the more because they were unseen cut into the flesh, hurting, hurting!"

Her fingers had clinched into her palms.

Taking them up, he straightened them out and raised them to his lips.

"If it hurts you now, then don't let's talk about it," he said soothingly, as to a child.

With big, sad eyes she stared across at the mirror of the mantel.

"The only thing that kept me alive through that awful time," she went on, "was that little class at the academy. I threw myself into the fun of it, and I wasn't so bad a fraud as I seemed, either. What I lacked in knowledge of mechanical drawing I made up in art. I understood art. I drew well. I painted well. I had come from an excellent teacher. I had painted in galleries. My worst sin was against you."

"Don't let that worry you. I was glad enough to help you water those flowers, as I have told you."

"If you could have known how I rushed into the fun of it in order to forget, you would have been still more glad. Do you remember how Claude Raines used to spend his hour of drawing?"

"I only remember how indignant I was that he should have an hour of drawing to spend."

"He never drew a line. He merely repeated quotations from Shakespeare to catch me. He made me tell him what plays they were from. And wasn't he rejoiced when I made a mistake—when unfortunately I hit on the wrong play! He harped on it for weeks and weeks. What fun!"

"It seems to me," he mused, "that I remember one day when you and I were in the studio, just you and I alone. We had left an unfinished mechanical drawing on the blackboard and were watering those flowers, and— Have you forgotten?"

"I am afraid I have. Tell me."

"I leaned forward close to you, so close that I came near to touching your cheek."

"Yes, yes."

"Only those short curls of yours prevented it, those dear little curls that stood bushy about your head, making

HE DREW HER TO HIM.

it look like the heads of wax dolls you see in the windows of toyshops—almost too big for your shoulders, but pretty as pretty."

"It is a real pity they don't wear short hair now. I'd cut it off again and curl it since you like it so. Did you think it curled naturally?"

"I didn't care how it curled so it curled."

"I nearly burned my fingers off and my ears keeping it curled," she asserted. "Once I dropped the curling iron on my bare shoulder, and the scar stayed there for months. Then, when you touched my cheek, what happened?"

"Nothing. That was the worst of it. Nothing at all. But that was the nearest I ever came to kissing you."

"Why did you want to kiss me?"

"You ought to know."

Interlacing her fingers, she clasped them about her knee, rocking back and forth slightly.

"But I didn't know!" she sighed. "Oh, if I had known! If I had known! Why didn't you tell me?"

"You know why I didn't tell you. You were engaged to be married to another man."

"But it was an unhappy engagement, finally broken off. If I had known, what harm could it have done? I could have kept the thought in my heart all these years, and it would have warmed it maybe."

"I went away partly because of it."

"Without letting me know."

"A dozen times I was upon the point of telling you."

"Then, since you couldn't tell me, why didn't you write?"

"When I came to say goodby, I said something about writing, but you seemed indifferent."

"Never indifferent; just occupied with my own unhappiness, with my desperate effort to believe in this man to whom I was engaged, to make of him my ideal man, held to him as I was by the ties of betrothal, which should in my eyes be binding as marriage, knowing him all the time to be false. Never indifferent! I remember now when you went away. I grieved after you. You left an ache in my life. If you had only said you cared for me!"

"I not only cared for you then, but all these years I have kept you in my heart. And now that you are free"—

Her eyes dilated, listening.

"And now that I am free," she repeated.

"I have come to claim you."

He drew her to him, laid her head against his shoulder and smoothed back her hair.

"I will make it all up to you," he promised, his tones deep and tender. "I will wipe out every memory of your old unhappiness."

LETTER FROM PRESIDENT

Regarding Crum Appointment In Which He Plainly States That Negroes Have an Equal Chance With White Men If They Show Fitness

Washington, Nov. 28.—The president has sent the following communication to a prominent citizen of Charleston, under date of Nov. 26:

My Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of Nov. 10, and of one from Mr. S——, under date of Nov. 11, in reference to the appointment of Dr. Crum as collector of the port of Charleston.

In your letter you make certain specific charges against Dr. Crum tending to show his unfitness in several respects for the office sought. These charges are entitled to the utmost consideration from me, and I shall go over them carefully before taking any action. After making these charges you add, as a further reason for opposition to him, that he is a colored man, and after reciting the misdeeds that followed carpet-bag rule and negro domination in South Carolina, you say that "we have sworn never again to submit to the rule of the African, and such an appointment as that of Dr. Crum to any such office forces us to protest unanimously against this insult to the white blood," and you add that you understood me to say that I would never force a negro on such a community as yours. Mr. —— puts the objection of color first, saying, "First, he is a colored man, and that of itself ought to bar him from the office."

In view of these last statements I think I ought to make clear to you why I am concerned and pained by your making them and what my attitude is as regards all such appointments. How anyone could have gained the idea that I had said that I would not appoint reputable and upright colored men to office, when objection was made to them solely on account of their color, I confess I am wholly unable to understand. * * * North and south alike it has been my sedulous endeavor to appoint only men of high character and good capacity, whether white or black. But it has been my consistent policy in every state, where their numbers warranted it, to recognize colored men of good repute and standing in making appointments to office. These appointments of colored men have in no state made more than a small proportion of the total number of appointments. I am unable to see how I can legitimately be asked to make an exception for South Carolina. To the four most important positions in the state, I have appointed three men and continued in office a fourth, all of them white men—three of them originally gold Democrats—two of them, I am informed, the sons of Confederate soldiers. I have been informed by the citizens of Charleston whom I have met that these four men represent a high grade of public service.

I do not intend to appoint any unfit man to office. So far as I legitimately can I shall always endeavor to pay regard to the wishes and feelings of the people of each locality, but I cannot consent to take the position that the door of hope—the door of opportunity—is to be shut upon any man, no matter how worthy, purely upon the grounds of race or color. Such an attitude would, according to my convictions, be fundamentally wrong. If, as you hold, the great bulk of the colored people are not yet fit in point of character and influence to hold such positions, it seems to me that it is worth while putting a premium upon the effort among them to achieve the character and standing which will fit them.

The question of "negro domination" does not enter into the matter at all. * * * The question raised by you and Mr. —— in the statements to which I refer is simply whether it is to be declared that under no circumstances shall any man of color, no matter how upright and honest, no matter how good a citizen, no matter how fair in his dealings with all his fellows, be permitted to hold any office under our government. I certainly cannot assume such an attitude. It seems to me that it is a good thing from every standpoint to let the colored man know that if he shows in marked degree the qualities of good citizenship—the qualities which in a white man we feel are entitled to reward—then he will not be cut off from all hope of similar reward.

The Somali Campaign

Aden, Nov. 28.—General Manning's flying column relieved Bohotle, Somaliland, Nov. 19. He found 35 percent of the men composing the garrison suffering from malarial fever. The Mad Muliah is in the vicinity of Mudug, preparing to contest any advance of the British.

Street Car Overturned

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—A boy was instantly killed and a score of persons were injured yesterday at Hatfield by the overturning of a street car while rounding a curve. The brake failed to work. Three persons were seriously injured and one of them may die.

London, Nov. 28.—Commandants Kritzinger, Fouche and Joubert sailed for New York yesterday on board the steamer Manitou.

TACTLESS FANNY.

Janauschek's Reason For Opening Her Season In Syracuse.

A Syracuse man tells a story of Mme. Janauschek when she was a prominent star. The wily advance agent went to Syracuse a week or so before the local theater opened there for the season and proceeded to fill up the guileless newspaper men with the statement that Janauschek had said that she would open her season in that place or not at all. Her manager wanted Chicago, but offered to compromise on Boston or Philadelphia, but the madame was firm.

Naturally Syracuse was delighted at the honor. Janauschek got pages of advance notices, and when the opening night came the theater was packed as never before.

After the first act an ambitious reporter "went behind" to interview Mme. Janauschek.

"Syracuse feels very proud that you have started here this season," he said, "and my paper would like to tell the people for you why you have so honored us."

"Great heavens," said the tactless Fanny, "I had to open some place!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

How to Read History.

Perhaps the best way to read history is to take up the life of some great figure that attracts our imagination and be drawn by that into the study of the general stage upon which he was only a single actor. Certainly it is not a good plan to begin with those elaborate documentary histories in which you cannot see the wood for the trees. It is better to be wrong in a few of your facts or even contract a bias from some partisan historian than to lose yourself in a morass of documents, says Success.

The best histories are the vividest. If they occasionally lead you astray, you can always correct them by the more sober colored chronicles. Macaulay may have been prejudiced, and so may Froude, and so undoubtedly was Carlyle; so, again, was Gibbon; yet, none the less, these are the great historians, the historians who set you upon the peaks of time and enable you to see history as it lies beneath in wide views and broad masses.

Texas Vernacular.

"Speaking of Texas," said a young lawyer who once lived in the Lone Star State to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "reminds me of a peculiar conversation I heard in a grocery store a few years ago in one of the smaller places of the state, and the story will amply illustrate the peculiarities of the vernacular in certain more remote parts of Texas. I happened to be in the grocery store in question when a little girl came in to buy some eggs, and the following conversation was carried on between the girl and the keeper of the place: 'Ain't you got no eggs?' asked the little girl. 'I ain't said I ain't,' the storekeeper replied, whereupon the little girl replied after this fashion: 'I ain't ask you is you ain't you. I ask you is you is you. Ain't you?' That's the way they talk in some sections of the state. The little lassie who used the expression made herself clear and she got the eggs."

Punishment In Persia.

Among the Persians the usual mode of punishment is the bastinado, from which men of the highest rank are not exempt. It is inflicted with very great severity, frequently so as to render the sufferer almost a cripple for life. The victim is thrown upon his face and each foot is passed through a loop of strong cord attached to a pole, which is raised horizontally by men, who, twisting it round, tighten the ropes and render the feet immovable. Two executioners then strike the sole alternately with switches of the pomegranate tree well steeped in water to render them supple. A store of these switches is generally ready for use in the pond which adjoins the courtyards of the houses of the great. The punishment frequently lasts for an hour or until the unfortunate victim faints from pain.

Presence of Mind.

M. Grevy when president of France on one occasion extricated himself from a predicament with wonderful presence of mind. He was being conducted around the salon by an eminent artist, when he saw a painting which displeased him. "What a daub!" he exclaimed. "Whose is it?" "That picture, M. le President," said his cicerone, "it is my own work." "Ah!" said the president without any sign of embarrassment at his awkward mistake. "In our country, when we particularly wish to purchase a thing, we always begin by running it down." And, true to his part, he purchased the offending painting there and then.

His Many Thoughts.

"Don't you sometimes have thoughts," asked the soulful young thing, "that are absolutely unutterable?"

"I do, miss," answered the old poet. "And sometimes when I am digging for a rhyme that won't come I have thoughts that are absolutely unprintable."—Chicago Tribune.

Her Version of the Eden Incident.

"I suppose you regard Eve as to blame for tempting Adam to eat the apple?"

"Not at all," answered Miss Cayenne. "Eve was too generous to want the apple all for herself, and Adam was not gentleman enough to let her have it."—Washington Star.

NEWSPAPER MAN WANTED

To Give Evidence In Relation to the Marion Whitecapping

Plymouth, Mass., Nov. 28.—Thanksgiving day interrupted the trial of the now famous Marion tar and feathers case, which began Monday in the superior court here, and those who have followed the evidence look for a verdict before tomorrow night.

The prosecution rested its case Wednesday and before adjournment the plan of defense had been outlined by Attorney Cummings, and several witnesses had been heard in support of his claim that an alibi would be shown for each of the seven defendants. Of the 17 witnesses sworn by the defense, nine already have been heard, but it is thought several more may be called before the final summing up. It is understood that a still hunt is in progress for a certain newspaper man who visited the sandpit the day after the alleged assault upon McDonald. Deputy Sheriff Hurley, who had charge of the investigation for the district attorney, one of the last witnesses called by the government, testified that when he visited the pit, he found at one point feathers and tar covering five or six square feet of ground. He did not preserve any of these tar-smeared feathers for use in the trial. Incidentally he mentioned the fact that a certain newspaper man, whose name he could not recall, accompanied him at the time.

In the absence of samples of the feathers, Mr. Cummings pressed the witness as to what efforts had been made to learn the identity of his companion. It is understood an attempt is being made to locate the unknown young man that he may be produced in court in case his testimony on this point is desired.

Aged Couple Burned to Death

Newport, R. I., Nov. 28.—Benjamin Watson and his wife, Elizabeth, an aged couple, lost their lives in a fire that entirely destroyed their small cottage. Mrs. Watson, in going up stairs with a lighted lamp in her hands, made a misstep and fell. The lamp exploded and the burning oil set fire to her clothing, burning her to death. Her husband, who was sick in a chamber on the second floor, was suffocated before aid could reach him.

Burglars Work Unmolested

New Haven, Nov. 28.—Burglaries in the aristocratic section of the city have occurred nearly every night for the past two weeks and the inability of the police to apprehend the burglars has caused considerable alarm. The house of Joseph Porter is the latest one entered and about $600 worth of jewelry was taken. Nearly all of the burglaries have been the work of second story men.

Bank Robbers Foiled

Middlebury, Vt., Nov. 28.—An unsuccessful attempt to rob the First National bank was made at Orwell, a small town remote from railroads and about 25 miles from here. The robbers used dynamite and blew off the outer doors of the vault, but failed to penetrate the inner door, which is of steel, two inches thick. They left no clew. In the safe was $12,000 and valuable papers.

Brutally Treated by Son

Great Barrington, Mass., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Ellen Brown, who was stabbed, pounded and kicked by her son, Joseph, Wednesday, is in a critical condition, sinking spells diminishing her chances for recovery, although the physicians have not given up hope. The son is in the lockup, sullen in his disposition, and apparently indifferent to his arraignment in court.

Three Bodies Still Missing

North Scituate, R. I., Nov. 28.—A reward of $75 has been offered for the recovery of the bodies of Ernest W. Perry, Albert C. Brewster and Miss Elizabeth I. Moon, who were drowned in Lake Moswansicut last Saturday night. Large quantities of dynamite have been exploded in the water and the lake has been dragged without success.

Fearing Furnishes Bail

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 28.—Andrew J. Fearing, who was arrested at the time Mrs. George Huber of New York was shot and killed by her husband at Monterey on Sept. 14, on a charge growing out of his alleged elopement with the woman, has furnished $1000 bail and been released from the house of correction.

CANAL NEGOTIATIONS

Expected to Remain Hung Up For an Indefinite Period

THE END OF CONCESSIONS

So Far as the State Department Is Concerned—Nicaragua and Costa Rica Not Disposed to Be Used to Coerce Colombia Into a Bargain

Washington, Nov. 26.—The cabinet meeting yesterday was devoted almost exclusively to the consideration of the status of the reciprocity treaty with Cuba, and the canal treaty with Colombia. The hitches that have occurred in the negotiations were discussed as also were the prospects of settlement.

Secretary Hay, in presenting the subject of the canal negotiations to the cabinet, was not able to report that any progress had been made during the past week. In fact, it appears that the negotiations have come to a dead stop, and, while no such thing as an ultimatum has passed, the present situation may be described in the statement that the Colombian minister here, Concha, has distinctly informed the state department that he cannot in behalf of his government accept the last proposition of the United States as the basis of a canal treaty. The state department has already let it be known that it has come to the end of its concessions, so the chances of a renewal of the negotiations in the near future are not very bright.

This state of affairs will stimulate the negotiations with Nicaragua and Costa Rica for the alternate route, but it now appears that the diplomatic representatives of those countries are not disposed to allow themselves to be used to coerce Colombia and therefore are desirous of remaining in the background until it shall be clearly established that no treaty can be made between Colombia and the United States.

One of the statements of fact in connection with the Panama route which has been brought to the attention of the state department is that the original canal concessions will expire in 1904, and it has been suggested that the Colombian government has that fact in mind and is disposed to refrain from making a treaty now in the expectation that the franchise will lapse and it thus may be in a position to build the canal itself or to sell on a new concession. Such a course would raise very serious difficulties.

President Roosevelt laid before the cabinet his annual message to congress in completed form. It was sent to the printer yesterday. Most of the features of the document were familiar to the members of the cabinet and only such parts of the message as had not been considered previously were read in full.

Municipal Code Bill Upheld

Cincinnati, Nov. 26.—The first attack on the constitutionality of the recently enacted municipal code bill for Ohio men with defeat in the court of common pleas yesterday. The case was brought at the request of a tax payer to test the law. Judge Murphy overruled the plaintiff's demurrer to the answer, thus sustaining the constitutionality of the law on all points raised. It is understood the case will be appealed to the supreme court to settle the point of constitutionality finally.

SEVEN TO ONE

From reports received we figure that one bottle of Scott's Emulsion sometimes builds seven times its weight of solid, healthy flesh! Why is this so?

Because Scott's Emulsion is itself the richest and most digestible of foods.

Because Scott's Emulsion gives strong appetite.

Because Scott's Emulsion makes all good food do good—strong stomach—strong digestion.

Because Scott's Emulsion wakes up the dormant system—new life to the tissues—so that the body uses it's food for bone making and flesh building.

THE COUNTY JOB.

Eight Applicants for Position as Custodian.

At the meeting of the County Commissioners Tuesday eight applications were received for the position of custodian of County buildings. The applicants included one each from Stoughton, Canton, Dedham, Wellesley and Hyde Park and three from Quincy. The three Quincy applicants are William M. Marden, Thomas F. Burke and J. Stillman Fisher.

No definite action was taken on the applications. It was, however, decided to summons the applicants before them next week for an interview, at which it will be fully explained what the position means.

The Commissioners feel that when the applicants realize what the position means and what they have to do, that many of them will withdraw, as some who have had the duties explained to them have already done.

MILTON.

Thanksgiving services were held at the Congregational church Thanksgiving morning.

William B. Tinker has gone to Canada on a gunning trip.

Football Game.

A good exhibition of the strenuous life will be given at Ward 3 Park on Saturday, Nov. 29, when the Quincy Association football club will line up against their old rivals namely the Wanderers of Lynn.

The visitors intend to put their very best team on the field, and as the home team is in good condition a very interesting contest will be the result.

There is a good deal of excitement in South Quincy regarding the merits of both teams, and the Lynn team having quite a number of backers in Quincy, there will be a large crowd of spectators. All lovers of good, clean sport should be present. The kick-off will be at three o'clock sharp.

League Schedule.

A Norfolk County league has been organized by the Granite City club of Quincy, the North Quincy club of Norfolk Downs, and the Braintree club of Braintree which will play a tournament in billiards, pool, whist and bowling. George D. Finnegan is president, and Arthur W. Loud secretary and treasurer. The schedule follows:

Dec. 4, North Quincy at Granite City Club.

He will be missed by many of his Quincy and Hyde Park friends, and they all wish him success. He is a graduate of the Chandler Normal Shorthand School, Boston.

TO The

PEOPLE OF QUINCY.

A PROCLAMATION BY E. J. MURPHY, PHARMACIST.

Whereas, the people of our city have been led to purchase so-called remedies from which they have received no benefit whatever, and having thus wasted so much hard-earned money, it has come to a pass where they knew not what to believe.

Inasmuch as this unsatisfactory state of affairs now exists, know, therefore, all persons who are in need of a medicine for any of the following ailments, that we will supply them with our new Wine of Cod Liver Oil,—Vinol, on a positive guarantee that if it does not succeed in benefiting them, we will refund the entire amount of money they have laid out on the medicine.

There is no one medicine that will cure everything, but there are some we know to be honest, reliable and of great curative value. Such is VINOL; it is not a patent or secret medicine,— everything in it is plainly printed on the label. We are familiar with every particle of it, and know that it should be a blessing to all persons who have troubles hereinafter described; and unlike other medicines, it will cost absolutely nothing if it produces no benefit.

Could any offer be more fair than this? You are ill; we offer you medicine which we believe in our hearts will be a blessing to you, and if it is not we will return to you every penny you paid us. Is there anyone foolish enough not to accept this offer? If you are ill and need such a medicine you owe it to your family, to your friends, and yourself to try this medicine which we give you our pledge is a genuine new discovery and a preparation of great merit.

Do you think we could afford to lend our name to its praises, as we have been doing in the newspapers if we did not know VINOL to be an honest and unusually valuable remedy for the ills for which it is prescribed. We certainly could not; we therefore ask you, our neighbors, friends and acquaintances to accept our assurances that this is a genuine offer, and that any and all persons who need a medicine of this character should feel a sense of security in our offer.

RUN DOWN.

If you feel all worn out, have very little appetite, and not much sleep, caused by over-work or sickness, try VINOL on our guarantee.

DEBILITY.

Why drag out an existence without life or ambition. It is not natural to feel continually tired. We guarantee VINOL will bring life, strength and vigor to the debilitated. If you do not feel well try VINOL. If it does not help you your money will be refunded.

GAIN FLESH.

If you need to we believe you can do so without taking disagreeable Cod Liver Oil. Fat taken into the system does not create fat. We believe VINOL will create flesh quicker than any preparation containing grease. Try it on our guarantee.

DYSPEPSIA.

Only those who actually suffer know its terrors, for them life is robbed of all joy. It produces many serious complications and enfeebles the entire system. Relief only comes when a scientific remedy enables the stomach to properly assimilate food. There is no medicine that will do this so successfully as VINOL. Try it on our guarantee.

OLD PEOPLE

need a strengthening and invigorating rebuilder. VINOL is of exceptional value in such cases. We guarantee it to give strength and health to the weak and debilitated, either from disease or old age. Try it on our guarantee.

PALE WOMEN

and children need a tonic-reconstructor that will create flesh and make pure red blood. Pale, haggard faces show that the blood is poor and thin, and also indicates imperfect digestion. VINOL will correct such troubles as sure as the sun shines. Try it on our guarantee. Children love VINOL, it is so delicious.

BRONCHITIS

often ends fatally unless specially cared for in its early stages. There is nothing in medicine more valuable for restoring health to the throat and lungs than VINOL, Wine of Cod Liver Oil. Try it on our guarantee.

CONSUMPTION.

Do you fear consumption? Have you tendencies that make you dread this terrible disease? Our new Wine of Cod Liver Oil — VINOL, will surely cure consumption if taken at a reasonably early stage. Try it on our guarantee.

NERVOUSNESS.

Diseased nerves are due to over-work, insufficient nourishment or slow breaking down of general health. We guarantee VINOL, Wine of Cod Liver Oil, to permanently and effectually cure nerve affections; it actually rebuilds the entire body. Try it on our guarantee.

HACKING COUGH.

A sure sign of danger ahead. One might as well commit suicide as to let it go unchecked. VINOL is the very medicine needed. Unlike other Cod Liver Oil preparations, it does not upset the stomach, and it is delicious to the taste. Try it on our guarantee.

NURSING MOTHERS.

If women with nursing babies who have difficulty in keeping up their health and strength would take VINOL, we know positively that the best results would be obtained. Try it on our guarantee. You know the life and future development of the child depends upon proper nourishment.

TRY ON OUR GUARANTEE,

Vinol
WINE OF COD-LIVER-OIL.

When the Blood is Poor
When More Flesh is Needed
When the Weak Need Strength or
The Throat and Lungs Repairing

We stake our reputation on this offer being genuine. You will absolutely be under no obligation to us whatever, if after you have given VINOL a fair trial for any of the above ailments and have not received any benefit; you have only to tell us so, and we will return the entire amount of money you have paid us.

You see our faith in VINOL, and you must admit that we know something about medicine; therefore, when we tell you that VINOL is the most valuable preparation of Cod Liver Oil we have ever known, and a wonderful tonic-reconstructor and rebuilder of strength, appetite and health, at the same time delicious to taste, we are not unreasonable to expect you to believe us.

THE SOCIAL REALM.

Blow, blow, thou winter wind;
Thou art not so unkind
As man's ingratitude;
Thy tooth is not so keen
Because thou are not seen,
Although thy breath be rude.
Freeze, freeze, thou bitter sky,
Thou dost not bite so nigh
As benefits forgot;
Though thou the waters warp,
Thy sting is not so sharp
As friend remembered not.

Randolph's Venerable Citizen.

Hon. J. White Belcher, well known to many citizens in Quincy, having been in past years the popular clerk of the District Court held in this city, observed his seventy-ninth birthday, Nov. 14, in a quiet, happy way at his home on North Maine street, Randolph.

The Register says: "Mr. Belcher has been so closely identified with the interests of Randolph,—more than sixty years,—that the mere fact speaks for itself; but when we say he has served the town as selectman, water commissioner, and filled other offices; served as representative and senator in State's halls of legislations; and for fifty years been identified with insurance, being president of two companies in Dedham, we can look upon Mr. Belcher as one of our most honorable and esteemed citizens."

More Miles.

The returns of the Old Colony street railway to the Assessors show that on Sept. 1 the company operated in Quincy 25.017 miles of track against 23.233 miles Sept. 1, 1901. The railroads franchise tax this year amounts to $2,971.08, against $2,668,78 for 1901.

—George Pierce of Newport, superintendent of the marine construction department of the Fall River line is dead.

MELLEN BRAY CO.

Will It Bring United Shoe Machinery to Quincy?

A newspaper rumor has it that the Mellen Bray Co. of Wollaston has been absorbed by the United Shoe Machinery Co. This might be bad news for Quincy, if true, but a prominent member of the corporation says that the outside public seemed to know more about the corporation than those inside.

It is unlikely that the present plant at Wollaston will be vacant at any event and it is quite possible that the whole plant of the United Shoe Company may come to Quincy instead of Beverly. Wollaston is more accessible to Boston, and there is an opportunity to enlarge the acreage of the Tubular Rivet work.

Holiday Foot Ball.

A holiday crowd gathered at Merrymount park Thursday morning hoping to see an exciting game of foot ball. In this they were disappointed, since Boylston A. A. who were to play Wollaston A. A. failed to show up. A game was played after some delay between the Wollastons and a picked team composed mostly of High school players. The way the little fellows held their opponents and scored a touchdown pleased the crowd immensely. The final score was 28 to 7 in favor of Wollaston.

Problem for Ship Builders.

The Maryland Steel Company has begun jacking up the big Atlantic Transport steamer Missouri, which had her hull warped and the launching ways under her destroyed by fire. Scores of cribs of railroad ties have been placed under the ship to make foundations for the jacks. The powerful screws extend up to the wedges placed against the hull. Over 200 jacks have been placed under the hull a few feet apart, along the hull frames. The first problem will be to right the ship from a list of two feet to port. Then the stern is to be lifted several feet to permit launching. The hull as it now stands weighs 6,000 tons, and presents a problem new to ship builders, as the giant is 600 feet long.—Herald.

The SANTA CLAUS HELPERS

A CHRISTMAS PLAYLET FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

By MINERVA SPENCER HANDY

Copyright, 1902, by Minerva Spencer Handy

[This playlet for Sunday schools is not difficult to prepare, and its presentation would make a great hit at Christmas time.]

THE costumes may be effectively made by using crape tissue paper or tarlatan, both materials being of slight cost.

The superintendent tells the children of a wonderful secret that he has learned. It is how Santa Claus manages to trim so many trees in one night. He advises them to keep their eyes open, as they will soon see some remarkable things in this room. Suddenly he is interrupted by a hurried entrance of a district messenger boy, in regulation costume, buttons, etc., complete. He hands a book to the superintendent, who signs it. The boy takes it and rushes out. Then the superintendent reads:

North Pole, Dec. 24, 1902.

Dear Children—Am just leaving home and cannot reach Sunday school until late. I had to pay a visit to Fairyland on important business, which delayed my starting. SANTA CLAUS.

After commenting briefly upon this message, the superintendent should mention that it is growing cold in the room and ask some one to see if there is not a door open somewhere. Before the request can be carried out a boy about six years old, dressed to represent Jack Frost, dances in. His costume should be of white (a summer pique suit will answer), and some cotton batting sewed on will add to the frost effect; a sprinkling of the powder used to make Christmas trees sparkle will prove a good suggestion for frost. He recites:

I'm Jack Frost; all you grown folks surely know me,
The merriest little fellow in all the world about.
The children know and love me and are always glad to see me,
For I bring fun and frolic and make them laugh and shout.

Good Santa's growing pretty old, so I'm to represent him
And find out if these children deserve a Christmas tree.
Tell me, sup'rintendent, do you think they've earned the good things
Santa's worked all year in making that they should happy be?

Superintendent nods in the affirmative.

You think they do? I'm glad indeed to carry news so cheering.
[Starts to leave.]
I must away to other schools, for that is just and right.
Then telegraph to Santa, who awaits my message, telling
How many toys and presents he must bring with him tonight.

While I feel strong and mighty I can't do all to my liking,
But must summon to assist me my little flakes of white.
They and I will try our very best to make a splendid snowfall
For Santa and his reindeer to travel here this night. [Exit Jack Frost.]

The superintendent descends from the platform, remarking, "I must come down at once and see all the marvelous things that are going to happen here."

Some one plays a few bars on the piano to cover any awkwardness the children may feel upon first viewing the audience.

Four tiny girls from the infant class appear dressed to represent Snow Flakes. Their costumes should be of white, with capes, hoods and muffs. Tufts of cotton sewed on suggest snow. Each child in turn recites one of these verses:

We have come a long way from our home in the north,
Where the ice and the snow ever stay.
Jack Frost gave his order: "Haste! Whiten the earth
This eve of Christ's coming." We flew to obey.

While not very big, we have learned this great lesson,
That small folks can do greater deeds than you'd dream,
By our patient endeavor to help one another,
See how like a bride we have made the world seem!

At first we were timid, then thought of our mission
To make Christmas time a season of mirth.
Santa never could get here if we failed in making
A deep fall of snow cover old Mother Earth.

If little Snow Flakes are given the pleasure
To wish merry Christmas to folks great and small,
We wish it with will, and we wish it with might
A glad, joyous Christmas to each one, to all!

Enter Christmas Fairy. A girl of fourteen is preferable. Her costume is yellow, her hair loose. She carries a wand and has gold slippers and wings. These may be easily fashioned of gold paper. She says:

"I have just returned from a visit to Santa Claus, and he told me to be sure to tell you that all good children should soon see how Christmas trees are made. He ordered me to call on all Fairyland for helpers, and I have done so. We both want you to remember that Christmas is not merely a time for present getting and giving, but is a time to make others happy. Christ, whose birthday we are celebrating, said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive,' and I hope you will all strive to make some one less fortunate than yourselves happy tonight."

Enter district messenger, doing as he did in the first instance. Superintendent reads to school this message:

North Pole, Dec. 24, 1902.

Have been again delayed in getting off. I found so much to do at the last minute. Had all the drums to head and the hobby-horses to tail, and your candy boxes had to be stuffed a little fuller. I still hope to reach you tonight. SANTA CLAUS.

The Fairy now lifts her wand and summons the Evergreens, who enter to the music of the piano—four girls dressed in green, their gowns trimmed with holly berries in any fanciful way desired. A spray of the same should be in their hands or in little baskets. They recite in turn:

We've braved the cold and biting blast
And tried not to succumb;
Held heads and berries high aloft,
Till Christmas time should come.

The earth, we're told, would dreary be
At this time of the year
If holly, moss and mistletoe
Should fail to reappear.

Perhaps our reds and brilliant greens
May help the Christmas cheer,
For merry hearts and willing hands
Go with us year by year.

We deck the homes and churches fair
That celebrate the birth
Of him who came to share the sin
And sorrow of the earth.

The next group of children represent Stars. Four girls compose the group and wear striped gowns and big silver stars cut from paper. A star is arranged on their breasts and one fastened to a crown on their foreheads. At their entrance the children already on the platform sing to the melody used in the kindergarten book called "Songs and Games for Little Ones:"

Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How we wonder what you are,
Up above the world so high,
Like a diamond in the sky.

The Stars respond:

We are travelers in the dark,
Sending out a tiny spark,
Helping men to look above
To the God of peace and love.

Then the Stars, Evergreens and Snow Flakes march round the platform, executing various military movements. Even the simplest will prove effective as the pretty colors of their costumes mingle. At the end they arrange themselves into a star with the Fairy in the center. "The Star Spangled Banner," which the children sing, is played on the piano, the Fairy unfurling a United States flag over the tableau, which she has up to this time concealed.

Six retire to one side of platform and six to the other.

Then speaks the Fairy:

"The Snow Flakes, Evergreens and Stars have certainly done their share in making nature beautiful. Is there any one else that would like to add good cheer to Christmas?"

Four boys enter, dressed to represent turkeys. Red tails and combs made of paper and strings of cranberries round their necks, with boutonniere of celery, render them picturesque. They recite:

We may not be so handsome
As our sisters sweet and dear,
But 'twould be a dull old Christmas
If the turkeys were not near.

We've stuffed ourselves to bursting
For a month before the time
And had a heap of trouble
To keep ourselves in line.

Thanksgiving season threatened,
Then the parson came to tea;
We feared another Christmas
We nevermore should see.

But here we are and hope that you've
Prepared for all a store
Of puddings, cel'ry, cakes and pies.
Could mortal wish for more?

They arrange themselves among the children as effectively as possible. Enter four girls representing Pop Corn. They are dressed in pink, draped with strings of white popcorn. They recite each in turn:

FIRST.

Not long since we were grains of corn,
Not fair nor useful very;
We heard of Christmas, wished that we Could help to make it merry.

SECOND.

The Queen of all the Fairies heard
And said: "Be not despairing.
If you've the will, I'll make the way;
In joy all must be sharing."

THIRD.

We hopped and popped and never stopped;
We laughed and burst in glee,
Till here we are, quite ready now
To drape your stately tree.

FOURTH.

The fairies strung us all in rows.
"Folks like you so," they said.
And Santa ordered, "Get a lot
Of popcorn white and red!"

Messenger boy reappears. Superintendent reads the following telegram:

Greenland, Dec. 24, 1902.

Dear Children—Was afraid I could not reach you tonight, as Prancer and Vixen shied at a polar bear and spilled out all your toys. If this snowfall continues, I hope to be with you soon.
SANTA CLAUS.

Four little girls enter, representing the glittering ornaments used in decorating Christmas trees. Any colored gown will answer, so long as gilded balls, toys and shimmering tinsel be employed. They recite in unison:

We're beautiful toys
For girls and boys,
So lovely, you'll surely agree;
No place upon earth
Gave us our birth;
From the land of the fairies came we.

We glitter and shine
By night and day time
So brilliant you'd surely think we
Were made of pure gold
And jewels untold,
But we're not—only toys for your tree.

To brighten the way
And make the hearts gay
Of children who love Christmas day.
Our beauty we lend,
Best efforts expend;
Do you think we shall be in the way?

"No, indeed," the Fairy assures them. "Just take your places with the other helpers," motioning to the rear of the platform.

Enter four boys representing Santa Claus in miniature. They must present jolly, round stomachs, wear white beards and wigs and have red cheeks and noses. Small packs, with protruding toys and tiny Christmas trees, should be carried on their shoulders. They sing to the tune of "Jingle Bells" (chorus):

Beards as white as driven snow,
Noses red as red can be,
Clad in furs from head to toe,
Lips that whistle merrily.
[Whistle in interlude.]
Trumpets, whips and drums and noise,
Tops and dolls and puzzles queer;
Jumping jacks and other toys;
Jolly Santa Claus is here.

Messenger enters, as before; superintendent reads telegram:

[Some Place Near], Dec. 24, 1902.

Dear Girls and Boys—Good, stiff breeze is blowing. Have found my way again. Will be with you shortly.
SANTA CLAUS.

One of the junior Santa Clauses turns to Fairy and says: "Santa Claus is almost here. We've no time to lose. Is all ready? Are all the helpers here?" (Looks around.) "Why, where are the candles?"

Four little girls appear dressed as candles. They each wear a different color, carrying candles and having toy candles arranged about them in any fanciful way desired.

They recite in unison:

All the earth has lent its beauties
That Christ's coming may be bright.
Some place surely waits our coming;
Dark the tree without our light.

Our sole talent lies in showing
Glories of your Christmas tree.
Christ himself was proud to do this;
Should we not, then, happy be?

Where he was no darkness shadowed;
Sin and evil flew away;
May we ever strive to scatter
Peace and light upon our way.

[Withdraw and mingle with other children, who may stand or be seated, as desired.]

Another of the junior Santa Clauses addresses the Fairy, saying: "I do not think Santa will appear while the children are awake. You would better summon the God of Sleep."

The Fairy stretches out her wand, saying, "Enter the God of Sleep." There appears a tall boy, wrapped in a dark gray cloak thrown over his face, almost concealing it. He throws imaginary dust from beneath his cloak into the children's eyes, the piano playing softly, "Our Balls Are Going To Bye-low-land." (Music in kindergarten book of "Songs and Games For Little Ones.") All rub their eyes, and slowly swaying from side to side in time to the music sing:

Children must go to Bye-low-land;
Their drooping eyes are filled with sand.
Rocking so gently to and fro,
All little ones to sleep must go.
Bye-low, Bye-low! Going to rest in Bye-low-land.

The song dies away in silence and the piano continues softly playing for a few minutes. Then outside faintly sound sleighbells, growing more distinct and louder until a commotion is heard; with vigorous stamping of feet Santa Claus bounds in. The children awake and form two circles around Santa Claus. To the tune of "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush" they sing:

Jolly Santa Claus is here,
Claus is here, Claus is here;
Jolly Santa Claus is here,
And it is Christmas morning.

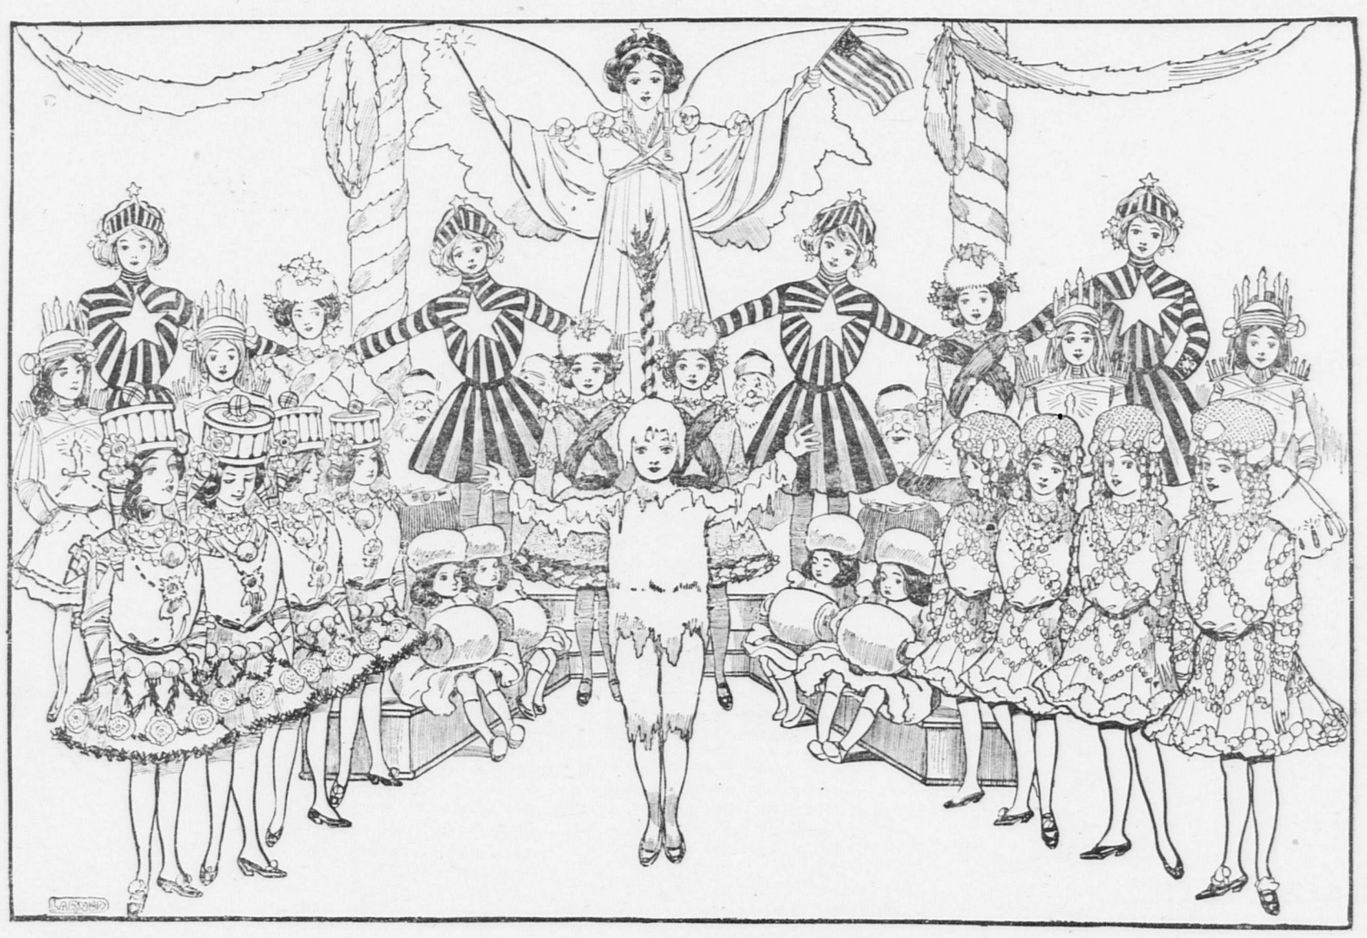

Santa smiles approvingly upon the children and jokingly tells them he was mightily afraid he was not going to get here at all, but he did, thanks to the snow the little fairy flakes made for him. "Now I am here, what do you want me to do for you? Give you presents and candy and a Christmas tree? That's a good joke. Ho, ho, ho! Ha, ha, ha!" [Shakes with laughter.]

"First, let me thank the Christmas Fairy who has sent so many of her subjects to help me. And my little Santa Clauses—aren't they fine little chaps? Everything is ready, I see, so it will only take me a few minutes to put on the finishing touches."

To the music of "Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush," to which the children sing as before, "Jolly Santa Claus Is Here," Santa disappears, followed by the children that are taking part.

To fill in the pause the congregation could sing "Antioch," "Joy to the world, the Lord has come," when the tree is displayed. Whether a large or small one be employed, it must have been concealed until now.

Santa appears as if in the act of descending, and the junior Santa Clauses are near by. The presents and candy are then handed by him to the juniors, who distribute them to the school.

SAYS TRIAL IS UNFAIR

Counsel For Alleged Whitecaps Waxes Wroth

TILT WITH PROSECUTOR

Over Latter's Demand In Presence of Jury For Warrant For Arrest of Man Who Is Said to Own Rig Used by Tar and Feathers Crowd

Plymouth, Mass., Nov. 29.—"That concludes the evidence for the prosecution, and if it please the court, I would ask that, in view of the evidence presented by the government in rebuttal, the court take any measures that it may consider necessary to detain Robert E. Hiller, and insure his appearance before the grand jury."

With these words, District Attorney French brought to a sensational close the hearing of testimony in the famous Marion tar and feathers case. But while it marked the end of the testimony, it also brought to pass a heated debate between the district attorney and Mr. Cummings, senior counsel for the seven men of Marion who have been on trial nearly a week charged with riot and assault upon James McDonald and Mrs. Clara Potter. The debate ended by the court issuing a bench warrant ordering Hiller to recognize in the sum of $1000 for his appearance before the February grand jury. But those few minutes brought to a climax the case which has been a constant topic for conversation in this county for nearly four months. When court reopened yesterday after the Thanksgiving recess, the expectation was for a sensation, and as it did not come by noon the anticipatory talk died away. Accordingly, when Mr. French addressed the court and asked for the arrest of Mr. Hiller, a livery stable man of Marion, the surprise was genuine.

Deputy Sheriff Hurley was recalled. He stated that on Aug. 17 he went to Hiller's stable and that Robert E. Hiller was there. The deputy asked Hiller which horse they took out the night before. Hiller went into the stable, went to a stall and indicated the horse. The animal was almost a white one. Witness said that Hiller told him that the wagon which they used was out behind the barn for two or three days after the affair and then it disappeared. Hiller said that the first he knew about the horse being gone was the next day, as both he and his men were away the night before. Deputy Sheriff Wheeler corroborated the statement of Deputy Hurley.

Mr. French's cross-examination was sharp and vigorous and his questions incisive, especially when aimed at Hiller. Against this witness question after question flashed out and before leaving the stand Hiller displayed not a little nervousness. The government put on four witnesses in rebuttal to corroborate direct evidence that tar and feathers were found in the sand pit on Aug. 7. The moment District Attorney French had made this point clear he announced the government's case to be closed. Then came the sensational argument over Hiller. Attorney Cummings jumping to his feet and saying:

"I protest against this proceeding It seems at least that if the district attorney thought the circumstances warranted him in demanding the arrest of the witness, he should at least have waited until the jury had retired. There is every facility here for taking the proper steps in the proper way, and the course taken by the district attorney convinces me that the move was made primarily with the object of influencing the jurors against these defendants and these witnesses."

"I still make the request," said the district attorney.

Mr. Cummings was plainly angry, when he continued: "I had hoped since the beginning that these defendants would be given a fair trial, and that the jury could be permitted to agree upon a verdict solely upon the evidence as presented."

"They'll get a fair trial, all right," answered Mr. French.

"But this is not a fair trial," said Mr. Cummings, "and I again protest against this high-handed proceeding. If you desired merely to detain Mr. Hiller, it was not necessary for you to demand a warrant for his arrest in the presence of the jury. Mr. Hiller is a man of good standing and considerable property. Even if he had left the court room he could have easily been found. And he has no wings—nor feathers—to get out of Plymouth before the arm of the law could reach him."

Turning to the judge, who was poring over several law books, Mr. Cummings continued: "I believe it is within the discretion of the court to act or not in this matter, and I ask that such discretion be exercised."

To this Judge Harris replied that the statutes provided for only two alternatives when a prosecuting officer asks for such a warrant—either to order the prisoner committed, or order him to recognize for his appearance at a later date. "In this case," the court said, "I prefer the latter course, and I order Mr. Hiller to furnish sureties in the sum of $1000 for his appearance before the February grand jury."

A moment later Hiller appeared at the bar accompanied by Judah Hathaway and Matthew H. Cushing. They were accepted as sureties and Hiller was released.

Good Afternoon.

Over 25 miles of street railway in our city. Evidently, Quincy covers considerable of this earth.

The President is not much of a hunter of turkeys, bears and such small game, but he is great on wildcats.

This will probably be known in the future as the age of microbes. Now one has been discovered which destroys glass.

Some have envied John L. Sullivan and other pugilists, the large stakes they sometimes win, or are reported to have won. A liberal discount can usually be made. But riches which come quickly go quickly, and now Sullivan is in bankruptcy with only two suits of clothes as assests.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Trusts will not be killed by denunciations in the mouths of demagogues—nor will labor unions be destroyed by denunciations in the mouths of those who believe in the "divine right of the dollar." There is great vitality in the principle of combination on both sides. What people must do is to see that organizations of capital and labor are regulated—so far as they can safely be regulated in a free country—to the end that individual liberty be preserved and the general good advanced. This can only be done by dispassionate study of the question, divesting it of those elements that foster prejudice and prevent calm discussion. It cannot be done by calling names—Wall Street Journal.

☞Tell your friend you mean to spend your life fighting for money and power, and he will, if he be an average man, applaud your decision; tell him you mean to dwell in the country, gaining a simple livelihood from your labor, and he will either not believe you mean it, or will conclude you are a beaten competitor in the city's race. Most people do not know they are the slaves of their modern improvements, so-called. They build houses larger than they can occupy—for show; they pinch and scrape year after year to pay for them, and after that continue pinching to pay taxes, repairs and other maintenance charges. A large house demands expensive furniture. Then fine dress. And the demands increase. The man keeps his nose on the grindstone, the woman wears herself out taking care of the fine feathers. No time to just live and enjoy it: got to make a show first—going to take a real rest, and cut off all the little vanities next winter—next summer—some other time, when matters are not quite so pressing. I am not exactly a loafer, but I like Walt Whitman best of all our American writers, because he had sense enough to "loafe and invite his soul" once in a while. I am tired of hearing the everlasting preachers of the "strenuous" life. Go slower, and you'll go farther and enjoy it better. Don't live to work: work to live. Bread and butter work, I mean. Leave a little time for the sort of work you find your chief pleasure in.—Frank Putnam in December National.

—Survivors of Company C, 13th Virginia regiment, confederate army, have started a fund for the purpose of erecting in Richmond a monument to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant.

The rally at Music Hall ought to be particularly interesting this year. These rallies are always a feature of the No-License campaign.

FOUR SCORE YEARS.

Mrs. Charles A. Spear Observes Her Eightieth Birthday.

Prominent in charitable work of the city for a generation or more, Mrs. Charles A. Spear of Washington street has lived a useful and happy life, and many friends were pleased to accept invitations of her daughter, Mrs. Alice D. Sanborn, yesterday, and attend a reception in honor of her eightieth birthday. Few believed that she could have reached the four score mark, for apparently there are many years of usefulness in the future.

All preparations had been made secretly, but it was a great pleasure to Mrs. Spear to welcome her friends, who dropped in informally during the afternoon and evening. She was the recipient of many choice flowers and plants, and in turn served light refreshments.

Mrs. Spear was born in 1822 at the birthplace of President John Quincy Adams, and later lived for many years in the birthplace of President John Adams, then a large farm. She was then prominent in the Sewing Circle of the Universalist church, and it was always a great pleasure for the members to meet with her.

Our venerable friend was the daughter of Ebenezer and Mary Ann (Adams) Green. Her husband died several years ago. A son, Charles H. Spear, and a daughter, Mrs. Sanborn, are living; also two grandchildren, a son and daughter of Mr. Spear. For over a quarter of a century she has been secretary of the charitable society. Speaking of profit at recent fairs in the city, Mrs. Spear recalls one, when she was president of the Universalist Sewing Circle when they made $2,600 net.

Yesterday was a blustering day, but Mrs. Spear will be at home to friends at any time, and pleased to see them.

Extra Trains.

Owing to the heavy travel to Boston on Saturday nights, the N. Y., N. H. & H. R.R. run two extra trains each way between Quincy and Boston. Both inward and outward trains run express between Quincy and Boston. As the trains run as extras there is no schedule time advertised for their leaving. The inward trains, however, run just before the trains leaving Quincy at 7.12 and 7.39 P. M. and the outward trains leave Boston about 10.20 and 11.20 P. M., or a few minutes before the regular trains. The railroad has also found it necessary for some time to run the 1.28 and 2.28 outward trains in two sections.

The Lawson Reported.

The big seven-masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson, Capt. Arthur Crowley, from Baltimore with her enormous cargo of 7523 tons of bituminous coal, was sighted off Highland light at 4.30 P. M. yesterday, standing in toward this harbor. It was blowing 30 miles an hour from the northwest at the time, and unless the schooner is taken in tow or the wind changes it is doubtful if she reaches the harbor until late today.—Globe.

Is There Iron in Your Blood

Great achievers, men and women who bring things to pass, obstacles or no obstacles, have an abundance of iron in their blood. They take the initiative; they push ahead, regardless of obstacles; they succeed.

There is no quality of character that gains more admiration and respect than that which enables a person to form a definite purpose and then concentrate all his energy in executing it. To possess and use this quality, it is necessary to be in a sound mental and physical condition, to have an abundance of iron in the blood, which gives stamina, vigor and endurance.

Peptiron ironizes the blood, nourishes, strengthens and steadies the nerves and produces the above result. It is a new and thoroughly scientific preparation, combining iron with the best tonics and nutrients; is agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and readily assimilated, and has the great advantage of not causing constipation nor injuring the teeth.

Peptiron is made in two forms: In a liquid—an aromatic cordial elixir—at $1 per bottle, also in chocolate-coated pills at 50c. or $1 per box. By C. I. HOOD CO., proprietors, Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

THE UNITY CLUB.

Over 100 In Attendance Last Evening.

"Count Tolstoi" was the subject discussed at the Unity club, Friday evening. President Parlin introduced Rev. Mr. Pratt as the director in charge of the program.

Mr. Pratt gave a forcible earnest talk on "Tolstoi the Man." He traced the growth of Tolstoi's mind and soul during his youthful days. He was a bashful, morbidly egotistical lad, a deep thinker concerning the problems of life. Although a nobleman he found true happiness in leading the life of a peasant. He is today the greatest living liberal.

The wonderful work he did in alleviating the sufferings of the poor in Russia during the famine of 1891-92 will long be remembered. He has the sublime courage to follow literally the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth.

Miss Thomas with her violin pleased all with her rendering of Nevin's "Gondoliers" from A Day in Venice, accompanied by Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith. For an encore she played "The Venetian Love Song.

Miss Mary A. Sayward of the Cranch school treated "Tolstoi the Novelist and Mystic."

"After showing the high place the Russian novel holds in literature today the speaker named Tolstoi as the first true Russian novelist. He is the personification of the new Russia. His writings may be grouped in four parts, first, his early manner in which are "The Cossacks" and Sketches of Sevastapol; second thegreat novels "War and Peace" and "Anna Karenina;" third, the later short stories and dramas "The Kreutzer Sonata," "The Death of Ivan Illitch" and "The Power of Darkness" and fourthly, the religious writings, "My Confession," "My Religion Resurrection and "The Commentary of the Gospels. Tolstoi's mind is that of a Mystic, a dreamer who finds no satisfaction in life except it be lived in humility and meekness of body and spirit.

Miss Thomas's second selection was the first movement in E minor of a symphony by Emil Ljogren.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh considered "Tolstoi the Social Reformer." He is a great moral teacher, taking as his theme "Resist not evil." The pomp and splendor of life have no attractions for him, it is the life of nature, the peasants life that appeals to his great mind.

A nobleman, he has lived with his peasants since 1892 he has established free schools and led the down trodden masses of Russia upward out of the chaos of darkness. He is the prophet of Russian Renassance.

Editor Page read the third edition of the "Flashlight."

The $35 prize conundrum contest created much excitement. The awarding of the prizes was not approved of since not a man received one of the seven prizes. The issue was fairly interesting, the bright spot being "An Advertisement" (not as yet paid for) of a popular breakfast food.

At the close of the meeting President Parlin announced a paid membership of 103. The next meeting is Dec 12; subject "Dramatic Art past and present;" director Mrs. Wellington Record.

FOR COUNCILMAN.

James H. Elcock of Ward Four, a Candidate at Large.

James H. Elcock after serving three years as Ward Councilman by request of his many friends has allowed his name to be used as Candidate for Councilman-at-large. Mr. Elcock is a man well known in Quincy, and a hard worker for the interests of our city.

He is one of our successful granite dealers, having entered the business twenty years ago in the firm of Elcock & Sons. By his business qualifications he has made it a success.

In the City Council he has worked diligently for improvements, not only in his ward but in all wards of the city. He has never believed in squandering money, as he is a large taxpayer, but has always voted for improvements that were necessary.

Moore—Drollett.

A pleasant home wedding occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Drollett Wednesday afternoon, when their daughter Bertha Frances was married to Mr. Richard Seth Moore.

The ceremony was performed at 2.30 o'clock by Rev. George E. Whitehouse, in the presence of relatives. The bridesmaid was Miss Dora Belyea. The best man was Mr. Arthur Wendell Drollett, brother of the groom. The bride's dress was old rose nunsveiling over silk, trimmed with point lace.

After the usual congratulations and good wishes, and amid a shower of rice and old slippers, the young couple left on the 4 o'clock train for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore were the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents and congratulations from a wide circle of friends.

☞The Christmas National comprises one hundred and fifty pages of the brightest and most entertaining text and picture. Admiral Dewey, Secretary Shaw, John Mitchell, Ernest McGaffey, and John Bates Clark contribute pithy "sentiments for the Christmas season." There are short stories by ten American writers. Joe Mitchell Chapple discusses Affairs at Washington, illustrated with dozens of new snapshot pictures and portraits of celebrities. There are fine, strong poems, in many keys, by Nathan Haskell Dole, Ernest McGaffey, James Ball Naylor, Edwin Carlile Litsey and others. All in all, the largest and best number the National has ever published.

INCENDIARY.

Dwelling on Walnut Street, Atlantic, Gutted by Fire.

The fire department was called out on an alarm from Box 62 at 9.15 last night for a brisk fire in an unoccupied house on Walnut street, Atlantic, owned by John Ramsdell. The fire, which was undoubtedly of incendiary origin, had made good headway before it was discovered, and when the department arrived upon the scene it was apparently a roaring mass of flames from top to bottom. Several powerful streams were soon being thrown into the furnace, which soon began to give way to its natural enemy, and a half hour later it was practically out, and the recall was sounded before 10 o'clock.

The house was badly gutted and Chief Williams estimates the loss at $800.

This is the second incendiary fire this week, the first one being Thanksgiving afternoon.

Personal.

Mr. Charles Emerson of San Francisco California, has started on his homeward trip, after a very pleasant six weeks visit with his sister, Mrs. Charles H. Field of 7 Pleasant street and other relatives. His friends wish him a pleasant and safe trip.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Emerson and Miss C. Emma Emerson of Pawtucket, R. I., who have been visiting for a few days their sister, Mrs. Charles H. Field, have returned to their homes.

Civil Trial List.

The following cases are marked for trial at the civil session of the district court next Tuesday:

43—Vinton vs. Cunningham et al
327—Gilchrist vs. Cooper.
329—Stokes vs. Wright.
351—St. Pierre vs. Martin.
296—Leo, adm vs. Fiori,

—When one realizes that 1000 more men added to the population of a city means 4500 new inhabitants, the significance of the coming of the American Tube Works to East Braintree will be more fully understood. Cannot be in Two Places.

Mr. Editor: My attention has been called to the announcement that I am advertised as one of the speakers at the Music Hall meeting Sunday evening, Nov. 30th. There seems to have been some misunderstanding on the part of those who have the meeting in charge.

The Secretary of the No-License League very courteously requested me to allow my name to be listed as one of the speakers. I promptly replied on Tuesday morning that as I was appointed to preside at a temperance meeting to be held under the auspices of the Socialist party in Hancock Hall at the same date and hour, it would be impossible for me to accept. Through a possible miscarriage or delay in delivery of my letter the notices were put ont.

It is, however, only fair to the public and myself that this explanation be made. I regretted exceedingly not to able to accept the invitation of the League as I am fully in sympathy with its good work.

Our meeting was arranged some weeks ago and the date assigned as the only time we could secure Representative James F. Carey as our principal speaker.

BRIBE COMBINE'S HEAD

Speaker Kelly of St Louis City Council Under Arrest

ALLEGED HANDLER OF FUND

Who, It Is Believed, Can Tell Where Money For Illegal Use Came From—Arrested on Day of His Return From Wanderings In Europe

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—After eluding arrest for several months Charles F. Kelly, the former speaker of the St. Louis house of delegates, who is wanted in St. Louis in connection with the bribery cases unearthed there, was arrested in this city yesterday afternoon. Kelly arrived in New York on the steamer Celtic yesterday morning from Liverpool and had just stepped from the western express in a station of the Pennsylvania railroad here when he was taken into custody by Detective Tate. He will be given a hearing today and will be held to await requisition papers from Missouri.

The first information the police of this city received that Kelly was on his way here came from Chief of Police Kiely of St. Louis, who sent the following telegram to the local authorities:

"Arrest Charles F. Kelly of this city, formerly speaker of the house of delegates. May be on Baltimore and Ohio or Pennsylvania train from New York, reaching your city about 1 p. m. Wanted here in bribery case."

Detective Tate was sent to the Pennsylvania station and another man was sent to cover the Baltimore and Ohio depot. Each had a good description of Kelly. When Tate reached the station he saw a familiar face in the crowd. He remembered the man as Kelly, whom he had met during the Pan-American exposition.

"Hello, Kelly," said Tate, approaching the St. Louisan. Kelly turned, looked at Tate and responded to the salutation.

"Who are you?" asked a young man who accompanied Kelly.

"Tate is my name; of the detective bureau," was the reply; "may I ask who you are?"

"A reporter for a New York paper," replied Kelly's companion.

"Well, I want you, Mr. Kelly," said Tate, and the St. Louis man and his companion were escorted to the city hall.

The St. Louis authorities were immediately notified and a reply was received to hold Kelly until the necessary legal papers arrived.

Kelly was crest-fallen when he reached the police station. In an interview he said: "I was on my way back to St. Louis and meant to announce my arrival there Monday and give myself up to answer whatever charges have been laid against me. I had been absent in Europe for several months and spent most of my time in Ireland. On my arrival in New York this morning I received word that my 11-year-old boy had died in St. Louis. As soon as I stepped from the steamer it was suggested to me by an old acquaintance that I come to Philadelphia for a few days. I came here and now I find myself under arrest. That's all there is to it."

The accused man carried considerable baggage and the labels on it indicated that he had been in Naples, Paris, London, Berlin, Dublin and Killarney.

Slipped Away From Deputy Sheriff

St. Louis, Nov. 29.—Charles F. Kelly, former speaker of the city council, known as the house of delegates, was the one most wanted of all the members of the coterie known as the "combine" indicted on charges of bribery in connection with the passage of the municipal lighting bill. Kelly was wanted because he was charged with handling the $47,500 bribe money, which, according to evidence, had been distributed among the 19 members of the "combine." It was believed that Kelly could tell where this money came from. He was indicted on Sept. 8. He was at the four courts when the indictment was returned against him. A deputy sheriff told him he was wanted. Kelly asked permission to go to the council chamber, to attend to an important matter, saying, "If you need me before I get back, telephone me at the house of delegates." That was the last time he was seen by any officers of the law until his arrest in Philadelphia yesterday.

Landlords Not Inclined to Yield

Dublin, Nov. 30.—The committee composed of men inerested in the Irish agrarian question, which proposed to call a conference of Irish landlords and tenants with a view to the sale of the land to the latter, yesterday sent an invitation to the convention of Irish landlords to join the movement. The convention explicitly declined the invitation.

Anaconda Sold For $7200

New York, Nov. 29.—The top price of the "Old Glory" sale thus far was reached yesterday when Anaconda, the great pacer, was brought into the ring. A number of men tried to buy the horse, but J. E. B. Payne of Troy stayed longest and secured the prize for $7200.

Died at Age of 123

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 30—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Missions; a meeting in the interests of foreign missions. The world for Christ.—Isa. xlv, 12-23.

The Christian church should desire to win the whole world to Christ, because the world needs Christ as its Saviour. "There is no other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved" except the name of Jesus. The world is in sin and needs a Saviour. Not only did the gentile world sink into corruption and into sin, but even God's people wandered away from Him, so that "there is none that doeth good—no, not one." The world stands judged and condemned because of sin, and this judgment can only be set aside and condemnation averted by faith in Jesus Christ. But many have not heard of Christ, and therefore the church should bestir itself to send the gospel heralds everywhere that men may hear and believe and be saved.

Christ's command, as well as the world's need, should inspire Christian people to interest in and support of worldwide missions. "Go ye into all the world," said the Master, "and preach the gospel to every creature." In the face of this command no Christian should hesitate to respond. How can we claim to be Christians if we disobey? Have we any right to elect to obey some of Christ's commands and to disobey others? Yet many who could not be induced to neglect the command, "This do in remembrance of Me," will lightly declare, "I do not believe in foreign missions." Yet the same tongue that said, "This do in remembrance of Me," also said, "Preach the gospel to every creature."

But can the world be won for Christ, and, if so, how? As we review the labors of the past nineteen centuries the task seems almost too great. And yet it can be done and must be done. The divine edict has gone forth that unto Christ every knee must bow and every tongue confess that He is Lord. God's prophecy must be fulfilled. From a human standpoint it may seem next to impossible, yet all things are possible to God. Moreover, what has been done is an earnest of what may be done if Christ's church would only bestir herself. A small band of devout and consecrated disciples of Christ preached the gospel to the world of their day, when Rome was the world and the world was Rome, and what has been done can be.

The church of Christ in the world could and should evangelize every creature. It should tell the story of the cross to every living human being. If our great Christian denominations were greatly aroused and would march forth in the spirit of Paul and Livingstone and Judson and Carey and Brainerd, God would bless their efforts, and the whole world would be reached. The only way to win the world is to win it. Men must be sent. The church must send them. God has revealed no other way. Will the church realize its privilege and rise to its responsibility?

Christian Endeavor Abroad.

The Rev. Francis E. Clark, who recently returned from Europe, in speaking of Christian Endeavor work abroad says: "In London I found about 700 societies, with a membership of 50,000 persons. This carries it ahead of our two leading cities, Philadelphia and Chicago, in each of which there are about 600 societies. In Great Britain there are, all told, about 10,000 societies, with a membership of about half a million. On the continent I found that the movement was making great strides in Germany, where there are many societies. France also is making rapid progress, and the adaptability of Christian Endeavor to non-English speaking peoples, its spread and the interest with which it has been received are truly wonderful."

—There is no question that Mr. Mitchell made an admirable witness before the coal strike commission. He has shown that he is a man of unusual capabilities, and his future career will be watched with interest.—Somerville Journal.

REAL ESTATE.

American Tube Co. to Move to Braintree.

Negotiations Pending That Will Involve Millions.

Never Before Such a Demand for South Shore Property---Other Big Projects.

Never in the history of the South shore, has there been such a demand for real estate for improvement as at present. In fact, ever since the Fore River Ship and Engine Company located its plant in Quincy, it has seemed that every manufacturing concern of note in this part of the country has been desirous of getting a location in this section. The result is that negotiations are now pending for the transfer of property in Braintree and Quincy, which will involve, including the new plants to be erected, over $3,000,000.

From time to time brief rumors have been current that the American Tube Company, located at Somerville, was to move its plant away from that city. That this rumor has foundation is apparent from the fact that Frank F. Crane, the well-known real estate broker in Quincy, has just sold to the American Tube Company a tract of some 46 acres of land, having nearly a mile of water frontage and located just across the Quincy line in Braintree where they propose building a new plant which will cost in the neighborhood of nearly $1,000,000 above the land.

OVER FORTY ACRES.

The property purchased was in two parcels, some 26 acres in one, and 16 acres in another. The larger parcel was owned by the Fore River Real Estate Trust, and is known as the "Seven Oaks," while the other portion is known as Hayward's Grove, being owned by H. F. McIntire and Swithin Bros.

* * * *

It is the intention of the American Tube Company to erect one of the most comprehensive and complete plants of this kind in the United States, so much so that over $1,000,000 will be spent in the new buildings, etc.

The American Tube Company will give employment to over 1000 men, and it is the intention to run both of the plants, although at some future time the Somerville plant will be abandoned and the real estate sold.

The work of getting the property in shape is now being carried on, and it is the intention of the American Tube company to take formal possession of the property Jan. 1.

No real estate transaction in this section has created such a furore since the location of the Fore River Ship and Engine company. And not only has this important transaction been negotiated and closed, but Hon. William B. Rice of Rice & Hutchins has just purchased some 50 acres situated on Quincy avenue in Quincy. This is also the street on which the property purchased by the American Tube company is located.

The large purchase by Mr. Rice is what is known as the Paul Wild estate and is but a few minutes from the large purchase of the American Tube company. Just what significance the purchase by Mr. Rice has, at present is not known, but it is stated that it is in the interest of another large manufacturing plant.

* * * *

The closing of another transaction of some 11 acres on Shaw street, Braintree, has just been effected, the purchaser being H. F. McIntire, while the grantor is T. A. Watson et al. This property is also located near the large plants already mentioned above and is known as Fore River Terrace. As will be seen, the sale of considerable property in this section will naturally mean a most remarkable development.

Not only are these transactions just closed, but Mr. Crane, the broker in the sale to the Fore River Ship and Engine company, and also who just sold the American Tube Company its location is now closing another large deal, which will comprise over 100 acres.

RAILROAD DOCKS.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company is also negotiating for a large tract of land in this section, but for what use the property is secured is not made known at this time, but it is hinted that the company proposes to build a line of docks.

A contract for the building of a new and elegant steamer to be added to the Fall River Line, which it is estimated will be the largest pleasure craft in the world, has just been awarded by the New York, New Haven & Hartford R R company to the Fore River Ship and Engine Company, and the contract price is said to be over $1,000,000. There is also a large freight steamer for the road to be made.

We Do Not Have to Play a Searchlight

on ourselves as prophets, for the outcome of the trades we offered last Fall now speak for themselves.

You can't buy the lots on these properties of the present owners excepting at a BIG ADVANCE.

Why? Simply because they bought land in East Braintree at the right time; they have good trades and they know it.

Fore River City!

You think that name some way ahead? Not so far as you think.

East Braintree about the Fore River is destined to build up and grow and boom in a way that is not comprehended by most people.

Call it FORE RIVER CITY, RUSH CITY or whatever you like, it is the place to invest in land today, and means good, hard cold dollars to the man with the foresight, the nerve and the little money required to buy some land of us.

We own one more tract----we bought it low and will sell it right so that there will be a big thing in it for you; it is called Fore River Terrace!

Located on Shaw street, easy walk to Shipbuilding Plant and only four or five minutes to new Tube Works' location. It is a picture in itself, sloping and smooth, beautiful and sightly; water and electric lights, near schools and churches, steam and electrics; built up all around.

IT IS A WINNER FROM THE DROP OF THE HAT!

This property will be on the market in a few days, and if you wish to make some good money and want it QUICK, buy some of these lots.

If you don't buy these, buy some others; but whatever you do, OWN SOME LAND IN EAST BRAINTREE.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists.

The "ad" of Herman F. McIntire & Co. in this issue is a typical one. They believe in large "ads" and large sales.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Arrangements have been made for an elaborate production Hall Caine's "The Christian" as the attraction at the Castle Square Theatre next week, and this announcement cannot fail to be of intense interest to the patrons of this popular play-house. The success of this play has been such that the enterprise of the Castle Square, in first presenting it here at popular prices, gives further evidence of the liberality and good judgment of the management of this theatre. Great preparations have been made to make this pro duction of "The Christian" equal in completeness that originally given in this city, and the stage pictures and groupings will be notably elaborate in all their details. A arge addition to the company will be made to meet the demands of the cast, and all the stage settings have been built and painted from the designs made for the original production. "The Christian" will he continued as the attraction at this house for two weeks. The usual distribution of boxes of chocolate bonons will be made at the Monday matinee.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

There is an entire "clean slate" at Keith's for the week of Dec. 1, the program being headed by those inimitable and talented colored entertainers, Bob Cole and Rosamond Johnson, who will be heard in a repertoire of "coon" ballads. For comedy there will be "Hogan of the Hanson," a screamingly funny sketch played by Walter Leroy and Florence Clayton, and Al Leach, the eccentric funmaker, dancer and singer, assisted by three rosebuds, in a new specialty, and if anything further is needed in this department it will be supplied by Ed Latell the clever blackface musical comedian. For "sight" acts, the booking department announces the first appearance in this country of the noted Franz family, and a return engagement of Cadeaux, a bounding wire performer. Prof. Gillett's musical dogs will prove a big attraction for the juveniles, and a dozen other turns will make the ten hours of continuous performance a period of joy for everyone.

PARK THEATRE.

The attraction at the Park Theatre for the week beginning next Monday, December 1st will be "Fanchon the Cricket," the celebrated comedy drama in which Maggie Mitchell toured successfully for many seasons. The play is a favorite with all classes of theatre-goers, the leading character being a picturesque girl who makes her way directly into the hearts of the spectator. Its story is a charming and sympathetic portrayal of youthfulness and sentiment, and it contains one of the most charming love stories ever penned by a dramatist. It will be perfectly staged and costumed, and the production will be complete in every respect. At the close of the performance next Tuesday afternoon, the weekly reception and tea will be held, all the ladies in the audience being cordially invited to attend. Week after next "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" will be given.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

In "Beyond Pardon," Theodore Kremer's latest and most successful play, that veteran playright has written what he himself considers the greatest effort of his life. It is a melodrama in which the elements of comedy and tragedy are so skillfully blended that many critics have already described it as a perfect play. The action of the plot takes place in New York city and the time is that stirring period, when the whole country was aroused by the dastardly blowing up of the battleship Maine, and the murder of over three hundred American sailors in the harbor of Havana. Miss Shannon was born in New Orleans and she is as popular there as she is elsewhere, and that means that she is one of the most popular women in stage life. Miss Shannon is also a favorite in Boston and was formerly a valued member of Castle Square Stock Company.

Notice to Contractors,

Quincy, Mass., November 28, 1902.

SEALED PROPOSALS for erecting a ten-room brick school building in Ward Two, will be received at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, City Hall, Quincy, until 4 o'clock P. M., Monday, December 15, 1902, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

Proposals must be marked "Proposals for Brick Schoolhouse in Ward Two," and must be accompanied by a properly certified check for five hundred ($500) dollars, payable to the City of Quincy.

A satisfactory bond will be required for 25 per cent. of the amount of the contract for the faithful performance of the work.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the city.

C. F. KNOWLTON,
Commissioner of Public Works.
